Slums Breed Diseases, City Report Shows

Overcrowded slum housing and communicable diseases, particularly diphtheria and tuberculosis, go hand in hand, the ciyt health department reported this week.

The report showed that the central area, with the highest concentration of population, 38.5 persons per acre, has the highest diphtheria and tuberculosis case ratings, 17.4 and 280 per 100,000 population, respectively.

The East and Southeast areas, with the second and third highest concentration of population, respectively, also have the second and third highest rates of the two diseases.

"Of course, the number of persons per acre is not the only factor which has a bearing on the case rates of these diseases, and therefore the correlation is not perfect," said Dr. H. C. Pulley of the health department.

He explained that "San Fernando Valley has a high tuberculosis rate in spite of a scattered population, partly because of the large number of tuberculosis patients at Tujunga rest homes and at the Olive View Sanitarium. And the active case-finding program which has been conducted in the Pacoima area, among the working class, found a high proportion of cases.

"The correlation, however, is sufficiently impressive to illustrate the relationship that crowding bears to the spread of many of the infectious diseases."

Negro Lad Is Poster Boy for March of Dimes

Fiveyear old Joe Willie Brown was a normal, frolicking lad before he was stricken with infantile paralysis. July 22, 1946 was a normal day in his life—until he complained to his parents of a headache. Then, when his temperature rose and his stomach became upset, his life was changed sharply.

Now Joe Willie represents all the little Negro boys who have had their child-play interrupted by the dread poliomyelitis. He has been chosen as one of the two national poster boys for the 1948 March of Dimes—January 15-30—marking the tenth anniversary of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

As if it were not tragedy enough when little Joe Willie was stricken, a few hours later on the same July day, his younger sister Ethel Bertha, now 4 years old, also became a victim of polio.

Joe Willie's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Brown, of 6240 S. Michigan ave., Chicago rushed him to the Cook county contagious Disease Hospital. First his left leg became weak, then his other leg and his arms and shoulders became paralyzed. Joe Willie was indeed a very sick lad.

It was soon apparent that Joe Willie would need special care long after the isolation period and that the medical bills would be far beyond what his father could pay.

The Cook county Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis volunteered its aid as it does for every case by writing both parents and doctor of the availability of its services. Mrs. Brown came to the chapter and it was arranged that all financial responsibility woud be assumed for Joe Willie and his sister.

Up to last August 29, this had amounted to a staggering $2,599.24 for Joe Willie alone.

On August 5, he was moved to Provident Hospital on Chicago's South Side where daily he received physical therapy treatments, hot packs at first, later in a warm water tank. But paralysis had made deep inroads in both legs and arms.

Joe Willie won 25 gold stars while in the hospital. Each week the nurses would award a gold star for good behavior—and a big one for doing all the exercises "perfectly." Joe now proudly displays 10 big stars on his record. Only one other polio patient received more.

By May 1947 he had progressed enough to be released from the hospital wearing long leg braces now and getting medical care as an out-patient.

In two more months doctors reported splendid recovery of his arms, and the long brace was removed from his left leg. But his right showed little or no progress. It still needs a brace.

Joe Willie has hopes for a complete recovery. When he is a few years older, the doctors may try reconstructive surgery. For the present he receives daily physical therapy at the Christopher school, one of Chicago's special schools for crippled children, where his teacher says he "is doing fine."

Dutch Blockade Bars Food Shipments From Indonesia

LONDON—While an emergency food shortage grips most of the world, Indonesia, an island group with more than 70 million inhabitants and with vast food-producing resources, remains isolated and impoverished by a shipping blockade.

Indonesia, according to their spokesmen here, could supply sugar, coffe, tea, spices, fats, rubber, quinine and a host of other needed products to the rest of the world. It would also be a limitless market for machinery, textiles and other products that many countries are prepared to export.

The island group has been isolated from the rest of the world for six years—first under Japanese occupation and, since the end of the war, by the Dutch who are seeking to rassert their prewar colonial control over the area.

For two and a half years, the Indonesian people have been fighting almost barehanded against the well-armed and trained Dutch military machine, a large part of it trained and armed by the United States.

As part of this war, the Dutch have established an absolute shipping blockade in an effort to starve out the independence movement by preventing the movement of food from one island to another and by stifling production.

While the Dutch officially claim they feel the Indonesian people still need direction and are not "prepared" for self-government, several Dutch spokesmen have been frankly cynical about Dutch aims.

When a commission appointed by the United Nations—which has unsuccessfully ordered the Dutch to stop their colonial war—questioned a recent "police action" ostensibly taken to "restore law and order," a Dutch spokesman explained it by saying: "We aimed at the occupation of the economically important areas."

The fact is that prewar Indonesia—where workers were paid starvation wages and unions were outlawed—was one of the richest sources of profits for Dutch big business. These interests fear that an independent Indonesia—where strong unions already exist—would mean a reduction in their gigantic loot.

The UN Security Council's consular commission described the effects of the Dutch blockade in these words:

"The normal requirements of life, such as medical supplies, literature, tranport, fertilizers and textiles are not available. It is a fact that clothing for Javanese is particularly short and many are without apparel."

City Scores Gain in Venice Pier Fight

The City of Los Angeles has gained at least part of its objective in its longstanding battle for removal of the old partly-demolished ocean front pier at Venice to make room for modern beach, the City Recreation and Park Department was notified yesterday by the city attorney's office.

As the result of legal action taken by the City, the superior court has ordered the salvage company which is taking down the pier through arrangement with the Abbot Kinney Company to stop strewing debris along the beach and in the ocean, and to clean up the rubbish already thrown down on the sand.

Further court action is pending on the City's suit to force the Kinney Company, whose 25-year lease on the cityowned tideland on which the pier stands has expired, to complete the removal of the entire structure and clear the property.

Something New In Slips

There is being launched on the market currently a new, patented slip that is, in some respects, unlike any other. Its major distinguishing points are: 1. The shield has the graceful contour of a shapely bra. A slip usually flattens the bustline. But this one flatters it. 2. A wide all-around band of Lastex controls the midriff softly and helps to produce a waspier waistline, a slimmer hipline and a more graceful effect at front and back. 3. The slip is flawlessly made, in the dressmaker manner, of "Softissimo" pre-shrunk multi-filament crepe in white, black, petal pink or trousseau blue, in sizes 32 to 40, and in lengths to suit the longer skirts. 4. Generously cut, and with fanfare flare at bottom. The absence of seams at sides prevents bulging and twisting.

This new figure-flatterer is named "The Magic-Form Slip." It is the creation of Harry Waxman Co. (152 Madison avenue, New York City), who may be written to as to the nearest store where the slip can be obtained locally.

A drink before you drive may turn out to be a one-way ride to the cemetery, warns the California Highway Patrol.

SAN PEDRO TAKES ANGEL BOWL GAME 13-0

A. C. ROLLS OVER ALL-STARS BEFORE CROWD OF 7,500

The old adage that team play wins football games was never as true as it was Sunday afternoon at Wrigley Field when the San Pedro Athletic Club played "team" football for 60 minutes to hand the hapless, non-cordinated Texas All Stars a 13-0 shellacking before 7,500 people in the second annual Angel Bowl game.

Scoring in the first and final periods, the San Pedro lads were just too much for Coach Mott Smith's so called all stars, of whom, only two, halfback Gene Roberts from Wiley College and end Mathis were the only two who showed any signs of being stars.

ALL STARS SHOW HAPLESS OFFENSE

The Texas lads just didn't seem to have the offensive finness that goes with crackerjack football teams. In fact, their blocking and tackling looked high schoolish and silly. The great passing, punting, and running of galloping Gene Roberts were the only things that kept the game even a contest. The much heralded Fred Moore, Arthur Shanks and Bill Ockleberry proved to be duds. The supposedly invincible linemen Peck Fowler and Gaston Watson, looked as though they were ground hogs, they rested upon the gridiron so much. It must be said however, that the Texans played a better defensive than offensive game.

SAN PEDRO SHOWS FIRE

The boys from the athletic club of San Pedro were full of rock and sock and plain old fire all day. They just plainly outwanted to-play the Lone Star team which seemed to be lacking the will to play football. The A.C. team was far from great, but they did play pretty good ball all afternoon. Corky Teel at quarterback, Mitch Vladmir at Halfback, Don Welker and and Bab Balcena at ends, and Jim Trani and Abney up front were particularly outstanding. The difference between the two teams was the coordination and team practice that the all stars didn't have and the San Pedro boy did.

A. C. HITS PAYDIRT EARLY

The San Pedro score came early in the first period when, after a sewsaw battle up and down the field, quarterback Wallace threw a perfect 35 yard strike to end Don Welker who raced to the All Star 6. On the second running play, halfback John Serrano raced off the All Star left tackle, and aided by beautiful blocking rambled 6 yards to score. The attempted conversion was no good.

ROBERTS SHOWS BRILLIANCE

With Gene Roberts, easily the most outstanding man on the field running and passing, the All Stars showed promise of getting back in the contest and making it a high scoring game. The Lone Star boys drove all the way to the A C 20 just before the half ended, only to be held for down by the big A. C. line. The third quarter was all Roberts. His bullet like passes and his swivvle hipped runs brought the fans to their feet on many occasions. Twice in the third period the all stars blew scoring opertunities.

In the middle of the fourth period the All Stars drove all the way to the San Pedro 4 yard line before they were halted. The drive began when right end Robinson recovered a miscued San Pedro lateral on the 14 yard line. In two plays the Stars went to be (aided by two penalties). But with the ball on the 4 yard line, the rough A. C. line held again.

SAN PEDRO SCORES AGAIN

Shortly before the game ended, with the ball at midfield, halfback Mitch Vladmir faded back and threw a long 40 yard pass down to teammate Corky Teel, who had sneaked behind the All-Star secondary. Teel gathered in the ball and raced the remaining 20 yards unmolested. Tackle Reynolds then came in to make the conversion. A few minutes later the game ended.

GOOD IDEA

Although it seemed as though the Angel Bowl Association "went in the hole" on this game, the idea of bringing first class Negro football to Los Angeles is a very good one. All in all, it was a pretty interesting game, like all other games, it had its ups and downs. But I do think that the crowd may have been larger, and the game more exciting, if a team that had worked together all year long as a unit could have been secured instead of a supposedly all star group. Our congratulations go to the Angel Bowl Association for even attempting the game, to the San Pedro Athletic Club for playing clean, heads up hard football, and to the Los Angeles Dons for supplying the uniforms the All Stars used and for permitting its two kid football teams to participate (the kid game was more exciting than the regular game).

ROBINSON HASN'T GONE "DOWN THE HILL"

SPORTRAIT

Eagle Salutes Outstanding Achievements For 1947

(For their outstanding contributions to the world of sports and to the betterment of the Negro in America, the California Eagle sports staff honors the following organizations and people for their great achievements in the year 1947.—ED.)

PROFESSIONAL BASEBALL—JACKIE ROBINSON, BROOKLYN DODGERS

When you speak of the great achievements made by the Negro since the days of slavery, the breaking into organized baseball by Jack Roosevelt Robinson, will rank among the highest. It was this bronzed athlete from Pasadena that in the spring of this year became the first member of his race to wear a major league baseball uniform. A natural athlete, a great guy, and a credit to any race, Jackie Robinson played excellent baseball for the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1947. Although he probably played under a greater strain than any man that ever wore a baseball uniform, and although he played a position that he had only been "familiarized" with for about 10 days before the season opened, Robinson was a great infielder, a better-than-average hitter who could always be counted on to come through when the chips were down. "Robbie" was a great performer in the World Series with his sparkling hits and great base running. Voted by the Bible of baseball, the St. Louis SportingNews, as "the rookie of the year," Jackie Robinson, by "making good" in organized baseball, has opened the way for many Negro youths throughout the land, who, before Jackie got his break, never even dreamed of wearing a Dodger, Yankee, or Giant uniform. It is with the greatest of pride and deepest sincerity that the members of the EAGLE sports staff salute Jack Roosevelt Robinson as being the man who has done the most for the cause of enhancing the prospects of the Negro athlete in professional baseball.

COLLEGIATE BASKETBALL—DON BARKSDALE, UCLA

Donald Archie Barksdale Jr., was without adoubt the greatest center to ever perform for the Blue and Gold of the University of California at Los Angeles. A tall (6x6) willowy, agile demon of a man, Barksdale played as well on offense as on defense. It was his great play that was the backbone of the '47 Southern Division Pacific Coast champion Bruins. Don came within one point of breaking the scoring record at Madison Square Garden when the Bruins were seen there early in '47. Voted on several All-American teams and winner of the Helms Athlete of the Month award, Barksdale was one of the best liked students on the Westwood campus. Holder of the all-time Bruin scoring record, Barksdale graduated in June and is now playing AAU basketball with the Oakland Bittners. The EAGLE proudly salutes Don Barksdale for his greatness on and off the basketball court in 1947. Runner-up citation in collegiate basketball goes to Dave Minor of UCLA.

COLLEGIATE FOOTBALL—JOHN FINNEY, COMPTON COLLEGE

One of the finest halfbacks to appear upon the Southern California gridirons in quite some time was John Finney of Compton College in 1947. A tall, 170-pounder who did everything with a football was Finney. His great breakaway running ruined more than half of the Tartars opponents. His fine passing and vicious blocking were something to behold. Voted the Junior College Player of the Year in '46 as well as All-Metropolitan Conference, All-Western States Conference in '47, the former All-City quarterback at Los Angeles Jordan high school became the first Negro ever to play against white players in the state of Texas, when on December 13, Compton college defeated Tyler Junior college of Tyler, Texas, 20-19, at Tyler, Texas. A quite, unassuming fellow, Finney leaves Compton this year, and Coach Raymond (Tay) Brown can already be seen moaning around the campus seeking a man to ably fill the shoes of Compton John. The EAGLE sports staff sincerely salutes John Finney of Compton college.

PROFESSIONAL FOOTBALL (PLAYER)—MARION MOTLEY, CLEVELAND BROWNS

The wild bull of Cleveland, Marion Motley, 6;3, 218 pounds of the hardest running back in American football today, wins our salute in professional football. Motley was the battering ram for the All-American champion Browns in '47. His great herculean-like dashes, his vicious tiger-like line-backing, and his all-around rock and sock, gave the Clevelanders an offensive and defensive weapon that could be called on at any time, and never failed. Voted on the All-American conference first "all team," Motley was the unamious choice by every team that met the Browns as the hardest running back in the league. The biggest "dud" of the year, was when the so-called smart New York sports writers failed to select Motley as a member of the All-Pro backfield.

PROFESSIONAL FOOTBALL (TEAM)—LOS ANGELES DONS

Although they didn't end up in the running for the league flag, the Los Angeles Dons were a much better playing, as well as public received team than they were in '46. The Los Angeles Don bosses after a bad start last year sincerely tried to make amends for their showing in '46. They reduced the price of tickets, inaugurated football clinics for high school and college coaches, staged "Kid football" games in an effort to combat juvenile deliquency, and more important, along with their All-American contemporaries, the Cleveland Browns, began to hire Negro footballers on a large scale. True, the Dons are still a long way from being perfect. Eternal strife and dissatisfaction among the players and coaching staff changed the '47 Dons from a team that could have been League Champions into a team that was only mediocre. True, the Dons didn't use their Negro players to the best of their advantage at ALL times, but their attempt at using them at all, deserves some mention. The Dons MUST improve in '48, and if their strides toward perfection in '47 are any indication, the Los Angeles Dons of the All-American Conference will be the BEST PROFESSIONAL FOOTBALL TEAM in LOS ANGELES. With an eye toward things to come, and another eye toward past accomplishments, the EAGLE sports staff salutes the Los Angeles Dons.

INTER-FRATERNITY BASKETBALL—KAPPA ALPHA PSI

A team that wasn't considered a chance to knock off the favorite power-ladden Alpha's, the Kappa Alpha Psi's who pulled the upset of the year in local basketball circle, wins the EAGLE salute for its fine play in the inter-frat series. Sparked by "Leapin' " Lowell Stewart, Gene Williams, Glover Samuels, and Nate Shaw, the sons of Kappadom beat the Don Barksdale, Dave Minor, Emerson Chapman lead Alpha two out of three, and rolled over the Omegas and All-Stars, to win the '47 Frat championship in one of the wildest and most exciting series to date. Runner-up salute in this field goes to the OMEGA-PHIS PSI FRATERNITY basketball team, for never stopping fighting although they were very much outclassed. The news around the local gyms is that the Omegas will boast one of the strongest teams in the series this year.

ON THE TURF — Geo. A. Ramsey

CALIENTE, Old Mexico — Over 5000 lovers of the Sport of Kings gathered at Caliente last Sunday to witness one of the best programs of horse races staged in many months. The feature attraction named "The New Year" Handicap was won by "Nitrate" and her stable mate second. Made favorites by the public the issue was never in doubt, this pair lead from start to finish. Paying in the mutuels $5.80, $5.00 and $3.80 across the board. In the secondary event "The Feliz Ano Neuvo" for two-year-olds at one-mile. "Wazanita" scored handily to pay the good odds of $22.40 for two. "Brook O'Gold" and "Court Process" the favored entry failed to get in the money. The daily-double combination of "Handy Zac," winner of the second race, and "Pairlet," victor of the third. Paid it's lucky holders $77.20 while "The Quiniela" paid $33.60 when "Palm Drive" finished first and "Bon Al," second.

Sunday's feature attraction will be "The El Viento" Handicap over one-mile and three-sixteenths. The secondary attraction "The El Invierno," at six furlongs. Next Sunday drive careful.

Minor Leads Bruins To Twin Wins On Eastern Tour

NEW YORK—Those fancy shooting, race horse wonders from Los Angeles, the basketball Bruins of the University of California at Los Angeles, led by their All-American guard candidate Daveage (Dave) Minor, made it two in a row on their eastern junket when they humbled mighty Long Island University 66-64 before more than 18,000 wildly-cheering fans at Madison Square Garden Monday night.

Saturday night in Philadelphia, the West Coasters defeated strong St. Joseph's 64-54.

It was the former Toledo flash Minor again who set the pace for the Bruins Monday night, as he has been doing throughout the season. Saturday night in Philly, Minor contributed 11 points to the Bruin victory. However, he was overshadowed by teammate Dick West with 13 markers, but it was Minor's sterling defensive ability that caught the eye of the eastern sport writers.

Monday in the Garden, the boys from Westwood had to come from a 64-64 tie with 45 seconds remaining in the game to win on forward Dick West's spectacular field goal. The Long Islanders fought an uphill battle all the way to catch the Bruins, admittedly one of the fastest collegiate teams in the game today. The Californians led 28-21 at the half. High point man for defending Pacific Coast Southern Division champions were forward Johnny Stanich and guard Dave Minor with 16 points each. The Bruins play one more game in the New York area before heading home.

TENNIS—JIMMY McDANNIELS

Although long past his peak, Jimmy McDanniels played one of his most brilliant games in the Los Angeles Tennis Tournament staged early in the summer of '47 at the Town House. It was Jimmy's ambition ever since he was a small kid just learning the racquet sport to play in this torunament, and finally when the opportunity presented itself, McDaniels had gone down the hill of time, and was not the great he had been. Mac Daniels lasted all the way to the semi-finals, where he was beaten by the brilliant youngster from UCLA, Herbie Flam. Now ready for retirement, the EAGLE proudly and humbly salutes a great athlete and gentleman, Jimmy McDaniels, not only for his fine contribution to the world of sports and the betterment of the Negro in America in 1947, but to all those other years that he so ably and intellegently representing the Negro race.

TRACK AND FIELD—HERB McKINLEY

—The Jamica Express, the guy who runs as smooth as a Westinghouse refrigiator, Herb McKinley, wins the EAGLE salute in track and field. Not since days of the great Jessie Owens, has there come along a Negro cinderman who has so captured the hearts of sporting America as has this lithe lad from the island of Jamaica. McKinley broke the World 440 record in the Big Ten-Pacific Coast dual meet at Berkeley early in June of '47. He anchored the Illinois NCAA champion mile realay team. He holds the worlds record for 300 yard run, and several other records for the distances between 300 and 6000 yards. A quite, serious student on or off the track, Herb's modesty and sincerity have made him one of the best liked athletes in America. Runner up spot goes to another Jamaican, Lloyd Labeach, especially for his great 220 this summer in the L. A. Coliseum, when re proved that Dean Cromwell's and the local press' favorite son Mel Patton was not invinvible.

I PREDICT FOR 1948

With 1947 rapidly fading into the misty darkness that is yesterday, and the new year 1948 standing ready to engulf the earth like some tomorrow's sunrise, the time comes when every man who can rustle up a typewriter, looks deep into his crystal ball, and comes up with his predictions for the coming year. Being no different than the rest, your old Thursday Morning Quarterback gathers his crystal ball in one hand and spears the trusty typewriter in the other, and makes with his long range predictions for 1948.

I predict first of all that John Finney, star for the last couple of years on the Compton college football teams, WON'T, as popularly believed, enter Loyola university of Los Angeles to play beside his old side kick and long time friend Bob Boyd. Finney right now is probably the most sought after JC athlete in the United States. John has already been dined and entertained by a score of the nation's better and bigger schools. Things have been offered Finney that would make it very profitable for him to enter another institution other than Loyola. So I'd like to be the first to go on record in saying that John Finney won't attend Loyola. We hear that John likes the country up around Oregon?

AL TABOR WILL TURN PRO

Next I'd like to predict that Antelope Al Tabor, in my estimation the Pacific Boast's BEST AND UNLUCKIEST back, will pass up another year of college football at the University of Nevada and join the ranks of the paid for play boys. You probably remember Tabor as the quarterback that headman Bert LaBrucherie of UCLA refused to give a chance at the number Bruin signal calling job to. Well, Al has just become about the hottest thing on this year's NU Salad Bowl football team. . . . His running, passing, and punting have made him a real threat, and from up around Reno we hear that several pro clubs have been interested in the triple threat artist. I would also like to go on to say that Tabor will probably sign with the LOS ANGELES RAMS, believe it or not.

THIS WILL BE DAVE MINOR'S LAST SEASON AT UCLA

I also would like to predict further that UCLA's great basketball playing high-jumping specialist, Dave Minor, will leave Bruinville at the close of the June semester to play professional, or AUU basketball. Minor, it is well known about town, is not exactly the most interested guy in the world toward book learnin'. Dave has been hanging around the Westwood campus mainly to acquire a more of a basketball name so that when the time to turn pro came, he could demand a larger salary on the strength of his past glories.

BOB MIKE WILL PLAY FOR DONS

As reported in the EAGLE this week, Bob Mike, stellar right tackle for the past two years on the UCLA football team, has decided to part company with the Westwood institution and play pro football. For a long time your old Thursday Morning Quarterback knew something like this was coming. Bob hasn't been the happiest guy in the world the past few seasons out at Westwood. I would like to further predict that Rapid Robert will play his pro football with the hometown Dons of the AAC.

Bob Mike, UCLA Bruins Part Company

Robert Melvin (Bob) Mike, 220 pound 6 ft. 2 in. tackle on the 1946 Pacific Coast champion and the mediocre 1947 University of California at Los Angeles football teams, definitely won't be in the fold when headman Bert LaBrucherie blows the whistle for the beginning of the '48 season, it was learned this week by the Eagle.

The big, rugged 26-year-old athlete from Steubenville, Ohio, probably the best-known Negro athlete in the Southland, will forsake his last year of college eligibility to play professional football, probably with the All-American Los Angeles Dons.

Mike, who is presently in Honolulu with the Pacific Coast College All-Stars playing a series of games with Island teams. His decision to turn pro can probably be laid on the fact that Mike is married and the father of a small daughter, and of the "bad feeling" over the injustices he is claimed to have suffered at the hands of Coach LaBrucherie.

The leaving of Mike from the already dwindling number of returning lettermen who were scheduled to play at Westwood in '48, seems to substantiate the rumors of unrest and dissatisfaction in the Bruin camp.

Mike previously played for Steubenville High School in Ohio, Florida A. and M. College, and the uskegee Army Air Force All-Stars before coming to Westwood in '46.

Movie Brings New Tunes

Sigmund Romberg and Dorothy Fields, who wrote music and lyrics for the stage version of "Up In Central Park," have composed two new songs for the motion picture, which stars Deanna Durbin, Dick Haymes and Vincent Price, for Universal-International.

The home of Herman Spurlock was filled to capacity with guests at his annual cocktail hour . . . On the beverage list was everything from Manischavez wine to Scotch and Champagne . . . Chatted with the John Thomas' . . . The Gilbert Lindsay's, General White, Melba Foppe, Bobby Jean Chasteen, the Chuck Williams and many, many more . . . About that time went to the nicely decorated apt. of Francis Andre Francoise where he had many of his friends over for cocktails honoring the young lady who really excells in the acrobatic field traveling with the show that's been visiting the many hospitals . . . Ran in at the Park View Manor where the Auxiliary to the Medical, Dental and Pharmaceudical organization had their Xmas dinner and banquet with Dr. Peyton acting as the m. c. for the evening and Emily Portwig and Mrs. Edith Bailey busy seeing that things were moving along smoothly . . . it was there, I met Mrs. Mann, the lovely mom of Bob Mann, ace football player on the Michigan team . . . Then to the Lloyd Reese's where the place was just jammed with folks drinking the wonderful egg-nog and bourbon . . . Talked with and noticed enjoying the affair: Eddie Beale who entertained on the piano awhile, the wife of Benny Carter, Calvin Jackson, Ruth Cage, Dynamite Jackson and wife Lula, The Samuel Browns, with Sam really handling those ivories too. Arthur Adams Jr., Dorothy Dandridge just recently back from her trip abroad . . . Suzette Harbin and many, many more . . . Couldn't get to the affair of the Benevolent Variety Artists . . . at the show place of Nadine Cole . . . where the girl's had as their honored guest the fellows on the Michigan team . . . Mustn't forget to mention the lovely Xmas party of the Les Dames Charity Club with the members and their guests on hand to spend a lovely evening . . . the affair was held at the pretty home of the Scotts (Seagram's) . . . The music for the evening was furnished by the popular Richard Bates who played everything from "sweet to hot" . . . So you see in spite of the affairs that your columnist got confused on . . . I managed to do a bit of catching up.

NOTES, NEWS AND NONESENSE

The new atmosphere of the Club Congo seems to be bringing the folks back to the club where Leon Hefflin is the proprietor and bro. Bill Hefflin, M. C. . . . The show includes: The Sandman, the band of Melvin Johnson, a vocalist from Mexico singing ballards that I don't like, McVout and McVoot who have a very clever act that fortunately is original, Johnny Mitchell and the blues of Big Joe Turner who has em bringing him back for more and more, but then you know this is a blues loving town, which meant that Joe Turner had to be a natural! ! ! . . . The Hefflins inform us that Kitty Murray will be the star of the new show . . . which means they are about to make some very nice loot. . . . It's about time to put the old Underwood away for now but I wants wish A very Happy New Year to three swell policemen, whom the city is proud of, Lt. Rocky Washington, Scottie and Bob Hannibal and to all of you a New Year that's filled with nothin' but prosperity.

Erskine Hawkins Moves To Offset Ban On Recordings

NEW YORK—Credit Erskine Hawkins, the Twentieth Century Gabriel with being the first Negro musician of note to make a positive move to offset the effects of the forthcoming record ban. Hawkins, realizing that this ban means the closing of what was heretofore virtually the only exploitation medium open to Negro bands, has launched an aggressive campaign to secure radio time for network broadcasting. He is already negotiating with all the networks seeking outlets from location spots.

Hawkins first move has been a bid for an unusual arrangement with the management of the Savoy Ballroom in Harlem. Tentative plans, still in the discussion stage, call for Hawkins to conclude his first road tour of the new year at the end of January. He woud then return to New York for an eight week stand at the Savoy using as many broadcasts per week as possible. Hawkins feels that such a program would mean that his unique stylings and arrangements will still be reaching the great popular music public and in that way he can keep his band before the people and thus wet their musical appetites for subsequent tours.

The great trumpeter has issued a warning to all Negro musicians that the record ban may spell their doom unless they take active measures to explore and exploit other media. To this end, he says that Negro musicians must wage an aggressive fight against the tacit understanding which have kept them off the air and out of the better theatres and location spots. "The die has been cast," says, Hawk.

Diz Gillespie At Town Hall

NEW YORK—Dizzy Gillespie, the high priest of be-bop, played his second engagement of the season at Town Hall here last Saturday night when he was the headline feature of disc jockey Fred Robbins' "One Night Stand" program. Dizz and his eccentric trumpet were received with wild applause by a gay audience that packed the hall to the rafters to hear him. It was the trumpeter's final concert appearance in New York prior to his European tour, which begins in Gothenberg, Sweden, Jan. 26.

Honeydrippers Playing Cobra

Beginning New Year's Night, Jan. 1, Little Tokyo—or more specifically the Club Cobra at First and San Pedro—will be hit by a musical bombshell prepared by Joe Liggins and the Honeydrippers. The "hottest little band in the land" will play the Cobra for the whole month of January.

SAME PERSONNEL

Joe Liggins' boys have been improving rapidly over the past few years since they first recorded the immortal Honeydripper. Starting out as only four—piano, bass, two saxophones—they soon branched into a combo of six, which included drum and guitar, and they were on their way to national fame. For more than three years now they have played together as a unit. Perhaps there is no other band in the nation which can claim having the same personnel for such a long time.

Lester Young Returns To N.Y.

NEW YORK — Lester Young has returned to Gotham after a two-week sojourn in California, where he took a pre-holiday vacation. He returned to play two dance dates in the Bronx prior to a tour through the midwest. Following engagements at Cincinnati, Chicago and Denver, he settles down for a six-week stand at the Washington Social Club in Seattle, Wash. He begins his run at the northwest spot Jan. 7.

Savannah Churchill Offers Plan To Perpetuate Stars

NEW YORK—Savannah Churchill, sultry song siren, took time out between shows at the Apollo theatre here to offer on the soundest suggestions projected in a long time. The girl, who has become a leader among the nation's recording stars, favors the establishment of a "Hall of Fame" or something similar to it, as a means for perpetuating the memory and the contributions of the great Negro artists of the entertainment world.

Miss Churchill called attention to the fact that everyone speaks with reverence of the superb artistry of the likes of Bert Williams, the Whitman Sisters, S. H. Dudley, Homer Tutt, Black Patti, Billy Higgins and other outstanding stars past and present and yet there is little more than word of mouth on which to depend in keeping the brilliant pages that they have given or are giving to the amusement world.

The Brooklyn songbird would have show people themselves give a series of huge benefits to raise the initial funds to buy a building here in New York, to house famous scripts, recordings, life stories and mementoes associated with great stars, who have retired from active work. Future monies realized from this source as well as gifts and bequests would be used towards establishing a trust fund for the maintenance of the shrine. A comprehensive committee of laymen as well as people associated with the various phases of show business would make annual donations to this select group of greats of the past and present. "In such a way," said the singer "we might build a great tradition of our professional as well as insuring that the superstars will not be quickly forgotten."

Colman Plays "Othello"

"A Double Life" gives Ronald Colman his first opportunity to portray an actor on the screen. It also gives him his first chance at Shakespeare. He plays the title role in "Othello," presented as a stage show within the U-I picture. The last time Colman played an actor was in his final Broadway show, "La Tendresse," in which he appeared opposite Ruth Chatterton.

This Movie Moves Fast

A pioneer protagonist of the mobile camera, Fritz Lang exceeded his previous efforts with U-I's "Secret Beyond The Door." Less than 5 percent of the film was shot with a fixed camera, according to Stanley Cortez, chief cinematographer. The balance of the footage consists of pan, tilt, dolly and crane shots.

Millinder Ork Playing Texas

SAN ANTONIO—Lucky Millinder and his dynamic band round out one of the most successful tours of this state with a one-week stand at the Lockland Air Base here beginning Jan. 2. This will mark the first time that a band has engaged for a full six-day stand at the installation, which is a tribute to the popularity of the dynamaestro and his unusual group of music makers and entertainers. Starting with his engagement at Dallas, Dec. 24, Millinder was steadily playing Texas dates and completes his swing in the state with a one-nighter at Prairie View college Jan. 8.

HAPPY NEW YEAR and so on from there . . . Caught the COUNT BASIE show at the Lincoln Tuesday night. Quite a show. Might not be a bad idea for MANTAN MORELAND to vary his routine a bit. People get a little tired of hearing the same thing over and over again. I hasn't heard it for over a year when BEN CARTER was still living but for the lack of Ben the lines were the same. Suppose you had to listen to your favorite stars over the radio weekly and heard the same lines? . . . Good neighbors of Yours Truly are BOBBIE and FREDDIE MILLER. She's a pretty blonde but then Freddie, the husband, is gift-wrapped with muscles . . . In the same apartment on Woodlawn is a study in California brownskin . . . ALLENE EDWARDS. However, her hubby, RUSSELL EDWARDS, also has muscles. Ah, me! . . . My ex-wife MILDRED SANDERS will tie up with a soldier and move to North Carolina in the near future. As I said before, ah me! . . . Thanks to the JOE LOUIS BARROWS for their fine card from Chicago . . . Speaking at random the CHARIOTEERS backed by the ork of MITCHELL AYRES have record "Oooh! Look-A There, Ruth" and "What Did I Do To Be So Pretty" on the Columbia label. Because there has been considerable criticism which recently hit popular Meadowbrook Gardens we thought we'd let you read what one of the owners has to say on the matter. Here is his letter:

Eddie Burbridge, Theatrical Editor,
California Eagle
Los Angeles, Calif.
Dear Mr. Burbridge:

Twenty-eight years ago last month Frank Sebastian built the night club that is now known as Meadowbrook at 8781 W. Washington Blvd., Culver City. During Sebastian's ownership it was known as the Cotton Club and featured colored revues.

No colored patrons were admitted, the entertainers had their own entrance and were excluded from mingling with customers.

Several months ago I became co-owner of the Meadowbrook. During recent weeks there has been criticism of the Meadowbrook operation which I sincerely feel is unjustified, and would appreciate an opportunity to correct.

I went into the ballroom business in August 1941 with the origination of Swing Shift Dances at Burbank Elks Club. Later I acquired operation of the Shrine Auditorium Dances, Aragon Ballroom, Casino Gardens, Long Beach Auditorium, Plantation Ballroom, Sunset Rancho, and some dozen other night spots.

There is no person alive who can say they were refused admission, or treatetd discourteously in any spot I have operated during my tenancy because of the color of their complexion.

I had the privilege of introducing the first colored orchestras to ever appear at many ballrooms including the Long Beach Auditorium and Aragon, where I paid Count Basie the largest sum of money he had received for a ballroom engagement. Duke Ellington appeared for me at Casino Gardens and the King Cole Trio, long before they became famous, were working intermissions as the first colored group to ever play the beach. Lionel Hampton played the Casino Gardens for the first time while I was General Manager for Tommy Dorsey.

Ballrooms I have operated since 1941 have been operated without prejudices, while other ballrooms have continued their restricted policies. If Meadowbrook can stay in business, and we can continue our present policy, eventually other ballrooms may gather courage and follow our example.

Meanwhile, there is absolutely no prejudice at the Meadowbrook and, most important of all, our clientele continues at a high social level, with the intermingling of dancers, and at the bars and tables, being done without the ballroom becoming a so-called "black and tan" club where certain whites go as "sightseers," or a "jazz joint" with the smell of marijuana in the air and everyone talking "jive" language.

I believe criticism of our policy is unwarranted and the people engaged in it would do better to gain more progressive friends, rather than crucify the ones they now have.

In closing, may we again invite you and members of your staff and your readers to come out any Friday, Saturday or Sunday night and see for yourselves the fine spirit of true inter-racial harmony being fostered.

Respectfully yours,
HARRY SCHOOLER.

Concert Artists Will Appear Here

Two of the world's greatest concert artists, Marjorie Lawrence, leading dramatic soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Association, and Guiomar Novaes, most talented of all women pianists, will appear at the Wilshire Ebell Theatre Thursday evening, Jan. 8, and Sunday evening, Jan. 11, respectively, under the sponsorship of Irwin Parnes.

Stricken with infantile paralysis in 1941, and now almost completely recovered, Miss Lawrence will present a good portion of her Jan. 8 program for a standing position.

Trinidad Bids For Fitzgerald

NEW YORK—Ella Fitzgerald, America's "First Lady of Song," may have enlarged her domain to include the West Indies too, judging from developments of the past two weeks. She has received at least three bids from key groups in Trinidad inviting her to appear in concert during the traditional Carnival season.

This is the first time that an American artist has been invited to play a feature role in the annual festivities.

Miss Fitzgerald first attracted the interest of the people of the Caribbean islands with her highly authentic and sympathetic interpretation of the hit "Stone Cold Dead In The Market" last winter. So vivid and vital was the rendition of Wilmoth Houdini's sombre sonnet that an overwhelming majority of those hearing the record, when it reached those shores, thought that she was either a native islander or, at least, of West Indian extraction. It happens that neither circumstance is true but the singer is a keen student of West Indian folklore. She is at present working on an album of West Indian folk music.

Although in capacitated by the new virus germ in his Christmas eve and Christmas night performances, T-Bone Walker, nationally known blues singer, this week gained assurance from local physicians that the germ had been defeated.

T-Bone, who is appearing nightly at the Last Word Cafe, recuperated rapidly from the annoying germ and tonight will be back in his old stride, playing and singing such juke box favorites as "Stormy Monday," "T-Bone's Boogie" and "I'm Still In Love With You."

Betsy Blair Will Star In Play 'Deep Are The Roots'

Betsy Blair, wife of the popular film and stage actor, Gene Kelly, will star in the Los Angeles presentation of the stirring "Deep are the Roots" drama at the Belasco theatre on January 15, according to an announcement from Producer Ray Spencer.

Miss Blair will play the leading role of the white Southern girl whose sympathy and affection for a returning Negro veteran, her childhood friend, creates an atmosphere of conflict and high tension in her community. James Edwards, young Negro actor who performed the role of the veteran recently in Minneapolis for a run of six weeks, will play opposite Miss Blair.

A graduate of the Broadway stage where she was featured as a dancer in "Panama Hattie," Miss Blair came to Hollywood with her famous husband several years ago. Recently she completed featured roles in "The Snake Pit" and "Another Part of the Forest," two films not yet released.

Miss Blair will be playing the role that brought Barbara Bel Geddes to immediate stardom when she perofrmed it on Broadway. Interest in the Los Angeles production is so high, announces producer Spencer, that over $7,000 worth of tickets have been sold in benefit blocks to interested labor, civic and minority group organizations.

N.Y. Police Probe Asked In Beating Of Two Seamen

NEW YORK—The National Maritime Union yesterday demanded an investigation of police brutality against two merchant seamen, one a Negro and the other white, who were assaulted without cause in Harlem last week by two detectives.

In a letter to Mayor O'Dwyer and Police Commissioner Arthur W. Wallander, Paul Palazzi, New York Port agent, requested that a departmental hearing be ordered and that appropriate action be taken to punish the two police officers "for inexcusable abuse of authority." He adde that "if these two officers are attempting to enforce a ghetto for Negroes in Harlem, it is imperative that the Police Department disavow their authority."

Palazzi said a summons has been served on one of the two detectives, Thomas A. Twomey. The two seamen are prepared to identify the other officer in court, since the lieutenant in charge of the 28th Detective Squad at the 123rd Street police precinct refused to reveal his identity.

Palazzi pointed out that Randolph Sutherland, Negro member of the NMU who sailed as a chief cook throughout the war, was brutally assaulted by the two detectives, who blackjacked him under the left eye, slugged him in the mouth, gashing his lip, knocking out one tooth and loosening another which must now be removed. Part of this beating, Palazzi asserted, occurred inside the police precinct on 123rd street.

Palazzi added in his letter to the Mayor and Police Commissioner:

"I am advised that while Sutherland was being beaten, he was called a "Communist," because he admitted to membership in the NMU. We are further advised that the appearance of a white man in the company of a Negro in Harlem was prima facie cause for police suspicion and investigation."

Despite Sutherland's great pain, Palazzi said, and the fact that he was bleeding profusely through his nose and mouth, no medical attention was given the injured seaman and he was forced to sleep on a wooden bench in the precinct jail overnight. Palazzi added that no food was given to Sutherland until the following evening when he was served a bowl of soup.

The incident occurred about midnight, December 8, when Sutherland and his friend, Antonie Van Kouteren, a Dutch seaman, were peacefully walking along Lenox avenue and 111th st. The two detectives in plainclothes drove up in an automobile and, without identifying themselves, asked Van Kouteren where he was going. When Van Kouteren asked the reason for the question, he was punched in the jaw. Sutherland, attempting to intervene to protect his friend, was also slugged and jabbed in the eye with a blackjack.

Both were then pushed into an automobile and taken to precinct headquarters at 123rd street. Here Sutherland received another terrible beating. Both men were booked for disorderly conduct, jailed overnight, and released in $100 bail each. Their case comes up tomorrow at the same time that their counteraction will be heard.

Sutherland helped to deliver the goods during the war and was in the London blitz bombing in 1943. He escaped a submarine attack in the North Atlantic and also saw action in the South Pacific.

Two Southern Colleges Given Class 'A' Rating

NASHVILLE, Tenn—The Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools has awarded Chaflin university (Orangeburg, South Carolina) a Class A rating, which is the highest rating given an instiution by the Association. The Association took this action after receiving the report of its Visiting Committee which reported that, "There is no institution for Negroes in the South which has contributed more to the life of its community and of the State in general than Chaflin college."

The Visiting Committee reported that "The progress which the institution has made within recent years is remarkable." Full recognition by the Association came as a result of a strengthened faculty, a greatly improved physical plant, the development of a strong curriculum, and increased financial support. Also, the co-operative teaching relations with South Carolina State A and M college, a Class A institution whose campus adjoins Chaflin's, has provided a firm foundation for a sound program of education in liberal arts and science.

The Association also raised Bishop college, Marshall, Texas, from an approved school, Class B, to Class A. Dr. J. Henry Highsmith, secretary of the Association's Committee on the accreditation of colleges declared later that "Bishop college has made real progress" and deserves "recognition as a Class A institution."

NAM Would Like You To Forget About Its Pledge 'After OPA'

NEW YORK—Remember those full-page ads the National Association of Manufacturers ran in the nation's daily press 18 months ago promising that "prices will quickly adjust themselves to levels that consumers are willing to pay" if OPA were killed?

The NAM would just as soon you forget about them. Addressing a public relations panel, NAM Project Director J. E. Drew said: "Sometimes we get a little too enthusiastic about our work and leave the impression that an ad is responsible for OPA being dropped or the Taft-Hartley Bill passed. Let's throw that idea out the window."

One reason for the NAM's new unwillingness to take credit for killing of price control may be that living costs have gone up 25 percent since the ad appeared.

Senate to Probe Post Office Bias In South States

WASHINGTON—A subcommittee of three senators was named yesterday by the Senate Civil Service Committee to investigate racial discrimination in the Post Office Department following charges filed by the NAACP during a hearing on confirmation of Jesse M. Donaldson as postmaster general. Named to the subcommittee were Senators Langer (R., N. Dak.), Chavez (D., N. Mex.), and Buck (R., Del.).

Donaldson, central figure in the NAACP discrimination charges, was promptly confirmed by the full committee, thus raising doubts as to the seriousness of the committee's sincerity.

The NAACP's statement requested that full inquiry be made on charges of discrimination in Louisiana, Tennessee, Alabama and North Carolina.

Clarence Mitchell, labor secretary of the organization, stated that as first assistant postmaster general, Donaldson had been advised of these complaints and had done nothing to correct discriminatory practices which they demonstrated. Mitchell's statement pointed out how colored veterans with high averages in New Orleans were passed over for white non-veterans with much lower averages.

Mitchell also stated that in Knoxville and Memphis, postmasters refused to employ colored persons as clerks.

Stressing the importance of the merit system and the need for promoting persons on the basis of ability, the NAACP statement pointed out that the organization reaffirmed the principle of recognized merit. "However, it is because this principle was too frequently ignored during Mr. Donaldson's administration as first assistant postmaster general that we now make this appearance," Mitchell said.

Mitchell said the facts presented were based on more than ten years of discriminatory practices in various post offices. Under the present system, he said, "the offenders escape reprimand by fleeing into a jungle of rules and regulations." Donaldson, he said, was charged with the responsibility of correcting these evils as first assistant postmaster general but had permitted discrimination to go virtually unchallenged, especially in the southern states.

Donaldson denied that he had any personal knowledge of the discriminatory cases in the post office department. He said that some of the matters bore his signature but he could not say for certain whether he had ever seen them.

Donaldson cited as examples of improvement in post office policies the fact that Negroes have been promoted to supervisory jobs in New York, Los Angeles, Washington, Detroit, Pittsburgh and Indianapolis.

He said nothing about the policies of southern states where cases were cited and facts presented by the NAACP. He also failed to mention that the Los Angeles change of policy was made by a new postmaster after Donaldson himself had denied that there was any discrimination in that post office.

Negro Farmers In Drive for Better Living

WASHINGTON — While Negro farmers, like the other farmers of the nation, are continuing to push production to feed the food and fiber needs at home and abroad, their main emphasis is now on the attainment of decent rural living, says Extension Service of the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture.

The new trend is indicated by the types of assistance farmers asked of Extension Service last year. Among other things, they wanted guidance in farm and home planning, home remodeling, soil conservation, and in ways of improving their health, recreational, and educational facilities. Farm women wanted more aid in planning balanced meals and in making use of modern food preservation facilities such as community freezer lockers.

This expanded service to farmers has called for increased extension personnel. During the last two years 2113 workers have been added to Extension Service payrolls. Of these additional workers, 924 were appointed in the South. New Negro extension workers number 197, or 21.4 percent of the total increase in the South.

County Launches Health Program Here

Immunization against tetanus combined with those of diphtheria and whooping cough will be given by the Los Angeles county health department starting at once, according to Dr. Roy O. Gilbert, county health officer.

The inoculations, for preschool children, are given in graduated doses according to the decision of the physician. Parents desiring this service for their children must give assurance that they will return for the complete series; otherwise, immunity cannot be assured. Booster doses are recommended every two to three years in order that the protection may be continuous.

Board Approves Cop Beating Of Citizen

Actions of an officer accused of grabbing and kicking Spencer Crilly, white, last June 24 were approved by the police commission this week.

On the recommendation of Police Chief Horrall and Commissioner Irvin B. Snyder, the commission washed its hands of a complaint made for Crilly by William B. Bidner, executive director, Civil Rights Congress division, Mobilization for Democracy.

In a sworn affidavit, Crilly stated that while driving his auto home from work he was stopped at a police blockade at the corner of Selma ave. and Sunset blvd., at 11:15 p.m. June 24.

There Officer Peter Bishonden grabbed him by the collar, jerked him out of the his car, tore a coat pocket while searching him and then kicked his legs from under him, Crilly swore.

On Oct. 1, Chief Horrall informed the commission that "it has been impossible to verify the allegations made by Mr. Crilly" and that "the search was made in the approved manner.'

The matter was then referred to Commissioner Snyder. Yesterday Snyder informed the commission he "approves the chief's report and the officer's actions."

The commission, in turn, approved Snyder's recommendations and adopted the chief's report.

Crilly has a $2000 damage suit against Officer Bishonden set for trial next month.

The approximately 15,000 veterans now purchasing property under the state farm and home purchase plan will continue to pay interest at the low rate of 3 percent a year as a result of action taken by the California veterans board.

Qualified California veterans of any war may obtain up to $7,500 for purchase of a home or up to $13,500 for purchase of a farm. The amount advanced is repaid in low monthly installments, usually over a 20-year period.

in the fight "against war, privilege and discrimination."

"When the old parties rot, the people have a right to be heard through a new party," he declared. "They asserted that right when the Democratic party was founded under Jefferson. They won it again when the Republican party was organized in Lincoln's day. The people must again have an opportunity to speak out with their votes in 1948."

Wallace's call for an end to discrimination made in his candidacy speech was presented as a full-bodied program for equal rights for the Negro people in his Tulsa address. Declaring that Negro and white Americans alike have been "too tolerant of intolerance," Wallace called for "a day-to-day offensive to demand complete justice" for the Negro people.

"The abolition of Jim Crow must have top place on the agenda of a program for national defense," Wallace declared. "Until it is abolished the words 'democracy' and 'freedom' and 'justice' used so glibly to support our foreign policy will ring hollow throughout the world."

Referring to the role of the Roosevelt New Deal in improving the living conditions of the Negro people, Wallace added, "I make these points only to emphasize that whatever we white, unprejudiced Americans have done; whatever the New Deal did, has been far less than enough. Today we must be as stubborn in our devotion to principle as the abolitionists of a century ago. The times demand it. The defense of our country demands it."

Following the pattern of his recent declarations that 1948 is a year to "come out fighting," Wallace spelled out in the speech a complete offensive "to end Jim Crow in America wherever it exists—North or South."

In his recent tour of the South, Wallace set an history-making precedent by speaking only before unsegregated audiences. This was the first time a major political figure in America was able to successfully challenge Jim Crow barriers erected in the South by such hate groups as the Ku Klux Klan.

The Wallace civil rights program, expected to be a major element in the presidential campaign, was launched at the Alpha convention in a five-point platform, calling for a federal anti-lynch law, an end to poll taxes, the right to vote for every Negro American, equal and unsegregated education, and a permanent FEPC.

Wallace challenged both parties on their failure to keep campaign promises for portions of this legislative program.

Wallace concluded his speech by pointing out that a Negro child born today has a life expectancy of 10 years less than that of a white child born a few miles away because of unequal health facilities. In a moving pledge to the Negro people, the newly-declared presidential candidate, promised:

"I say those 10 years—those 10 extra years for millions of Americans are what we are fighting for. I say that those who stand in the way of the health, education, housing and social security programs which would erase that gap commit murder. I say that those who perpetuate Jim Crow are criminals. I pledge you that I shall fight this with everything I have."

Temporary offices for Wallace were set up at 40 East 49th street in New York.

RALEIGH, N. C.—The presentation by the Shaw Players of Thornton Wilder's "Our Town" was enthusiastically received by large audiences Friday and Saturday nights in Greenleaf Chapel of Shaw university.

A. P. Editor Apologizes for Slur on Louis

Ted R. Smits, general sports editor of the Associated Press, in a letter addressed to G. William McKinney, executive secretary of the Los Angeles Branch NAACP, apologized for the use of the term "mammy" in an AP story referring to Joe Louis' mother.

"You are correct, of course," said Smits, "in saying that we should not have referred to Joe Louis' mother as his 'mammy.' We try consistently to avoid use of terms which carry racial connotations and I am chagrined that this one got into our news report apparently unnoticed by editors along the line.

"I am confident, however, that not disrespect was meant. . . . Please accept my personal regrets and thanks for calling the story to our attention."

a cop to spend his working time in the filthy Nigger dives where crimes of the kind mentioned above breed."

The Equalizer article uses liberally a term which could well be applied to the paper itself—the word "filthy." It rationalizes the scarred appearance of skidrow's derelicts, white and colored, with the assertion that all the white winos bearing scars on their faces or bodies had been beaten up by "Niggers rebelling against their own complexions" and mutilating "their victims merely because they were white."

The Equalizer is published by one L. R. Foster who gives his address as Box 5832 Metropolitan Station. It has been under fire many times by the Negro, Jewish and Labor press of this community. Needless to say, neither the Equalizer nor its publisher was called before the Thomas-Rankin Un-American Committee during its recent investigation of "subversive activities" in this area. That investigation was confined to the hounding of liberals and progressives who advocate interracial amity.

U. S. Cafeteria Workers Vote to Strike

WASHINGTON, D. C. — More than 900 members of Local 471, representing employes in the cafeterias of Government Services, Inc., and other cafeterias in the district, unanimously voted to authorize strike action at a membership meeting held last week in Shiloh Baptist church.

The average take home pay of GSI employes is $21 per week. The union is asking for an increase of 15 cents an hour across the board, a hospitalization plan, improved sick leave, and other contract improvements.

TALLAHASSEE — The Florida A and M 70 piece college band, William P. Foster, bandmaster, has been acclaimed a great band as a result of excellent performances at Florida A and M college, Tuskegee Institute, Atlanta, Georgia, and Miami, Florida where they performed at the Orange Blossom Classic with band lights before 20,000 spectators in the Orange Bowl Stadium.

Greek Theatre to Get Face Lifted

A program of repair, modernization, and improvement for the Greek Theatre in Griffith Park had today been authorized by the Los Angeles City Recreation and Park Commission, following reports showing the growing popularity of the place and the increased number of requests for its use.

The success of summer light opera, introduced at the Greek Theatre two years ago, has helped bring the center into public favor for other types of public events as well, after it had long stood in semi-idleness.

Modernization of stage facilities, better lighting and sound equipment, waterproofing of the seating area, better lighting of the auto parking areas, and improvements are contemplated.

Intimate friends of Louis pooh-poohed the Faulkner charges, pointed out that in all his years in the prize ring, the heavyweight champion has lived a clean and exemplary life, has never been connected with any scandal. The fact that Louis was willing to pose for photograph with Mrs. Faulkner is further refutation of the charges, they said.

Florida Court Convicts White Youths of Rape

MIAMI, Fla.—Bill Hagan and W. L. McKnight, two white youths, have been convicted in circuit court and sentenced to prison terms of five and ten years respectively on charges of criminal attacks on two Negro high school girls near Chipley, Florida, through the efforts of the Washington county branch of the NAACP. The assaults were committed in September.

Despite the lightness of the sentences in view of the crimes committed, the convictions establish a precedent in that the white juries have persistently refused hitherto convict white men charged with rape on colored women even in the face of overwhelming evidence of their guilt.

Encouraged by the success attained to date, efforts will now be made to prosecute two companions of Hagan and McKnight who sat in an automobile and watched while the attacks were being perpetrated.

Attorney W. W. Flournoy, courageous white lawyer of Funiak Springs, was retained by the Washington county branch of the NAACP to assist in the persecution and played a leading role in bringing about the convictions. Harry T. Moore, executive secretary of the Florida state conference of branches of the NAACP, reports that Washington county officials manifested an unusual spirit of cooperation during the trials and financial assistance was given by other Florida branches of the NAACP and other organizations to defray the expenses of the case.

Willowbrook News

The issue of the incorporation of Willowbrook has come up again this year with the filing of petitions by a Mr. Griffith for incorporation into the city of Compton. The proposed section to be annexed to Compton, if the current campaign is successful, would extend from the present Compton city limits north to 126th street, and from Wilmington avenue to the West Los Angeles boundary.

Last January a move to incorporate a small section of Willowbrook as a separate sixth class city was defeated.

Rev. Norman Brown, of the First oCngregational church of Willowbrook, and Moses Allen, chairman of the Willowbrook Chapter oft he 69th A. D. Progressive Citizens of America, are among those who favor separate inocrporation.

Allen, spaking for himself and not as a representative of the P.C.A., told this reporter that he favored incorporation of the entire Willowbrook area, from the Compton city limits north to Imperial highway, as a separate sixth class city. Allen feels that a great many civic movements could be effected which would benefit all citizens and business interests of the area without restrictions as to race, creed, or color. In this connection the County Planning Commission recently decided against a petition of certain South End Willowbrook business men to re-zone the southern end of Wilmington avenue to permit business enterprises.

A meeting has been called for January 19 in the Willowbrook grammar school, when the question of incorporation or annexation will be discussed, with "neutral" advisor such as the city manager of Lynwood to speak.

As we go to press we learn that the Landier Bus Line that services the Watts-Willowbrook District area has been extended to service a larger portion of the district.

At a meeting of the City Commissioners, representatives of the Railway Commission, and interested citizens of the district, Landier, owner of the Bus Line said he would have asked one thing: "You believe what those 'N[illegible]'?"

This reporter believes that the Landier Bus Line should be investigated. Landier hails from Louisiana, and doubtless would like to have the same racial superiority laws of that state enacted into law in California. It is said that the Landier Bus Line is not paying union wages, is working the shifts longer hours and is changing drivers frequently. A representative group of citizens should investigate the policies of the Bus Line, and the Labor Union should be contacted to organize the bus drivers.

All persons interested are asked to contact Dr. Jaime, and tell him you wish to work for better transportation.

Calvary Baptist

SANTA MONICA—I could n[ot] attend the morning services [at] Calvary Baptist church, Re[v.] Carter, pastor. However, I [en]joyed the night service. Rev. Carter had his organ play Christmas songs at [8] o'clock each day during Chris[t]mas week. The music was melodious that passing motorists on Broadway would stop their cars to investigate. Rev. Carter is to be complimented for his excellent idea. We are hoping that it will be repeated each year.

One cannot help but enjoy the services at Calvary, with the fine coordination of the organ console, piano, choir and glee club, so beautifully blended and harmoniously delivered. In addition, Rev. Carter's sermons are short, pointed and highly interesting.

First Bapt. Church

VENICE — Christmas Eve services were well attended at the First Baptist church, Rev. Revoal, pastor, with everyone in fine spirits.

It was announced that Mrs. Mamie Bryant was called to the bedside of her mother in Shreveport, La., and arrived safely to find her sister also sick and in greater danger than her mother.

Mrs. Jackson was accompanying Mrs. Bryant on the trip. Two hours out of Los Angeles, Mrs. Jackson received a telegram that her son had been seriously [in]jured by an unidentified person.

Bares U. S. Offer Of Af. Colonies To Gen. DeGaulle

NEW YORK—A scheme to barter African territories and natives in exchange for the support of French fascists for the Truman Administration's cold war against the Soviet Union was bared yesterday by the Johannes Steel Report on World Affairs.

The news letter said the offer was made to Gen. Charles de Gaulle, French fascist leader, by John Foster Dulles, Republican foreign policy brain truster and unofficial emissary of Secretary of State George C. Marshall, during Dulles' recent conference with de Gaulle in Paris.

Gen. de Gaulle on his part transmitted a proposal to the State Department through Dulles that the general be made "the future generallissimo of the allied forces" in what he termed the "inevitable" war against Russia.

De Gaulle asked further that the U. S. "forthwith equip 40 divisions with the latest modern weapons including tanks and planes," and that these divisions "were to be the

Gerald Smith Says Backers Aided Solons

WASHINGTON—Two members of the Thomas-Rankin Un-American committee today were sombrely pondering the ingratitude of one of the committee's proteges—Gerald L. K. Smith, the nation's No. 1 fascist and rabble rouser.

Smith, founder of the Christian Nationalist party, said in Tulsa, Okla., that some of his financial backers also were contributors to the election campaigns of committee chairman J. Parnell Thomas (R., N. J.) and Rep. John McDowell (R., Pa.).

"If my financial backing makes McDowell and Thomas fascicts, because the same sort of people—in some instances the same people—who gave money to the political campaigns of McDowell and Thomas, have contributed money to me," Smith said in a surprising demonstration of logical thinking.

Smith's break with his former friends and protectors occurred

Coroner's Jury Says 'Accident,' Warns Parents

A coroner's jury last Monday morning returned a verdict of "accidental death" in the fatal shooting last New Year's Eve of 12 year old Robert Mitchell of 313 West 45th st., by Thomas Hopkins, 15, of 198 West 42nd place.

Young Mitchell was accidentally shot while the two teenagers were playfully wrestling for possession of a 38-caliber Winchester rifle owned by Thomas' father. The accident occurred at the Hopkins home.

Robert was rushed to the Georgia Street Receiving Hospital, but died at 6:30 the following morning. He was buried Monday from the People's Funeral Home.

In exonerating young Hopkins, the coroner's jury admonished parents to exercise more care to keep firearms out of the hands of children.

The district attorney's office was reported considering action against the father of Thomas Hopkins for possession of a deadly weapon.

A Clarion Call

AN EDITORIAL

This year of 1948 has been called the "year of decision."

Henry Wallace has announced his candidacy, and even though the campaign is still in its formative stage, he has already impressed the people of the nation with the sincerity of his purpose.

That purpose is to establish peace, plenty, and security for all American people. Wallace's march across the nation in a demonstration to destroy racial discrimination and segregation is outstanding in that he has gathered together all people of all different colors, creeds, and racial segments at meetings where he spoke.

So definite has been his denunciation of racial bias directed toward Negro Americans that the old psychology hammered into our hearts and heads that Negroes and white people cannot live side by side in peace, is slowly withering up from the roots. His doctrine sees Jim Crow decidedly on the run.

This is your chance as well as your duty to kill Cock Robin (Jim Crow). How can you do it?

On Sunday when you go to church, or when you visit other public meeting places, you will find men and women with petitions at the entrances. They will ask for your signature for a Third Party in California, the Independent Progressive Party.

You sign. Your signature means your stamp of approval on Wallace's fight for pure Americanism.

Nine California Colleges Among 172 in Program

NEW YORK—Presidents of nine California colleges have joined the presidents of 172 leading colleges who have issued a call to Negro students to apply for 10,000 scholarships. These presidents comprise the board of the College Scholarship Fund for Negro Students.

The fund helps Negro students to finance their education at 958 interracial, non-segregated institutions. According to fund officials, few Negro students realize that thousands of scholarships are available to them.

Students are urged to send their names and addresses to the College Scholarship Fund for Negro Students, Room 462, 360 W. 122nd st., New York 27, N. Y. The fund is supported by voluntary contributions and therefore offers its services free of charge.

California college presidents represented on the board include Dr. Robert G. Sproul, University of California; Dr. E. Wilson Lyon, Pomona college; Dr. Charles Frederick Hard, Scripps college, Claremont; Dr. Lynn T. White Jr., Mills college, Oakland; Dr. Frank W. Thomas, Fresno State college; Dr. William C. Jones, Whittier college; Dr. Arthur G. Coons, Occidental college, Los Angeles; Dr. Robert E. Burns, College of the Pacific, Stockton; and Dr. George H. Armacost, University of Redlands.

Jester Hairston Asks Aid for Girl, Mother Stranded in Vienna

A letter from Jester Hairston, choral conductor and arranger, tells a heart-appealing story of meeting a little Negro girl in Vienna, and of how she and her mother were forced to live outdoors, summer and winter, because of Hitler's regime. The letter follows:

"Dear Mrs. Bass:

"When I was overseas with the U. S. O. camp shows, in Vienna one day I ran across a little colored girl standing on the street with her Austrian mother. It was so unusual to see a little brown-skinned girl such as she

Nation-Wide Mobilization in Chicago Cheers Wallace's Decision to Run

By CHARLOTTA A. BASS

Even though the meeting was called for 2 p.m., during the early morning representatives from all over the nation started pouring into the Knickerbocker Hotel. A call had gone out to the four corners of the country, asking representatives to assemble in Chicago and lay down a barrage requesting Henry A. Wallace to enter the 1948 presidential race.

The famous Town Hall room in the Knickerbocker Hotel was filled to capacity. Although it was a closed meeting, all seating and standing room was taken. Newspaper men, curiosity seekers, and people not yet enlisted in the Wallace-for-President campaign clamored to enter.

Those who care to write the true facts about this Chicago, December 31, meeting will describe it as being free from the political stigma characteristic of such gatherings.

CALIFORNIA ON TOP

The people assembled. There was a slight rustling as they found their seats. Then jovial, and exceedingly popular Robert W. Kenny, former attorney general of the state of California, gave the signal to start. There was a roll call of states. Delegates in number from two to eight, and from California to Florida, responded.

Among the important personages present was a professor from Yale university, and one from Georgia State.

I was particularly interested in the sentiment expressed by the Georgia professor. He admonished the great concourse of American citizens meeting in the Windy City, not to overlook the South in its effort to place at the head of the government a man who believes that the freedom he enjoys should be enjoyed by all. This sense of justice and equality in all things, added up, is what constitutes democracy.

The mixed delegations representing 16 states were in accord in the endorsement of Wallace's statement that—

"The abolition of Jim Crow must have top place on the agenda of a program for national defense. Until it is abolished 'democracy' and 'freedom' and 'justice' used so glibly to support our foreign policy will ring hollow throughout the world."

The people who came to the Chicago conference looked and listened in an attitude of hushed suspense. They are fed up on broken promises and a government patterns that holds at least 94% of its people as industrial slaves and 15,000,000 of its citizens in a second class category, denied freedom and liberty and the protection of life and limb, while Congress wrangles over the Marshall Plan.

They wanted to hear from Wallace's own lips the words: I will run for President.

Finally the great man of the hour, Henry Wallace, stood up. There was a roar of applause like the sound of many thunders, and a voice from the back of the room shouted, "Will you run, Mr. Wallace?"

There was another roar of applause, then Henry Wallace, in my very humble opinion the greatest living American on the political scene, answered in a manner that clearly suggested, "Not my will, but yours."

If you think that my participation in the Presidential marathon will help in any way untangle the conditions in our national life, that points to a Third World War, I am your servant.

Our American people have held many talk fests, conferences, and have offered resolutions to abolish the evils in our government structure that creates economic, social, cultural, and humanitarian problems. But nothing has ever come of these conferences and resolutions.

Immediately after the abolition of slavery in the United States, and the 13th, 14th, and 15th amendments had been added to the constitution, our government with its three branches,—legislative, executive, and judicial—with which to form a perfect union for the protection of the newly emancipated American and to grant him the same privileges as those enjoyed by his previous owner, did nothing.

Lincoln was the only great political leader during his day and time who had sufficient courage to pronounce slavery an evil and an impediment in the way of progress.

Early congressional representatives refused to interfere with the early rise of the Ku Klux Klan terror in the South, under the guise of "States' rights" or some other such excuse.

And now for 80 years congress after congress watched the spread of the lynch evil, the growth of the poll tax, the development of segregation and discrimination in the social and economic life of the nation. And aside from unfulfilled promises of relief from the Republican and Democratic parties, nothing has been done to root out these evils that restrict Negroes to second class citizenship status, a condition that calls forth the scorn of Russia and other nations, the nations where racial exclusiveness is not allowed.

Despite these outstanding facts, the most persecuted minarity, the Negro, is divided between the Democratic and the Republican political branches, whom they serve religiously in political campaigns.

Franklin D. Roosevelt was the first President since Lincoln who made any effort to lift the Negroes' economic status to the level of other working class Americans by establishing, an executive order, a Federal Fair Employment Practices Commission and improved his housing condition in the slum clearance program.

Like a plumed knight out of the past Henry A. Wallace has come forward at the request of the lowly working class and tossed his hat into the Presidential ring.

No doubt Wallace's entrance in the Presidential race is causing quite a stir among the Democrats. And as quiet as it is kept, some worry for the Republicans, especially those who count on the Negro vote to balance the budget. But unless the signs of the times deceive me, the Negro people will this year throw almost solid support to Wallace.

They realize that Lincoln wanted to destroy slavery if he could accomplish it without destroying the Union. They recognize Roosevelt, the great humanitarian who believed in a world program of freedom and justice for all.

But now for the first time in the entire history of the

Another Negro Doctor Named To Gen. Hospital

Two Negro physicians shortly will be treating patients at the county-supported General Hospital with a status comparable in all respects to white staff doctors, hospital officials said yesterday.

One of the two is Dr. Oner Barker Jr. whose appointment to a three-year training residency in internal medicine was reported by the EAGLE two weeks ago. The other is Dr. Charles Mouton, who began treating young patients as a resident pediatrician on Jan. 1.

Another Negro, Dr. Gregory Murray, will complete his interneship at the hospital July 1.

Drs. Barker and Mouton are said to be the only Negro doctors in the West to receive appointments as resident physicians in a large accredited hospital.

No other accredited non-profit hospital in Los Angeles has agreed to place Negro doctors on its staff.

Unionists Blast Housing Bias

More than 2000 leaflets appealing to all citizens to join restrictive covenant action today were in the hands of white neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. King, 1359 E. 60th st.

The Kings recently were threatened with physical violence by leaders of a mob of more than 50 white persons unless they moved from their home.

The leaflet was signed by the Los Angeles CIO Council, Joseph DeSilva, secretary of Local 770, AFL Retail Clerks; Progressive Citizens of America; the National Negro Congress; Ivar Axelson, chairman of the Committee Against Restrictive Covenants for Local 624, AFL Carpenters Union; Rev. Charles Mundsell, minister of the Berean Congergational church, and Rev. V. J. Waldron, minister of the Third United Brethren church.

The leaflet tells the community how five leaders of a mob marched storm troop fashion into the Kings' home Nov. 10 to order them to get out.

"Let's put a stop to housebreaking and threats of violence," the leaflet urges.

"The Kings meet their obligation as American citizens. They are Americans. The Golden Rule and the Bill of Rights are for all."

The leaflets further declare: "Discrimination in the community breeds discrimination on the job. Some employers use discrimination to create divisions and distrust among workers. This weakens or disrupts union organization. Workers pay for discrimination in lower wages and higher prices.

The leaflets are part of an action campaign against restrictive covenants and in support of the Kings led by the CIO Political Action and the National Negro Congress.

The CIO-PAC has also announced it intends to form a delegation to visit Under-Sheriff Jewell to press for action against the leaders of the mob which attempted to intimidate the King family.

YMCA Puts On Art Exhibit

The successful exhibit of oil paintings by Claude Clark, celebrated young Negro artist, was just completed at the Hall of Art in Beverly Hills and will be on view at the YMCA on East 28th street today, Friday and Saturday.

One outstanding purchase was made from this show by Cary Grant. A couple of Clark's paintings are also in the collection of Dr. Albert C. Barnes of the Barnes Foundation in Merion, Pa.

The artist was born in Rockingham, Ga., where he acquired a sense of social responsibility for the complete emancipation of his people.

Clark's lithograph prints of present day jitterbug dance formations have gained popular appeal. His "Boogie-Woogie" is in the permanent collection of the Pennsylvania Museum of Philadelphia.

More recently, Clark has dealt with tropical scenes. Emphasis upon human dignity in his paintings of natives is always uppermost.

He studied at the Graphic Sketch Club, the Philadelphia Museum School of Industrial Art, and the Barnes Foundation in Merion, Pa.

The artist has had many one-man shows in galleries throughout the country. Just recently, he conducted an exhibition of his paintings on housing at the Sulzberger Junior High school.

The exhibit will be held in the lobby of the YMCA and can be seen from 9 a.m. until 10 p.m.

City Acts to Clean Up Streets, Citizens Urged to Cooperate

A positive program of street cleaning, designed to enchance the looks and health of the city, has been inaugurated for 1948 by Louis Miller, general manager of the Street Maintenance and Sanitation Department. The program will be applied to all districts with the same uniformity, the EAGLE has been assured.

The program was adopted at the urging of Councilman Don A. Allen of the seventh district, who has been crusading for cleaner streets in his district, following the receipt of complaints from the newspapers and from many citizens in the district. Acting on these complaints, Allen made a personal survey of the district and came up with his program for improved street cleaning service.

Allen yesterday gave the EAGLE the assurance that as thorough a job of street cleaning would be given the district each day as the limited equipment and manpower would permit.

At the same time, he pointed up the necessity of citizens cooperating to keep their neighborhoods clean by off-street parking of automobiles during the hours each street is scheduled to be swept, and abstainance from indiscriminate dumping of combustible rubbish on vacant lots and the burning of rubbish in the streets. The councilman warned that both of these practices were violations of the law.

Pointing out that dumping was not confined to the 7th district, but is prevalent ins ome of the swankiest sections of the city, Allen appealed to the civic pride of the 7th district citizens to keep the streets and vacant lots of the district clean and as an example to other areas.

Allen repeated his original position that he desired to enlist the aid of all citizens in the district to report directly to his office any neglect of street repairs and street cleaning.

The EAGLE urges its readers to ascertain the day their streets are clated for hand patrol sweeping, motor sweeping and gang cleaning, and the nights for motor sweeping, motor flushing and hand cleaning, and cooperate in every way possible. The various cleaning schedules follow a regular pattern in the different areas of the district. This is also true of those sections west of Jefferson and Adams.

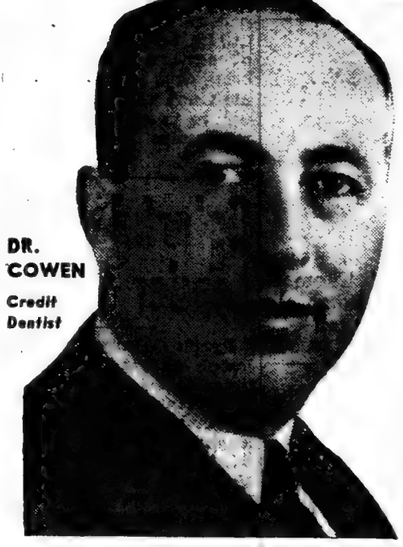
Educators, City Officials Back Move to Turn Back Schools to People for Recreation Purpose

Assuring Supervisor Leonard J. Roach that the Angeles city school board is ready to turn over sch and school playgrounds to the public for recreational poses, a group of educators led by Superintendent of Schools Vierling Kersey and school board members J. Elliott, Mrs. Eleanor Allen and Olin Darby at Monday's meeting promised complete support of the matching funds Bill Spervisor Roach proposes to have introduced at the Budget Session of the legislature.

The Bill would provide $10,000,000 for recreational purposes on a matching basis to cities, counties and school districts.

Attended also by city officials and club women, the meeting which was held in Roach's office resulted in complete agreement by city, county and school officials as to the urgency of the plan. Its inestimable value as a juvenile delinquency prevention measure was stressed.



When Roach advised the school officials that he would seek county funds to keep the school playgrounds open after school hours, vacation and holidays under trained recreation directors, Councilman Ken Hahn promised to go before city council and ask for an dorsement of the Bill as pa the legislative program of City of Los Angeles.

Urges Extension of Social Security Act to Cover Farm, Domestic Workers

WASHINGTON—A proposal to broaden the Social Security Act of 1936 to include domestic workers, agricultural laborers and other groups now excluded from its benefits was given the senate finance committee's advisory council on social security, as that group met to consider bringing the law up to date.

Albert J. Altmeyer, commissioner of social security and one of the few remaining New Dealers of the Roosevelt era, called for a thorough revision of the act. He also recommended an increase in the cash benefits paid under the old age and survivors insurance title of the act.

The act was the subject of exhaustive hearings covering much the same ground before the house ways and means committee in 1946, but no major improvements in the law were made. Organized labor and many progressive groups stood together in proposing liberalization of the program along the lines suggested by Altmeyer.

Altmeyer told the advisory committee that experience has demonstrated the need and feasibility of covering all gainfully employed persons, including the self-employed, such as small businessmen and farmers. The main groups now excludeed who should be protected he listed as agricultural laborers (about 3.5 million), domestic workers (2.5 million), employes of non-profit organizations, and public employes (federal, state and local).

Calling for the extension of old-age and survivors insurance to workers who are permanently disabled, Itmeyer said that every other country with an old-age retirement program has written this principle into its laws.

Among his specific recommendations were:

- Increase the wage for both contributions and benefit payments from the first $3000 earnings in a year to the first $4800.
- Raise the minimum monthly payment from $10 to $20.
- Boost the maximum payment to a retired worker and his dependents from the present $85 to $120.
- Reduce the retirement age for women workers from 65 to 60.
- Permit retired workers to earn up to $40 monthly while drawing benefits, rather than only $15 as at present. Permit those over 70 to draw benefits whatever their otther income

Tycoons Happy as Profits Soar With Increasing Prices

NEW YORK — Not that you intended to, but you played Santa Claus to Big Business in 1947. Figures just released show that you with the aid, of course, of Big Business made a whale of a good job of playing Santa, too.

Those figures reveal that industry's money-grabbing spree brought an average net profit increase of 89 percent over 1946, with one major industrial group whooping it up to a 965 percent increase.

The record 965 percent boost was chalked up by eight automobile manufacturers whose $277,746,869 profit grab in the first nine months of 1947 contrasted with $26,073,00 for the same period in 1946

Full extent of industry's profits, reported in a New York Times survey Dec. 21, proved even more tremendous than had been predicted by spokesmen for unions seeking wage increases to help offset the dizzy climb in living costs.

Covering 247 leading companies, the Times survey showed their net profits for the first nine months of 1947 at $1,807,372, 339 and 89 percent increase over 1946 returns of $956,056,350.

The Times sadly commented that profits would have been even higher "had it not been for increasing wages and operating costs and a competitive market." (Labor's average weekly earnings, including overtime pay, went up about 10 percent in the first nine months of 1947 compared to the 1946 period.)

Realistically, industry executives expects their continued ride on the profit escalator to bring more "labor unrest" in 1948. Almost none expect to lower their prices during the first half of 1948, and more than a third expect to increase them.

Housing Leads In Dizzy Price Spiral in U.S.

WASHINGTON — There are oodles of new houses, and builders are eager to take your order right now.

The only catch is a fancy price tag. The low cost house is completely off the market now and the medium range, that used to run from $5000 to $7000 for the average small family, has also disappeared.

U. S. builders now produce dwellings in a bracket range that begins at an even $10,000.

Housing prices were at a record high in October ,having risen for the fifth consecutive month, according to an industry-wide survey just made by United Industrial Associates, Inc., here.

While beefsteak is now above even the illegal black market levels it reached under OPA, and other foods are keeping it company, home prices are precisely 35 percent more inflated at this time than our costly food.

The national figures show that housing prices have far outstripped every other major item in the cost of living. Los Angeles leads the nation with homes selling for 201.4 percent more than prewar prices.

Latest Bureau of Labor Stastistics figures reveal that food prices are 96 percent over prewar (1935-39 averages), clothing is 86 percent up, and fuel-electricity has risen 24 percent, compared with a whacking 131 percent for housing.

While the average house over the nation as a whole costs $11,-735 today, and the average buyer will still be meeting monthly payments on it for years in the future, when both prices and incomes will have dropped considerably, there still is no sign of anything concrete to correct the situation.

Conservative Republican and the real estate interests generally have condemned even the rather weak Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill as "socialistic," and the Truman administration is more than reluctant to clamp a ceiling on the industry in this election year.

Prices to Continue Dizzy Climb

WASHINGTON—The prices of 900 basic commodities rose another 3.2 percent since last November 1, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said this week in estimating that rising prices had wiped out within two months $218,000,000 in aid which European nations would have received under the first installment of the Marshall Plan.

Ewan Clague, commissioner of labor statistics, predicted that the cost of living will continue to climb. He said the increase will be particularly noticeable in agricultural commodities.

Meet some folks whose savings paid for your telephone

Your telephone, and the vast service facilities it represents, was actually bought and paid for by someone like this lady . . . someone with faith enough in the telephone business to invest savings in it. Each telephone requires an investment of about $255 in equipment . . . buildings, cables, poles, switchboards and the like.

Who are they . . . the people who own the Bell telephone companies? Among them are families saving for their children's education, widows, young men investing for their future. Some of your friends are probably among our owners, for there are now more than 715,000 . . . Bell has more shareholders than employees, in fact.

Many employees are Bell System shareholders, too, combining their work and their savings in our program to bring service to all who want it. And this year alone our Pacific Coast construction program amounts to $200,000,000 . . . bringing us still closer to our goal of the finest telephone service for the West.

It takes new Working Dollars . . . millions of them . . . to build the buildings and buy the equipment needed to meet the demand for more service. Millions of dollars for growth do not come from telephone bills—but from people who are willing to put their savings into the business. To attract these savings, we must sell our services at fair prices which allow us to pay reasonably for the use of needed working dollars.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By REV. IKE EVANS, D.D.

Subject: What We Know About God; Lesson Text and Outline, Isaiah 40:28-31; John 14:8-14. Motto Text Hebrew 11:6.

Introduction

Who is God? "The one Supreme Being, self-existent and eternal; the infinite Maker, sustainer, and ruler of the universe". "A Spirit, infinite, eternal, and unchangeable in His Being, wisdom, power, holiness, justice, goodness, and truth". God is the infinite and perfect Spirit in whom all things have their source, support, and end. What do we know about Go din his relation to us? He is our Creator who sustains and strengthens, as Isaiah teaches; and he is our Father who redeems and regenerates, as Jesus graciously reveals.

Comments

1. God is from eternity; he will be to eternity; and therefore with him there is no deficieny, no decay. He has his being of himself, and therefore all his perfections must needs be boundless. He is without beginning of days or end of life. God is also the Creator of the ends of the earth, that is, of the whole earth and all that is in it from end to end. He therefore is the rightful owner and ruler of all, and must be concluded to have an absolute power over all and an all-sufficiency to help his people in their greatest straits. Doubtless he is still able to save his church as he was at first to make the world. God has power to bring about the salvation and that power is never exhausted.

2. Many that have good knowledge in the scripture and divine things fall short of the attainments justly expected from them, for want of compounding the ideas they have, and going on to perfection. Many know Christ, who yet do not know what they might know of him, nor see what they should see in him. That which aggravated Philip's dullness was that he had so long an opportunity of improvement. The longer we enjoy the means of knowledge and grace, the more inexcusable we are if we be found defective in grace and knowledge. Christ expects that our proficiency should be in some measure according to our standing, that we should not be always babes. Let us thus reason with ourselves. "Have I been so long a hearer of sermons, a student in the scripture, a scholar in the school of Christ, and yet so weak in the knowledge of Christ, and so unskilful in the word of righteousness?" All that saw Christ in the flesh might have seen the Father in him, if Satan had not blinded their minds, and kept them from a sight of Christ, as the image of God.

Comment on the Motto Text

It is said that without this faith it is impossible to please God, without such a faith as helps us to walk with God, an active faith, and that we cannot come to God unless we believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of those that diligently seek him. We must believe That God is, and that he is, what he has revealed himself to be in the scripture, a Being of Infinite perfections, subsistifig in three persons, Father, Son, and Holy Ghost. The practical belief of the existence of God, as revealed in the word, would be a powerful awe-band upon our souls, a bridle of restraint to keep us from sin, and a spur of constraint to put us upon all manner of Gospel obedience. By the fall we have lost God; we have lost the divine light, life, love, likeness, and communion. God is again to be found of us through Christ, the second Adam.

THE REVEREND M. HARLEY DUVALL, earnest young evangelical pastor of the Macedonia Baptist church, is seen with County Supervisor Leonard Roach as the first shovels of earth were turned in the mammoth ground-breaking services for the new eighty-five thousand dollar church plant which was designed by architect Paul R. Williams and Which is now in process of construction. Pastor Duvall declared that the new colonial type structure will be seventy-five years in advance of present day church architecture.

"For What Are We Seeking?" will be the subject of the lecture given by Robert M. Thiess at the Los Angeles headquarters of Baha'i World Faith, 331 S. New Hampshire ave., on Sunday, Jan. 11, at 3 p.m.

What else but the unreserved acceptance of the divine program enunciated with such simplicity and force as far back as 75 years ago by Baha'u'llah, embodying in its essentials God's divinely appointed scheme for the unification of mankind in this age, coupled with an indomitable conviction in the unfailing efficacy of each and all of its provilsons, is eventually capable of withstanding the forces of internal disintegration which, if unchecked, must needs continue to eat into the vitals of a dis-

GILBERT FAMILY

Gilbert Family In Revival at Mt. Sinai Baptist, Jan. 15, 16

The famous Gilbert family will appear again at Mt. Sinai Baptist church, corner of 27th St. at Western ave., January 15 and 16 at 7:30 p.m. This lovely church cooperates with us through the courtesy of its pastor, Rev. A. W. Hector. This service is in behalf of the soul-winning tabernacle of which Sister Hattie M. Crooms is pastor and is being sponsored by Sister Pauline Alexander and we expect an overflow crowd. Come, for the table is spread and the feast of the Lord is now on.

Come and hear Miss Ethel Gilbert at the piano as her young brothers and mother sing the songs of Zion while their father, Rev. Gilbert, rejoices with them in the spirit and bid them God speed. By all means hear this devout family who night after night (Saturday included) is somewhere working for the Lord. They are winning souls for Jesus and are instrumental in others being restored or revived.

So meet us at Mt. Sinai these two nights. Come praying, for prayer changes things. Who will meet us in time to begin our devotional service? Who will it be? "What will you give in exchange for your soul? Pauline Alexander, reporter.

Christian Science Lesson Text 'Sacrament'

"The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ, and the love of God, and the communion of the Holy Ghost, be with you all." These words of Paul to the Corinthians will be the Golden Text of the Sunday Lesson-Sermon on "Sacrament" in all branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston.

A Bible passage from The Acts relates that a man lame from birth, "seeing Peter and John about to go into the temple asked an alms. . . . Then Peter said, Silver and gold have I none; but such as I have give I thee: In the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth rise up and walk. And he took him by the right hand, and lifted him up: and immediately his feet and ankle bones received strength. And he leaping up stood, and walked, and entered with them into the temple, walking, and leaping, and praising God."

Mary Baker Eddy writes in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures:" "Jesus, said: 'These signs shall follow them that believe; . . . they shall lay hands on the sick, and they shall recover.' Who believes him? He was addressing his disciples, yet he did not say, 'These signs shall follow you,' but them—'them that believe' in all time to come."

The loss of material objects of affection sunders the dominant ties of earth and points to heaven.—Mary Baker Eddy.

Famed Trumpet Queen, Passes

Mrs. Edna Williams France, nationally known trumpet queen passed away at the General hospital, December 17, 1947. She was born in Fairfield, Iowa, March 9, 1914, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hall Thomas Armistead.

From early childhood Enda was musically inclined, and when only five years of age appeared publicly on many programs with her trumpet and other instruments. Before the age of 15 she had her own orchestra and played several engagements each week.

Seeking a greater future she joined the "Rainbow" at Mankato, Minn., where she remained a year. From there she went to Wisconsin, then to Piney Woods, Miss., where she signed a contract with Lausance Jones to take charge of the internationally known Sweethearts of Rhythm. She was with them 8 years when she resigned.

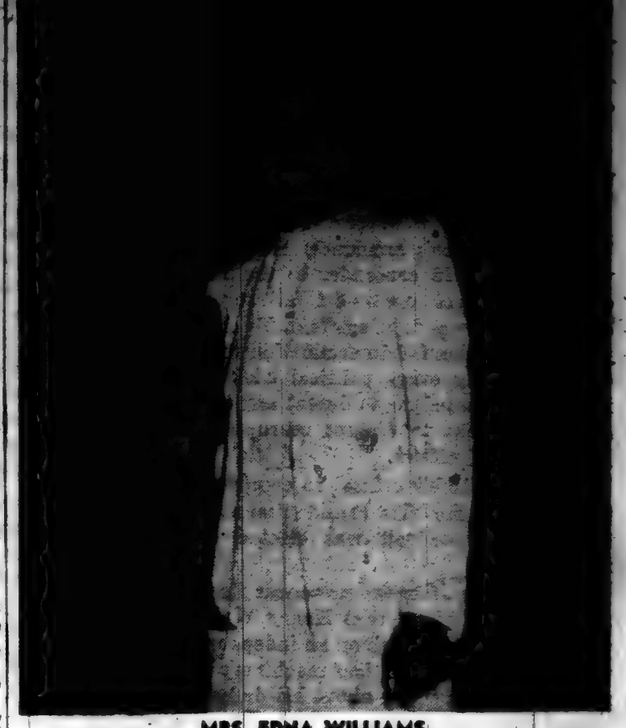
Always striving for something higher, upon arriving in California she was asked to join the Noble Sissle band, which gave her real credit, calling her a real Cinderella. She did all the arranging of numbers of Ernestine (Tiny) Davis, former trumpet star with the Sweethearts of Rhythm.

The band went to St. Louis, then to Kansas City where they played for the Musical Festival at Sportsman Park for a week-end. On that mighty show were: W. C. Handy, father of the "blues"; Don Ameche, Southern airs; Langston Hughes, Muriel Smith, star of the musical "Carmen Jones"; Eddy South, national known viplinist; and Portia White, new singing sensation.

In spite of all these great stars, it took little Edna to "stop" the show with her solo of "The St. Louis Blues." W. C. Handy had played the music his way. The band had played it. But it was not until Edna Williams played it her way, that the show stopped.

According to Sissle, Edna was a slender girl and a general show stopper; master of her horn, powerful in volume, and when she played everybody jumped. Later she joined Eddy Harkam's and later still Andy Kirk's band.

Not content with playing in other bands, and with the longing to have a band of her own again, she organized an All Girls' Combo, and played at Zanzibar Club, Last Word, and also in San Francisco, San Diego and many other neighborhood territories. Edna Williams was the leader, the trumpet soloist, and arranger.



All went well until the old "Sweethearts" came through Los Angeles last fall, and stopped to contact the star. This naturally brought about a new reunion and almost immediately a contact was signed. She appeared in the picture recently shown here, and in May, '46, she came back for a much-needed rest. She never recovered, however.

Edna Williams France leaves to mourn her passing a loving husband, William B. France; her mother, Mrs. Armistead; two children, Martin and John; and an innumerable host of friends. She was christened when but two months of age, and was brought up in the Bethel A.M.E. Church of Fairfield, Iowa.

EDITORIALS AND COMMENTS

The People Hail Wallace's Decision

Henry Wallace's announcement that he would be a 1948 contender in the Presidential race has caused all sorts of emotions. To some it brings fear. To others, joy. And to others a determination to pull out of the bag every political trick used in political campaigns to defeat any candidate who seeks to disrupt corruption in governmental affairs.

It was Wallace's refusal to compromise that cost him the Vice Presidential seat in 1944 when Roosevelt was elected to a fourth term.

Immediately after the news was flashed across the nation that Henry Wallace would run for President on an independent ticket, all sorts of political machinery was set in motion to bring about his defeat.

From New York to California, the newspapers and the radios screamed to high Heaven: Wallace for president! That can't happen.

From the St. Louis Globe Democrat came this provocative statement: "The former Vice-President and erstwhile cabinet member struck out at both major parties with the declaration, 'There is no real fight between a Truman and a Republican. Both stand for a policy which opens the door to war in our lifetime, and makes war certain for our children'." It quotes Wallace.

From the gallery (the people) comes this response: "How true!"

The Chicago Sun thinks Wallace's "peace and abundance" plank in his platform will evoke hope for the Republicans, in that it will split the Democratic vote in half.

Wallace has been exceedingly forthright and outspoken in his blasts against segregation. Take the millions of voters who can't quite make up their minds whether they want a Democrat or a Republican, add them to all the others who are confused and bewildered, plus Labor and the Negroes, and you may have something very puzzling to the Donkey and the Elephant, now that Wallace will run.

From The Indianapolis Recorder comes this statement: "Wallace's call for an end to discrimination is a demand for equal rights for the Negro people."

"The Wallace Plan and the Communists" was the key on the cover of PM to what was inside this week. We did not go any further.

The Chicago Daily Tribune printed terms Wallace offered Democratic leaders who sought to retain his backing: (1) Repudiate universal military training. (2) Get rid of the Wall Street military team which Wallace said is leading the nation to a third war. (3) Curb the power and profits of monopoly. (4) Preserve living standards for the American people. (5) Cease attacks on the civil liberties of the American people.

The biggest complaint from both Democrats and Republicans, and from that element in the Negro group who enjoy a fair portion of security, is vociferously voiced against the Left Wing—whatever that is—and the Communist support given Wallace.

From The Black Dispatch, published in Oklahoma, comes this comment: "The drive made against the Communists is not made because of fear that it threatens the overthrow of the government of this country by force and violence. It is directed against the Communists because they have demanded that we give meaning to the words: 'Equal opportunity for the pursuit of happiness.'"

So—the way should not be puzzling to Labor, to the Negro, to any member of any minority group, to anyone oppressed or hungry or cold. Like a shining light Wallace is pointing the way. We need to follow. And eventually we shall come out into the perfect day.

Wings Over Jordan—

Those who listened with rapt attention to the beautiful spirituals sung by "The Wings Over Jordan" choir sponsored last week by the California EAGLE in the Independent Church of Christ, will heartily agree with the consensus of opinion of ministerial alliances that "it has a great contribution to make to any town in America."

A better understanding in the solving of racial problems both in our own nation and in all the world, is the main purpose of this great institution. To listen to the story of the choir as told by the founder, Rev. Glynn T. Settle, one realizes at once that the singing, wonderful as that is, is submerged in this higher goal.

And if by their singing, the outlet of the soul's deepest expression jungle, could see that light afar and, heartened, fight on.

CONGRATULATIONS

Congratulations again, from the California EAGLE. May the burdn of service grow lighter with the coming years. May 1948 be a year of real victory for that which both THE PEOPLE'S WORLD and THE EAGLE have unitedly waged unremitting warfare.

THINGS I SEE

By Marian Inglewood

Now that Henry Agard Wallace has declared himself a candidate for President of the United States, those of us who expect to vote and work for his election must not be too alarmed if we are called "crackpots," "Communists," and every other terrible name in the Hearst and reactionary vocabulary.

We liberals have been called such names so long and so often, that our skins should be toughened by this time and so we won't mind it. It's just the timid souls who are sitting on the fence who will fear those epithets. But they ought to learn soon that there's nothing to that name-calling, and should scramble down on the right side of the fence—which would be the left side in this case—and go to work too.

One thing you can be sure of. Every politician, big, little, or picayunish, who is opposed to the welfare of the common people, and so opposed to Wallace, will tell you of the "pigs that Wallace killed." So you might as well learn the truth about that story, and be able to refute the "lies that are partly true," and are a harder matter to fight than lies that are altogether lies. You can find the truth in government pamphlets, in encyclopedias and in dozens of other books in any library or branch of a library.

Those were the days, you remember, when dairymen were pouring their surplus milk down sewers, when fruit was rotting on the ground, when Idaho farmers were turning their pigs into the potato patches and letting them gorge on good No. 1 Idaho potatoes. Why? Because there was an over-production of farm products, just as there was an over-production of everything else. It wasn't that people didn't need those things. Millions of people didn't have enough to eat. But they had no money to buy either, and so of course farmers couldn't be expected to sell the hard-earned fruits of their labor for next to nothing.

So President Roosevelt and Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace hit upon a plan to make products scarcer. They ordered crops to be destroyed or "plowed under," the same as the farmers had been doing, but the government paid them this time for doing it.

Oh, sure! Sure! Those surplus crops should have been distributed to the hungry people of America. But that would have been Communism. Pure and simple. And the believers in the private profit system would have none of that. That would have been "interfering with private industry."

The distribution of surplus crops would have been the plan followed by the USSR. But this wasn't the USSR. It was the USA. And we don't have Communism in this country. (Perish the thought.) We have capitalism. And if we want our beloved capitalism to continue, we must be prepared to submit to such crazy ideas of destroying food to balance the buying and selling power.

Anyway this artificial method of making the supply shrink to the demand was followed only the first year of the Roosevelt administration. Secretary Wallace called it "an emergency act made necessary by the almost insane lack of world statesmanship during the period from 1920 to 1932." Ground was permitted to lie fallow thereafter, but no crops were destroyed.

But to get back to the pigs. Not one little pig was destroyed. Or burned. Or drowned. There were too many pigs for the amount of corn there was to feed them. So the farmers of the Corn Belt themselves proposed that the pigs be killed. And Henry Wallace said, "You may only if the pork is given to those on relief."

"The result was," writes one who was there as the time, "that 6,000,000 surplus pigs were turned into 100,000,000 pounds of pork, an dthe pork was distributed by the government to feed the hungry."

So that's the story of the pigs. But you'll hear a different version over and over again, told perhaps by some of the very people who benefited by this plan of the government. You, who know better, will have to enlighten them.

The liberal Democrats, of course, are working zealously to have Wallace nominated on the Democratic ticket. That is "a consummation devoutly to be wished. It would practically insure his election. For, as you know, there are Democrats who will vote only for a Democrat no matter who he is, exactly the same as there are Republicans who vote no other way than the way their grandfathers did.

The reactionary Truman clique, however, is shouting that Wallace is "splitting the party." They do not seem to realize that it is Wallace who is keeping the party together—the party of Jefferson, and Jackson, of Wilson and Roosevelt. It is they who are splitting it by trying to cram down the throats of Americans a man they do not want. And if they stubbornly refuse to see through a ladder, even when it is held right before their eyes, they and they alone will have to answer for the consequences.

THE LIVING SOUTH

THE SEEDS START SPROUTING

Now the New Year comes for Dixie with the winter potatoes before their time prematurely out in the smokehouse. Now the New South puts out its sprouts this New Year as Dixie starts politicking for the 1948 election.

But they are not sprouts pushing up out of season. For, as candidates oil up their tongues and men begin to think of the issues of life or death that must be settled at the polls, our people of both colors realize that this is the right season for what is growing.

This year, more Negroes will vote at the polls in Dixie than at any time since that fateful year of 1876 when the Democrats and the Republicans joined to crush those bi-racial democracies of Reconstruction that sprouted up from the cotton patch and the cornfield.

Already, the great new Negro vote movements of Dixie are getting ready to register thousands upon thousands of colored voters, then send them to the polls come election day to take up in '48 where Reconstruction left off in '76. Already, with the election of Negroes to local offices here and there in the just-getting-started New South, these movements are taking steps to unite with white political organizations for joint action to support progressive Negro and white candidates running on joint slates.

And as a native white Southerner whose people were Union guerilla fighters in the Civil War, whose great-granddad was doorkeeper of the first Reconstruction legislature in Texas, I welcome this sprouting up from the seeds of democracy left buried in the crusty Southern soil by our fathers who were white and our fathers who were black.

Let's tend the sprouting young growth of the seeds. Let's chop

W. J. Wheaton Says

"Thank the Lord!" That was my greeting from Mary Ann as we entered the door, which was opened wider than usual. It might be that Mary Ann thought we had expanded from the holiday repast; but we were very abstemious during the festive days, had not over indulged in any respect. To have been truthful we could say, the supper prepared by Mary Ann was more tempting than many, laboiously prepared holiday dinners. Then the fine, human philosophy of my hostess, was a panacea for nerves, taut from writing, and trying to cover the gorgeous pageant of a floral parade, which was so compelling that mere words could hardly describe it.

The food and Mary Ann's soothing voice, that every once and a while that's her expression broke out in song, put us at ease. We tried to describe to her the grandeur and beauty of the varied floats as we tried to contact them for our reads. The beautiful young women who adorned them made pictures that would have a lasting memory. Even our companion, wise in the art of word pictures, was at times groping for the right word. After we had supped, and Mary Ann had cleared the table, we settled down for a talk. I asked for Mary Ann III, and was informed that she, in company with a number of her classmates, had gone to a party at one of the recreation centers.

"Don't you know," she began, that I'se been thinking! I don't believe that, after all, this ain't such a bad world, and all the folk ain't so bad. Little Mary Ann took me to a meeting the night before Christmas and a woman was telling about how children, and even big folk, were searching garbage cans for something to eat. When she asked for money to buy food for the starvin' folk, or the giving of canned stuff, the people just went up 'en layed down money and many of the folk had brought baskets of stuff in cans. Me! I just fumbled around 'till I found a dollar 'en told Mary Ann to give it to the woman for the starvin' little chillun. I guess if I'd had the turkey and fixin's of the folks I work for with me, I'd given that too. I was saving that for Mary Ann and her little friends. They certainly had a good time. Wish you could have been with us. When the chillun had finished dinner Christmas, Mary Ann continued, the little Armenian girl said how the Jews and Arabs were killing one' nother right on the very ground where Christ was born and walked over. Fighting over who should live on the land. As if God didn't make this world for all of us. Of all things! Nation-wide Mobilization in Chicago Cheers Wallacee's Decision to Run nation they see a man who has held the high office of Vice President of the United States, and now a candidate for President, come forth with a platform that calls for equality for all Americans.

And here is the text of that historic speech in which Henry Agard Wallace announced his candidacy for president on a Third Party ticket:

Follow is the text of Henry Wallace's address made Dec. 29 in Chicago when he announced his independent candidacy for the presidency:

For the past 15 months I have traveled up and down, and back and forth across this country. I have talked with half a million people in public meetings and with thousands in private gatherings.

I have been working for, and I shall continue to work for, peace and security in America, grounded on a foundation of world peace and security.

Everywhere in the United States today, among farmers, workers, small businessmen and professional men and women, I find confusion, uncertainty and fear. The people do not ask, "Will there be another war?"—but "When will the war come?"

Everywhere I find that people are spending so much for food and rent that they cannot afford their customary services from the doctor and dentist. They do not ask, "Will there be another depression?—but "When will the depression start?"

Peace and abundance mean so much to me that I have said at a dozen press conferences and in many speeches when asked about a third party, "If the Democratic party continues to be a party of war and depression, I will see to it that the people have a chance to vote for peace and prosperity."

To those who have come to me asking the condition of my adherence to the present Democratic Administration, I have said, "Let the Administration repudiate universal military training and rid itself of the Wall Street-military team that is leading us toward war."

DEMANDS CURBS ON THE MONOPOLIES

I have insisted that the Democratic Administration curb the ever-growing power and profits of monopoly and take concrete steps to preserve the living standards of the American people.

I have demanded that the Democratic Administration cease its attacks on the civil liberties of Americans. In speeches in the North and in the South at non-segregated meetings I have stated the simple truth that segregation and discrimination of any kind or character have no place in America.

My terms to the Democratic high command have been well known.

By their actions and finally by their words, they have said: "Henry Wallace, we welcome your support but we will not change our policies."

In answering me, the Democratic leadership also gave its answer to millions of Americans who demanded the right to vote for peace and prosperity. Thus, the leadership of the Democratic party would deprive the American people of their rightful opportunity to choose between progress and reaction in 1948.

So far as the Republican party is concerned, there is no hope—as George Norris, Fiorello La Guardia and Wendell Wilkie long ago found out.

When the old parties set the people have a right to be heard through a new party. They asserted that right when the Democratic party was founded under Jefferson in the struggle against the Federalist party of war and privilege of his day. They won it again when the Republican party was organized in Lincoln's time. The people must again have an opportunity to speak out with their votes in 1948.

AN ANSWER TO THE LUKEWARM LIBERALS

The lukewarm liberals sitting on two chairs say, "Why throw away your vote?" I say a vote for a new party in 1948 will be the most valuable vote you ever have cast or ever will cast.

The bigger the peace vote in 1948, the more definitely the world will know that the United States is not behind the bipartisan reactionary war policy which is dividing the world into two armed camps and making inevitable the day when American soldiers will be lying in their Arctic suits in the Russian snow.

There is no real fight between a Truman and a Republican. Both stand for a policy which opens the door to war in our lifetime and makes war certain for our children.

Let us stop saying: "I don't like it but I am going to vote for the lesser of two evils."

Rather than accept either evil, come out boldly, stand upright like men and say so loudly all the world can hear—

"We are voting peace and security for ourselves and our children's children. We are fighting for old fashioned Americanism at the polls in 1948. We are fighting for freedom of speech and freedom of assembly. We are fighting to end racial discrimination. We are fighting for lower prices. We are fighting for free labor unions, for jobs, and for homes in which we can decently live."

We have just passed through the holiday season when every radio and every church proclaimed the joyous tidings of peace. Every year at this time the hearts of the American people swell with genuine good will toward anl mankind.

We are a kindly, well meaning people, but the holiday season soon passes and one of the first items on the agenda of the new Congress is universal military training.

I say the first political objective of progressives is the defeat of this bill which would deliver our 18 year olds over to the Army and cost the nation $2 billion a year.

The American people read of the fantastic appropriations that are ebing made for military adventures in Greece, Turkey, China—and billions for armaments here at home. Slowly it dawns on us that these newspaper headlines have stepped into our everyday lives at the grocery store when we pay $1 for butter, 95 cents for eggs and 90 cents for meat.

We suddenly realize that we can't have all the people of the world getting ready for the next war without paying for it in our daily lives with less food, clothing and housing. War preparations create record profits for big business but only false prosperity for the people—their purchasing power shrinks as prices rise, their needs go unfilled, and they are burdened with new debts.

Yes, corporate profits are over three times what they were in 1930 but every family is paying for our war policy at the grocery store.

RECALLS THE WORDS OF MARK TWAIN . . .

Two years ago I denounced those who were talking up World War III as criminals. Of course, the bulk of our people are not criminals, but it is possible for a little handful of war-mongers to stampede them.

As Mark Twain long ago pointed out: ". . . . the nation will rub its sleepy eyes and try to make out why there should be a ware and will say, earnestly and indignantly: 'It is unjust and dishonorable and there is no necessity for it.' The handful will shout louder . . . and now the whole nation . . . will take up the war cry and shout itself hoarse, and mob any honest man who ventures to open his mouth and presently such mouths will cease to open. Next the statesmen will invent cheap lies, putting the blame on the nation that is attacked, and every man will be glad of those conscience soothing falsities."

This pattern as Mark Twain saw it 50 years ago is repeating itself on a scale so vast as to threaten the destruction of humanity. The rich monopolists have always been more ready to sacrifice their sons than their money but now they have reached the point where they are willing to sacrifice both for the sake of world control.

Universal military training is the first decisive step on the road toward fascism. We shall fight it to the limit and all congressmen who vote for it.

A new party must stand for a positive peace program of abundance and security, not scarcity and war. We can prevent depression and war if we only organize for peace in the same comprehensive way we organize for war.

TELLS OPPOSITION TO THE MARSHALL PLAN

I personally was for the humanitarian aspects of the Marshall Plan long before it was announced. Because I saw the postwar need of helping human beings, I was accused of wanting a quart of milk for every Hottentot.

I pushed for help for Greece against the opposition of the Administration eight months before the Truman Doctrine was announced. But I have fought and shall continue to fight programs which give guns to people when they want plows.

I fight the Truman Doctrine and the Marshall Plan as applied because they divide Europe into two warring camps. Those whom we buy politically with our food will soon desert us. They will pay us in the base coin of temporary gratitude and then turn to hate us because our policies are destroying their freedom.

We are restoring Western Europe and Germany through United States agencies rather than United Nations agencies because we want to hem Russia in. We are acting in the same way as France and England after the last war and the end result will be the same—confusion, depression and war.

It just doesn't need to happen. The cost of organizing for peace, prosperity, and progress is infinitely less than organizing for war.

We who believe this will be called "Russian tools" and "Communists." Let the fear mongers not distort and becloud the issues by name-calling. We are not for Russia and we are not for communism, but we recognize Hitlerite methods when we see them in our own land and we denounce the men who engage in such name-calling as enemies of the human race who would rather have World War III than put forth a genuine effort to bring about a peaceful settlement of differences.

One thing I want to make clear to both Russia and the United States — peace requires real understanding between our peoples. Russia has as much to gain from peace as the United States, and just as we here fight against the spreaders of hate and falsehood against Russia, the Russian leaders can make a great contribution by restraining those extremists who try to widen the gap between our two great countries.

I insist that the United States will not be fully secure until there is real peace between this country and Russia and until there is an international police force stronger than the military establishment of any nation, including Russia and the United States.

I am utterly against any kind of imperialism or expansionism, whether sponsored by Britain, Russia, or the United States, and I call on Russia as well as the United States to look at all our differences objectively and free from thtat prejudice which the hate mongers have engendered on both sides.

What the world needs is a United Nations disarmament conference to rid humanity for all time of the threat not only of atomic bombs but also of all other methods of mass destruction.

It happens that all of my mother's and three-fourths of my father's ancestors came to this country before the American Revolution. I love the Americanism I was taught to respect in the public schools of Iowa half a century ago. That Americanism was betrayed after World War I by forces which found their origin in monopoly capitalism, yellow journalism, and racial bigotry.

Today there is a greater menace than ever before—a menace more serious than has ever confronted the human race.

That menace can be met and overcome only by a new political alignment in America which requires the organization of a new political party.

To that end I announce tonight that I shall run as an independent candidate for President of the United States in 1948.

Thousands of people all over the United States have asked me to engage in this great fight. The people are on the march. I hope that you who are listening to me tonight will lead the forces of peace, progress and prosperity in your communities and throughout our country. Will you let me know that you have come out fighting against the powers of evil?

We have assembled a Gideon's army—small in number, powerful in conviction, ready in action. We have said with Gideon: "Let those who are fearful and trembling depart." For every fearful one who leaves there will eb a thousand to take his place. A just cause is worth a hundred armies.

We face the future unfettered by any principle but the general welfare. We owe no allegiance to any group which does not serve that welfare. By God's grace, the people's peace will usher in the century of the common man.

VIEW

Leon W. Steward

HENRY WALLACE AND THE THIRD PARTY

At different times we have been asked to reveal just what is our political philosophy. And at times when we have denied membership in any party we have promised to some day tell why. Well, to any who might be interested, this writing will give a good idea of our philosophy as pertains to a significant political situation.

Leon Steward

When we were a boy down in Galveston, Texas, the first use we found for figuring percentages was to compute the batting and fielding averages for baseball players. The first use we hurried to make of reading was to read Bible stories and newspapers. The first public speech we made was in a political campaign. Ever since then we have been interested in sports, the Bible, newspapers and politics.

Throughout our youth we read in the newspapers as to how the Negro vote in the Middle West just about gave the balance of power to the Republican party and therefore Republican administrations persisted in office until Theodore Roosevelt's Bull Moose party paved the way for Woodrow Wilson, a Democrat, to slip in for a couple of terms. Throughout the many Republican administrations we were led to expect something for our race and the best we got was the appointment of a Negro to the office of registrar of the treasury. We had not reached voting age before we had just about concluded that the Democratic party had agreed to make no play for the Negro vote so long as the Republicans did nothing to elevate his status. At any rate we were convinced that there was no hope for the Negro in either party — since it had never occurred to us that the Democrats had any interest in the Negro's advancement, and the Republicans whom he worked and voted to put in office did nothing to advance the Negro. So our vote, until Franklin Roosevelt's bid for a second term, was one of protest. Subsequently our presidential vote has gone to Willkie, Roosevelt and Truman in order. Each was for a different reason. In state and local politics our vote has been for men and measures since we first began the experience.

It might be said that we have been motivated entirely from a racial point of view. Not so whereas no concern of one of our experience could be more than that of the advancement of our race because we have been led to believe that our own welfare can hardly advance independently of our race. However, when we voted for Willkie and for Roosevelt for a fourth term, race was not under consideration—but country was.

WHAT ABOUT WALLACE IN '48?

Although we have signed a petition for a third party recognition in California, it is not our intention at this time to join such a party although we believe a third party will have a good influence upon the wavering Democrats. It might have the effect of giving them more faith in the libera cause, which they must have if we are to have any choice between the two major parties. And, although Wallace has not declared himself a candidate under any party banner, it appears to us at this writing that a vote for him will tell the world that we DO NOT want peacetime conscription of our young men, that we want the United Nations to be given a real hand in rebuilding war-torn Europe, peace for our time and forever and Jim Crow abolished in the United States.

Henry Wallace is the only presidential candidate whom we believe is for this program without reservations. And do not let the men who fear him tell you that he is the intellectual inferior of any of them. Do not let them tell you that he is a dreamer or that he is a Communist. They would say the same of Jesus Christ. They did and they nailed Him to a cross to get him out of their way.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

May we take this opportunity to express our grateful thanks for your interest and cooperation with us during our expanded public relations program of the past eight months.

Through your kind offices we have gained many new friends for the Children Hospital—not only in the greater Los Angeles area but throughout Southern California.

In some instances the story of the fine work of our staff has been relayed across the country.

Your continued interest will help us to build the Childrens Hospital into the finest of its kind in the West—and perhaps the finest in the nation. Certainly we are on the way to that goal now.

Enclosed plase find a list of facts about the Childrens Hospital. We hope that you will find them useful in connection with news stories which the hospital will release in the future.

Best wishes for the New Year.

'People's Voice' Policy Assailed By Former Editor

NEW YORK—Dr. Max Yergan was accused this week of making a "political retreat during this period of aggressive reaction," and his newspaper, the People's Voice, of "trying to cover up its new spineless policy of appeasing reaction by resort to a scurrilous personal attack" upon the former editor of the publication.

These charges were made by Doxey A. Wilkerson, former editor of the People's Voice, in replying to what he termed "lying and distorted assertions published anonymously in PV and sent out in releases to other newspapers."

The PV statements referred to appeared as retorts to Wilkerson's articles, entitled "What's Happening to the People's Voice?", (in the Daily Worker, Dec. 18 and 19), which stated that the People's Voice is being transformed from the crusading people's paper it used to be into a spineless commercial sheet which plays down or ignores the main political issues of this period, and seeks to bolster its seriously declining circulation through constant resort to the vuugar sensationalism to the Hearst press; which curries favor of the exploiters of the Negro people, and makes repeated overtures to political reaction."

In a more recent statement, Wilkerson declared: "Dr. Max Yergan, chief owner and publisher of the People's Voice, knows quite well that my criticisms of the editorial policy the newspaper has followed during recent months is in no sense 'personal' or 'vindictive' as alleged in PV, but that my articles represent an objective analysis and judgment which I am peculiarly in position to make."

"It is significant," Wilkerson continued, "that the anonymous 'spokesman' for the People's Voice ignored the main issues raised in my articles, and tried to throw up a smoke-screen of red-baiting and personal invective."

Wilkerson's statement asserted further: "Dr. Yergan also knows that I have every reason to know first hand, that his own political retreat during this period of aggressive reaction is primarily responsible for the recent prostitution of what used to be a genuine, fighting people's paper. It is not surprising, however, to find during this period that certain individuals who gained prominence through profitable association with the labor-progressive movement are now finding it more convenient to make their peace with precisely those reactionary political forces they used to struggle against."

Referring to the allegation of journalistic incompetence made by the "spokesman" of the People's Voice, Wilkerson declared: "The following two simple facts are relevant:

"First, the newspaper's highest level of influence and circulation (an ABC average of nearly 30,000) came while I was in full charge of the publication's editorial policy and management. Second, its lowest point of prestige and circulation came during the past year when business management was completely in other hands, and during which Dr. Yergan continued to insist upon abandoning PV's traditional role as an uncompromising people's paper by subordinating editorial policy to what he considered 'good business'."

Doxey A. Wilkerson resigned his post as associate professor of education at Howard university in 1943 to join and work for the Communist party. Since the summer of 1944, he has served as executive editor and general manager of the People's Voice, and as editor during the spring and early summer of 1947.

To Secure These Rights

The Report of the President's Committee on Civil Rights

(Seventh Instalment)

THE RIGHT TO FREEDOM OF CONSCIENCE, EXPRESSION

This right is an expression of confidence in the ability to free-men to learn the truth through the unhampered interplay of competing ideas. Where the right is generally exercised, the public benefits from the selective process of winnowing truth from falsehood, desirable ideas from evil ones. If the people are to govern themselves their only hope of doing so wisely lies in the collective wisdom derived from the fullest possible information, and in the fair presentation of differing opinions. The right is also necessary to permit each man to find his way to the religious and political beliefs which suit his private needs.

This Committee has made no extensive study of our record under the great freedoms which comprise this right: religion, speech, press, and assembly. To have done so would have meant making this vast field the dominant part of our inquiry. We were not prepared to do this, partly because it has been and is being well studied by others. What finally determined us was the conviction that this right is relatively secure. Americans worship as they choose. Our press is freer from government restraints than any the world has seen. Our citizens are normally free to exercise their right to speak without fear of retribution, and to assemble for unlimited public discussions. There still are, however, communities in which sporadic interferences with the rights of unpopular religious, political, and economic groups take place. The steady flow of federal court cases in recent years involving groups like the Jehovah's Witnesses proves that.

At the present time, in our opinion, the most immediate threat to the right of freedom of opinion and expression is indirect. It comes from efforts to deal with those few people in our midst who would destroy democracy. There are two groups whose refusal to accept and abide by the democratic process is all too clear. The first are the Communists whose counterparts in many countries have proved, by their treatment of those with whom they disagree, that their ideology does not include a belief in universal civil rights. The second are the native Fascists. Their statements and their actions—as well as those of their foreign counterparts — prove them to be equally hostile to the American heritage of freedom and equality.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The EAGLE believes that history offers ample proof of the fallacy of lumping together Communists and Fascists as enemies of the democratic principle. For the purposes of this editorial note it is only necessary to point to the basic difference between the two groups in their approach to the question of the democratic rights of the darker peoples and of minority groups. Communists recognize, uphold and defend the equality of peoples. Incidentally, the United States could well emulate the example of Communist Russia in outlawing race hatred and racial exclusiveness. Fascists (foreign and native) deny that equality, preach and practice the master race theory.)

It is natural and proper for good citizens to worry about the activities of these groups. Every member of the Committee shares that concern. Communists and Fascists may assert different objectives. This does not obscure the identity of the means which both are willing to use to further themselves. Both often use the words and symbols of democracy to mask their totalitarian tactics. But their concern for civil rights is always limited to themselves. Both are willing to lie about their political views when it is convenient. They feel no obligation to come before the public openly and say who they are and what they really want.

This Committee unqualifiedly oppose any attempt to impose special limitations on the rights of these people to speak and assemble. Our national past offers us two great touchstones to resolve the dilemma of maintaining the right to free expression and yet protecting our democracy against its enemies. One was offered by Jefferson in his first inaugural address: "If there be any among us who wish to dissolve the Union, or to change its republican form, let them stand undisturbed as monuments of the safety with which error of opinion may be tolerated where reason is left free to combat it." The second is the doctrine of "clear and present danger." This was laid down as a working principle by the supreme court in 1919 in Schenck v. United States in an opinion by Justice Holmes. It says that no limitation of freedom of expression shall be made unless "the words are used in such circumstances and are of such a nature as to create a clear and present danger that they will bring about the substantive evils that congress has a right to prevent." The next year in a dissenting opinion in Schafer v. United States Justice Brandeis added this invaluable word of advice about the application of the doctrine: "Like many other rules for human conduct, it can be applied correctly only by the exercise of good judgment, and in the exercise of good judgment, calmness is, in time of deep feeling and on subjects which excite passion, as essential as fearlessness and honesty."

It is our feeling that the present threat to freedom of opinion grows out of the failure of some private and public persons to apply these standards. Specifically, public excitement about "Communists" has gone far beyond the dictates of the "good judgment" and "calmness" of which Holmes and Brandeis spoke. A state of near-hysteria now threatens to inhibit the freedom of genuine democrats.

At the same time we are afraid that the "reason" upon which Jefferson relied to combat error is hampered by the successful effort of some totalitarians to conceal their true nature. To expect people to reject totalitarians, when we do not provide mechanisms to guarantee that essential information is available, is foolhardy. These two concerns go together. If we fall back upon hysteria and repression as our weapons against totalitarians, we will defeat ourselves. Communists want nothing more than to be lumped with freedom-loving non-Communists. This simply makes it easier for them to conceal their true nature and to allege that the term "Communist" is "meaningless." Irresponsible opportunists who make it a practice to attack every person or group with whom they disagree as "Communists" have thereby actually aided their supposed "enemies." At the same time we cannot let these abuses deter us from the legitimate exposing of real Communists and real Fascists.

Moreover, the same zeal must be shown in defending our democracy against one group as against the other.

CIVIL SERVANTS

Efforts to protect the government against disloyal employes may lead to dangerous "Red hunting." We firmly believe that the government has the obligation to have in its employ only citizens of unquestioned loyalty. We are, moreover, aware of the disclosures made in the Canadian espionage trials which reveal concerted attempts by Communists to procure secret government information either directly or through dupes. We also know that Communists feel no obligation to identify themselves as members of their party, and have completely divided loyalties, which make them dangerous in posts of government responsibility. We are further aware that there are certain government agencies which because of the confidential and highly secret character of their work must have absolute assurance of the complete loyalty of all their employes.

All of these factors make it difficult to maintain effective security. Several statutes now on the books make it possible to prosecute any federal employe who reveals restricted information. Those dissatisfied with these safeguards argue that the concealment by Communists and other subversives of their affiliations makes it impossible to weed them out until they have done serious damage. Therefore, they contend, it is necessary to have the loyalty of all federal employes checked by security police agencies. This Committee recognizes the need for some such protective measures. Yet our whole civil liberties history provides us with a clear warning against the possible misuse of loyalty checks to inhibit freedom of opinion and expression.

There are two possible dangers. In the first place, the standards by which the loyalty of an individual or an organization is to be determined may not be clearly defined. This is particularly true of any standard which permits condemnation of persons or groups because of "association." The character, the policies and the leadership of many organizations change. Individuals, too, change their opinions. The greatest care must be taken to avoid the misinterpretation of affiliation. Individuals may be members of suspect organizations out of ignorance. Before any such affiliation may even be considered as relevant, the motive of the individual should be clearly established. The determination of the suspect character of organizations is complex and must be handled with the greatest care. For the individual the ultimate test must always be his own trustworthiness. Affiliation with a dubious organization is, by itself, not necessarily proof of untrustworthiness.

A second danger is that the procedure by which the loyalty of accused federal employes is determined may not accord with our traditions of due process of law. An employe whose loyalty is questioned is not charged with a crime. But loss of job and inability to obtain another one is a severe punishment to impose on any man. Accordingly, provision should be made for such traditional procedural safeguards as the right to a bill of particular accusations, the right to subpoena witnesses and documents where genuine security considerations permit, the right to be represented by counsel, the right to a stenographic report of proceedings, the right to a written decision, and the right of appeal.

More than the civil rights of our two million federal workers —important as they are—is involved here. All Americans are bound to be affected by what is done. The federal government must maintain a loyalty program which adequately protects the civil rights of its employes. Otherwise private employers and state and local governments may not protect the rights of their personnel, and in fact they may actually be encouraged to infringe these rights. It is a severe punishment to be discharged from the government for disloyalty, as the supreme court pointed out in 1946 in United States v. Lovett. Our system of democratic justice has proved again and again its ability to protect us in peace and in war. To make a conspicuous departure from it against government workers would surely weaken the safeguards of the right of all citizens to speak freely and to organize in furtherance of their opinions. Here as elsewhere, the federal government must set an example for the rest of the country by being uncommonly scrupulous in its respect for the civil rights of all citizens.

ENEMIES OF DEMOCRACY

As we have said, one of the things which totalitarians of both left and right have in common is a reluctance to come before the people honestly and say who they are, what they work for and who supports them. Those persons in our own country who try to stir up religious and racial hatreds are no exception. They understand that the vicious doctrines which they advocate have been morally outlawed in America for more than a century and a half. This Committee is eager to guarantee their civil rights as those of the people they attack. But we do not believe in a definition of civil rights which includes freedom to avoid all responsibility for one's opinions. This would be an unwise and disastrous weakening of the democratic process. If these people wish to influence the public in our national forum of opinion they should be free to do so, regardless of how distasteful their views are to us. But the public must be able to evaluate these views.

Exactly how much anonymous, hate-mongering or other subversive literature there is we do not know. The amount of such matter fluctuates greatly from time to time. At the present, according to several witnesses who appeared before the Committee, many of those who spread racial and religious prejudices have "gone underground."

As recently as 1940, however, a study by the staff of the Senate Committee on Campaign Expenditures revealed that one-third of the election propaganda in the campaign of that year was completely anonymous and that one-half was partially and inadequately identified as to source and sponsorship. Moreover, the committee reported that the anonymous material included "the most virulent, dishonest and defamatory propaganda." Congress has already taken the first step to remedy this inadequacy by amending the election laws to forbid the distribution of anonymous campaign literature.

The principle of disclosure is, we believe, the appropriate way to deal with those who would subvert our democracy by revolution or by encouraging disunity and destroying the civil rights of some groups. We have considered and rejected proposals which have been made to us for censoring or prohibiting material which defames religious or racial minority groups. Our purpose is not to restrict anyone's freedom to speak; it is rather to enable the people better to judge the true motives of those who try to sway them.

Congress has already made use of the principle of disclosure in both the economic and political spheres. The Securities and Exchange Commission, the Federal Trade Commission and the Pure Food and Drug Administration make available to the public information about sponsors of economic wares. In the political realm, the Federal Communications Commission, the Post Office Department, the Clerk of the house of representatives, and the secretary of the senate—all of these under various statutes—are required to collect information about those who attempt to influence public opinion. Thousands of statements disclosing the ownership and control of newspapers using the second-class mailing privilege are filed annually with the Post Office Department. Hundreds of statements disclosing the ownership and control of radio stations are filed with the Federal Communications Commission. Hundreds of lobbyists are now required to disclose their efforts to influence congress under the Congressional Reorganization Act. In 1938, congress found it necessary to pass the Foreign Agents Registration Act which forced certain citizens and aliens alike to register with the Department of Justice the facts about their sponsorship and activities. The effectiveness of these efforts has varied. We believe, however, that they have been sufficiently successful to warrant their further extension to all of those who attempt to influence public opinion.

The ultimate responsibility for countering totalitarians of all kinds rests, as always, with the mass of good, democratic Americans, their organizations and their leaders. The federal government must set an example of careful adherence to the highest standards in guaranteeing freedom of opinion and expression to its employes. Beyond that it ought to provide a source of reference where private citizens and groups may find accurate information about the activities, sponsorship, and background of those who are active in the market place of public opinion.

out the weeds wherever they come up among the seeds. Let's not be blind men and think that the weeds are the growth that is the newliving South. For there are seed planters and there are weed planters in those old fields tended by our fathers who became the seed of the New South when the bourbons killed them and laid them in the ground.

UNITE WITH LABOR

Let's be sure that we unite with awakening white voters. But let's be sure, also, that we unite with those organizations of white voters that have the same general aims as ourselves. Let's make certain that we don't let ourselves become the hind wheels of old bourbon political machines with sold-out judas Negro weed planters using us to crush the young growth on the old land.

Every Negro political organization in Dixie—this New Year of the borning New South—will be faced with the question of what white organizations to go along with. My suggestion is that these organizations seek to broaden and strengthen their ties with the political movements of organized labor in Dixie. For most everywhere — and particularly in the South—are laboring people.

Necessarily, we have to be positive that the leaders of our own vote movements are people sympathetic with that great mass of Negroes who labor for bare livings of hominy and hoecake. We have to be sure that they are not men trying to build up private political rackets to deliver the Negro vote in exchange for a few copper cents dropped into their outstretched hats.

We have to know, as well, that the white candidates whom we support stand for the same things that we stand for—better education and health, equal opportunity, support of the trade union movement, and the hope of a South that will lift her nine million black citizens from half-slavery to full citizenship.

We are tired — damn tired—of the "pet Negro leaders" sent among us by "kind" Southerners to sow the weeds. And this election year is time to do weed-pulling instead of weed-sowing.

to faithfully serve my Lord.

"Little Mary Ann and her companions came trooping in and we had to have some refreshments. So after a belated Happy and Prosperous New Year we left pondering the while on the spiritual philasophy of my hostess, Mary Ann, and the sincerity of her belief. The more we see of this lovable character, the more we are convinced that the major number of the disciples of world peace, will come from such as she.

Covenants, Other Racist Practices Before Court

WASHINGTON—What does "equal protection of the laws" mean in this country?

The U. S. Supreme Court is going to tell us in the next few months, as the justices spell out once more their interpretation of the meaning of equality as prescribed by the Constitution, the Bill of Rights and the Declaration of Independence. Not in decades have they weighed the principle of equality on so broad a scale.

They are being asked this year to uphold or strike down as ugly a racist mess of discrimination as ever came out of Nuremberg. This week they began hearing oral arguments on four restrictive covenant cases.

Here are some of the issues they will have to decide:

- Oklahoma's refusal to let a Negro girl into the tax-supported state law school.
- California's effort to grab land bought by a Japanese for his son, an American-born youngster, who is an American citizen.
- A Michigan excursion line's refusal to take a Negro girl—who had a ticket—one one of its ships.
- An effort of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen to freeze Negroes out of their jobs on Southern locomotives.
- Orders of Ohio, Missouri, Michigan, California and District of Columbia courts to Negroes, Chinese, Koreans and others to vacate their homes under restrictive covenant agreements between white property owners.
- Convictions by Mississippi and North Carolina juries from which Negroes were barred.

The basic principles of American law on these points are well known. The 14th Amendment declares no state shall deny any person the equal protection of its laws. The Bill of Rights provides that no man shall lose life, liberty or property without due process of law. The Declaration of Independence says all men are created equal, and are endowed by the Creator with the blessing of liberty. What will the justices of the high court say?

Most dramatic of the issues confronting the court is that of restrictive covenants versus the Constitution.

Some 20 years ago the Supreme Court held that making covenants to restrict the use of property to one segment of the population was not unconstitutional. But not until this time has the court been called on to rule squarelp on whether the courts of the nation can be used to enforce private agreements between property owners to exclude other Americans.

Brenda Ballard-Harry Davis Wed in Pasadena Ceremony

Back from a well spent honeymoon at the popular Murray's Dude Ranch, are Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Davis, who exchanged marital vows in one of Pasadena's most beautiful holiday weddings.

The bride is the former Miss Brenda Lois Ballard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Porter F. Ballard of Pasadena, and her husband is the son of Rev. and Mrs. H. M. Davis, also of Pasadena.

Their marriage was held at the lovely home of the bride's parents with Rev. H. M. Davis, the bridegroom's father officiating. The exquisite gown worn by the bride is being handed down in the Ballard family, through tradition. The gown features a brocade satin bodice and a flowing skirt of marquisette. Her veil was full length, and she carried a crescent shaped bouquet of bouvardia and gardenias.

In the entourage were Mrs. Euvalda Morris, who served her sister as matron of honor. Miss Margaret Cuoton, was maid of honor. The matron wore a pastel of yellow brocade taffeta and she carried a bouquet of "rust" chrysanthemums with gold satin ribbon. In smart contrast, the maid of honor wore turquoise brocade taffeta. She also carried the "rust" bouquet tied in gold satin ribbon. Mr. Elijah Kearney served as best man.

The wedding was solomnized on December 21, promptly at 3 p.m. The reception followed immediately, with Mmes. Carrie Credic, Pearl Birks, Veronica Nelson and Harriette Calhoun serving as hostesses. Many friends of the young couple gathered to offer congratulations. Receiving were: Mrs. Ora A. Ballard, Mrs. Ann P. Davis, mothers of the bride and groom respectively; Miss Margaret Cuoton, Mrs. Euvalda Morris, Mrs. A. J. Reid and the newlywed.

The bride is a graduate of Pasadena City College and her husband a former student at Lincoln University is now studying engineering at U. S. C. He is an adjutant to the Civil Air Patrol in Los Angeles.

WHAT'S DOING IN THE SOCIAL SET

By JESSIE MAE BROWN

MOST CHERISHED among party givers is something new, a change of scenery, that feeling of creating a famous first, that striving to put over something different. Angelenos are eagerly looking forward to the annual Omega Psi Phi formal on January 15, for the very interesting reason that the local of the affair is the Club El Sombrero, and to my recollection, that is definitely a new scene on the regular calendar of events. The smart gold and purple invites are in the mail, bidding some 500 couples to dance from 10 til 2, in a typical South of the border setting. The Omegas, fast becoming one of the leading frats of the city, gave their first Los Angeles formal, at the Pasadena Civic last lear. The affair was a social highlight, due reason for the anxious watiing of invites. We find that Lambda and Lambda Omicron chapters are jointly entertaining. Charles Thrash, just back from the Detroit Conclave and Rev. H. Randolph Moore are leaders respectively of the two chapters. Other key names listed as officers are J. Cullen Fentress, Paul R. Williams, James P. Perry Jr., Clarence O. English, James Chapple, Leslie Browne and Weldon Atkins. The gents working diligently on the committee of arrangements include Allen C. Woodard, Herry Penn, Bob Motley and several others. You may rest assured that the next social highlight will be the Omega formal. By the way, February will find the Kappa Black and White scheduled for the 12th, and the Pyramid Pledge club Semi, slated for the 14th . . . So much for the future gazing . . .

SIGNIFICENT BITS

An engagement of more than usual interest is in the social set this week. Esther Griffith, president of the Delta Grad chapter is engaged to wed Rev. Herman Merriweather in Summer '48. The engagement was revealed when Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Morrow, sister and brother-in-law to Esther held open house on New Years Day. Neatly engraved in the corner of each refreshment napkin were the names of the betrothed. Esther is a popular local school teacher, and her fiance, at present, is continuing his theological studies at Virginia Union . . . Congratulations are in order.

When little Arthur Mitchell III made his howling entry into this old world a few months ago, the clever announcements of his birth brought on much humerous comment from the many friends of his parents, who are (Dr.) Arthur and Gloria Mitchell. On last Sunday morning Arthur III, was again the center of attraction, as he was christened at Lincoln Memorial church. Standing as godmother was Sarah Jones, the godfather, Dr. Millie Moore. A small reception honoring the occasion held sway following the christening at the Mitchell residence. Toasts were made with champagne punch as little Arthur III, gurgled and cooed a note of welcome to the guests. His lovely mother, Gloria, is recently back from an Eastern sojourn . . .

Edith and Ed Boyd were home for the holidays from little ole New York. They were much in evidence at the many social gatherings that have been going on. Saturday night, Edith's parents, Atty. and Mrs. Clarence Jones entertained with an informal affair in their honor. Many of the Angel city friends of the couple were there extending greetings and also bidding farewells. Ed left for N. Y. on Monday to resume his position with the Pepsi Cola firm. Edith will visit L. A. a little longer and will probably get a little better acquainted with her new nephew, Ballinger Kemp Jr., who joined the family circle after Edith and Ed left for New York . . .

By the way, the usual package old St. Nick left at the Johnny Alston home on Christmas day was a darling little daughter, Carol Christine, who weighed in at 9 lbs. The whole Alston and Yarbrough families are as pleased as punch over Santa's selection. More congrats . . .

The many bits of glamour connected with Alpha Kappa Alpha on the UCLA campus, ended the grand old holiday vacation from studies with a typical hen party at the Spearman residence on last Friday evening. Peddle pushers, slacks, informal attire in geneeral was the order of the eve, and guests of honor were the AKAs from the USC campus. Dodie Bell, outgoing prexy of the SC co-eds, had that new look from head to toe. Patty Wilson, the new pres., was there sporting the engagement ring that was a special gift of Winston Smith. Dorothy Redd, waiting for a transfer to the grad chapter, spent part of the evening playing card games with Marion Henderson, Cullie Hubert, Shirley Rakestraw and Grace Davis. Nita Philpot kept busy throughout the affair giving orders to the newly pledged Ivy members who will soon be facing "Hell Week," included are co-eds Yolande Stovall, Alma Philips, Shirley Spencer, Pat Foxx, Wilda Plummer, Elaine Broady and, there are eleven, but my memory fails me at this point, can't think of all their names. The party was a very gay affair that lasted well into the night. By the way, while mentioning the Alpha women, the election of the graduate chapter resulted with the charming Loucille Barnett as president, succeeding Atty. Martha Jefferson, who served two brilliant years.

The Leap Year received a hearty welcome by the many partiers on the Eve of all eves. House parties played before the spotlight one after another. The welcome mat was placed on the porch of the Lowell Steward apartment and believe me, the younger set was much in evidence enjoying Theron Kirk's mixture of Egg-nog. Neline Russell was the official connoisseur of the evening. Guests listed at the gay gathering were Bill and Eloise Johnson, Gloria Ford, Bert and Ruth Kenner, Paulette Coleman and Dr. Frank Peterson, LaFrance Brown, and I hear he's engaged to Lowell's lovely cousin Mighnon; Corine and Bal Kemp; Flo Nukes and her better half, Bobby Lambert and Arthur Herndon and many another. Helen received her guests in a smart new length black ballerina skirt. Understand the New Year was welcomed in a spirited manner.

Many guests attended many another party, before the New

T. A. Coles Play Dinner Hosts To Prominent Guests

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Cole (Lorenza Jordan Cole and daughter Yvonne entertained guests with a buffet dinner and Egg-nog party at their charming home on New Year's Eve.

The Cole's residence was decorated with mistle-toe and featured a white Christmas tree adorned with tiny red satin ribbons. The long oval dining room tables centerpiece was a decoration in traditional New Year's style with horns, noise makers, caps and candles of flamboyant hues, executed by the artistic Miss Cole. Silver havelin China service assembled on a white linen table cloth trimmed with patterns of lace completed the table setting.

Mrs. Wathea Jones, prominent young contralto singer, an aspirant of the concert stage and a member of the Delta Sigma Theat sorority started the New Year's Eve program off with three numbers. Miss Maudelle Bass, a distinctively unique interpretive dancer, who recently returned from an extensive stay in Mexico feted the guests with an Egyptian dance, along the Modern enterpretive style, nad a central African dance.

Mrs. Cole received her guests in a pink Grecian draped hostess gown with an upswept hairdo. A pearl necklace and earrings were her only accessories.

Miss Yvonne Cole, co-hostess displayed some of her original coiffures. Her gown was an electric blue off shoulder long sleeve dinner dress with ballerina skirt.

For her wedding, the former Pinkie Armelin, wore a beautiful Aqua Marine blue Grecian draped gown, and she carried a blue satin cascade of orchids.

Mrs. Edith Price, her only attendant, was gowned in a Grecian draped white gown, and carried an arm bouquet of Brier Cliff roses. Ralph Porter served as b mtsean e-Btu Gr as best mman. Mmes. Gertrude Landry, Aurora Roundtree, Birdie Roundtree and Sadie Giles formed an aisle for the bridal party with white satin ribbon.

A special feature of the wedding, was a recording of the ceremony as it was performed by the Rev. Mansfield Collins.

Mr. Webb, who is the son of Mrs. Mittie Webb, pioneer resident of Los Angeles, is a master electrician of the 17th special service of the last war. He was decorated with a bronze star for outstanding technical efficiency. He is a 32 degree Mason of the Medino Temple No. 19 of New York.

BUFFET SUPPER

Immediately after the vows were spoken, an elaborate New Year's celebration held sway. More than 100 guests attended offering congratulations to the prominent couple. The buffet service was complete to Caviar and champagne. Acting as hostesses were: Effie Jackson, niece of the bride, who is here from Louisville, Ky., attending school at UCLA; Mrs. Anna Bell Cleveland and Mrs. Veronica Blake, both old friends of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Byron Webb enjoyed a brief honeymoon and are now at home to their many friends temporarily at 1373½ W. 35th street.

Mrs. Bethune declared the survey to be basic to the future success of the National Council of Negro Women. "In an aggravated world situation which seems to be worsening it is mandatory that the united whole-hearted efforts of the membership of the National Council of Negro Women be put behind the program adopted by the Convention if peace and prosperity are to be brought to the peoples of the world.

"We cannot evade our responsibility longer," Mrs. Bethune said. "Every single woman must shoulder her share of the tremendous task ahead or every single woman will suffer the results of her indifference in a time like this."

Raisin' Cain

By CARL L. CAIN

"Peace, prosperity, equality," are perhaps the three most important words in this phase of American History. And those are the words, that signify the platform, or the heading under which Henry A. Wallace will enter the 1948 political campaign for president. All over the world people are watching anxiously to see what will be the outcome of this election, and to see if America is really what we have been preaching and boasting so loudly about.

It seems that certain elements tend to term Wallace and his 1948 supporters "leftists." Well, that's all right, too. For it is no longer an visible fact that anyone who disagrees with the famous Democratic-Republican party (formerly known as the Democratic and Republican parties) is therefore a "leftist." Anyone, it seems who at least tries to do his own thinking and political affiliating, is a leftist.

"Peace, prosperity, equality." I feel that I could say no more, and this article would be complete, and well rounded out. For those are the three words that mean so much today. For all these years the Democratic and Republican parties have held their own in America. At many phases of our history, there have been no other political parties at all, and all was secure for the members of these parties. They could fight it out all alone. But then it seems that in 1947, and in the later months of 1946, especially after Truman "got used to" his presidential office, things began to happen. The members of the party seemed to get together in order to veto a few of the President's proposals. I don't understand why, exactly, but then it happened . . . and the nin 1947—Oh, brother. They had a grand time. But here comes a new year, and a new political party . . . and the Democratic-Republican party is left somewhat flatfooted.

Although I'm no authority, I strongly believe that the recent American "witch-hunt" was responsible for the development of the new Independent Progressive party . . . not the complete factor, of course, but acted as more or less the final straw that broke the camel's back. The American people are tired and sick of hearing nothing but a lot of Russia, and a lot of Communism all of the time. They are tired of the money that is doubtlessly behind the new Democratic-Republican party (although it has not been officially renamed that), and they are tired of a lot of other things that will doubtlessly, as Wallace puts it, mean war for us, and make war certain for our children.

And suddenly here comes a new man, all out alone, with the help of the common people of America. He toured the south, and did things there that had never been done previously. He made himself known in Europe, and in other countries as well as in America. And we must never forget that Wallace was vice president under the Franklin D. Roosevelt. That means much more than we might think. Besides that, we have the words "Peace, prosperity, equality," forming for Wallace the indestructible political platform, on which he will run.

What I like most about Wallace is his completely new slant on politics. His style is not influenced by any other person or party, but more by the needs of the world, as well as by the American people. But as a whole his speech, and his ideals, are, in my opinion, generally international. And since the world can only survive through international relationships, let America take the first step. We must push Big Business, the factor that has for so long controlled our America, aside now, for real peace, and brotherheed . . . peace—internationally. Prosperity—national and international. Equality—both national and international. That is my interpretation of Wallace's words.

Believing that slowly dripping waters can sometimes hollow away rocks, I have been hammering and hammering at the proposal for universal military training. The campaign has been sponsored mostly by the American Legion, and the Hearst newspapers. I have been pleading with the people for sometime now, to write their representative and ask that the proposal be stopped before it reaches congress—for there is doubt in my mind, as to whether the people there are voting as the people they represent want them to vote, and will pass the bill in another of their "Taft-Hartley Slave Bill sessions," and because I feel that it would be of damaging effect internationally.

Well, I was overjoyed to know that Wallace is NOT in favor of the proposal for universal military training. And if he does become President, there will at least be some chance, some hope that UMT will never become a law in America. But one other major headache has arisen. It seems that congress still has time to pass, or to kill the bill, before the presidential election, and before the GOP convention. As a matter of fact a recent, very recent, broadcast asserted that the proposal for universal training will be taken up before congress finishes its business, in time for the GOP convention in June.

Well, there are two or three things that we must all do, or at least can be done. In the first place, we can write to our representatives in Washington (That's why they're there), and ask them to kill the proposal for UMT; WE CAN VOTE PROGRESSIVE; and we can pray for "peace, prosperity, and equality," in 1948.

Footnote: Yes. VOTE PROGRESSIVE IN '48!

What's Happenin'

Well here it is 1948, and many of the New Year merry makers have given out with their traditional New Year's resolutions (which by now have been broken) and are wondering what new changes the New Year will bring.

The question that has arisen many times in the past is how many people who are in a good economic and financial position, will lend a helping hand to better the welfare of their less fortunate brethren? The answer has always been, a small fraction. As for the slackers, it's about time they put aside some of their "lolly-gagging" and focus their attention to some of the more serious things of life.

Thousands of dollars are spent each year by organizations for parties, dances, and other forms of social entertainment. Some of that money could have been spent on education for many unfortunate young people, more recreational facilities could be established for the underprivileged, and countless other welfare problems could have been given much needed aid. For a prosperous and successful New Year, we should all give this matter our utmost attention.

STEAMER'S FAREWELL

After receiving a tremendous ovation from the collegiate set of Los Angeles, that well known journalist and fugitive from a museum of ancient civilization, big boy Stanley Robertson, went back to his previous job of shoe shine boy. With him he took many Xmas presents which were received from some of his most popular fans.

From Gloria Crouch, Tommy Kyser, Joyce Finney, and Herbie Howard, a bone to gnaw on during 1948. From Scott (11th ave.) Gilbert, a record of "That's My Buddies Chick." From those two ruthless gentlemen from Westwood, Price Cobbs and Vernon (Dangerous Dan) Dancy, a poodle to play with. From Bernice (Don't you know) Rigard, Bob Logan, Connie Maney, and Everett (don't you believe it) Beize, a pair of socks that will last more than a week. From Carl Wills, Walter Young, and Harry Thompson (Those creatures from that distant planet Mars) a girl that will look at him more than once. From Evelyn (New Look or do you go to a formal everyday) Strickland, a pair of tennis shoes so that he'll make less noise on Ruthellen st. From Kathleen Mason, Sherrill (Spooky) Luke, and Roy (make up your mind) Loggins "JR.", a copy of that popular novel "How to Crawl Out of an Egg Nog Bowl." Well, I know the Ole Steamer wishes to thank you all for these wonderful presents.

Last Monday night, the men of Kappa Alpha Psi fraternity held a banquet for the installation of their new officers. New officers that were installed by Judge Edwin Jefferson were: Norman Houston Jr., polemark; Sherrll Luke, vice polemark; Raoul Reynolds, keeper of records; Price Cobbs, strat; Vernon Dancy asst. strat; and Bill Jones, reporter. Congratulations men, and here's hoping you carry on the fine work of the great men that came before you.

Congratulations are in order for Betty Price and Irlton French, who have announced their engagement and will say "I do" in the near future. Betty is a student of USC and a member of the Pyramid Pledge Club of Delta Sigma Theta, while Irlton is now attending Pepperdine college.

I leave you now 'til next week, and by then I hope you will have found out what the "FINAL FLING" is.

THREE YEAR OLD, and very proud of it is little hostess, Reve Leemerle Gipson, daughter of EAGLE columnist, Gertrude Gipson, who may be seen in center photo camera-viewed immediately after blowing out her candles. More than 30 youngsters attended the birthday party on Sunday afternoon. Story follows.

Young Composers Contest to Close On March 31

Entries in the city-wide young composers contest are still being accepted by the Los Angeles Bureau of Music, J. Arthur Lewis, music bureau coordinator, said yesterday.

The contest, which is open to all young people in Los Angeles, offers $500 in cash prizes to winners. The competition is divided in three divisions — orchestral, choral and vocal solo. The choral and vocal solo divisions are open to composers between the ages of 16 and 26, inclusive. For the orchestral division, the age has been extended to 30.

Lewis said contestants should file a notice of intention to participate with the Bureau of Music at the City Hall. Contest rules and complete details are also available at the bureau. The contest closes March 31.

Minister Sponsors Boys Hobby Club

Rev. John F. Rowe, president and founder of the Christian Willing Workers' Association, recently set up from the young people's division of the organization a club for boys called the California Junior Hobby Club.

The purpose of the club is to afford the youngsters an opportunity to exercise their various talents, thereby helping to curb juvenile delinquency, states Rev. Rowe.

Boys who are interested in airplane modeling, building boats and the studying of gas and jet engines, should contact I. E. Wells, proprietor of Well's Sporting Goods Store, 5214 S. Central ave., phone ADams 1-8782.

Wells was named as president of the California Junior Hobby Club. He is a capable instructor in airplane modeling, is a licensedpilot and has years of flying experience.

The Sea Scout Ship Dolphin is under the direction of Skipper Joseph A. Hines, sponsored by the Five and Over Charity Club. It is one of the three "young men of 15 and up programs" under the guidance of the Senior Scout program of the Boy Scouts of America.

CARVER PTA

The first regular meeting of Carver Junior High PTA will be held in the school auditorium Tuesday, January 13. The special feature of the program will be a panel discussion by Carver students. All parents and friends are welcome.

Carver Kiddies Take T.B. Tests

Carver Junior High school is in the midst of a school-wide tuberculosis-testing program, and Mrs. Anson, health co-ordinator for Carver, is urging all parents to check up on their children and see that they have returned their "consent slips" with a YES signature on them.

"Tuberculosis can be prevented if all people cooperate in the fight against this dreaded disease," says Mrs. Anson. "Tuberculosis is not inherited. The germs are passed from sick person to well person. The untested child is a danger to every other child in the community. Make sure that your child isn't running the chance of sitting next to some one who has this disease and will bring it home to you and the rest of the family.

"Let's all cooperate," concludes Mrs. Anson, "and do our bit to put Carver Junior High over the top with 100 percent."

Joan Lorring, co-starred with Belita and Barry Sullivan in Allied Artists' "The Gangster," has taken up the study of Chinese.

Ten Hollywood writers and producers who defended their constitutional right to refuse to reveal their political convictions under questioning of the Thomas-Rankin Un-American Committee will be arraigned in Washington tomorrow. The ten were recently indicted for contempt of congress.

All ten defendants are noted for their progressive attitude on the Negro question, their opposition to race-baiting and stereotypes. They are John Howard Lawson, Albert Maltz, Samuel Ornitz, Lester Cole, Dalton Trumbo, Adrian Scott, Edward Dmytryk, Alvah Bessie, Ring Lardner Jr., and Herbert Biberman.

Extends Jobless Pay to Packers

WASHINGTON—The Internal Revenue Bureau has extended unemployment compensation and old age insurance benefits to workers in commercial fruit and vegetable processing plants.

The new regulations issued yesterday followed a ruling by the ninth U. S. circuit court of appeals that such workers are not "agricultural labor" and therefore should come under the Social Security Law. The law exempts agricultural labor from its benefits.

The bureau's directive puts the court decision into effect. But it does not cover handlers of fruits and vegetables employed by farmers or farm cooperatives.

Arrival In New York

NEW YORK (CNS) — When Henry A. Wallace arrived by plane in New York on New Year's Day following his momentous Chicago speech in which he announced his candidacy for President, he was met by his personal secretary, a Negro, Viola Scott.

Miss Scott was the only one of Wallace's staff to welcome him at LaGuardio Airport. In a brief press interview, Wallace said he was on his way to his country home in South Salem, N. Y., where he would rest a month before resuming his campaign.

Warren Recognizes Geo. W. Carver Day

SACRAMENTO—Last Monday was proclaimed George Washington Carver Day in California by Gov. Earl Warren. The proclamation was issued on the same day, with no advance publicity to rally the people of the state to do honor to the great Negro scientist.

"Our observance of this anniversary (the anniversary of Dr. Carver's death) is most appropriate, for Dr. Carver gave unselfishly of his talents for the benefit of all people, regardless of race or religion," the governor said.

The day was observed by Negro, labor and progressive groups throughout the country.

Win Execution Stay

OLYMPIA, Wash.—Gov Mon Wallgren said this week that he may halt the execution of Jake Bird, 46, to give authorities a chance to check whether he is guilty of more murders than the 13 he already has confessed committing over the last 20 years.

Bird has been sentenced to hang Jan. 16 for the murders of Mrs. Bertha Kludt and her daughter, white, at Tacoma, Washington, last October.

Law agencies in half a dozen states have sent inquiries to authorities here since Bird allegeidly confessed the series of cross-country slayings in Iowa, Nebraska, Indiana, Illinois, Utah, and Colorado.

Sees U. S. Jimcrow Doomed in Panama

BALBOA, Canal Zone — Native Panamians and American Negroes in Panama were confident this week that rejection by the Panama assembly of United States demands for permanent military bases in Panama sounded the death knell of American jimcrow practices in this country.

Rejection of the demand for bases followed angry demonstrations by Panama workers and students against United States imperialism.

Doctors Urged Halt Kickbacks Fee Splitting

Some 3700 Los Angeles area doctors today were mulling over a request from the Better Business Bureau for their cooperation in stamping out existing practices of rebates and referral fees.

More than 50 percent of Los Angeles' doctors are accepting secret rebates in connection with the filling of prescriptions for eyeglasses and referring patients to clinical laboratories, Robert J. Bauer, Better Business Bureau's general manager, charged.

Bauer opined that if a doctor chooses to act as a "tout" for some commercial enterprise, he should have the decency to let his patients know that he gets a "kickback" from the enterprise.

Information Wanted On Robert Braden

The National Desertion Bureau, Inc., New York, which interests itself in cases of family desertion and non-support, is asking for "Information on Robert Braden, on behalf of his wife, Edna, so that his future plans and intentions toward her could be discussed with them. He has not been in touch with her since November, 1945.

"He was born in Lynville, Tenn., in 1900, is a waiter by occupation, is 5 ft. 5 in. tall, weighs 158 pounds, has black hair, brown-gray eyes, light brown complexion, and wears glasses. Anyone aware of this man's location is requested to communicate with the National Desertion Bureau, 105 Nassau st., New York 7, N. Y."

Carrol Red-Baits Truman Red-Baiters

WASHINGTON — Red-baiting the red-baiting Truman administration will be the GOP's main line of attack in '48.

This was made clear yesterday by Caroll Reece, Tennessee-born Republican national committee chairman, who repeated his charge that the administration is under the domination of "subversive" elements. He claimed that his party offers the only hope for survival of "the American governmental and economic system."

Daffodil Girls

The final meeting of the year for the Daffodil Girls' club was held at the home of Mrs. Ella Mae Fisher. A resume was given of the club activities during the year.

The Daffodils wish to thank their friends and the public for its cooperation and support in helping them to close another successful year. Season's greetings and a prosperous New Year is extended.

City Short of 125,000 Housing Units, Bowron Tells City Council

Los Angeles today has a reserve fund of $10,500,000 and a housing shortage of 125,000 dwelling units, Mayor Fletcher Bowron told the city council in his annual message.

Embedded among the 65 pages of the message were recommendations for spending some $2,635,000 immediately on public works, but housing projects were not included.

A master plan for redevelopment of approximately 70 square miles of blighted slum areas has been completed, however, the mayor said. He recommended council action to take advantage of the state redevelopment act of 1945.

Bowron warned that "special interests" are trying to break down the zoning ordinance "at the expense of community welfare," and asked council cooperation to fight this attack.

Al Hoosman to Return To Boxing

California heavyweight Al Hoosman, who recently was reported to have turned vocalist with the Count Basie band, is back at his punching bags. Al has been booked to fight hard-punching Ezzart Charles in a 10-round go on January 9.

ABC Jimcrowism To Rule 'News' Tourney

SAN FRANCISCO — Although the San Francisco News calls its 16-year-old Diamond Medal Bowling Tournament "the most democratic tourney in the West," not one of the increasing number of San Francisco's Negro bowlers will compete in the 1948 News tournament.

They are locked out—banned by the eligibility rulings of the American Bowling Congress, which stipulate that only white bowlers may participate in ABC sanctioned tournaments. The News' tourney functions under ABC rules.

Maritime Union For Wallace

Headed by vice-president Ferdinand C. Smith, the National Maritime Union hailed the decision of Henry A. Wallace to enter the race for President, as being most momentous, and pledged their unqualified support.

Among those who signed the telegram of endorsement were Smith, Chester Young, Howard McKenzie, and National Port Committee members, John Hogan, Philip Miller, Oliver Bouton, of Los Angeles; Port Agent Emil Palazzi, of New York, and other Union officials.

Sets Filing Date For State Primary

SACRAMENTO — Nomination papers for the 200 odd political offices subject to California's primary election June 1 may be circulated and filed on or after March 3, Secretary of State Frank M. Jordan announced this week.

The filing period closes March 27, he said, for all offices except delegates to major political party national conventions, which must be in by April 2.

Besides convention delegates, voters at the June 1 primary will nominate candidates for 23 seats in the house of representatives, 80 state assembly posts and 20 seats in the state senate from odd-numbered districts. In addition, about 80 superior judgeships will appear on the ballot.

Army Paper Bans News of Wallace

TOKIO—An unofficial censorship is suppressing all news about Henry A. Wallace from Stars and Stripes, daily newspaper published for American troops. Chief censor is Brig. Gen. Courtney Whitney, one of Gen. Douglas A. MacArthur's top sides.

The ban on Wallace was imposed four months ago and news stories reporting Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's presidential prospects were also killed. Lately, however, a slight amount of Eisenhower coverage has been appearing.

Police to Stop Mass Roundup Of Children

There will be no more mass police round-ups of Mexican-American youngsters in the Elysian Park area, the Civil Rights Congress was assured yesterday by City Councilman Ernest Debs.

Parents in the area had protested to Debs and Asst. Police Chief Joseph Reed that their children were being indiscriminately picked up off the streets and hauled to Central police station for questioning in connection with the death of a white fireman, killed by a rock hurled from a bridge on Arroyo Seco parkway.

The parents especially resented a mass round-up of children, some as young as eight years, who were herded off the Elysian playground Nov. 12, taken to police headquarters and questioned for several hours as their parents tried frantically to find out what had happened to them.

Dairy products comprise more than 25 percent of all foods consumed by the average American.

Western Bloc Plans Deal with Franco

London—The influential Sunday Observer said it had learned "on good authority" that the foreign ministers of the three western powers agreed at private conference in London that Fascist Spain could not be omitted from an "integrated" Western European economy.

A special correspondent said, in a copyrighted dispatch, that the question of inclusion of Franco Spain in the western bloc probably will be discussed in negotiations soon between the United States, Britain and France.

New York Publisher NAACP Life Member

NEW YORK—Dr. C. B. Powell, publisher of the New York Amsterdam News, became a life member of the NAACP December 30 with the payment of $500. Dr. Powell wrote:

"I consider it an honor and a privilege to contribute to the support of an organization which is making such an outstanding contribution to promoting democracy and better human relations. Keep up the good work!"

Michigan Greatest Team of All Times

Coast Lagging Behind Big Nine In Football Progress

By STANLEY ROBERTSON, Eagle Sports Editor

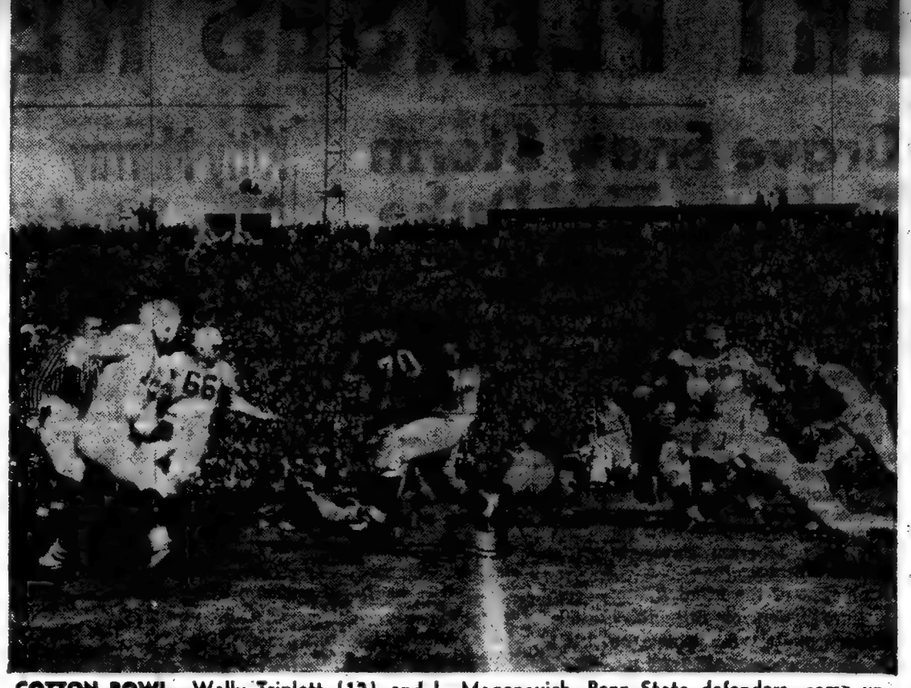
For two years now, the Big Nine Conference has completely and utterly humuliated Pacific Coast football. Last year, Ray Elliott's "Fighting Illini" from Illinois, a team that was only supposs to be medicore, came to Pasadena to all but tie the poor little Bruins from the University of California at Los Angeles, to the gates of Westwood. The '46 Bruins had rolled over 10 straight opponents, to compile the finest record in the history of the Westwood institution. Illinois had two black marks on its record, but still, the Urbanna Express rolled to a 45-14 victory over what many West Coast sports writers were calling the finest Western team since the Late Howard Jones' Thundering Herds at S. C. in the early thirties.

This year, a Michigan team that had been built up to be great, but not invincible, came rolling west from a small town in Michigan to give the Southern California Trojans their worst defeat in 60 years of playing football. Michigan and Illinois are very similar. Illinois team of last year was very much underrated, while the Michigan team of this year was very underrated also. No one, not even Fritz Chrisler himself can truthfully say how good this Michigan team is. But getting back to the Pacific Coast and the Big Nine, on everybody's lips these days are the questions: "Is the Big Nine really that much better than the coast?" "If they are, then why?" These questions can be answered very simply.

THEY DO RECRUIT IN THE BIG NINE

First of all, you must realize, that in the nine schools that make up this so called Big Nine Conference, they do recruit high school players. Mr. Kenneth H. "Tug" Wilson, comminisor of the conference may deny this, but it is a known fact that football in the midwest is a big time business. Every kid who ever shows outstanding ability in high school, is always under the watchful eye of some Alumni, scout, or coach of one of the large universities. After the boy once shows the ability to play good ball, everything under the sun is offered to him to get his college education at a certain school. The college that has the most to offer, usually ends up with the boy. On this year's Michigan football team, there is only ONE boy whose home is in the vicinity of Ann Arbor! Read down the roster. Bob Chappius, hometown, Toledo, Ohio. Bob Mann, hometown, Newburn, North Carolina. Gene Derricotte, hometown, Defiance, Ohio. Lennard Ford, Washington, D. C. Jim Briske, Chicago, and so on it goes.

Compare this with one of the local universities? You'll find that the majority of the boys are from the Los Angeles vicinity. Please don't get me wrong and believe that they don't recruit athletes in the Coast Conference. They do, but because of the strict Atherton Code, it is not as widespread as it is in the Big Nine.



BETTER COACHING

Secondly, we might as well face it, they just have better coaches in the Mid-west than they do on the coast. There isn't a coach on the coast, maybe with the exception of Lynn Waldorf aat Cal and Jimmy Phelan at St. Mary's, who is the peer of Fritz Chrisler, Bernie Biermen, or "Bo" McMillian. This lack of coaching is very evident. Fritz Chrisler took what he had in material at Michigan, and built a system around his men. On the other hand, Bert LaBrucherie at UCLA, without a good "T" quarterback, still stuck to the "T" and ended the season with a 500 average.

THEY DO PLAY BETTER FOOTBALL

Finally, they DO play better football in the Big Nine than they do on the coast, and as long as the Pacific Coast schools and colleges lag behind in recruiting, or the NCAA makes recruiting above board possible, and as long as our larger schools are stocked with inferior coaching material, they WILL CONTINUE TO PLAY BETTER FOOTBALL.

The thing the coast needs now, are some coaches of the caliber as were Howard Jones, Pop Warner, and Andy Smith, and the breaking down of this back door recruiting; bring it out in the open, so that all schools may have a fair chance.

Others included Johnny Lujack, college football; Joe Page, baseball; Spec Sanders, pro football; Ralph Beard, basketball; Ann Curtis, swimming; Gil Dodds, track and Joe DiMaggio, baseball.

PHILADELPHIA — Lightweight champion Ike Williams of Trenton, N. J., said Tuesday that he would fight Freddy Dawson of Chicago in a 10-round bout here on January 26.

SPORTRAIT

Eagle Sports Editor interviews Michigan players

If the University of Southern California Football team that appeared in the Rose Bowl on the 1 of January, 1948, is a shining example of Pacific Coast football, then the Coast Conference is at least four teams weaker than the Big Nine Conference, so opinioned Gene Derricotte, Bobb Mann, Lennoard Ford, Jim Briske, and Bob Chappius of the 1948 Rose Bowl Champions, the University of Michigan Wolverine Football Team, as they were interviewed just before they stepped aboard the Maize and Blue Santa Fe special that took them back to Ann Arbor Friday morning.

"They just didn't have it," said Bob Mann, stellar offensive end, "at no time in the game were we ever worried about the outcome. It seemed as though after the first half, when we were leading 21-0, the Trojans just stopped trying." Continued Mann, a 5:9, 170 pound offensive demon, "I thank the toughest came we played this year was Ohio State, although some of the fellas may disagree with me. We won that one 21-0, but those Buckeyes were rocking and socking all the way throughout that game at Columbus."

While talking to Mann, a tall, giant of a man wandered over and was introduced as Lennoard Ford. "Yes, I'll have to agree with Bob," Ford said. "Those boys from Southern Cal were one of the weakest teams we've played all season. Although the Trojans looked pretty bad, I must admit that we had one of those days where nothing went wrong," said the giant end, called by many as the best defensive end in college ranks. "I will though disagree with Bob as far as our toughest opponent goes. I think that Bernie Beirmen's Gophers from Minnesota were just about the roughest opponent we have faced all year. The big bad Gopher line gave us a rough time of it for three periods. An intercepted pass combined with the tiring of the Minnesota forward wall, gave us the game, 13-6," concluded Ford, as half a dozen autograph seekers cornered the big fellow.

"I don't know about that toughest opponent corsage going to Minnesota," interrupted a slight, good-looking young man in a blue suit. "Illinois was mighty rough and rugged when we met them. That was the only game in which I felt a little worried about the outcome," went on this mild mannered stranger. "Yes, I too think that S. C. would be rated along about number 5 in the Big Nine. I can't understand what happened to Ohio State when the Trojans beat them 32-0 at Columbus? The Buckeyes were pretty tough as Bob Mann said, when we met them." As he turned to go away, this soft spoken young man, who I had now recognized as the fabulous Bob Chappius, turned and said: "and it could have been worse, believe me. We only used one third of our plays."

"Bob's right," said a tow haired young man, desperately clutching a football. "Even from my position on the bench, it was evident that the Trojans were about the weakest team the boys had played all year," jokingly said the skinny lad. "All I do is run in the game after a touchdown has been scored, and then hot foot it back out again before the rough stuff starts," continued the lad, still guarding his football with his life. "Well, yes, I did feel pretty good when I kicked the last point after touchdown to set the Rose Bowl record for points after scores. Without the great play of my teammates however, I would have never been given the opportunity to set such a record," concluded Jim Briske, as he stepped aboard the Santa Fe special.

About five minutes before the train was to leave, a short, baby faced, curly headed young warrier came roaring up to the station all out of breath. "Oh, I'm not too late! I thought I would have to walk back to Ann Arbor," smiled the souvenir laden guy. Big Lennard Ford whispered to me, "that's probably the longest speech that Gene Derricotte ever made in his life," as he jokingly punched Gene in the ribs. Derricotte, a brilliant student, modest, and quiet young man, only made one comment on the game. "We were pretty lucky to beat them. No, they weren't as bad as it looked. We were hot and they were cold," said Defiance, Ohio's favorite son, as he joined his teammates aboard the Ann Arbor bound train.

As I left the train, I was humbly aware that I had just been fortunate enough to speak to 5 members of the greatest collegiate football team of all times.

Riverside to Prep Title

CHNIO—Led by the fine offensive and defensive prowess of Lanky Mel Streeter, Riverside High school's classy basketball team turned on the heat in the final half to sink a fighting Chaffey High school squad 41-34 to clinch the annual Chino Invitational high school basketball championship here Saturday night.

It was Streeter, the former all league end on the football team that lead the way by his fancy ball handling and shooting from the forward spot. The big rugged youngster hit the hoop for 12 makers to walk off with the number two scoring honors. Robbie Davis of Chaffey was high point man with 22 points for the game.

After the final whistle had blown, the officials and local sports writers named an all star tournament team which consisted of Mel Streeter, Riverside, and Robbie Daxis Chaffey at forwards, Darryl Brandt, Bonita, center and John Boyle, South Pasadena, and Mort Biner of Beverly Hills at the guard spots.

Louis, Wolcott Fight in Philly?

PHILADEDPHIA—Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis said that he would "notify" local boxing promotor Herman Taylor by the 26th of January if he will or will not accept Taylor's proposal that he defend his title early this summer in the Quaker City against Jersey Joe Wolcott.

Louis made the announcement early this week after conferring with Taylor, Marshall Miles, Louis' manager, and Felix Bocchiccio, Camden, New Jersey, promoter who has first call on the future services of Jersey Joe Wolcott.

Taylor would not reveal the details of the offer made to either Louis or Wolcott, but he did say that the fight if held would probably come off in mid June between the Republician and Democratic conventions.

Louis and Miles said that they had already received offers for a Louis-Wolcott rematch from New York, Chicago, and Los Angeles. Miles declined to say which the champion would accept.

CALIENTE, Old Mexico. — A new blue song was sung by the books last Sunday at Caliente when six good price favorites was first to reach presiding steward Judge George Shilling's charmed circle. And for good measure a goodie was put over in the first race, a maiden event. Bar Maid opened in the books as eight to one and the Wise Boys began to set it in which forced the books to cut to four to one. "Bar Maid" won by two lengths and it cost the ring $5000. This was the start for the downfall of the books as the public began betting on all live horses and they were running like trained pigs. "Ocean Park," winner of the eighth race was backed down to one to three and won just like a short price horse should. Right back in the ninth race, "Blue Agent," another hot favorite scored for the fans to pay $4.30 in the mutuels. And in the feature event of the day, "The El Viento" handicap, "Pere Fly" also favored by the public came home like a real good thing paying $5.60. This made three favorites in a row to score. By this time the books were weeping. Russ Alessio, the lead off man of the books was heard to say, "If the favorite wins the last race some one will have to carry me home because they nearly annihilated me." The favorite was fourth in the last race, but Russ was still groggy from the early beating he took.

So until Sunday, keep smiling and drive careful.

BULLDOGS WIN BOWL GAME

PALM SPRINGS—The Los Angeles Bulldogs scored in every period to win the first annual Desert Bowl game, 31-7, from the Valley Athlete's Club here last week.

Spiller Fades In Finale

Booming Ben Hogan, the wiry little Texan with ice water for blood, kept calm in the pinches and came stroking through the fog to set a 275 for seven heats, to set a new Riviera course record and capture the annual Los Angeles Open Golf Tournament, Monday before a large gallery estimated at 10,000. In winning the event, Hogan beat off the last minute rush of second place winner Lloyd Mangrum to become the second man in the history of the long event to cop the title twice in a row. Ellsworth Vines, the former Tennis Pro, finished third. Hogan collected 2000 dollars for his efforts.

Bill Spiller, the former red cap porter, who set the tournament on fire with his early round 68 to go into a tie for second, "blew up" under the intense strain and pressure, and finished out of the money. The courageous Negro carded a total score of 295.

The tournament, one of the most hectic and gruelling in Open history, saw such favorites as Bobby Locke, the South African wonder boy, Norman Van Nida, champion of Australia, former Champ Olin Dutra, and long stroking Herman Kisner break under the fog and pressure to finish out of the money.

Wilberforce-Compton May Meet Next Fall In Intersectional

XENIA, Ohio—According to sources close to the Athletic Department of Wilberforce University, a proposed intersectional football game between the Green Wave and the Tartars of Compton (Calif.) College to be played early next fall in Los Angeles is a near reality.

An unidentified official of the University announced following the Green Wave's victory over a strong Gambling team New Year's day in the Vulcan Bowl at Birmingham, Alabama, that plans had already been started for the Tarter Green Wave contest tentatively scheduled for the first week in October at Los Angeles. If the game is played it will mark the first time the two schools have met, and the first time that the Green Wave have journeyed to Los Angeles.

It has been no secret for a long time that the Ohio institution has been trying desperately to build a first rate athletic system. Wilberforce has already played several northern white schools this season on the gridiron, and has made plans to increase the number this coming season. The Green Wave won 12 and lost one game this season.

Bruins Back Home, Meet Indians Bears

UCLA's red hot, racehorse, fancy shooting Basketball Bruins, arrived home from the most succesaful barnstorming tour in the history of the Westwood institution Sunday morning, to immediately begin preparations to defend their 1947 Southern Division Pacific Coast Conference championship this Friday and Saturday night against the invading California Bears and Stanford Indians at the Olympic Auditorium.

The Blue and Gold warriors of coach Wilbur Johns, boasting three straight wins over the best teams that the east could offer, held up the prestige of coast athletics over the holidays. The Westwood Wonders defeated Saint Joseph of Philadelphia 64-54, turned back mighty Long Island University 66-64 in an overtime thriller before 18,000 wildly cheering fans at Madison Square Garden, and slid by strong Cornel 50-47 after playing two overtime periods.

With All-American candidate Daveage "Dave" Minor, who is rated by many as being "the finest collegiate basketball player in America today," Sacramento's favorite son Johnny "Pistol Pete" Stanich, Dick West, and Bill Rankin leading the way, the Bruins have rolled over 9 out of 12 of their pre-season foes. To date the Johnsmen have only been beaten by the Don Barksdale led Oakland Bittners 67-64 in an overtime classic up north, Santa Clara, the perennial Bruin jinz, 55-50, and the strong Baylor Bears, 45-42.

Friday night the Westwooders face the Chuck Hanger, Andy Wolfe, George and Bob Walker led Golden Bears up from around Berkeley, while their cross town friends from University Park, the Southern California Wolverines, pardon, Trojans, play host to the much improved Indians from Stanford. Saturday night the two teams trade opponents, the Bears meeting the Trojans, and the Bruins going out after an Indian scalp. First game starts at 8:00 p.m. while the second one gets under way at 9:15 both nights.

Doby Signs With Pro Basketball Team

NEWARK, N. J. (CNS)—Larry Doby, the first Negro ever signed to play baseball in the American League, came up with another first this week by going with the Patterson Crescents of the American Basketball League. Larry was officially welcomed by the owner of the Crescents, Sam Bozza, who announced that Larry would play as forward and his first game would be over the week end when the Crescents met Wilkes Barre in Wilkes Barre.

Meanwhile, the president of the American League (basketball) John J. O'Brien, claimed he had not been told of Larry's signing but assured "there'd be nothing against it." According to O'Brien, the league has no ruling banning Negroes.

BEAU JACK ON ROAD BACK

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Beau Jack, 140, Augusta, Georgia, made it four straight in four successive weeks, when he put the stops on Jimmy Collins, 142½, Baltimore, in the second round of their scheduler 10 round bout here Monday night.

The former lightweight champion of the world looked like the "jack" of old as he floored Collins for a count of 9 in the first round, and finally caught up with him in the second round.

HOWARD-HAMPTON SWIMMERS VIE

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Howard University's Bison tankmen, open up their second season of intercollegiate swimming when they tangle in a dual meet with the Hampton Pirates January 10th at Hampton, Virginia. Coach Thomas F. Jackson has declared that the Bisons will be better represented in the tanks this year than they were in '47. With Donald Christian, Oswald Chislohm, and Robert Burke leading the way, the Blue and White have scheduled 10 dual meets, one contest with McGill University carries them all the day to Montreal, Canada. This will mark the first time that a Howard team has performed out of the United States.

TIGERS BLANK PANTHERS, WIN BUFFALO BOWL

HOUSTON, Tex.—Closing their first year of gridiron existence, the Texas State College Tigers rolled to a 12-0 victory over a hapless Prairie View Panther before 6,000 fans here at Buffalo Stadium, New Year's Day.

With John "Tubby" Jones, operating from the quarterback spot, the Tigers rolled like a new car coming off the assembly line. Jones connected with two touchdown heaves both to end Nate Gross, one in the third and fourth periods respectively.

The victory was number 8 for the Tigers in 11 starts, a better than average percentage for the first season of existence.

DUFFY, MIKE, EARN "BIG C'S"

WESTWOOD—Among the 38 varsity and 23 freshmen footballers honored by the University of California at Los Angeles as being recipients of varsity "big C's" and freshmen numerals, were Bob Mike, second string tackle on the up and down '47 varsity, and Bill Duffy, first string halfback on the sensational freshmen team.

Mike, who recently decided to turn pro, weighs 220 pounds, stands 6:2 inches tall, and hails from Stubenville, Ohio. Bob was the understudy for regular tackle Bill Chambers. His best game was probably against Southern California. This is his second Bruin numeral.

Duffy, sensational scatback up from Santa Ana High School, was the chief offensive threat on the Brubake team. Duffy is 5:9, weighs 170, and will be one of Bert LaBrucherie's "big guns" in '48.

Individual awards and honors will be given the Bruin athletes at the annual Bruin Football Banquet scheduled for January 30 at Westwood.

NO FOOLING

By EDDIE BURBRIDGE

LAST WORD during the holidays was the LAST WORD CAFE party for the press staged in that beautiful place of entertainment early during the Yuletide. Our good friend MAX FACTOR, one of the owners of the club, greeted every member of the Fourth Estate personally and made them welcome while LOUIS V. COLE, who helped arrange the party, was as busy as a bee seeing that everybody received top service. While enjoying mixed drinks the guests were well entertained by the current performers at the club, which included EFFIE SMITH, blues singer; HATTIE NOEL, screen comedienne; EMILY FOSTER, who does a terrific job of emceeing, singing and dancing; GENE PHILLIPS and his band, and a host of guest stars. Also welcoming guests was OKLEN LEVY, that dean of greeters. Some of the persons present were: MR. and MRS. JERRY CUMBER, PAUL McGEE, CLAUDE DURHAM, LEON H. WASHINGTON JR., Yours Truly, and others whose names I do not recall. Apologies to the club for not publishing this in last week's issue, but due to cramped space we had to limit everything and I wanted to give this swell affair nice space. . . . Had a scenic post card from ABE CORENSON, who is taking a rest in Havana, Cuba. Hope he's getting his rest because he's a working demon while here. . . . JACK McVEA and band now putting in three weeks at the El Borracho in San Francisco. . . . LUKE JONES, tenor saxman, back with RED MACK'S outfit for an engagement at El Presidio in Uplands. . . . SHERMAN WILLIAMS and ork closed at the Bronze Peacock Club in Houston, Tex. early this week and open Jan. 15 at the Savoy Club in Portland, Ore., for an extended stay. . . . The NICHOLAS BROTHERS, HAROLD and FAYARD, get a well-deserved spread in the February issue of Ebony for their superb dance act with GENE KELLY in "The Pirate." The story says the brothers have earned a half million during 15 years of show biz. They recently completed a Paris engagement at $2500 weekly.

One of my favorite gal singing stars, ETHEL WATERS, opened at Slapsy Maxie's Monday night and received the ovation she always rates. In addition to her singing, into which she crowds a heck of a lot of personality, Miss Waters has been lauded as a dramatic star and is a Broadway stage favorite . . . EDWARD T. ADDISON, who helped direct USO shows during the war, is now in Los Angeles . . . Miss QUEENIE OWENS of New York City won the title of "Miss Fine Brown Frame' 'in the national finals staged at the Elates Ballroom in Philly during the holidays . . . COUNT BASIE opens on the stage of the Regal in Chi Feb. 6 for a week's stand . . . JOHNNY MOORE'S Four Blazers cut records right up to the deadline during the holidays and now are said to have a backlog of almost 150 masters, enough to keep the public, disc jockeys and juke boxes supplied for the next 5 years.

Jack Young To Portray FDR In 'The Bridge'

After lengthy correspondence with Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Jack Young has been chosen to portray the late President Roosevelt in the new play, "The Bridge." One percent of the gross of the entire run of the play will be given the Wiltwyck Orphanage, a pet Eleanor Roosevelt project.

Young played Roosevelt in the motion pictures, "Yankee Doodle Dandy," "Mission To Moscow' and "This Is The Army."

Compromising with Mrs. Roosevelt, who wished just the simulation of the voice of FDR, the producers, Andrew Sutton and Henry Donovan, create an illusion with Young appearing on a dimly lighted stage with a group of choral voices in the background.

Co-authored by Sheamus Fay and Jack Preston, "The Bridge" relates the story on an ex-G.I. who has Roosevelt appear to him in a crisis to comfort him with excerpts from his famous Fireside Chats.

RADIO BRIEFS

ORIENTAL FLAVOR

CBS' Abe Burrows claims to have uncovered a song that's currently popular in Chungking juke boxes. He says it's called "I Got The Sun Yat Sen In The Morning And the Moon Yat Sen At Night."

REUNION

When Ethel Barrymore stepped onto the stage of CBS' "Screen Guild Players" recently, she took time out from rehearsal to reminisce with Huntley Gordon, radio director of the Motion Picture Relief Fund. Huntley was with her in the Broadway production of "Our Mrs. McChesney," which was his second New York play—way back when.

Brave Snow Storm To Hear The Duke

By CARRIE MILLER
(Special to the EAGLE)

NEW YORK—While California residents enjoyed ideal weather faithful and enthusiastic followers of Ellingtonia plowed through weather record breaking 25 inches of snow recently to attend the sixth annual Carnegie Hall appearance of Duke Ellington and his famous band. For their trouble and loving tribute to a master musician the crowds poured into the hall and were treated with a wealth of new music from the pen of the maestro and the witnessing of a presentation by the Honorable E. B. King, Liberian Envoy to the United States.

High spot of the evening was the introduction of Ellington's "Liberian Suite," for which he was commissioned officially by the government of Liberia as part of their celebration of 100 years as a democracy. The suite was made up of a vocal introduction or overture and followed by five dance patterns depicting the "Four Freedoms" and "The Fifth That We Hope For." Beginning with a theme introducing the building of a nation through an "Afromantique" and "Celebration" movement, the piece truly marks one of Duke Ellington's greatest steps in composing around his well balanced and most capable orchestra.

His honor, E. B. King, one time president of Liberia, one time prime minister and one time attorney general of Liberia commented during the ceremony that Duke Ellington is truly of a royal line with regards to personal as well as his musical contribution to the melody culture of the world.

The program was made up of over 25 Ellington compositions and naturally an entire sequence of Duke Ellington at the piano.

Along with these numbers were songs by Albert Hibbler, including a new recording by the aggregation and vocal, "It's "Monday Everyday," "Entrance of Youth," featuring talented youngsters, Warren Norwood, flute; Elaine Jones, tympani and piano, and Paul Rudoff, French horn. This piece was written for the three artists by Billy Strayhorn, and the youngsters are presently studying at the Julliard Conservatory of Music on Ellington scholarships. Delores Parker, bright new singer rendered some of his music from the score, "Beggars Holiday," and her voice struck this writer as the nearest to that of Ivie Anderson that the Duke has apparently been able to run across.

Bill Robinson Model For Order Under Rolan Jones

By EDDIE BURBRIDGE

The average person who attends a theatre little knows the headaches a theatre manager has to contend with, that is an ordinary theatre manager of an ordinary theatre. If that particular theatre happens to be located in a tough section of the city the headaches are multiplied many times over. Rolan Jones, who efficiently manages the Bill Robinson theatre on South Central avenue near 43rd place, will bear me out in this, for he and that theatre are stragetically located in a block that is called one of the toughest along "The Stem!"

Up and down the avenue in front of the Bill Robinson underworld characters by the hundreds parade all day and practically all night. Some of the more timid policemen give it a wide berth and seek more peaceful climes. Weed smokers, pickpockets, plain holdup men, winos and just plain out and out bad guys throng that section of the avenue, known as "The Stem," which covers about five blocks. Through all this for over 10 years, Rolan Jones, perhaps not serenely, but with confidence and determination, has maintained order in the Bill Robinson, which is really a beautiful theatre exhibiting top-flight pictures.

Up and down the street occasionally there may unpleasantness but when a man enters the Bill Robinson, whether by himself or accompanied by his wife and children, he can be assured of perfect order and the opportunity to enjoy a good show. He will leave with no bad taste in his mouth and if by chance he happens to sit in the loges he will feel that he has attended a theatre that has no equal for comfort in the city. Standing firmly behind that policy of order and comfort is Rolan Jones, himself, whom you are more than likely to find taking up your ticket at the door, for Jones is alert to quell any disorder that may find its beginning in the front line trenches, as it were, the portals of the show itself.

With all this effort on his part a person would think that the manager of the Bill Robinson had made a lot of enemies, that he adopts a surly attitude to discourage disorder. Such is not the case, because you couldn't find a person that used courtesy combined with friendliness more than he does. He knows his job is to make the patrons welcome and he does so with a smile. Perhaps in his early years he had to exert a lot of pressure, but now he numbers his friends that come into the theatre by the hundreds and many know him by name and respect and like him. We venture to say that a lot of the former troublemakers are now his friends. Having found out that he wouldn't stand for any tough stuff they come into the theatre now as quietly as any other person.

This writer thought it fitting to pay a sort of tribute to Rolan Jones because we formerly managed a theatre too in a rough neighborhood in another city but we didn't stick it out as long as he has and we've seen that theatre and others in this city change managers almost monthly because the guys couldn't take it. That is why we feel that the Bill Robinson is lucky as all outdoors to have a fellow like Jones as manager and many another theatre would be lucky to get him.

By the way, in closing, because the Bill Robinson theatre is one of our staunch advertisers and has been for many years, we'd like to tell you that the current program lasting tonight through Saturday features the double bill of 'Adventure Isle," filmed in gorgeous technicolor, with Paul Kelly and Rhonda Fleming, and Zane Grey's "Wild Horse Mesa" with Tim Holt. An added attraction is a short titled "Football Highlights of 1947." For four days, starting Sunday, Jan. 11, you'll see two horror thrillers in "The Bride of Frankenstein," with Boris Karloff and Colin Clive, and "The Son of Frankenstein," with Karloff again, Basil Rathbone and Bela Lugosi. A coming picture worth seeing is "Out of the Past."

Clifton Webb recently announced he liked Hollywood so well that he is moving his home from the east to Beverly Hills, to concentrate on film making.

Hadda Brooks Wins Divorce

An interlocutory decree was granted Hadda Brooks, actress and boogie-woogie recording artist, on New Year's Eve in the court of Superior Judge Arthur Crum.

The complaint for divorce was prepared by her attorney, David W. Williams, and was filed under her legal name, Hattie L. Brooks.

The actress charged her husband, Nathaniel G. Brooks, with a general course of cruelty. Corroborating testimony was given by her sister, Mrs. Katherine Carter. Brooks is currently in the U. S. army, and is stationed in New York.

A few days after receiving her decree, Miss Brooks left for New York to begin an extensive nation-wide tour of eight months at the termination of which she will return to Hollywood, where she has been cast in a forthcoming picture.

Roy Milton Is Hospitalized

After winding up a hectic series of recordings for Specialty Records to beat the Petrillo ban, Roy Milton entered a Los Angeles hospital last Sunday for a tonsilectomy.

Form Team for Tour of 23 Cities

NEW YORK—Illinois Jacquet, the exciting "Dynamo of the Saxophone," and his high-flying band and Ella Fitzgerald, the "First Lady of Swing," will combine their brilliant musical talents on a concert tour, under auspices of impresario Ernest Anderson, that will cover 23 key cities.

The Jacquet-Fitzgerald tour will get underway Friday night, January 16, at Bushnell Memorial Auditorium, Hartford, Conn. On the following day, the two stars will present an afternoon concert at Town Hall in Philadelphia and a midnight concert at New York's famed Carnegie Hall. Rhodes-on-the-Pawtucket, Providence, R. I., will be the scene of an afternoon concert on Sunday, Jan. 18, to be followed by a concert that same evening at Boston's Symphony Hall.

Jacquet, who skyrocketed across the musical horizon via his dynamic performances in the "Jazz at the Philharmonic" concerts last year, will be making his first concert tour with his own unit, which includes such stellar instrumentalists as Leo Parker on baritone sax, Sir Charles Thompson at the piano, Shadow Wilson at the drums, Al Lucas on string bass, trumpeters Joe Newman and Russell Jacquet, and the sensational young trombonist, J. J. Johnson.

MOVING UP—El Herbert and his band are fast moving to the top of the local heap with their fine renditions of swing music. Until recently the group had played club dances both in Los Angeles and Pasadena and received plenty acclaim. Currently Herbert (top left inset) and his music men are playing tightly at the popular Club Shangri-la. Herbert is pictured again in the foreground on the right playing a mean trumpet. Gertrude Gipson's CANDID COMMENTS

I gave him his ring and his picture,
The compact, the marcasite pin.
"Don't bother to call me,' I told him.
"I warn you I'll never be in."
He stared at the loot on the table
And swallowed a jigger o' Scotch.
"One last thing, darling,' he murmured.
"I think you've forgotten the watch!"

Wins Romantic Role

John Good has been signed by Rampart Productions for a featured role in "Letter From An Unknown Woman," which Max Opuls is directing at Universal-International. Good will play one of Joan Fontaine's suitors in the film.

Studio Party on Sat., January 10

The Thespians, one of the foremost little theatre groups on Los Angeles' east side, will give a studio party, its first social affair, at the Pueblo Del Rio hall, 1801 E. 54rd st., on Saturday, January 10, from 9 p. m. until—

The highlight of the affair will be the presentation of two scenes from the group's forthcoming full- length production — CAFE PANORAMA—an interracial story of Los Angeles' east side. The scenes will be comedy and drama.

There will be refreshments, dancing, raffles. The best soloists in popular and blues numbers will be featured, and the public will be given an opportunity to meet the Thespians on a social basis and learn what the group is doing in the little theatre movement in the city.

For an evening of pleasurable festivities the public couldn't pick a finer place than the Pueblo Del Rio hall to go on the evening of Jan. 10.

HEADING PLACES—Organized only three months ago the Bill Austin Quintet seems destined to become extremely popular, having played some of the leading clubs of the city. Austin, suave and smiling, is pictured in the center surrounded by his capable musical henchmen. (See story.)

Austin Quintet Crowding Fame

For a small combo that was only organized three months ago the Bill Austin Quintet seems destined for fame in the swing music field, for this group headed by the pianist-maestro has already played several popular Los Angeles night spots, including the Ringside Club and the Gayety-Jungle Room. They have been enthusiastically received wherever they appeared.

Austin, who hails from New York City, formerly played with Louis Jordan and has authored several popular songs that bid fair to become hits through recordings. His own original arrangement of "Begin the Beguine" is threatening to become as popular as that of Eddie Heywood.

The quintet did well in 1947; 1948 and the years to come will more than likely find the Austin group ranking high with combos of similar type, for they have already proven themselves.

James Edwards In Top Role

James Edwards, former lieutenant in the United States Army, and a talented young actor, was signed this week by producer Ray Spencer for the starring role of "Brett," the Negro veteran in the play "Deep Are the Roots," opening January 15 at the Belasco theatre in Los Angeles.

A recent recruit to the theatre, Edwards arrived on the west coast only a few short weeks ago after a successful five weeks run in Minneapolis with the James Gow-Arnaud d'Usseau drama that rocked Broadway several seasons ago with its daring and unusual story of a Negro war hero who finds his Southern home still ridden with pre-war conflicts and prejudices.

Previous to the Minneapolis run, Edwards had performed the starring "Brett" role in summer theatre performances in Clinton, Connecticut and Matuneck, Rhode Island.

To Frank Harvey

A temporary lattice trellis which will soon be replaced by a permanent monument designed by Paul R. Williams, was dedicated Sunday, Dec. 21, in the gardens of the Duarte Sanitorium in memory of Frank Harvey Sr., charter member and treasurer of the Outdoor Life and Health Association.

Atty. Charles Matthews was in charge of the program. Father Randolph Moore, of St. Philip's Episcopal church, offered prayer, and Jay Loftlyn sang two solos.

Nathaniel George speaking on the life of Harvey, said, "Some people live in such a way that they are missed in their passing. Frank Harvey was one of these persons. If he were here today, helping plan this garden, he would be glad to give his all, and say that 'It's a good thing,' in his usual manner."

Dr. Seigil, from the Los Angeles Sanitorium, which donated two buildings to the Outdoor Life and Health project, also spoke, and Paul Williams, long time friend of Harvey, stressed the fact that he was not a fair weather friend. He was always there when needed. He was part of the beginning of the Outdoor Life and Health program, and now his name will be forever perpetuated upon the arch which marks the entrance to the gardens.

Father Moore dedicated the garden and the arch in an Episcopal ritual. In closing the program, Atty. Matthews remarked, "Frank Harvey always tried to be a part of things that were worthy and lasting."

Some 80 friends were in attendance at the memorial dedicatory service. Mrs. Alice Harvey, widow of the late pioneer, and emmber of the family were among those who attended. Dr. Leonard Stovall, president of the Outdoor Life and Health, oresided at the dedicatory service.

in this town that I went over to her and asked where she was from. She informed me that she could speak no English at all. Well, I had picked up enough German on my trip to make myself understood, at least, and I found out from the mother where they lived.

"The next day I went to see them and the mother, who spoke only German, too, told me this story: 'Stella's (the child's) father was a Negro from Liberia. For 40 years he had been an important figure in the theatre in Vienna. He owned his own opera company and other theatrical enterprises. He died when Stella was 4 years old. At the time I met them, two years ago, she was 12.

"'When the father died the mother was left alone to care for this little half-Negro child in a hostile country infested with Nazi sympathizers. And when Hitler's forces finally took over Austria, their troubles really began. The Germans threw the mother and little girl out into the street at 2:00 in the morning, and would not allow anyone to give them aid, a job, or even food.'

"Stella and her mother lived out of doors all during the war years; winter and summer. How they survived I do not know. I took them to my hotel, gave them food, and had their hair washed. Since I've been home I've been sending them all the food and clothing I could get. Now I know that there are many people in our community who would be glad to share some of the food and clothes they have with this child and her mother, who are slowly starving in Vienna.

"I have not used her real name, but if any man, woman, boy or girl would like to send them a box to augment the help I send, I shall be happy to give the right name and address. She is 14 years old now and is in the fourth grade, because the Germans would not permit Negro and Jewish children to attend school.

"I deeply appreciate any consideration you give this appeal and wish you and your entire staff a most prosperous New Year."

Sincerely yours,
JESTER HAIRSTON.

Of course The California EAGLE is very much interested in this appeal. We are sure others are interested also, and no doubt many young folks of Los Angeles would enjoy writing to Stella, and in hearing from her. Why not form a club, girls and boys, when you learn her real name and call it her club? Then make her your special little foreign friend. Send her and her mother food and clothing. And be sure to write and tell her to write, too. She will have many wonderful things to tell you.

The newsletter gives a detailed account of the negotiations between Dulles and de Gaulle although only five people were present at the highly confidential talk. Johannes Steel, editor of the newsletter, has extensive contacts abroad.

De Gaullle had consented to meet the American delegate only after Dulles had assured a member of the de Gaulle party that he was convinced of the general's role as the future master of France and realized he was not meeting a mere political party leader.

When the two men met, de Gaulle still hesitated to disclose his program until Dulles exclaimed:

"I know, general, you couldn't come to terms with the Roosevelt administration and the New Deal chowd. But times have since changed considerably. The present administration and congress have a different outlook on world affairs, and they know how to appreciate a man who, like you, can save France and Western Europe."

De Gaulle then grew more friendly and talkative. He developed his thesis that a war with Russia was not only inevitable but almost imminent.

The African territories involved in the Dulles-deGaulle talk are the former Italian colonies in North and East Africa, and particularly Libya in North Africa.

And to make it convincing, the committee will question the No. 1 American fascists on his race-hatred pamphlets and financial backing.

"He," (Smith, that is) "can rest assured that there will be a public hearing on his activities," Thomas angrily declared when informed of Smith's statement.

Rep. McDowell, chairman of the committee's dormant subcommittee on fascism, was angry, too. He told the press he was "searching" for a possible "sensational" document in connection with Smith's activities, intimated it may have an important bearing on the national welfare.

Paul Williams' Genius Wins New County Work

The exceptional ability of Architect Paul R. Williams was recognized again this week by Supervisor Leonard J. Roach who fought through the board of supervisors an appointment of Williams for architectural services in the remodeling of the old Brunswig Drug Building for court purposes.

Roach recently was successful in securing Williams' appointment as architect for the new $3,000,000 Psychopathic Building, marking the first time in history that racial considerations were ignored in an appointment to design a public building in Los Angeles county.

In addition to naming Williams to plan the alterations and design the 10 new superior court rooms in the North New High street building formerly occupied by the drug company, Roach was also successful in securing a contract for Williams to design the new $50,000 swimming pool to be installed in Newhall Park.

"I am happy to say that my efforts to assure the recognition of talent, regardless of race or creed, are gaining ground," Roach declared, "and at the same time, the taxpayers are being assured of the best of architectural talent when Paul Williams is on the job!"

Upon her refusal, she testified, he struck her, knocking her against the stove several times and then attempted to get across the counter at the same time threatening her life, whereupon she seized a carving knife lying nearby and plunged it into his body in self-defense.

Her testimony was corroborated by Leland Mahoney, railroad man who was sitting in the cafe and Sadie Bradock, an Indian girl, who was also present. The coroner's jury returned a verdict of "extenuating circumstances." Attorney Taylor attended the usual conference in the district attorney's office and announced to reporters immediately afterward that the comely waitress was being released.

Mutual Makes Apology for Racial Slur

The Mutual Broadcasting System today had apologized for a story told on the Dr. A. Alexander regular Sunday program of Nov. 16, 1947, in which Negroes were referred to as "darkies."

The apology was in reply to a letter of protest written by G. William McKinney, executive secretary of the Los Angeles branch of the NAACP. The incident and its subsequent apology demonstrate both the need for alertness by minority groups and the effectiveness of protest action.

Dr. Alexander joined Mutual in the apology and devoted most of his time on a recent broadcast to apologizing for the incident. Excerpts from that broadcast follow:

"Consideration for the other person is the very essence of mediation and the very life blood of this program. Public opinion surveys show that there exist in this country today, a as result of postwar tension, racial and religious antagonisms far greater than is generally realized. Minority groups which for centuries have unjustly borne a burden and carried a yoke, have struggled desperately for opportunity and some semblance of recognition, and are understandably sensitive about any refeerence which touches sore spots of difference.

"Therefore, I am taking this opportunity not only to apologize to one minority group in this country—and you must remember that this program is heard on over 200 radio stations—but to certain things that are much in need of emphasis, things which most people seem afraid to talk about, but which go far beyond any one group to this whole question of a united rather than a divided America.

"It is the American tradition that people be judged and referred to, on the sole basis of the character of their individual lives, and not on the basis of the pigmentation of their skin, the swarthiness of their complexion, the shape of their nose or ears, or any other such superficial characteristic."

Citizens Deluge Wallace With Support Pledges

NEW YORK,—Henry Wallace yesterday invited his supporters and others interested to write him regarding regional, state and local issues which they feel need national attention. He made the request in a reply to more than 1000 persons who have sent him telegrams and letters since he announced his independent candidacy for the presidency.

"My general views on what is wrong in America and what needs to be done are well known," Wallace said. "But the needs of the American people differ, to some extent by groups and areas. The great domestic and world issues affect them in various ways. Farmers, workers, white collar workers, professional people, minority groups have specific problems. There are state and local problems which demand federal attention.

"I feel that big business is more than taken care of, but I am particularly anxious to hear what ordinary people themselves feel are the issues affecting them in their locality, and their recommendations for action on a national scale to improve conditions."

Approximately 1000 telegrams, letters and postcards congratulating Wallace on his decision to run have been received to date from 39 states, Wallace's office announced.

Less than a dozen of the messages disagreed with Wallace's position. Hundreds more continue to pour into his office.

Although the great bulk of the congratulatory messages come from ordinary individuals, approximately 150 have come from officers of local unions and a similar number from rank and file members of AFL, CIO and independent unions.

Support from businessmen ranged from a pledge to aid Wallace's fight "against the Wall street-military blueprint for tomorrw," voiced by a Vermont bank president, to statements of support from the president of a New York engineering firm and the owner of a Hoboken knitting mill. Many messages of support came from small merchants.

ANTI-BIAS STAND PRAISED

More than 100 telegrams came from doctors, lawyers and other professional people, and several dozen from ministers of various denominations.

Offers of aid come from a number of newspaper editors, including editors of Negro, Jewish, labor, veterans' and general circulation papers.

Most of the telegrams mentioned Wallace's plea for a peace party or his insistence on a program to achieve abundance. Many were similar to that of Dr. Joseph Johnson, dean of the Medical School of Howard university, who praised Wallace's stand against racial segregation and discrimination.

Nearly 50 of the messages said the signers had formed "Wallace for President" clubs immediately after hearing Wallace's presidential announcement. Several were from student groups and others from veterans' groups. John Duff Stradley of Phoenix, editor of the Arizona Vet, said he was "thrilled to be called back to the fight."

From San Pedro, Calif., 1000 members of the International Fisherman and Allied Workers of America wired "unanimous support for your campaign for peace and prosperity."

Representatives of the 16,000-strong Washington Pension Union sent a pledge of support from Seattle, Wash.

A few of the typical telegrams:

"These 15 minutes ended one era and began a new one"—Josephine Wilkins, Atlanta, Georgia.

"May the New Year ring in Wallace"—Melvin and Cynthia Aboff, Huntington, N. Y.

"Tell us how we can further your candidacy"—Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Smith, Austin, Tex.

"San Franciscans looking for security grateful for your genuine leadership"—Doris and Daniel Golden, San Francisco, Calif.

"Your fine speech provided the answer to the question of what we can do"—Seven friends from Jacksonville, Fla.

"Pledge full support to your campaign"—A regional director, United Steelworkers, CIO.

"A vote for Wallace is a vote for peace"—Bjorn Bjornson, New York City.

"For the first time since FDR a ray of hope has entered our home. As parents of three conscription age children our blessings are with you"—Mr. and Mrs. E. Y. Harburg.

"When you speak with the awful power of the truth America and freedom-loving people everywhere will listen"—Olin Downes, New York City.

"You have the dequisite courage and humility"—Fanny Cook, St. Louis.

"The greatest words since Lincoln. Congratulations"—Arthur and Helen Iberall, Washington, D. C.

MRS. ELIZA WARNER

Mrs. Warner was an outstanding pioneer woman leader of this community. Although a native of Washington, D. C., she had lived in Los Angeles over 50 years. She founded the California State Association of Colored Women, Inc., in 1906. She also organized and founded the Sojourner Truth Home in 1904, and the Household of Ruth IOOUF. She was a member of the Pioneer Club of Los Angeles, composed of both white and colored pioneers.

Mrs. Warner was the widow of George W. Warner, also a pioneer of Los Angeles. For more than 30 years before his death, 20 years ago, he was employed at the Security First National Bank, and like Mrs. Warner, was always active in church and civic affairs.

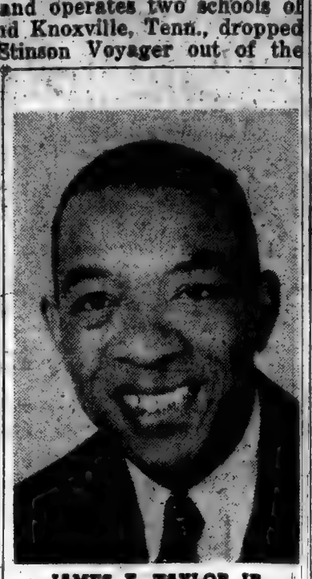
Visiting Flyer Amazed L. A. Negroes Lack Own Aviation School

James E. Taylor Jr., director of flight instruction at Fisk university and A. & I. State college of Nashville, Tenn., and who also owns and operates two schools of aviation in the above city and Knoxville, Tenn., dropped his own four-seated 1947 Stinson Voyager out of the clouds onto the field at Central Air Field in Los Angeles Dec. 21. Finding discrimination against Negro flyers apparent at that field, Taylor flew his plane to the Compton Air Field where he was accorded the courtesy due all flyers, regardless of race.

Taylor told a California EAGLE reporter that he left Nashville Dec. 18 and flew to his home in Langston, Okla., where he stopped overnight. From Langston he flew to Big Springs, Tex. and from there directly to Los Angeles. He is here to visit his wife who has been ill in a hospital at Monrovia for several months. Finding her much improved and well on the road to recovery Taylor had decided to fly back to Nashville early this week but the flu germ Virus X got him so he will remain until he has recovered his strength completely.



Taylor believes that aviation holds immense possibilities for Negroes from an economic and recreational standpoint and from the standpoint of progress and contact. He was amazed to find Los Angeles without a school of aviation operated by Negroes and he says that he then determined to definitely come back here after straightening out his affairs in Tennessee and start one. Since California is the No. 1 state in aviation he thinks this the best area for such an endeavor and thinks that a well conducted school will attract students from all over the nation.

There are approximately 18 flight schools owned by Negroes throughout the United States, he stated, and many women of the race go in for flying. In his school alone he has 30 students of the fairer sex, he said, adding that there are many Negro women cross-country flyers.

In addition to instructing at the colleges mentioned and operating his two flying schools, Taylor crowds in some time for aircraft sales and service. During the war he was a flight commander at Tuskegee Primary Training Base.

The visitor was accompanied here by George Jones, one of his students and former steward 2nd class in the submarine service of the U. S. during the war.

Taylor was also surprised that professional men here do not possess planes, stating that several physicians in Nashville alone own planes and throughout the nation in the major cities many professional men use planes in connection with their businesses.

JAMES E. TAYLOR JR.

Scheduled to fly to Houston Sunday to visit a Negro school of aviation there Taylor is not certain that he will be sufficiently recovered by then to make the trip. While here the visitor has been stopping with Mrs. Lula Mae Stewart, of 2052 West 29th street. Mrs. Julia Taylor, wife of the aviation enthusiast, has been in California for nine months.

Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass, editor-publisher of the EAGLE, has been assured by Taylor that he will be glad to pilot her in flights to San Francisco, Sacramento, San Diego or other parts of the state if her speaking engagements in the interest of the candidacy of Henry Wallace require fast transportation.

Taylor's plane, a four-place 1947 Stinson Voyager, is the latest design in non-commercial planes and carries full equipment, including dual controls, a two-way radio and full night and blind flying equipment. The writer viewed the well-upholstered comfortable interior with its dome light, heaters underfoot and other features and found it similar to a luxurious automobile insofar as its appointments were concerned.

Young Republicans Pass Up Warren As Presidential Timber

The Young Republicans of California, Carl J. Johnson, president, are sending letters to various leaders in their party asking them to become candidates for President of the United States on the Republican ticket.

"Many California Republicans," says the letter, "will not support Gov. Earl Warren's candidacy . . . We do not consider him big enough for the job."

Among others the letter is being sent to Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, Harold E. Stassen, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Senator Robert A. Taft, and Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Norrell Can Find No Police Discrimination

Spelling Negro with a small "n," Police Chief Clemence B. Horrall this week asserted in a letter to the police commission that there is no discrimination in the department.

In his statement, Horrall said there is a Negro lieutenant on the eligible list for captain, but claimed that "his position on the list precludes his appointment at the present time."

As for the complaint that Negro officers are not allowed to drive traffic cars and motorcycles, Horrall replied that examinations are now being conducted for such jobs. He made no assurance that Negroes taking examinations would be rated on a fair basis.

"When eligibility lists are established," he said, "selections will be made from the list according to civil service regulations."

Complaint had been made that Negro officers passing written examinations for the jobs are not given the same oral tests as white officers.

Broadway Federal Shows Vast Growth

The Broadway Federal Savings and Loan Association showed assets of $669,809.59 during 1947 and helped 134 families in the Metropolitan area of Los Angeles overcome their housing problems, H. A. Howard, president and general manager, said this week in his annual report to the members who have savings and investments in the Association.

Citing the phenomenal growth within this period, a total sum of $8357.37 was paid in dividends in 1947, and a total of $590,937.27 for home building, buying and remodeling.

Further expansion of property improvement and lending activity of the Association in 1948 is in prospect, stated Howard, because of the newly acquired authority of the institution to make these loans by a simplified technique providing for more rapid disbursements.

Howard further stated that the year before us will see some definite inroads on housing shortages. He predicted that in our community where large numbers of homes were built in 1947, it is likely that we can surpass the 1947 record in 1948 by at least 12 percent. "Such building activity naturally means an increased demand on this Association for financing and we are expecting another year of extremely large dollar volume of loan business," he added.

Court Ruling May Affect Loca Police Blockade

WASHINGTON—In a decision expected to aff Los Angeles police blockades, the U. S. Supreme Co yesterday reaffirmed, 7 to 2, that an illegal search police officers does not become valid just because it ta up evidence of law violation.

Justice Robert H. Jackson, writing the majority opinion in the case of a white Buffalo man convicted of possessing counterfeit gasoline ration coupons during the war, said:

"In law, it (a search) is good or bad when it starts and does not change character from its success.

"The Forefathers designed out constitution to place obstacles in the way of a too-permeating police surveillance, which they seemed to think was a greater danger to a free people than the escape of some criminals from punishment."

By its decision, the court invalidated the conviction of Michael Di Re, Buffalo, N. Y., who was one of two men arrested in a parked car in 1944. Di Re was found to possess more than 100 forged gasoline ration coupons.

Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson and Justice Hugo L. Black dissented from the majority decision.

Old Age Pension Initiative Assured Place on Ballot

The proposed constitutional amendment dealing with old age and blind security, being sponsored by the Citizens Committee for Old Age Pensions, is now definitely assured of a place on the November ballot, according to an announcement by George H. McLain, chairman of the Citizens Committee.

McLain revealed that Robinson & Co. of San Francisco, a leading circulating organization, has signed a contract guaranteeing that it will secure the 204672 signatures needed to place the initiative measure on the ballot.

Purpose of the initiative amendment is to write into the constitution the obligation of the state to care for its needy aged and blind in a manner consistent with the maintenance of individual self-respect, and in a way that will guarantee an adequate living standard for the recipients of the security payments. Specifically, the constitutional amendment provides that old age payments be increased from the present maximum of $60 monthly to $75 and that the benefits to the needy blind be increased from the present $75 to an $85 maximum. The eligible age also is lowered from 65 to 63.

Willowbrook News

While some of the occupants were watching the New Year's Day parade, a fire blamed on defective wiring, made a heap of smothering ashes of our Lady of Angeles Catholic church. It is believed the fire started in a rear house, on South Compton avenue.

The out-moded church house, constructed of one by 12 boards was swiftly ignited by the leaping flames. The site for this church was given to the parishers back in the early 20s by a Mr. Freeman who subdivided this area of Willowbrook for the Mexican people. This structure was still being used for the Mexican parishers who speak only the Spanish language. A more modern church is sustained by the parishers over in the Watts district known as t Saint Leo Catholic church.

Last week the residents Willowbrook were promised meeting Jan. 19, at which the would be a discussion on the p tition being circulated to ann or incorporate certain portio of Willowbrook to Compt City.

On The Sidewalk

By C. A. B.

I TURN on the radio to hear the news. But every day, more and more, my hope to hear some item that points a way to peace is frustrated.

What I hear is the trial of some previously high government official who collaborated with Hitler in his attempt to ravish world civilization in World War II. But mostly every rado station rattles on and on, from Monday morning until Saturday midnight, about the Communist and American Communist front organizations—these elements or combination of "isms" are threatening to overthrow our government.

I have reached the conclusion that if these "isms"—I mean Fascism or Communism, threatens the security of our government—we have a remedy—and that remedy is to make Americanism work. That is what we need and all that we need.

I am neither a statesman nor a diplomat—just an ordinary American citizen—a member of the rank and file. But there is one thing I understand clearly, and that is the whole world is in confusion and there is unrest among the people in all the nations.

AMERICA has assumed the responsibility of helping the now devastated European nations to become democratic governments, patterned after our own nation.

I ask, are we pursuing the course that will reach such a goal? And this question prompts me to ask this other question: "Is it the greatly heralded Communist infiltration into our American life that is impeding our progress?" I say no! I firmly believe that if we, the American people, are sincere in our desire to bring about world peace at home and abroad, we will tackle and defeat the real evils, first in our own country, and then undo some very bad things we have done and are doing now in other countries, not within our jurisdiction.

Briefly, I will attempt to summarize some few points that should be of interest to those who shape and fashion our national destiny.

OUR President has called for universal military training. The New York Post, January 16 issue, under the caption "Washington Memo" issued this statement:

"Continued discrimination against Negroes as a factor in American life is now threatening to reduce the already slim chances of approval of a system of universal military training which President Truman says is 'vital to the security of this nation and to the maintenance of its leadership.'"

Even the poorly informed American Negro knows that segregation is rampant in the United States Army and the navy. He knows that while he was fighting in that fierce bloody battle on Normandy beachhead, when and where his fighting buddies were wiped out, that he had to face Jim Crow in the training camps and fight it in all the countries abroad, where it was being planted and nursed into being by white American soldiers.

NEITHER fancy promises by the Republicans, Democrats or paid Negro politicians, who send out letters on colorful letterheads or make fancy speeches at chicken dinners and well-arranged banquets at which (Mr. Billy) Taft, Dewey, Stassen, or even His Honor, President Truman speaks, will serve to fool the young oppressed American Negro.

What he wants explained is why the Professional Golf Association refused Los Angeles' colored golf Pro, Bill Spiller and an associate entry into the Richmond, California $10,000 tournament. Spiller tied for second place in Los Angeles week before last when he shot 67. are the Communists responsible for this breech of good American sportsmanship? I ask this question in good faith, since this foreign brand of politics, Communism, is being accused of trying to upset everything American.

This week all arms of the law in California stretched all the way to New York to find a young girl who had decided to spend a little vacation in San Francisco with her sailor boy friend, but not a dime to investigate the un-American act on the part of the Golf Association's denial of young Spiller's entry.

Last week, the Gary, Indiana School Board denied the use of one of its school auditoriums for a salute to Paul Robeson. Robeson is the goodwill ambassador, not only for the Negro people, but the American people. If Robeson is Communist, I say, God give us a few more to make democracy work in our nation and our world.

Now as to our foreign policy, and our influence over the rebuilding and the establishment of democratic governments in foreign countries—let's clean our own house first—withdraw our military forces from in and around Palestine, Greece, China and Africa, and everywhere beyond our territory.

"During these trying times, in an effort to maintain and improve the idealistic principles upon which our democracy is founded, it is imperative that all voices be raised against the suppression of the real un-American activities which masquerade under the guise of 'Patriotism.'"

Court Orders New Trial for Miss. Teenager

WASHINGTON—The U. S. supreme court last Monday ordered the Mississippi state supreme court to reconsider the appeal of Albert Lee, 17-year-old youth of Jackson, Miss., sentenced to an 18-year term on a conviction of assault with intent to rape.

During his trial, young Lee charged that a confession was wrung from him by threats of violence. He later denied making any confession at all, and the Mississippi court threw out his appeal on the technicality of conflicting testimony.

The high tribunal ruled unanimously that his conviction should be set aside if the Mississippi court finds on further study that it was indeed based on an extorted confession.

Justice Frank Murphy, who wrote the opinion, said that "inconsistent testimony should not and cannot preclude the accused from raising the . . . issue" of whether he was granted the "due process of law" prescribed by the 14th amendment.

It was the second time in two weeks that the high court ruled favorably on appeals of Negro teenagers. Last week the court set aside the first degree murder conviction of John Harvey Haley, 15, who had been sen-

FBI Arrests Woman Leader

NEW YORK—Claudia Jones, secretary of the National Women's Commission of the Communist party, has been arrested on a deportation warrant, it was revealed this week.

Miss Jones has been active for many years in the Communist movement, and served at one time as secretary of its Negro Commission. She is charged with being an alien who advocates and teaches the overthrow of the government by force.

The arrest was made at her home by officers of the Immigration Service and the FBI. Bond was set at $1000.

600 Delegates at PCA Meet Blast Old Parties; Map Fight on Jimcrow

A specific program to end racial discrimination and segregation in America was unanimously adopted by the 600 delegates at the second annual Progressive Citizens of America convention held in Chicago, as it endorsed the candidacy of Henry Wallace for President and took steps to join in forming a new third party.

More than 50 Negro delegates from a dozen states participated in the convention.

Five of them were elected vice-chairmen. They are W. E. B. Du Bois, research director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People; Bishop R. R. Wright Jr., L. Joseph R. Johnson, dean of the medical school of Howard university; Roscoe Dunjee of Oklahoma, editor of the Black Dispatch, and Paul Robeson, noted singer.

A large group of the delegates met with Wallace during the convention, informing him that they had "designated no leaders" to speak for them and believed that "the Negro people at the grass roots" felt he was the "only presidential candidate in America" they could support. Delegates from California, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Missouri, Iowa, Baltimore, New Jersey and New York were among the group.

Wallace pledged them his full support in the campaign to eliminate discrimination and segregation.

Major planks in the statement on civil rights for Negroes, to which the convention and Wallace gave full support, included:

- Passage of a federal anti-lynching bill and an anti-poll-tax bill.
- Halting of federal aid to any

Challenge Right Of Polltaxers to Sit In Congress

NEW YORK—The constitutional right of congressmen to sit in the house in the name of large Negro populations which are effectively barred from voting gets its first high court test this month when Earl Dickerson, noted Negro attorney of Chicago, argues an appeal before the United States court of appeals in Washington in the case of Eugene Dennis, general secretary of the Communist party, convicted of contempt of the Un-American Activities Committee.

In the appeal, slated for oral argument on January 27, Dickerson, retained by the Civil Rights Congress, will develop the defense that the presence on the committee of John E. Rankin makes it an unlawfully constituted congressional committee because, under the 14th amendment, Mississippi is not entitled to seven representatives.

This main aspect of defense is based on the second section of the historic 14th amendment which declares:

"But when the right to vote at any election for the choice of electors for President and Vice-President of the United States, representatives in congress . . . is denied to any male inhabitant of such State, . . . or in any way abridged . . . the basis of representation therein shall be reduced in the

Childs reportedly had visited his wife that evening in an attempt to effect a reconciliation. An argument ensued and in the melee which followed Childs received two bullets in the leg.

Childs was reported resting easily at the hospital. He is the proprietor of the La Vogue Barber Shop at Denker and Jefferson.

Young Nickerson Acquitted of Assault Charges

Melvin Nickerson, son of William Nickerson, founder and first president of the Golden State Mutual Insurance Company, was found not guilty and acquitted on both counts of double information charging him with felonious wife beating and assault with a deadly weapon.

The acquittal came at the hands of Judge Walter S. Gates last Friday morning as the result of a brilliant defense conducted by Attorney Curtis C. Taylor, noted criminal lawyer.

The charges were filed by pretty Frances Nickerson, estranged wife of the youthful defendant, who had told a harrowing story of a brutal beating and choking by young Nickerson on October 30, last. The assault with a deadly weapon charge was filed by Thomas Montgomery, alleged friend of Melvin Griffin whose

Gus Hawkins to Address IPC Parley Sunday

Assemblyman Augustus A. Hawkins will be one of the feature speakers at the third annual convention of the Inter-Project Council on Sunday evening, Jan. 25, in the Aliso Community Hall, 1401 East 1st St.

Others scheduled to address the IPC, city-wide public housing residents' group, include: William Belton, CIO Veterans Bureau; Lloyd A. Mashburn, secretary-treas. A.F. of L. Building and Construction Trades Council; Howard Holtzendorf, executive director Los Angeles Housing Authority and Edward Roybal.

Of major concern to the delegates, who will represent both city and county housing units, will be the question of the 800 families living in the 10 low rent projects of the City Housing Authority now faced with eviction.

Admission to the evening meeting is free.

Fanning, Douglas In Plea for New E'side Post Office

WASHINGTON—Postmaster Mike Fanning has arrived in Washington to confer with Post Office Department officials regarding the critical conditions existing at the Station K post office, Vernon near Central. His trip is being made at the request of Congresswoman Helen Gahagan Douglas.

Since there are no appropriations for new post office buildings and since more adequate facilities in the vicinity of Station K are not available for leasing, Postmaster Fanning has recommended a substitute proposal. He is urging the Post Office Department to lease suitable quarters at Vernon and Santa Fe avenues for an additional classified carrier station which will ease the burden on Station K and also similarly effect the Vernon Branch post office.

Postmaster Fanning telephone Mrs. Douglas' Washington office to inform her of his action in this matter and to express his hopes that the many months of effort and the time she has devoted to correcting the overcrowded facilities of Station K will soon be awarded.

Editor Speaks on 3rd Party in S. Barbara

SANTA BARBARA — The Progressive Citizens of America and the Third Party movement supporting Henry A. Wallace for president were given a big boost here Sunday afternoon.

A committee headed by Robert Warmser and Walter Woznack secured the Civic Recreation Center for a Sunday afternoon mass meeting which featured Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass, editor and publisher of The California EAGLE, as the principal speaker.

Mrs. Bass spoke on the Independent Progressive party, the third party in California, and its efforts to get on the ballot. To do so there must be 257,970 signatures appended to the petitions being circulated everywhere throughout the State. The goal set by the IPP, however, is 500,000 in order to be certain that the required number of valid signatures is secured.

Mrs. Bass stressed especially the need of a new party, one that will put into practice the principles of Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

"These principles have been betrayed by the present administration," she said, "and there is scarcely any difference today

Fill 'Em In, Turn 'Em In

The campaign deadline for the 275,970 signatures to place the Independent Progressive Party on the ballot is near. The call has gone out to all campaign workers that the situation is urgent. Every campaign worker is urged to do a minimum of two hours concentrated work each day for the next seven days. Many have already been doing more than that, and have volunteered for still more.

"The course of the National Third Party movement will be determined by what we produce in this period," says Hugh Bryson, state chairman on behalf of the State Organizing Committee.

CARVER MEMORIAL services were quite impressive, held in the picturesque setting of Clifton's Olive Cafe. In charge of a Negro Guest Artist program that appears each Monday afternoon at Clifton's is Mr. Horace E. Owens, who may be seen on the left. Other participants in Monday's program were: Mr. Fred McConnell, mgr. of the cafeteria, Willard Bristol, Julia Smith, Tina Russell. Front row: Gladys Scoggins, Charlotte A. Bass, speaker of the afternoon, Emile Williams, Ginger Smock and Mr. Buckner.

Hotel Bias on Decline in New York State

ALBANY, N. Y. (Global)—Atty. Gen. Goldstein reported this week that substantial progress is being made in New York State toward the elimination of racial and religious bias in hotels, restaurants, resorts and other places of public accommodation.

Of several hundred complaints received in his office, about one-fifth were settled by "educational tactics," Goldstein said. Conciliation proved effective in view of the fact that New York State has anti-discriminatory laws.

Liberty Savings Assets Now Exceed $ Million and Half

The Liberty Savings and Loan Association in its 24th annual financial statement released last week shows total assets of $1,539,806.12. This response represents an increase of approximately 627.3% in the Association's assets since 1942. The reserves and undivided profits total $154,174.99. How women and girls may get wanted relief from functional periodic pain

Cardui is a liquid medicine which many women say has brought relief from the cramp-like agony and nervous strain of functional periodic distress. Here's how it may help:

1- Taken like a tonic, it should stimulate appetite, aid digestion,* thus help build resistance for the "time" to come.

2- Started 2 days before "your time", it should help relieve pain due to purely functional periodic causes.

Try Cardui. If it helps, you'll be glad you did.

The Southern California home furnishings industry, sponsoring the campaign to raise $100,000 for the Damon Runyon Memorial Fund has reached a good portion of that goal, Chairman Henry Feinb[illegible] announced yesterday. Edward Hoffman, chairman of the entertainment and public relations committees, said the campaign, being climaxed with a Biltmore Bowl banquet to be attended by over 1000 persons January 27 during the Los Angeles Furniture Market Week, is a complete sellout.

The concentrated efforts of this $100,000,000 industry will present leading figures of the entertainment world, including Red Skelton, Dennis Day, Danny Thomas, Jo Stafford, Jan Rubini, Felix DeCola and Robert Brown, Larry Blake and others have pledged their cooperation.

THE REALM OF RELIGION

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By REV. IKE EVANS, D.D.

Subject: When We Work with God; Lesson Text and Outline, 2 Cor. 5:20, 21.6:1-10. Motto Text 1 Cor. 3:9.

Introduction

When, by His grace and guidance, we work with God in His strength and service, we are doing His work for His glory. Then we are fellow workers with each other and workers together with Him. Our basic assignment and achievement, as Paul here teaches, must be winning sinners to Christ and building up belief in Christ.

Comments

Faithful ministers are Christ's ambassadors, sent to treat with sinners on peace and reconciliation: they come in God's name, with His entreaties, and act in Christ's stead, doing the very thing He did when He was upon this earth, and what He wills to be done now that He is in heaven. Wonderful condescension! Though God can be no loser by the quarrel, nor gainer by the peace, yet by his ministers he beseeches sinners to lay aside their enmity, and accept of the terms he offers, that they would be reconciled to him, to all his attributes, to all his laws, and to all his providences, to believe in the Mediator, to accept the atonement, and comply with his gospel, in all the parts of it and in the whole design of it. The purity of the Mediator: He knew no sin. The sacrifice he offered: He was made sin; not a sinner, but sin, that is, a sin-offering, a sacrifice for sin. The end and design of all this: that we might be made the righteousness of God in Him, might be justified freely by the grace of God through the redemption which is in Christ Jesus.

Comment on the Motto Text

We are laborers with God, coworkers, fellow-laborers, not indeed in the same order and degree, but in subordination to him, as instruments in his hand. We are engaged in God's business. We are working together with God, in promoting the purposes of His glory, and the salvation of precious souls; and he who knows their work will take care they do not labor in vain. Men may neglect and vilify one minister while they cry up another, and have no reason for either: they may condemn when they should commend, and applaud what they should neglect and avoid; but the judgment of God is according to truth. He never rewards but upon just reason, and he ever rewards in proportion to the diligence and faithfulness of His servants. Faithful ministers, when they are ill used by men, should encourage themselves in God. And it is to God, the chief agent and director of the great work of the gospel, to whom those that labor with Him should endeavor to approve themselves.

The members of the First AME Zion church, corner of Pico and Paloma, have a great reason to rejoice because of the splendid recovery that is being made by their pastor, Rev. Shepherd H. Marion. After an intensive financial drive from February to June 1947, in which he personally raised more than $5000.00 toward the repair of the church, Rev. Marion became ill and on the advice of physicians, has taken a complete rest. However, he will be in his pulpit for the eleven o'clock service Sunday, January 25, and will be glad to welcome members and friends to the services.

With the assistance of Mrs. Marion, the pastor has directed the work of the church, and all business meetings, conferences and religious services have been splendidly conducted by the Assistant pastor, Rev. J. G. Edmonds, with the help of Rev. Roger Willis. Both of these ministers have constantly led the church in prayer for the complete recovery of the pastor.

The trustees have planned special programs for Sunday, January 25, and the congregation will be given an opportunity to show their love and appreciation of Rev. and Mrs. Marion.

Oregon Bishop Raps Portland For Race Bias

PORTLAND, Ore.—The Rt. Rev. Benjamin D. Dagwell, Bishop of the Episcopal Church's diocese of Oregon, in a speech at a Chamber of Commerce Forum, struck out at hotel and restaurant operators who practice racial discrimination.

Referring to the recent commemoration of Christmas, with carols and the setting up of Bethlehem manger scenes, the bishop declared this but a hollow mockery as long as there is no room in Portland hotels for Negroes, "even those of distinction and culture."

"I know this is an unpopular thing to say, but I wonder if the hotel and restaurant men's associations think there is no similarity between the case of the Jewish mother who could find no room at the inn, and in barring Negroes from their establishments," the bishop said.

A.V.C. Gives Picnic to Kiddies

The Business and Professional chapter of the A. V. C. gave a picnic at Griffith Park last Saturday for 75 kiddies from Pilgrim House. Games and refreshments in abundance were the order of the day. A group of 12 young veterans and girls were the hosts, Arthur J. Bacon Jr. directing the group. Mr. and Mrs. G. Raymond Booth, who organized the event, were among the visitors. The kiddies were of Negro, Mexican and Japanese groups.

This is an outgrowth of the work of Pilgrim House in getting children of the area out into the larger community; the Pilgrim House plan of visits, interchanges and special events. Over 500 children had some of these contacts in the past year. For February the A. V. C. will give a party and motion picture show at the center and will attend the fourth annual public meeting of Pilgrim House Sunday, Feb. 1, from 4 to 6 p.m.

Christian Science Subject 'Truth'

"Study to shew thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth." This admonition of Paul to Timothy will be the Golden Text of the Sunday Lesson-Sermon on "Truth" in all branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston.

It is related in I Kings that the son of the widow of Zarephath "fell sick; and his sickness was so sore, that there was no breath left in him." Then Elijah "said unto her, Give me they son. And he took him out of her bosom, and carried him up into a loft, where he abode, and laid him upon his own bed. . . . And the Lord heard the voice of Elijah; and the soul of the child came into him again, and he revived. And Elijah took the child, . . . and delivered him unto his mother: . . . And the woman said to Elijah, Now by this I know that thou art a man of God, and that the word of the Lord in thy mouth is truth."

Mary Baker Eddy says in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures:" "Instruct the sick that they are not helpless victims, for if they will only accept Truth, they can resist disease and ward it off, as positively as they can the temptation to sin."

EDITORIALS AND COMMENTS

Attention, Mr. Durem!

In our editorial, "The People are on the March," published in the issue of January 15, you take issue with us on several points, but particularly on the statement, and we quote "It took an Abraham Lincoln to settle the question of slavery, a Roosevelt to rescue the American people from a depression — it will take a Wallace to save this nation from destruction and ruin."

After all, Mr. Durem, an editorial opinion is not necessarily based on historic record. Hence we do not retract in the opinion expressed to which you take exception on the ground that we falsified history.

It took an Abraham Lincoln to settle the question of slavery. Well, figuratively, this is true. A man with the sort of courage of a President Truman, would perhaps have held back in placing his signature on the Emancipation Proclamation, as he did in vetoing the Taft-Hartley bill when it was first presented.

When Lincoln became President of the United States this nation was torn in half on the question of slavery. It was important for the President to move with caution, never far to the right nor to the left. Lincoln knew that there were rights under the law claimed by even slave owners, and any false move would have destroyed his ultimate goal — freedom of the slaves hoped to gain.

Hence like Jesus, who when questioned as to the ownership of the coin, asked whose inscription it bore. When His seducers replied, "Caesar's", then said Jesus, "Give it to Caesar."

We are aware that on another occasion Lincoln made such a statement as this: "If I can save the Union without interfering with slavery, I will do that; but if I can save the Union and free the slaves I will.

Yes, we are familiar with the history of all the forces that struggled to destroy slavery; and we do not undervalue John Brown, Frederick Douglass, Lovejoy, William Lloyd Garrison, and Harriet Beecher Stowe for the heroic role they played in the Abolition movement. But we hail Lincoln, as we said in the editorial, as the man who made the final stroke that settled the question of slavery.

And why?

Because as a young man Lincoln at one time was a boatman, and made several trips down the Mississippi. He went on a flatboat to New Orleans one trip, and chanced to attend a slave auction. Looking on while one slave after another was knocked down to the highest bidder, his indignation grew until at length he cried out, "Boys, let's get away from this. If I ever get a chance to hit that thing, I'll hit it hard." Thirty years later he was able to keep this threat. He hit it with his pen when he signed "The Emancipation Proclamation."

For the accuracy of this statement, Mr. Durem, you may consult "American Leaders and Heroes" by Wilbur Fisk Goodey.

You challenge our statement that Rosevelt rescued the people from a depression unlike any other in the history of our nation.

Immediately after World War I despite the fact Hoover had promised the American worker a chicken in every pot, if your memory serves you correctly, and if you were old enough to remember, this nation sank into a depression that threatened our human existence.

Soldiers with hungry, drawn faces sold apples on street corners. There were Hoovervilles made of discarded bits of tin and pieces of cardboard with which these soldiers had built homes for themselves and their families to live. Women with babies in their arms, but no milk in their breasts, went from door to door begging milk for their babies.

Franklin Delano Roosevelt did not sit in the White House and twiddle his thumbs while the people starved.

To the tune of complaints from the politicians, he set to work many projects—The Civilian Conservation Corps, the Work Projects Administration, the Public Works Administration, the Federal Emergency Relief Administration, the National Youth Administration, and many others—all designed to give food to the hungry and shelter to the homeless.

For every world crisis a Messiah has come from among the people to lead them into the land of promise.

Lincoln, Roosevelt, and now Wallace—the gaps between these periods have been devastating and discouraging. But under Wallace we take hold again, and we shall not cease in our struggle until the common people in all the world shall be delivered from Fascism, and all the oppressed are liberated.

Deep Are the Roots

Deep are the convictions of Ray Spencer who is responsible for the presentation of "Deep are the Roots" at the Belasco theatre this week.

Few people who have watched the parade of American life on and off the stage and from the sidewalk for far more years than Ray Spencer, are as deeply convinced as he is that such presentation as "Deep are the Roots" will eventually bridge the chasm that keeps the races of men so far apart, and such social enemies.

Inflammatory, unquestionably is this stage creation, written by Arnaud d'Usseau and James Grow, on which the effort is lavished. In fact there have been few plays to rival its incendiary content on the racial issue, says one newspaper.

But another daily newspaper took a more charitable view of "Deep are the Roots."

It said, in part, that the impressive drama which opened last week at the Belasco reflects a condition whose evil excesse have been covered in the nation's press, its closeness to fact adds power to its theatrical effectiveness.

Is our opinion "Deep are the Roots" attacks the question of solving the race problem at the root of the evil. In fast time it tells a story that is well known to Americans on the white side of the social calendar, and those on the black side.

Many Americans take pride in saying such a drama could not be shown in the South.

It took a blood bath to wash away human slavery in the South. Perhaps it will take more than the portrayal of Southern deep-seated arrogance, and the self-styled superiority complex to convince the South that the Negro is now ready to stand up and shake off his burden of mental bondage.

We are convinced that the characters, selected to play the different parts in "Deep are the Roots" were well chosen and sympathetically related.

With no intention of being naieve or selfish from a racial point of view, to us it seems that both Mrs. Jessie Coles Grayson and James Edwards reached the pinnacle in their profession. They accepted the challenge and proved that Negro actors do not have to be Uncle Toms to meet the standard in good interpretation and acting when given the opportunity.

Jessie Grayson has poise and dignity. Neither is unduly cultivated. In her these qualities are innate and fine.

Let's have more plays of the "Deep are the Roots" type, and greater opportunity for dignified roles for all of our Negro actors.

What Does Gandhi Have

"You know, Gandhi seems to have something there," more than one person remarked when he read of the victory of Mohandas K. Gandhi, the 78-year-old wizened little leader of India.

Gandhi had fasted 122 hours, from 10:30 Tuesday morning to 12:30 p.m. Sunday, January 18. He had declared he would not eat anything until the Hindus of India and the Moslems of Pakistan agreed to settle their grievances peaceably. He would go down "unto glorious death" if peace were not made.

Gandhi won. Hindu and Sikh leaders agreed to the terms Gandhi prescribed, giving Moslems certain rights within Hindu India that had been denied them before.

Among those rights was the privilege of religious freedom, to hold their annual religious fair, to have their mosques that had been converted into Hindu temples, restored; to be guaranteed safety while traveling on the railroads, to lift the economic boycott on all Moslems.

The great leaders of Hindu, including Premier Jawahrial Nehru, who has desired peace, and the extremist leader, Rashtriya Sewak, who bitterly demanded war, grouped themselves around the bed of the feeble man, and in a tense ceremony pledged themselves to work for peace.

Now, what has Gandhi got, to use the language of the boys of the street, that we haven't got? That anyone else hasn't got, for that matter?

It couldn't be merely the threat to fast unto death that brought those rebellious leaders like penitent little children to his feet. That made them promise to "be good." Had anyone tried such a stunt in this country, the verdict would doubtless have been, "Let him fast, if he wants to. Nobody's stopping him."

No, there was something more than a childish stunt like throwing himself on the floor and kicking and screaming until he got his way.

The motive which prompted Mohandas Gandhi, the Holy Man of India, to sacrifice himself, even to the death if necessary, was the same motive which prompted Jesus, the Christ, to sacrifice his life on the cross. It was done for others. It was done for the peace of the world. It was done for humanity.

And it was this spirit of utter selflessness that penetrated into the hearts and minds of his followers, and induced them to yield when force had no effect.

Do we have any of this spirit in America? We would count it ridiculous, no doubt, to go hungry in order to win any good for mankind as a whole. There is no leader in America whose followers would so willingly do his bidding, as those of Gandhi's did. We are not willing to go even a tiny mite hungry, that others may be fed.

But if we had just a bit of that spirit of selflessness that Gandhi manifested, the same spirit as Jesus had, all wars would cease and the one world for which we have been praying would come into existence even as we fasted and prayed. And alone in America. But in all our efforts, if the spirit of Gandhi, and of Jesus, imbued our every thought, our success would be as great as that of Mohandas Gandhi, the Mahatma or Holy Man of India.

THINGS I SEE

By Marian Inglewood

"We should not be too afraid of being called Communists," remarked Dr. Francis Townsend, of the Townsend Old Age Pension Plan, when the third party was being launched and everyone knew that if it got on the ballot, it would be dubbed "Communistic" first thing.

Other men and women who have the backbone and the intestinal fortitude to stand by their convictions, are thinking and saying the same thing. This in spite of the falling away of those who formerly professed such great faith in the principles of Franklin Roosevelt, but who now scurry under cover like 'fraidy cats at the mere shadow of that bogey, Communism.

A militant religious magazine, The Churchman, gives point to this observation. It has never for one moment wavered, not even after the nineteen screen writers and directors were made guinea pigs and examples to the rest of the nation of what would happen to them if they didn't watch out.

Says W. Russell Bowie, Dean of Men, Union Theological Seminary: "I am opposed to Communism, its spirit and its methods. I do not, however, intend to be prevented from expressing my opinion on certain definite questions which seem to me to involve clear cut issues of fairness and decency and justice because of the fact that some Communist or Communist organization might hold the same opinion. I do not intend to let the smear tactics of professional red-baiters produce in me a silly timidity in saying what I think is the truth."

And a resolution adopted by the House of Bishops of the Protestant Episcopal Church rings out a clarion appeal: "We call upon the people of our churches to be on their guard lest an hysterical fear of Communism shall lead us to fight that danger with weapons destructive of the treasures we seek to guard . . . The casting of public suspicion on fellow citizens under the protection of Congressional immunity can readily become an offense against God's commandment: Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor . . . We hold it to be the duty of every Christian citizen to guard for others the freedom of conscience we treasure for ourselves."

In a letter to the editor of this same Churchman, Mr. Otis Moore, of Garnerville, N. Y., writes: "'If we had been in the days of our fathers, we would not have been partakers with them in the blood of the prophets.' If we had been alive in the days of William Lloyd Garrison and Wendell Phillips and John Brown of Ossawatume, we would not have been among those that heaped indignities upon them. No? But if today a man opens his mouth for any progressive or humane objective, are you one of those who joins the pack with 'He's a Communist. He's a fellow traveler. He's a traitor?'"

So you see not all America has fallen down before Baal. Some of us even have the courage to tell those wavering turncoats and hypocrites what we think of them—those who used to fawn at the very name of Roosevelt, but who now bellow loudly against the humanitarian ideals which that great leader tried to make real. Here's part of a letter one woman wrote to Walter Winchell, whose hysterical broadcasts keep warning us of how the Russians are about to descend upon us:

"We hear constantly about atheists and reds these days, but I would like to point out that if your present broadcasts are a sample of Christianity, then Christianity is doomed and we had all better try atheism. In my condemnation of your actions I speak for millions of Americans and world citizens who dare not speak out for themselves due to economic insecurity and fear of losing their jobs which are essential in order that their families may be maintained."

It's too bad not more of us have the courage to beard the lions in their dens as this woman did. You hear so much of the power of public opinion. Walter Winchell and no one else would dare to broadcast the kind of stuff he does, if he did not feel the public generally was with him.

And that reminds me, we can make ourselves felt even more potently than by writing letters to radio commentators. That's at the ballot box. The ballot box is the most powerful weapon the Common Man can have. But you can't put your ballot in the ballot box, you can't vote unless you are registered. So make up your mind to register at once. Come into the office of The California Eagle, 4071 South Central avenue, now, and prepare yourself as an American citizen to vote in '48.

To Secure These Rights

The Report of the President's Committee on Civil Rights

(Eighth Installment)

EFFORTS TO IMPROVE SITUATION

Reference has already been made to the Fair Employment Practice Committee. This Committee was established by President Roosevelt in an Executive Order adted June 25, 1941. Its mandate was to eliminate discriminatory employment practices within the federal government and in companies and unions which had contract swith the government or which were engaged in the production of materials necessary to the war effort. The FEPC, as a practical matter, served as a clearing house for complaints alleging various types of employment discrimination. It had no enforcement powers of its own; and no recourse to the courts.

The effectiveness of the FEPC was due almost entirely to its success as a mediation body in persuading a union or employer to revise the particular policy or practice complained of. During its most active two years, FEPC closed an average of 250 cases a month, about 100 of which were satisfactorily adjusted. The Committee's work ended in June, 1946, when congress failed to appropriate funds for the ensuing fiscal year. In a letter of June 28, 1946, to the Committee accepting the resignation of its members, President Truman said:

"The degree of effectiveness which the Fair Employment Practice Committee was able to attain has shown once and for all that it is possible to eualize job opportunity by government action, and thus eventually to eliminate the influence of prejudice in the field of employment."

There are six states which have laws directed against discrimination in private employment. The New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, and Connecticut statutes have strong enforcement provisions. In general, the statutes in these four states maek it unlawful for employers to discriminate in hiring, firing, or conditions of employment, or for labor unions to exclude, expel, or discriminate, because of race, color, creed or national origin. They also prohibit the use of discriminatory help-wanted ads and job applications by employers and employment agencies. State commissions are empowered to investigate complaints, to hold hearings, to attempt to conciliate, to issue cease-and-desist orders, and finally, to seek court enforcement of these orders. Indiana and isconsin have anti-discrimination statutes without enforcement provisions. The commissions in these two states serve therefore as educational and advisory agencies.

The progress that has been made in New York State under its fair employment practice act is suggested by the first annual report (for the year 1946) of the State Commission Against Discrimination. In its introduction the Report states:

"The operation of the law has definitely resulted in progress in the elimination of illegal discriminatory practices. The testimony of people actually engaged in job-placement activities reveals that fields of opportunity previously closed to certain groups are now open to all, regardless of race, creed, color or national origin. Resistance to the law has lessened as demonstrated by the fact that employes of all groups are being hired and upgraded into new occupational categories. Preemployment discriminatory inquiries are now the rarity, rather than the rule."

A few scattered cities, among them Chicago, Minneapolis, New York, and Cincinnati, have enacted ordinances designed to prevent discrimination in employment practices. These vary greatly in scope. Some are directed solely at municipal employment; others apply to private employers having contracts wit hthe city; and at least one covers labor unions in addition to public and private employers. Some carry fines and imprisonment for violators, while others, with no sanctions or enforcement provisions, are little more than policy statements.

THE RIGHT TO EDUCATION

The United States has made remarkable progress toward the goal of universal education for its people. The number and variety of its schools and colleges are greater than ever before. Student bodies have become increasingly representative of all the different peoples who make up our population. Yet we have not finally eliminated prejudice and discrimination from the operation either our public of our private schools and colleges. Two inadequacies are extremely serious. We have failed to provide Negroes and, to a lesser extent, other minority group members with equality of educational opportunities in our public institutions, particularly at the elementary and secondary school levels. We have allowed discrimination in the operation of many of our private institutions of higher education, particularly in the North with respect to Jewish students.

Discrimination in public schools.—The failure to give Negroes equal educational opportunities is naturaly most acute in the South, where approximately 10 million Negroes live. The South is one o fthe poorer sections of the country and has at best only limited funds to spend on its schools. With 34.5 percent o fthe country's population, 17 southern states and the District of oClumbia had 39.4 percent of our schoo' children. Yet the South has only one-fifth o fthe tax-paying wealth of the nation. Actually, on a percentage basis, the South spends a greater share of its income on education than do the wealthier states in other parts o fthe country. For example, Mississippi, which has the lowest expenditure per school child of any state, is ninth in percentage of income devoted to education. A recent study showed Mississippi spending 3.41 of its income for educatio nas against New York's rigure of only 2.61 percent. But this meant $400 per classroom unit in Mississippi, and $4,100 in New York. Negro and white school children both suffer because of the South's basic inability to match the level of educational opportunity provided in other sections of the nation.

But it is the South's segregated school system which most directly discriminates against the Negro. This segregation is found today in 17 southern states and the iDstrict of Columbia. Poverty-stricken though it was after the close of the Civil War, the South chose to maintain two sets of public schools, one for whites and one for Negroes. With respect to education, as well as to other public services, the Committee believes that the "separate but equal" rule has not been obeyed in practice. There is a marked difference in quality between the educational opportunities offered white children and Negro children in the separate schools. Whatever test is used —expenditure per pupil, teachers' salaries, the number of pupils per teacher, transportation o fstudents, adequacy of school buildings and educational equipment, length of school term, ex-

INFLUENZA

"Doctor, I want to discuss something with you, can you spare me a few minutes?" It was Willie Jordan on the telephone, sounding very business-like for a 17 year old high school student.

"Well, Willie, it sounds important enough to spare all the minutes you'll need," I answered, smiling at his serious tone.

We made an appointment and the next afternoon Willie came into my office with a notebook tucked under his arm.

"I'm one of the reporters on the Franklin Key, our school paper," he explained after we had exchanged greetings. "Last month Jerry White wrote a story on colds for our paper. This month the fellows asked me to write something on influenza.

"An excellent practice, Willie," I commended. "And you want me to give you a hand with the story, right?"

"That's right, sir," he answered.

"Suppose I just talk to you about influenza and you stop me and ask any questions you wish if I don't make a point clear to you," I said.

"First of all, Willie, I think you shoud emphasize the fact that influenza is a highly infectious disease, the germs spread quickly from one person to another. That's why there is always the danger of an epidemic when 'flu' is around.

"You are too young to remember the 'flue epidemic in 1918. It killed a lot of people and created quite a panic in the country. We doctors hope there will never be another epidemic like that. A new vaccine was developed in 1940 which serves as a measure of immunity, at least for a short period of time.

"This vaccine was developed by injecting influenza virus, the germ which causes the 'flu,' into an egg containing an unborn chick. The vaccine is effective only if taken before exposure to influenza. It does not provide permanent immunity, but it is effective for at least six months to a year."

"Does it cure influenza, too?" Willie asked.

"No, it does not cure influenza, it is only a preventive measure," I replied.

"What are the symptoms of 'flu'?" he asked.

"Influenza usually starts with a headache, moderate fever, general pains all over the body and marked prostration. The victim may also have a sore throat and an irritating cough. It is sometimes further complicated by pneumonia, pleurisy or bro tis."

"It sounds pretty serious," lie commented.

"It is serious." I answ "The patient should be i ted immediately so that does not spread it to ot Old people and children especially susceptible to i ease.

"The course of influen brief, but convalescence ta long time, weeks and months in some cases. Th tient should be kept in be some time after his fever disappeared in order to di age a relapse which might with it more serious com tions.

"Since emotional depressi apt to follow an attack o fluenza, the patient should valesce in pleasant surro ings. The worst mistake th tient can make is to retu work too soon."

"It sounds like a lot of tr I think I'll get vacci against disease," Willie sa I concluded.

"That's another point yo bring out, Willie. Your will tell you whether or no should have the influenza cine because he knows general physical makeup susceptibility to disease."

"This information is goi make an interesting article tor, thanks a lot," Willie preparing to leave.

"It'll make an informati ticle Willie, and I'm sure one who reads it will appre it," I answered.

On August 17, 1948, the Indonesian people will celebrate the third anniversary of their republic. After 350 years under the Dutch and 3½ years under the Japanese, we finally established our own republic, governed by Indonesians for the Indonesian people. Certainly, it is not to the satisfaction of the Dutch, British and American governments which still would like to exploit the rich Indonesian islands and continue their fascist methods of government by giving no free speech, exiling all political leaders, etc.

"Hubbub in Java" is written by an Australian war correspondent, John Thompson. There are few books written about the struggle of the Indonesian people or the atrocities committed by the British and Dutch troops. Thompson's description of the burning of Bekassi by the British troops will make your blood pressure rise. This city, located a few miles away from Batavia and with a population of 20,000, was burned to the ground, the fleeing population strafed by Royal Air Force Mosquitoes and Thunderbolt planes. The Indonesian newspaper "Merdeka," under the headline "Lidice Number Two," declared: "The burning of Bekassi and the strafing of fugitives (as officially announced by the Allies) really indicates that there is no longer any difference between Nazi German actions and those of British democracy . . ."

Regarding the use of Jap troops against the Indone Thompson says: "They (nese troops) went into acti many places on the British Dutch behalf, and at Bam they manned artillery an tacked the Indonesians tanks." Yet, the Dutch go ment with the aid of the tionary press in the U States came out with a ment saying that the Indon republic is made in Japan that Dr. Sukarno, the pr president, is a collaborator.

The truth is that under Dutch government Dr. Suk was exiled three times. During Japanese occupation he head of the national provis government of Indonesia. wielded his power to help underground anti-Japa movement led by Drs. Sja Sjarifuddin and others.

At the last meeting of United Nations Organization year, the Three Power Com sion that was sent to Indon submitted its report. A LAYMAN'S VIEW

By Leon W. Steward

FROM SHIP YARDS IN '42 TO BUSINESS IN '48

What has become of the thousands who came to Los Angeles when the shooting war was on? Well, it appears that many sent back for all of their neighbors and kindred and are here to stay. But this is not a story of a mass movement nor a discussion of the wisdom nor the foolishness of the group who came to work and are remaining to live in the land of sunshine and flowers. It is the simle telling of just what has become of one couple out of many who are making Los Angeles a better place in which to live in consequence of their sojourn amongst us.

MEET THE ALBERTIS B. FISHER

Yes, meet the Fishers from Texas They came from Marshall, Texas where the land is just about as red as are the necks of a large part of its population. Albertis was the second oldest of two sons and four daughters of Tom and Willette Fisher. That sticky red soil of northeast Texas was not much for farming, so Tom was a long-time worker in the Texas and Pacific railroad shops and he sent every one of his brood to the public schools of Marshall. Albertis was only one of them to graduate.

After graduating from high school he went to Tyler, Texas and entered Butler college of that community. However, after one year at Butler, he met so many charming misses that he decided that a "cottage" course with a popular young lady would be much more interesting than a college course at Butler. So he quit college to marry but did not marry for nine long years. He just could not seem to make up his mind to assume this responsibility until he finally met Miss Corrie B. Leach, a very popular and very charming young lady, who put an end to the nine years of work on a farm, saw mills and running his own grocery store trying to get ready to get married.

Ever since marrying Miss Leach he has had some one to help him make up his mind, a real life partner. So he went into the taxi business which he operated for about seven years when Mrs. Corrie heard the call to California (she helped Albertis to make up his mind) and they landed in Los Angeles in August 1943.

THEIR ROOTS ARE DEEP

Arriving in Los Angeles the two first faced and solved their initial housing problem and went to work in the ship yards. After a year of working and saving their money Fisher ran into a man with a pressing shop for sale at 2219 S. Central ave. Corrie said "Let's buy it." They did, early in 1944. A little later they bought their present home at 1174 E. 24th street. Having had a bit of experience in the laundry work during his younger days, Fisher, with the encouragement of his life partner, bought a hand laundry at 2301 Griffith avenue in July 1945, both are going great guns at this writing as is their second pressing shop at 2816 S. Central ave.

The Fishers have not been so engaged in these enterprises that they have lost the connections which had served thm well in the past. It was back in 1943 that they joined St. Paul Baptist church, where Mrs. Fisher sings in the choir and her quiet unassuming but friendly husband is a faithful church member. He also is a Mason and a YMCA member. They both are enthusiastic members of the local NAACP. They are both registered voters who always vote whenever the polls are open for business. They both hold policies with the Golden State Mutual Life Insurance Co. of Los Angeles, and they are enthusiastic boosters for all of these connections. In other words the Albertis Fishers came in 1943 to help win the war and have remained to plant in California roots that are deep. There are many others who hape done likewise.

Supreme Court Upholds Nisei Property Rights

WASHINGTON — The U. S. Supreme Court last Monday outlawed a move by the State of California to deprive a native born American of Japanese ancestry of his property but ducked a ruling on the constitutionality of the California law which prohibits from owning land in the state.

The court held that the state discriminated against Fred Oyama, American born son of Japanese parents, when it seized under the Alien Land Law two parcels of land in San Diego county deeded to the boy.

The state contended that the deed to the youth was a subterfuge, and that the land actually belonged to the father, Kajiro Oyama, who under a racist statute on the federal books is ineligible for citizenship.

In a minority opinion, four justices concurred in the majority opinion but would have declared the California law flatly unconstitutional. The four were: Justices Hugo Black, William O. Douglas, Wiler B. Rutledge and Frank Murphy.

The law was challenged by the Oyamas as race legislation aimed directly at one class of aliens—Japanese.

Trail Blazers:

William Roberts

By PHYLLIS SCOTT

Those who have watched William Roberts through the years are convinced that he's one of the best morticians in the business. He achieved this recognition by putting his head to the grindstone and gaining a full comprehension of methods producing the best possible service. Acting in a dual capacity he has integrated into the firm his experience as bookkeeper-accountant, analyst, and a thorough knowledge of mortuary science. Today, he is the oldest practicing mortician of the pioneer firm in the west.

Roberts, a Californian by birth, was graduated from the Los Angeles public schools. His interest in agriculture and land prompted him to study irrigation engineering at Colorado college. Not long after his return from Colorado he took a desert claim in San Bernadino, where he developed an orchard on the land.

But his father, the late Andrew J. Roberts, beckoned him to enter the family business with his son and daughter, Fred M. and Myrtle Estelle. Out of this union the Roberts Mortuary, which has been established for over 40 years, grew and became a cornerstone in the early development of the community.

As managing director and secretary his standards for the concern are very high. He believes that the undertaking business is one of great responsibility and trust and should be treated as such. Several years ago, he made a careful study over a ten year period of operation costs, which enabled him to arrive at minimum funeral costs in the profession. As a result of this survey it is reputed that his initiative and experience has made his firm a leader in moderate priced funerals. Men of this profession hailed him for being the first to take such a study in the West.

His leadership in civic and fraternal organizations has been noteworthy. He served as past-master of Holland Masonic Lodge, past president of the California Morticians Association, contributor and member of the NAACP, YMCA, American Woodman, Knights and Daughters of Tabor, January club, Outdoor Life and Health Association, and adheres to the Baptist faith.

Like his father, he supports many churches . . . several well-known houses of worship were organized in Roberts chapel. Young aspirants to the profession have found him especially generous in giving them an opportunity to learn mortuary science under his tutelage.

A pleasant but businesslike gentleman, Roberts commands much respect among his professional colleagues and business competitors. He is at home in a crowd of men despite his easy and retiring manner. To intimate associates he is known as just plain Will and Bill. Unusually studious, thorough, and methodical, he is punctual and a stickler for promises. If he has any spare moments at all he's constantly studying and planning new business methods.

For a vacation from the office he retreats to the High Sierras, hunting everything from rabbit to deer. And he's also an avid fisherman, enjoying mountain lake as well as deep sea fishing. He is particularly interested in history and discusses ancient, modern, and Negro history with some authority.

He is married to the former Juanita Bailey, whom he met at Los Angeles High school, and is the father-friend to Lucille, William Jr., Andrew, and Elmer, who is active in the family business. At present Roberts is working on plans to enlarge the firm and make it the model mortuary.

To Secure These Rights

tent of curriculum—Negro students are invariably at a disadvantage. Opportunities for Negroes in public institutions of higher education in the South—particularly at the professional graduate school level—are severely limited.

Statistics in support of these conclusions are available. Figures provided by the United States Office of Education for the school year, 1943-44, show that the average length of the school term in the areas having separate schools was 173.5 days for whites, and 164 for Negroes; the number of pupils per teacher was 28 for white and 34 for Negroes; and the average annual salary for Negro teachers was lower than that for white teachers in all but three of the 18 areas. Salary figures are as follows:

Average annual salary of principals, supervisors and teachers in schools for—

State or District of Columbia:	Whites	Negroes
Alabama	$1158	$ 661
Arkansas	924	551
Delaware	1953.	1814

*Higher salaries due to the fact that most Negro schools are located in cities where all salaries are higher.

The South has made considerable progress in the last decade in narrowing the gap between educational opportunities afforded the white children and that afforded Negro children. For example, the gap between the length of the school year for whites and the shorter one for Negroes has been narrowed from 14.8 days in 1930-40 to 9.5 days in 1943-44. Similarly, the gap in student load per teacher in white and Negro schools has dropped from 8.5 students in 1939-40 to six students in 1943-44.

In spite of the improvement which is undoubtedly taking place, the Committee is convinced that the gap between white and Negro schools can never be completely eliminated by means of state funds alone. The cost of maintaining separate, but truly equal, school systems would seem to be utterly prohibitive in many of the southern states. It seems probable that the only means by which such a goal can finally be won will be through federal financial assistance. The extension of the federal grant-in-aid for educational purposes, already available to the land-grant colleges and, for vocational education, to the secondary school field, seems both imminent and desirable.

Whether the federal grant-in and should be used to support the maintenance of separate schools is an issue that the country must soon face.

In the North, segregation in education is not formal, and in some states is prohibited. Nevertheless, the existence of residential restrictions in many northern cities has had discriminatory effects on Negro education. In Chicago, for example, the schools which are most crowded and employ double shift schedules are practically all in Negro neighborhoods.

Other minorities encounter discrimination. Occasionally Indian children attending public schools in the western states are assigned to separate classrooms. Many Texas schools segregate Mexican American children in separate schools. In California segregation of Mexican American children was also practiced until recently. The combined effect of a federal court ruling, and legislative action repealing the statue under which school boards claimed authority to segregate, seems to have ended this pattern of discrimination in California schools.

DISCRIMINATION IN PRVATE SCHOOLS

The second inadequacy in our present education practices in America is the religious and racial discrimination that exists in the operation of some private education institutions, both with respect to the admission of students and the treatment of them after admission.

The Committee is absolutely convinced of the importance of the private educational institution to a free society. t does not question the right of groups of private citizens to establish such institutions, determine their character and policies, and operate them. But it does believe that such schools immediately acquire a public character and importance. Invariably they enjoy government support, if only in the form of exemption from taxation and in the privilege of income-tax deduction extended to their benefactors. Inevitably, they render public service by training our young people for life in a democratic society. Consequently, they are possessed of a public responsibility from which there is no escape.

Leading educators assert that a careful selection in admissions practices may be necessary to insure a representative and diversified student body. Liberal art colleges, in particular, have used this reasoning to limit the number of students enrolled from any one race or religion, as well as from any geographical section, preparatory school, or socio-economic background.

Nevertheless it is clear that there is much discrimination, based on prejudice, in admission of students to private colleges, vocational schools, and graduate schools. Since accurate statistical data is almost impossible to obtain this is difficult to prove. But competent observers are agreed that existence o fthis condition is widespread. Application blanks of many American colleges and universities include questions pertaining to the candidate's racial origin, religious preference, parents' birthplace, etc. In many of our northern educational institutions, enrollment of Jewish students seems never to exceed certain fixed points and there is never more than a token enrollment of Negroes.

The impact of discriminatory practices in private education is illustrated by the situation in New York City. The students of city colleges of New York are predominantly Jewish, resulting in part from the discrimination practiced by some local private institutions These colleges have high academic standards, but graduates from them with excellent records have been repeatedly denied admission to private and nonsectarian professional schools. A Special Investigating Committee of the council of the City of New York, recently established to examine this situation, found convincing evidence of discrimination against graduates of the city colleges by the medical schools in the city in violation of the Civil Rights Act of New oYrk. The Investigating Committee, after questioning witnesses and examining application blanks, concluded that various professional schools tried to get information about applicants which would indicate their race, religion, or national origin for "a purpose other than judging their qualifications for admission." Jews are not alone in being affected by these practices. One witness, a member of a medical school's admission committee, admitted to a prejudice against Irish Catholics which affected his judgement. The number of Negroes attendin gthese medical schools has been extremely low; less than 50 have been graduated from them in 25 years.

Certainly the public cannot long tolerate practices by private educational institutions which are in serious conflict with patterns of democratic life. By the closing of the door through bigotry and prejudice to equality of educational opportunity, the public is denied the manifold social and economic benefits that the talented individual might otherwise contribute to our society.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Mrs. Bass:

I am so sorry I was not able to be at the Second Baptist church Sunday, but my feet were very sore so I had to stay home.

I have been taking the California EAGLE from the stand all the time, but I am subscribing for it now for one year. I do hope that our members of Second Baptist will support the paper heartily.

Sincerely,
(Miss) Janice McReed Bean.

Dear Mrs. Bass:

I journeyed to Santa Barbara Sunday to give you moral support. You were marvelous, as usual. I talked to many of those present, and they seemed deeply impressed, both blacks and whites. "Carry on," Charlotte.

Your friend,
William Mells Watson,
Realty Company,
1008 East 33rd street.

Dear Mrs. Bass:

I want to commend you and your staff on the fine article you extended me in your last week's issue regarding my apointment as a resident in internal medicine at the Los Angeles General hospital. It makes me proud to know that you are imparting such "good news" through the medium of your wide-spread circulation to a people growing pregressively embittered and discouraged in an ever darkening world.

However, there is one omission you made. This was the fact that not only was I appointed resident, but so also was my good friend and colleague, Dr. Charles M. Mouton. He received an appointment of 2½ years' residency in pediatrics in this hospital.

Dr. Moutin was graduated from Meharry Medical College in 1946 and began his internship at this hospital in July, '46. Having completed 18 months of an internship with an especially excellent record, he was appointed as resident this past December, 1947.

Knowing you would want to print all the "good news," Dr. Mouton's appointment is certainly one not to be ignored.

Best wishes for your continued success I am

Ever sincerely,
Oner B. Barker Jr., M. D.

Editor's Note: Dr. Mouton's appointment was reported in the EAGLE of January 8.

San Diego Leaders Back Wallace, IPP

SAN DIEGO—The nation-wide Negro support for Henry A. Wallace hit San Diego this week with local Negro leaders issuing a call in support of Wallace and the Independent Progressive party.

Among those who signed the call, according to Lloyd Hamlin, local IPP campaign manager were Rev. J. J. Lewis, president o the local NAACP; Rev. N. E. Taylor, president of the San Diego Citizens Improvement and Protective League; Mrs. Grace Barnes, chairman, Committee Against Police Brutality; Ella R. Hutson, former member of the San Diego Democratic party central committee.

Also, Dr. J. J. Kimbrough, NAACP board member; Irving Groves, businessman; Tony Smith, realtor; Benjamin F. Springer, CIO Council treasurer, and Joseph Kent, CIO Council delegate.

The call said that "The Negro people face the same problems in California as they do throughout our country—segregation, Negro ghettos, discrimination, lack of representation and bad housing.

"With Henry Wallace at our side, the Negro people feel they have a friend to fill the void caused by the death of Franklin Delanor Roosevelt."

Higher Taxes Go Into Effect Here On Feb 2

Harassed by inflationary high prices? There's more of the same for you in a decision yesterday by the State Utilities Commission approving substantial fare increases for the Los Angeles Transit Lines and the Pacific Electric Railway.

The new rates become effective Feb. 2, and cover most ride classifications on both lines in the metropolitan area.

The commission granted a boost in weekly passes from $1.25 to $1.50 and abolished all other types of passes.

Zone fare increases also were granted LATL, with five-cent hikes from 10 to 15 cents in two zones, 15 to 20 cents in three zones and 20 to 25 cents in four zones.

Pacific Electric was permitted to raise fares from present rates to the nearest figure ending in five or 3 cents. For example: from 12 to 15 cents, from 17 to 20 cents.

Prices on books of tickets also were hiked.

driver, according to three prosecution witnesses.

The defendant, who is a bus driver with one of the local companies, testified that he saw Butt as he stood on the corner but did not see him again until Butt "ran into the side of the automobile."

Attorney Broady, who defended Gwin, argued that the driving of Gwin did not cause Butt's death, but that Butt walked into the cor and caused his death. The prosecuting attorney argued that driving through a crosswalk when pedestrians are crossing the street is a violation of the law and that Gwin was guilty of manslaughter.

The court held with Atty. Broady and found Gwin not guilty.

Indonesia

By George E. Anong

PROCLAMATION OF THE REPUBLIC

The Republic of Indonesia was proclaimed on August 17, 1945. But let us see what occurred on the eve of this historic proclamation. The following story was printed in the newspaper Merdeka (Freedom), an official paper of the republic:

"It was early morning and there was great activity at the house of Dr. Sukarno. The house was surrounded by armed guards. Indonesian officers were walking up and down. Prominent persons from the Indonesian political movement were among those present. There were leaders of the revolutionary youth, fighters of the underground, and students, as well as old politicians who had been active in Indonesian politics since 1908.

"They all looked tired and worn after the secret meeting last night which had been held in a students' mess hall somewhere in the city, and which had lasted until the early morning hours.

"And there was the group, consisting of military men, civilians and intellectuals as well as the common man in the street, who had established together the National Committee. This council was to function as the temporary council of representatives of the Indonesian people, and was to be responsible for the proclamation of independence, the foundation of the Indonesian republic and the future actions of the Republican Government.

"At ten o'clock, Dr. Sukarno, the leader among those who fought for independence, surrounded by nearly all who had been prominent in the political struggle during the last 40 years, spoke out those simple but dramatic words which would ring in another of history's revolutions for the sake of freedom and social justice:

"'We, the Indonesian people, hereby declare our independence. The transfer of the power and sovereignty will be carried out in the shortest possible time.'

"The written proclamation was signed at Djakarta on August 17, 1945, on behalf of the Indonesian people by Sukarno-Hatta.

Those few words in the proclamation marked the birth of the Indonesian republic. On a September day the British with the Dutch on their backs landed in Djakarta (Batavia). According to the British high command, they came only to disarm Japanese troops and to restore law and order.

"Wherever the British troops landed, they brought with them the Dutch troops. They paved the way for the Dutch troops transported by American LST carrying American arms, clothed in American marine dress, and, by the way, trained in South Carolina by the Americans. That is one of the contributions the United States gave the Dutch to establish imperialism. Against all the Sherman tanks, Spitfire or Douglas-made planes, the Indonesians, armed chiefly with bamboo sticks, had to stop the invading forces.

"And we did stop them, because the feeling to be free, to have a government of their own, was shared not alone by the Indonesian army or by the few people who figured directly in the declaration of independence, but by 70,000,000 people. The British and the Dutch had to fight against all of these people who did not like to be subjugated by them or by anyone else. Thousands of Indonesian men and women died, villages were burned, innocent children starved. We Indonesians, who saw fascism long before Hitler or Mussolini practiced theirs in Europe, had to endure British and Dutch brutality all over again.

"These methods of the British and Dutch troops were already a violation of agreements and promises of good will."

agencies practicing discrimination or/and segregation.

- Prohibition of discrimination in government contracts.
- A permanent Fair Employment Practices Act.
- Federal inspection of all primary and election polling places, "particularly in the South, where the right of Negroes to cast a free ballot is openly or deviously blocked."
- Federal and state legislation to outlaw discrimination and segregation.
- Lifting of tax exemptions for any institution practicing segregation or discrimination.
- Outlawing of all segregation in the government services, including the military forces.
- Abolition of immigration restrictions based on race.

Wallace told the delegates that "those who practice discrimination and segregation are criminals and must be fought with everything we have."

Two statements of support from the delegation which called on Wallace were read, one by Shirley Graham, novelist of New York, and the other by Charles P. Howard, an attorney in Wallace's home town of Des Moines, Iowa, and also editor of the Des Moines Observer.

Through the statement read by Miss Graham the delegates declared that "we have come here as a committee, each representing our communities, to say to you, Henry Wallace, that as the common people who have not designated leaders to speak for us and who have no other means of communicating our feeling, the Negro people at the grass roots level, heartily endorse you as the only candidate in America today to whom we can turn and on whom we can pin our hopes for the real democratic way of life."

The statement read by Howard declared that "to thousands of Negroes this opportunity to help form a new party under the leadership of a man who has been so definitely spurned by all the politaxers, white supremacists, enemies of FEPC, warmongers and exploiters, comes as the answer to long and fervent prayers.

Among the Negro delegates in the group calling on Wallace, in addition to Howard and Miss Graham, were Charles H. Mason, Montclair, N. J.; Dr. George T. Prescott, R. I.; Dr. John T. Canper; Chris Bryson, St. Louis; Emma Woods, Baltimore; Mrs. Carrie Davis, N. J.; T. W. Haynes, St. Louis; W. L. Harris, Topeka, Kansas; Guy Brewer, New York; Bill Price, Topeka, Kansas; Mrs. James Carr, St. Louis; Rudolph Gillespie, Norwalk, Conn.; Bill Rutherford and Tom Clark, Chicago; and Bill Harris, Topeka, Kans.

"Both old parties have betrayed their promises of justice to the Negro people," the convention said. "In election years, their platforms ring with declarations for a Fair Employment Practices Act, for a federal anti-lynch law, for a federal antipoll tax. But in congress the promises are forgotten.

"A vote for either old party is a vote to continue oppression, discrimination and segregation of the Negro people and other minorities."

The convention opposed universal military training and called for a United Nations program of aid to Europe without political strings in place of the Marshall Plan, which would "rebuild an aggressive Germany" and threatens the sovereignty of other nations."

State chapters of PCA were authorized by the convention to merge or affiliate with the new third party which is expected to be formed this spring.

A dollar minimum wage was urged on the convention labor program, which called for support to labor's demand for wage increases, extension of the wage-hour law to include all workers in interstate commerce, and repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act.

The Democratic party was condemned for having abandoned Roosevelt's principles and the Republican party was termed by the delegates "the faithful servant of Big Business."

"There are no longer two parties," the convention said. "There is only one party—the party of reaction, the party of depression, the party of war."

Among the PCA national board of directors elected were Lena Horne; Dr. Carlton Goodlett of San Francisco; George Murphy, prominent Negro veteran from Washington, D. C.; Allan Freelon, Philadelphia artist; Dr. J. E. T. Camper of Baltimore; Mrs. Carlotta Bass of Los Angeles, publisher of the California EAGLE; Mrs. Margaret Wilson, lawyer, St. Louis, Mo.; Sidney Jones Jr., former candidate for Municipal court justice of Chicago; Shirley Graham, New York New York novelist, author of There Once Was a Slave.

El Sombrero Ballroom Perfect Setting For Elaborate Omega Psi Phi Formal

By JESSIE MAE BROWN

Dear Omega Girl I Love You
With a Love That is Divine.
Swear by All the Stars Above You
That My Love Will Be but Thine

When the Moon Appears
Those Pleasant Memories That I have You Near
Dear Omega Girl I Love You,
Sweetheart of Omega Dear.

The above refrain from the Omega Psi Phi Sweet heart song was in the hearts of all the ladies and their gentlemen attending the fraternity's annual formal dance on Thursday night at the smart El Sombrero ballroom. More than the usual amount of before and after parties held sway. However, highlighting them all was the closed Omega cocktail party given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. English. The frat brothers of the two local chapters, Lambda and Lambda Omicron, were on hand to gain the hilarious spirit that made their formal dance one of the most outstanding of the season.

At the "before party" the beauty of the gowns worn by wives and sweethearts were noteworthy of any fashion showing. In the company of Omega C. M. Wiley was Miss Fay Hopkins, who chose a strapless gown of turquoise blue. Mrs. Jo Ann Slayton, guest of Omega Louis Hale, was smartly groomed in black while Mrs. Hobart Benjamin was very lovely in white with gold accessories. Mrs. Charles Thrash was a breath of spring in pink and black print, while Mrs. Harry Penn was very stunning in black crepe with rhinestone embellishment. Also guest-listed were: Mr. and Mrs. Roy Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Motley, the Leslie Browns, Welton Robinsons, Emanuel Middletons, Llewellyn Mazique, Ralph Kaufmans, Carl Earls, J. T. Epps, Welton Atkins and Katherine Beal, Frank H. Cloud Jr., and Dorothy Redd, and a host of other Omega brothers and their wives.

This before party lasted until the formal ball at El Sombrero was well underway. Dancing held sway on two floors. The music of Sammy Franklyn's orchestra kept the party lively on the main floor, while a combo played the latest in the lounge. Throughout the affair, many socialites and collegiate leaders were noted enjoying the first formal of the new year. Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Hayes arrived fashionably late along with Dr. and Mrs. Nate Fearonce. Dr. and Mrs. John Coleman had a very delightful time exchanging dance partners. Father Moore spent most of the evening chatting with Mrs. Jesse Moses, Dr. and Mrs. E. I. Robinson and of course the very charming Mrs. Moore.

In the group that numbered well over 500 couples were seen: the Otis Renes, Henry Butlers, Paul E. Johnsons of Pasadena; George Smiths, Byron Kenners, Mitchell Miles, George Beavers Jr., Jimmie Garrott, J. R. Portwigs, Dr. and Mrs. Fred Griffin, Dr. and Mrs. Dickerson Hawkins, the Paul R. Williams, Lt. and Mrs. Leslie King and a host of others.

Promptly at 12:30 the Omegas formed the traditional circle and sang a group of fraternity songs led by Omega Leslie C. Browne. Andrew Wallace, dean of pledges, was much in evidence, along with many of the undergrads of the fraternity and their lovely coed ladies of the evening.

Omega men who acted on the committee of arrangements for the lovely social affair were: Allen C. Woodard, Harry Penn, Bob Motley and J. C. Fentress.

The Omega formal has taken its place as the affair that serves as an official starter for local formal events of the new year.

Lohr president of Fremont Co were other guests. Mrs. M. ton, of the Watts branch Los Angeles City Public Li was also introduced.

A social hour followed, a felt that the year had been cessful, but knew that the ing year would find the as tion nearer the goals that been set.

12 Big Sisters Charity Record Shows Untiring Work of Group

At last the holiday account has been settled by the 12 Big Sisters of the parties given for those less fortunate. 65 girls, ranging from the ages of 14 to 18 years, were made happy when they opened their individual Christmas packages and found a box of face powder, a powder puff and case, a lotion for the hands and arms, a sachet bag, a lipstick, a perfume, a hai roomb, a lapel pin, a barrett, a pair of earrings, a pair of socks and a peppermint candy cane. All the ice cream and cookies that they wished was served them after they enjoyed a musical program brought to them by Maxine Hughes Scott, the whistler, organist and pianist and Miss Evelyn Burwell "Hotshot," who sang all the request numbers they wished. So overcome with enthusiasm and happiness were these girls that they wanted no one to leave and they threatened to let the air out of our tires to prove their sincerity ond not until we promised to visit as often as the courts would allow us were they satisfied.

Rev. "Mother" Pearl C. Woods assisted with the religious songs that were requested by the girls and to the 12 Big Sisters surprise each girl knew all verses to both old and new versions of church songs regardless of her color or creed.

Other members of the group playing hostesses were Mrs. Reatha Beck, Mrs. Ann O'Farrell, Mrs. Vivian Wilson, Mrs. Zepher Brown, Mrs. Emily Johnson, Mrs. Dorothy Jones, President and Mrs. Faustina N. Johnson, founder and organized. Referee Juvenile Judge Margaret Pratt and Probation officer Hebe Mack were also present. We hardly know who enjoyed the affair the most, the girls or the 12 Big Sisters, such a good time was had by all. The superintendent and the cottage mothers were all included in the party.

A monthly project is being planned and the Easter egg roll party is under way now and with each Easter egg basket will go a personal hanky to each girl. You will hear more about our "Yarn Party" for the girls later.

Our other large party was to a State Mental Institution, quite some distance from the city. We carried 100 toys to two wards for youngsters ranging in ages 2 to 12. For this group the 12 Big Sisters have decided to contribute to one of the new cures that has proven so successful in other institutions within the state. This, too, will be a year 'round monthly project.

Four local families were supplied with toys and through an individual friend of the 12 Big Sisters we were able to add a basket of groceries and poultry for each family.

We wish to thank the Friendship Center who not only gave 75 toys but also $29.30 in cash, Mr. C. B. Venerable, Mrs. Wesly Lyons and the Silver Spurs Riding Club for their substantial cash donations and all the 24 Big Sister hostesses and friends that aided us in many ways to make our program a grand success. Remember the 12 Big Sisters were only 6 months old this past December. Work has been started on the Christmas, 1948, programs already.

We are saying "Thank You" to all our friends and well wishers Sunday, Feb. 12, 1948, from 4 to 7 p.m., at the home of the president, Mrs. Dorothy Jones. There is no admittance, just our small way of saying how grateful we are for all you have encouraged us to do to make others happy. 2057 W. 29th street is the address.

Peoples' Education Center Offers Theatre School

The PEC Theatre School, starting its first term February 1, is a school with serious aims and a forthright aproach to the problems involved.

As is well known, the Peoples Educational Center accepts all students regardless of race, color, or creed and practices a living policy of non-discrimination. For this reason we are sure that readers of the EAGLE will be particularly interested in the PEC's Theatre school.

Admittedly a pioneering effort, the PEC Theatre school hopes to achieve three things: one, to provide professional training for the actor at a reasonable fee and on a schedule that will allow part time work; two, to combine classroom work with immediate production activities, letting the student put theory into practice at once; three, to bring live and vital theatre to the neighborhoods, the housing projects, playgrounds, community centers, trade unions, etc., and so perform a needed service to the community.

Director of the school will be Margrit Roma, a vital, quietly dynamic person, who has conducted her own very successul New Theatre Workshop in Hollywood for two years.

Taking as a definition of the theatre . . . "to create people by revealing their basic conflicts through theatrical means" . . . all of the courses are planned to open the student's mind to the trends of literature and art; to give him a rounded view of people and their problems; and to give the student a frame of reference from which to orient himself and his problems.

The problem of music in the theatre, its uses, its effect on persons in the creation of and backgrounds, will be ably handled by Earl Rob famous Americana compo "Ballad for Americans", some Train" and other famous American songs. A NEW WING ON THE WHITE HOUSE?

Now just what is all of this talk about President Truman's plans to build a new wing, or sun porch annexation to the White House? There is quite a bit being said about the plan, and Truman seems to think that it's quite the thing.

It will cost $15,000. You know, if I had that much money, all the things that I have wanted throughout the past years would come to pass and then my college education would be in the bag. I could buy myself a house and a car. But the President has means of getting that cash, and what does he do but propose a sun porch for his family to enjoy during the summers.

Just how long does Truman think that his family will be in the White House? After the election in November, and the inauguration in January, Truman will find it necessary to pack up and go back to Missouri.

But why worry about the new wing on the White House, when there are a lot of important things to worry about? Instead of being carried away by another person's affairs, I do think we should all exercise a little common sense and stop worrying about such a minor affair. I can't see where that new sun porch is going to change the course of history in the least. But while we sleep on our rights, and worry about such little things, the politicians are getting things done their way, and to their advantages. Now some of the sources that are trying to keep us all so worried about the things that are unimportant have their reasons for doing so. But the only flaw that I can see in the plan that the President has in mind is that he won't be around to enjoy the advantages of his sun porch, come January, 1949.

TOPIC OF THE WEEK

Why starve our teachers to death? Perhaps this seems a bit eccentric, but then it's factual. The teachers of the United States are among the lowest class of workers when classified by their rate of pay. It is gradual, and slow starvation, regardless of the fact that the patient band or throng of workers do not lock the classroom doors and walk outside with signs, or do not strike.

You see, it's one of those good samaritan cases, where that last straw neglects to break the camel's back. Teachers are kind, and patients, or they couldn't be teachers, and go on and on, paying little attention to the fact that the public doesn't realize that they're doing a great job. In order to get higher salaries, they would have to ask for them. Do they think asking for higher wages would be "looking the gift horse in the mouth?" Well, it wouldn't be in the least. But then, they shouldn't have to ask for higher salaries. The people today are aware of the great increase in living standards, the increases in rents, clothes, and just about everything else.

The situation is really drastic in the case of the American school teachers today. hey are underpaid, and still they're expected to carry on, salvaging the world from ignorance and self destruction. Their way, education and proper teachings, we are going to find, is the only way.

The teacher is always at a disadvantage. In the first place, when the loyal old teacher spends the necessary amount of hours in class time, the work that he or she is expected to do is far from complete. There is the task of correcting papers, many papers, preparing the outline of work for the next day, and then doing a bit of housework, too.

Now let's look into the class room door momentarily, and see what's to the profession of teaching. Well, the bell rings at about eight; teacher mustn't be tardy, of the students must stand in the halls. When the class is called to order, teacher has to know exactly where to turn, what work to collect as homework, etc. All the time, the teacher has to worry about Jack, or John keeping quiet, and so on. The day is finally ground through.

Now a factory worker, or office employee, spends 8 hours at the place of work, or it's overtime for anything more, goes home, gets refreshed, and after dinner perhaps goes out to a movie. But a teacher? What would a teacher feel like doing the next morning at school after a movie that night? Certainly not teaching. And then for the "regulars" there's always a frantic dance at the Meadowbrook Gardens, or some other swanky place (Miss Jessie Mae Brown can go into further details) for some really nice entertainment. But what would we say if we saw our English teacher there? I don't think that would be quite the thing.

Something must be done, regardless of any fact of elusion that we might develop. The need for education is always going to prevail, and only through education and a better understanding of ourselves, and other nations of the world, can we hope to find peace, success, and security, internationally.

FOOTNOTE: Why is that the stars can be seen better on the eastside than in any other part of town? This question will be taken up next week. Until then I leave you with one thought: VOTE PROGRESSIVE IN '48!

NAACP Youth Groups Meet in New York

NEW YORK, N. Y.—A special effort to alleviate infringements of students' rights to academic freedom was planned at a meeting of the Coordinating Council of NAACP Youth Councils and College Chapters, which was held at New York university, January 9.

An indication of the increasing importance of NAACP work on college campuses was evidenced in the meeting of college faculty members and NAACP staff personnel which was held here January 10. The discussions at the conference, conducted by Mrs. Ruby Hurley, youth secretary, revolved mainly around the importance of increased contact with interracial colleges and the necessity for outlining a program for college chapters.

SNYC Launches Poll Of Youth Opinion

BIRMINGHAM—Negro colleges throughout the country are responding enthusiastically to the new sampling of youth sentiment sponsored by the Southern Negro Youth Congress. SNYC executive secretary, Louis E. Burnham, announced that the January poll of Youth Opinion will give students an opportunity to indicate their choices for president in the crucial 1948 elections, and will also test the following which Henry Wallace and the third party enjoy among the young voters. The poll, a monthly project of SNYC, will register opinion concerning universal military training, segregation in education and other current issues in subsequent months. It is expected that 10,000 students will participate in the poll for January and that the number will increase as additional schools participate in the poll.

The 11th anniversary of the Southern Negro Youth Congress will be observed with special meetings sponsored by local clubs of the organization throughout the South on the week-end of February 13-15. These celebrations, coinciding with the culmination of Negro History Week, will highlight the lives of Abraham Lincoln and Frederick Douglass.

A TOWER OF STRENGTH

By Clarence Leon

(Speech delivered last Tuesday morning by 17 year old Clarence Leon, 731 W. 53rd st., before his graduation class at Manual High school).

Mr. Honn, classmates and friends.

As we of the Monarch Class leave the sanctuary of dear old Manual and bid goodby to our esteemed faculty, we shall begin to cope with the problems of adult life. Problems that influence our lives and the lives of others the world over. Problems that arise from intrigues and from prejudice. Intrigues and prejudice that are born in obscure places and places of foul repute. These intrigues and prejudices are carried past the portals and into all the places that control our public and national life, expressing themselves in religious intolerance, race hatred and creed distinctions.

Those that bethrall themselves to these prejudices would have us live on a percentage basis; to permit only so many of one race and so many of another race and one race to rule over all. These problems are no mere trifles. They assume majectic roles, at first, they create ill feelings, then war.

These problems that are with us today did exist in the past.

Searching the past we find them to be problems of grave concern to the people that had to endure the intolerance of Ivan the Terrible, or that of George the 3rd, or Hitler the 1st. These tyrants had the wealth of their respective nations as well as the lives of each individual in the grip of their hands. They marshalled the best talent in craftsmanship and gathered the most costly jewels to adorn their wicked hearts.

Examining these jewels today in the light of history. For us they represent Bunker Hill, Valley Forge, New Orleans, the beaches of Normandie and those of Okenawa.

Hate, torture and destruction that was their coat of arms. Their record standards are a shameful disgrace to the human race. All that is in the past. The past cannot be changed. But the past does have a profund influence on the present. And it does stand as a grand lesson for the future.

We, of the Monarch Class, reject these monarchs of the past as unfit associates. We reject race prejudice. We reject intolerance. We brand such thoughts, such acts as treason, endangering the very security of our Nation.

We, of the Monarch Class, intend to build a tower of strength to tower above this intolerance. We seek to dwell in a world of peace. In choosing a designer for our coat of arms we choose none other than the Prince of Peace. For our jewels we choose the simple Ten Commandments.

We, of the Monarch Class, do choose and are proud to associate with the uncrowned monarchs of the past. Noble men like George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln and Franklin Delano Roosevelt, and it is our earnest desire to replenish our poor lives from the richness of their ideals; to work for them and to speak of them until they have been accepted as the goal of every man in our Nation and the goal of every man the world over.

In closing I wish to quote from Franklin Delano Roosevelt:

"We are a Nation of many nationalities, many races, many religions, bound together by a single unity, the unity of Freedom and Equality. Whoever seeks to set one nationality against another to degrade all nationalities. Whoever seeks to set one race against another seeks to enslave all races. Whoever seeks to set one religion against another seeks to destroy all religion. I am fighting for a free America. For a country in which all men and women have equal rights to liberty and justice. I am fighting as I always have fought, for the rights of the little man as well as the big man, for the weak as well as the strong, for those who are helpless as well as for those who can help themselves."

Youth Against UMT

A National Youth Assembly Against Universal Military Training will be held in Washington, D. C. on February 15 and 16, when action will be taken to defeat the Universal Military Training bill which will come before the next session of congress.

A call has been sent to 2000 youth and camp leaders, suggesting that congress adopt "a constructive plan to meet the real needs of American youth for housing, education, health, and security." Sponsors represent leaders from youth, religious, social, and veterans organizations from all parts of the country.

SHOPPING WITH DORIS

By DORIS AUSTIN

Hello There:

Like a breath of Spring are the early season's fashions for street, dress and play-gay pastel casuals, delightfully hued prints in tailors, dressy and suit-dresses brightly gay play clothes to add charming attractiveness to your personality, young or old.

Add at least two street casuals to your "new look" wardrobe, a dark gabardine or wool, to contrast a light colored tailor, soft plaid or check, both may be alternately worn with pearls, costume jewels or lovely colored scrafts to enchant your particular mood of the moment. Your daily appearance in business or household shopping should be a matter of vital importance to you.

Along with your suit and casuals to serve your day-by-day, select a lovely crepe, one or more according to your activities or allowance, for dressed-up wear after work or to match that hilarious mood the coming of Spring will actually bring. The new choirboys dresses are good on most figures, mature and youthful, the ever-popular bolero is in full swing with the suit-dresses, a popular favorite because of their versatility, and feminine, flattering dressy frocks hold a soft spot in every woman's yearning. Have that strictly after dark frock as feminine as you like, in print or solid, just make certain it IS your dress, not just a fashionable trend.

Peoples' Education Center Offers Theatre School

The PEC Theatre School, starting its first term February 1, is a school with serious aims and a forthright aproach to the problems involved.

As is well known, the Peoples Educational Center accepts all students regardless of race, color, or creed and practices a living policy of non-discrimination. For this reason we are sure that readers of the EAGLE will be particularly interested in the PEC's Theatre school.

Admittedly a pioneering effort, the PEC Theatre school hopes to achieve three things: one, to provide professional training for the actor at a reasonable fee and on a schedule that will allow part time work; two, to combine classroom work with immediate production activities, letting the student put theory into practice at once; three, to bring live and vital theatre to the neighborhoods, the housing projects, playgrounds, community centers, trade unions, etc., and so perform a needed service to the community.

Director of the school will be Margrit Roma, a vital, quietly dynamic person, who has conducted her own very successul New Theatre Workshop in Hollywood for two years.

Taking as a definition of the theatre . . . "to create people by revealing their basic conflicts through theatrical means" . . . all of the courses are planned to open the student's mind to the trends of literature and art; to give him a rounded view of people and their problems; and to give the student a frame of reference from which to orient himself and his problems.

The problem of music in the theatre, its uses, its effect on persons in the creation of m and backgrounds, will be a ably handled by Earl Robi famous Americana compos "Ballad for Americans", " some Train" and other eq famous American songs. Robinson first became inte in the use of music in the tre when he worked with tre for Action in New York and hopes to extend in the Theatre School some of the ories and designs he has fo then and since.

A NEW WING ON THE WHITE HOUSE?

Now just what is all of this talk about President Truman's plans to build a new wing, or sun porch annexation to the White House? There is quite a bit being said about the plan, and Truman seems to think that it's quite the thing.

It will cost $15,000. You know, if I had that much money, all the things that I have wanted throughout the past years would come to pass and then my college education would be in the bag. I could buy myself a house and a car. But the President has means of getting that cash, and what does he do but propose a sun porch for his family to enjoy during the summers.

Just how long does Truman think that his family will be in the White House? After the election in November, and the inauguration in January, Truman will find it necessary to pack up and go back to Missouri.

But why worry about the new wing on the White House, when there are a lot of important things to worry about? Instead of being carried away by another person's affairs, I do think we should all exercise a little common sense and stop worrying about such a minor affair. I can't see where that new sun porch is going to change the course of history in the least. But while we sleep on our rights, and worry about such little things, the politicians are getting things done their way, and to their advantages. Now some of the sources that are trying to keep us all so worried about the things that are unimportant have their reasons for doing so. But the only flaw that I can see in the plan that the President has in mind is that he won't be around to enjoy the advantages of his sun porch, come January, 1949.

TOPIC OF THE WEEK

Why starve our teachers to death? Perhaps this seems a bit eccentric, but then it's factual. The teachers of the United States are among the lowest class of workers when classified by their rate of pay. It is gradual, and slow starvation, regardless of the fact that the patient bend or throng of workers do not lock the classroom doors and walk outside with signs, or do not strike.

You see, it's one of those good samaritan cases, where that last straw neglects to break the camel's back. Teachers are kind, and patients, or they couldn't be teachers, and go on and on, paying little attention to the fact that the public doesn't realize that they're doing a great job. In order to get higher salaries, they would have to ask for them. Do they think asking for higher wages would be "looking the gift horse in the mouth?" Well, it wouldn't be in the least. But then, they shouldn't have to ask for higher salaries. The people today are aware of the great increase in living standards, the increases in rents, clothes, and just about everything else.

The situation is really drastic in the case of the American school teachers today. hey are underpaid, and still they're expected to carry on, salvaging the world from ignorance and self destruction. Their way, education and proper teachings, we are going to find, is the only way.

The teacher is always at a disadvantage. In the first place, when the loyal old teacher spends the necessary amount of hours in class time, the work that he or she is expected to do is far from complete. There is the task of correcting papers, many papers, preparing the outline of work for the next day, and then doing a bit of housework, too.

Now let's look into the class room door momentarily, and see what's to the profession of teaching. Well, the bell rings at about eight; teacher mustn't be tardy, of the students must stand in the halls. When the class is called to order, teacher has to know exactly where to turn, what work to collect as homework, etc. All the time, the teacher has to worry about Jack, or John keeping quiet, and so on. The day is finally ground through.

Now a factory worker, or office employee, spends 8 hours at the place of work, or it's overtime for anything more, goes home, gets refreshed, and after dinner perhaps goes out to a movie. But a teacher? What would a teacher feel like doing the next morning at school after a movie that night? Certainly not teaching. And then for the "regulars" there's always a frantic dance at the Meadowbrook Gardens, or some other swanky place (Miss Jessie Mae Brown can go into further details) for some really nice entertainment. But what would we say if we saw our English teacher there? I don't think that would be quite the thing.

Something must be done, regardless of any fact of elusion that we might develop. The need for education is always going to prevail, and only through education and a better understanding of ourselves, and other nations of the world, can we hope to find peace, success, and security, internationally.

FOOTNOTE: Why is that the stars can be seen better on the eastside than in any other part of town? This question will be taken up next week. Until then I leave you with one thought: VOTE PROGRESSIVE IN '48!

NAACP Youth Groups Meet in New York

NEW YORK, N. Y.—A special effort to alleviate infringements of students' rights to academic freedom was planned at a meeting of the Coordinating Council of NAACP Youth Councils and College Chapters, which was held at New York university, January 9.

An indication of the increasing importance of NAACP work on college campuses was evidenced in the meeting of college faculty members and NAACP staff personnel which was held here January 10. The discussions at the conference, conducted by Mrs. Ruby Hurley, youth secretary, revolved mainly around the importance of increased contact with interracial colleges and the necessity for outlining a program for college chapters.

Gordon Jenkins to Write Score for Centennial Show

Jenkins said much of the music would be based on a composition which he wrote recently as one of a series of "capsule-operettas" presented on the Dick Haymes radio show.

SNYC Launches Poll Of Youth Opinion

BIRMINGHAM—Negro colleges throughout the country are responding enthusiastically to the new sampling of youth sentiment sponsored by the Southern Negro Youth Congress. SNYC executive secretary, Louis E. Burnham, announced that the January poll of Youth Opinion will give students an opportunity to indicate their choices for president in the crucial 1948 elections, and will also test the following which Henry Wallace and the third party enjoy among the young voters. The poll, a monthly project of SNYC, will register opinion concerning universal military training, segregation in education and other current issues in subsequent months. It is expected that 10,000 students will participate in the poll for January and that the number will increase as additional schools participate in the poll.

The 11th anniversary of the Southern Negro Youth Congress will be observed with special meetings sponsored by local clubs of the organization throughout the South on the week-end of February 13-15. These celebrations, coinciding with the culmination of Negro History Week, will highlight the lives of Abraham Lincoln and Frederick Douglass.

Langston Univ. Begins Year

LANGSTON, Okla.—Classes for the second semester of the 1947-48 academic year at Langston university will begin Monday, February 2. Pre-registration began January 12 and closed last Monday, January 19.

There is a heavy enrollment for the second semester, according to Dean L. G. Moore, particularly of veterans. The problem of securing housing is critical, especially for married veterans. The facilities of Veterans' Village have been exhausted, and there are a number of applicants on the waiting list.

The division of education has launched an off-campus student teaching program for arts and science students designed to provide experiences in a typical school situation.

There will be short courses in trades, including radio, electricity, woodwork, and shoe rebuilding.

A new $300,000 library building is now under construction, and will be ready or occupancy in July.

A TOWER OF STRENGTH

By Clarence Leon

(Speech delivered last Tuesday morning by 17 year old Clarence Leon, 731 W. 53rd st., before his graduation class at Manual High school).

Mr. Honn, classmates and friends.

As we of the Monarch Class leave the sanctuary of dear old Manual and bid goodby to our esteemed faculty, we shall begin to cope with the problems of adult life. Problems that influence our lives and the lives of others the world over. Problems that arise from intrigues and from prejudice. Intrigues and prejudice that are born in obscure places and places of foul repute. These intrigues and prejudices are carried past the portals and into all the places that control our public and national life, expressing themselves in religious intolerance, race hatred and creed distinctions.

Those that bethrall themseves to these prejudices would have us live on a percentage basis; to permit only so many of one race and so many of another race and one race to rule over all. These problems are no mere trifles. They assume majectic roles, at first, they create ill feelings, then war.

These problems that are with us today did exist in the past.

Searching the past we find them to be problems of grave concern to the people that had to endure the intolerance of Ivan the Terrible, or that of George the 3rd, or Hitler the 1st. These tyrants had the wealth of their respective nations as well as the lives of each individual in the grip of their hands. They marshalled the best talent in craftsmanship and gathered the most costly jewels to adorn their wicked hearts.

Examining these jewels today in the light of history. For us they represent Bunker Hill, Valley Forge, New Orleans, the beaches of Normandie and those of Okenawa.

Hate, torture and destruction that was their coat of arms. Their record standards are a shameful disgrace to the human race. All that is in the past. The past cannot be changed. But the past does have a profund influence on the present. And it does stand as a grand lesson for the future.

We, of the Monarch Class, reject these monarchs of the past as unfit associates. We reject race prejudice. We reject intolerance. We brand such thoughts, such acts as treason, endangering the very security of our Nation.

We, of the Monarch Class, intend to build a tower of strength to tower above this intolerance. We seek to dwell in a world of peace. In choosing a designer for our coat of arms we choose none other than the Prince of Peace. For our jewels we choose the simple Ten Commandments.

We, of the Monarch Class, do choose and are proud to associate with the uncrowned monarchs of the past. Noble men like George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln and Franklin Delano Roosevelt, and it is our earnest desire to replenish our poor lives from the richness of their ideals; to work for them and to speak of them until they have been accepted as the goal of every man in our Nation and the goal of every man the world over.

In closing I wish to quote from Franklin Delano Roosevelt:

"We are a Nation of many nationalities, many races, many religions, bound together by a single unity, the unity of Freedom and Equality. Whoever seeks to set one nationality against another to degrade all nationalities. Whoever seeks to set one race against another seeks to enslave all races. Whoever seeks to set one religion against another seeks to destroy all religion. I am fighting for a free America. For a country in which all men and women have equal rights to liberty and justice. I am fighting as I always have fought, for the rights of the little man as well as the big man, for the weak as well as the strong, for those who are helpless as well as for those who can help themselves."

By virtue of our thoughts which we choose and courage, our minds are the master weaver both of the ner garment of our character and the outer garment our circumstances.

What our minds weave in ignorance and pain, could with the proper help and encouragement, weave happiness, success and prosperity.

As an individual thinketh in his heart so is he. As a plant springs from its seed so our every action springs from our hidden seed of thought.

POST TIME NOON!

Make Sunday your Derby Day in gay, free Old Mexico.

Yes, it's Caliente, world's greatest Sunday race course.

Star in East-West Game

Joe Perry, the former little All-American back from Compton college, joined forces with Bobby Layne of Texas, and Jake Leicht of Oregon, to lead the Western College All-Stars to a 34-20 victory over the Eastern College All-Stars before a small crowd of 3,118 fans at Gilmore Field Sunday.

"Joltin' Joe" scored one West score on a four-yard dash in the opening period after the Western lads had driven 68 yards, and was a general nuisance to the Eastern Stars all day.

The game, which turned out to be a "flop" from the financial standpoint, was fairly well played, with both teams showing signs of brilliance.

After Perry scored the first T. D. for the West in the opening stanza, Earl "Jug" Girard of Wisconsin fame, flipped a nifty 27-yard pass to his fellow Big Tenite, Len Ford of Michigan, and big Lennie raced 35 yards to score unmolested.

Bobby Layne passed 35 yards to Jake Leicht for the second West score in the second quarter, and then ran four yards for the other score. Tom Fears of UCLA kicked both extra points.

The Western lads scored in the third period on SC's Johnny Rosetto's four-yard plunge. The West final score came in the fourth frame when Mickey McCardle of SC tossed 17 yards to Tom Fears for the score. Fears missed the conversion.

The East came roaring back in the final quarter to score twice on Jug Girard's one-yard plunge, and again on Skippy Minisi's 5-yard pass to Bob Mann.

Bruins Go North

UCLA's basketball Bruins hied north Friday night to engage the Sacramento Senators Saturday night at the state capital.

The Bruins, tied for second place with their cross town rival the Southern California Trojans for second place in the Pacific Coast Conference, Southern Division, will be out to make it two in a row over the solons. The Bruins beat the Sacramento club earlier this season in a practice game.

John Stanchi and Dave Minor are still leading the Bruin scorers.

Harlem Globetrotters Come to Town

Boasting 71 straight victories, the 1948 Harlem Globetrotters, boasting the finest team in all their 21 celebrated, world-wide, clowning years existence, make their annual Los Angeles visit when they engage the colorful All-Hawaii Stars Monday night, Feb. 2, at the Shrine Auditorium.

Led by Babe Pressley, Ted Strong, Duckey Moore, and the greatest Trotter of 'em all, Wilbur "Goose" Tatum, the N. Y. team is said to be more "loaded" than in anytime in their history.

The Hawaii lads aren't pushovers, either. They have a fast, race-horse outfit that may be just what the doctor ordered to end the Harlemites' winning streak.

On the same bill, the high-powered Kansas City All-Stars run head-on into the far-famed N. Y. Celtics, younger brothers of the old Nat Holman led team that made basketball history years ago. Kansas City, led by one-armed Bold Bule at forward, will be up against one of the best guards in all of the realm of basketball when they face the Celtics' famed Frank "Lefty" Horazy.

A ping-pong exhibition and native Hawaiian dances are scheduled to be part of the halftime entertainment.

EMMERSON CHAPMAN, one of the finest basketball players to come down from northern California in many a moon, and who played with DON BARKSDALE at Camp Roos, who was ruled ineligible for basketball competition at UCLA, was signed this week to play with the famed 20th CENTURY FOX AAU team. . . . CHAPMAN, who was the unsung hero of last year's highly touted ALPHA basketball team, would have been just what the doctor ordered for the 1948 BRUIN basketball team, but due to the fact that he did not carry enough units last semester, the Athletic Board of Control ruled EMERSON ineligible. . . . Already, however, CHAPMAN has been catching the eyes of the local sports writers. . . . "Big EM" may not be the only local lad on the 20th CENTURY team. . . .The Foxmen are trying to secure the services of UCLA's DAVE MINOR, GENE WILLIAMS, and JOHNNY STANICH for the coming AAU tournament in DENVER later on this spring. . . . Since this is an OLYMPIC YEAR, the winner of the AAU tournament will represent the UNITED STATES in basketball. . . . The 20th CENTURY boys will have to go some, for the OAKLAND BITTNERS, led by DON BARKSDALE, are vieing for the services of the great CALIFORNIA stars, ANDY WOLFE, CHUCK HANGER, and JIM SMITH. . . . LOS ANGELES CITY COLLEGE will boast one of the finest track teams in its history this spring. . . . Already on their way to CUBVILLE are JEFFERSON'S BOB URSERY and CURTIS BATTERSBEE, BELMONT'S JASPER ROSS, and DORSEY'S HUGH CUMMINGS. . . . Add to this returning lettermen, and you possibly have the WESTEN STATES CHAMPION. . . . COMPTON, with JOHN FINNEY, BOB CROWE, and DEWEY VROOM, will also be in contention when the NATIONAL J. C. MEET comes off at Phoenix in early June. . . . CORRECTION . . . LAST week your old Thursday Morning Quarterback was quoted as saying that CORNELIUS JOHNSON won the high jump at the recent WASHING POST GAMES. . . . As any high school freshman can tell you, CORNELIUS JOHNSON, one of the greatest athletes the world of sports has ever produced, has been dead for more than a year. . . . The column should have read: DAVE ALBRITTON won the high jump at the WASHING POST GAMES with a leap of 63½ inches. . . . Apologies to all concerned. . . . We hear that JEFFERSON'S mighty DEMOCRATS are already being conceded the ALL CITY PREP TRACK CHAMPIONSHIP. . . . With JAMES HOWARD and other point winners back, the talk is that the DEMOCRATS may have their finest team since BRYANT ALLEN and company ruled the cinderpath back in the late 30's. . . . Out UCLA way, FLOYD WILSON, HUGHO HILL, and SAM McGRUEDER are promising pugilists who may develop into three of the finest fighters that COACH GEORGE DICKERSON will have on his BOXING TEAM. . . . WILSON, a hard hitting 145-pounder, won his fight when the BRUINS met their big brother from BERKELEY last weekend. . . . HILL, whose twin brother KENNETH is also a fine pugilist, is rated just about the hottest thing in the inter-mural boxing ranks. . . . McGRUEDER, former JEFFERSON specialist, will fight it out with HILL for the school championship later this week. . . . SPEAKING OF BOXING, BERNARD DOUCUSON, hard slugging NEW ORLEANS LAD, will meet L. A.'s GENE BURTON late in FEBRUARY at CHICAGO. . . . Both are really fine young fighters, but will stick with BURTON to repeat his victory over DOUCUSON . . .

SHAW TURNS BACK SAINTS

RALEIGH, N. C.—The big bad Shaw University Bears, displaying a potent offense and an airtight defense, rolled to an impressive 52-43 victory over the St. Augustine Saints here Friday night before a capacity crowd at the St. Augustine gym. Led by James Bugg's 12 points and Edward Todd's 11 markers, the Bears were never in serious trouble. Shaw led, 22-10 at halftime.

BISONS SUBDUE LIONS

LINCOLN, Penn.—Howard U's rampaging Bisons laid claim to being one of the top cage teams in collegiate circles Friday night, when they thoroughly and roughly handed the strong Lincoln University team a 57-42 lacing on the Lions 'home court. Displaying their highly celebrated "fast break," which is reputed to be the flashiest offense in the east, the Bisons made easy prey of the outclassed Lions. Bob Booth, Blue and White forward, was high point man with 13 points. Howard led 30-18 at halftime.

ROBINSON, RICKEY TALK TURKEY

CHICAGO — Jackie Robinson, the first Negro to break into organized baseball, who was voted "rookie of the year" on the basis of his play with the 1947 National League Champion Brooklyn Dodgers, conferred at great length with Dodger owner-president Branch Rickey here over the weekend.

Subject of the "confidences" was not disclosed, but it was rumored about that the Robinson-Rickey confabs concerned Jackie's 1948 N. Y. contract.

It has been known for quite some time that Robinson was dissatisfied with his '47 salary of $5,500, the minimum salary which a baseball "rookie" may be paid.

FOR WHITES ONLY

RALEIGH, N. C.—Local Golden Glove elimination contests began this week despite the protest of local civic and political leaders over the barring of Negro amateur boxers from the North Carolina contests.

The Golden Glove tournament, sponsored by a local newspaper, was declared to be for "whites only," according to an unidentified official who said that there is a N. C. law which prohibits inter-racial boxing events.

The tournaments are a national affair held in every section of the country by which outstanding amateur boxers are chosen to meet in the finals in Chicago to determine the country's top young boxers.

It was from the "Glove" ranks that present heavyweight champion Joe Louis came.

BRUINS RECEIVE AWARDS

WESTWOOD — UCLA's 1947 footballers, freshmen and varsity, will receive individual and group awards Friday night when some 350 guests gather at the 29th annual Bruin Football Banquet in Kerchoff Hall on the Westwood campus.

SPORTITORAL

MEMO TO MR. CROMWELL

The recent appointment of Dean Cromwell as head track and field coach of the United States Olympic team brings to mind again the reported "racial prejudices" held by the famed U. S. C. coach.

Cromwell's appointment has been discussed and thrashed out in many circles. The ability of the good Dean was not doubted, for it is a well known fact that as a track and field coach, Dean Cromwell has no peer in the United States. But the racial attitudes of the greying Southern Cal mentor have been knocked on every hand.

For many years, people have been asking "why no Negro athletes on the University of Southern California track and field teams?" "Can't Negroes qualify for admission into the university?" "Is it the university policy that Negroes won't be allowed to participate on the athletic team?"

ANSWERS

As for the question about Negroes qualifying for admission into the university, that's very silly indeed. For many years, colored students have been attending the University of Southern California. It has also been known for a long time, that of the larger institutions in California, S. C. has probably the lowest entrance requirements.

Secondly, the University of Southern California claims that it does not restrict the athletic teams of the school to any one race. Still, there hasn't been a Negro athlete at Troy (with the exception of John Whitfield, who won a JV football letter in '43) since the days of Brice Taylor.

Of all the sections in the country, metropolitan Los Angeles produces probably the best prep track and field athletes. In the past, the majority of the outstanding high school athletes have been Negroes. Their Caucasian contemporaries have for the most part sought their higher education at dear old S. C., but the Negro stars have usually attended some local junior college, or some liberal out-of-state institution. The reason mots of the white athletes have entered Figueroa Tech is the old reason: "athletic scholarships."

To Mr. Dean Cromwell, I'm asking the questions: Why weren't guys like Bryant Allen, Louis Pasteur, Hank Williams, and scores of other outstanding Negro stars offered the same "athletic scholarships" as their white contemporaries were given? I'm also asking the good Dean how he plans to treat the Negro athletes that "try out" for the Olympic team? If it's in the same manner that the Negro track stars of Los Angeles have been treated by the Dean's school, S. C., I'm saying let's concede the 1948 Olympics to Soviet Russia, and forget the whole thing.

BIG EVENT—Outstanding "place to go" of the weekend is the seventh running of the Bronze Derby to be held at Caliente in Old Mexico. Many persons from this city will journey to this annual event including HORACE CLARK SR., proprietor of the Clark Hotel, MR and MRS. AL EVANS JR., AL EVANS SR., MR. and MRS. HOUSTON (PAT) FARRELL, MR. and MRS. FRANK WALLACE (Frank's cartoon bearing on the Henry Wallace campaign appears on the editorial page of this week's issue), MAETHILDE KENNER, MR. and MRS. FREDDIE MILLER, WINI ORR, EARL CARTER, VERA JEAN BELL, FREDDIE GILES, CYRIL V. BRIGGS, MRS. LAVERNE WRIGHT, MRS. CHARLOTTA BASS and others.

Yours Truly is guest of honor for the second consecutive year (self-plug) and I selected the lovely lady of song, MARIAN BRUCE, New York singer, winner of the Arthur Godfrey Talent Award over CBS, who is tabbed as possessing the "Smoothest Voice in America," to crown the winner with the flowered horseshoe. Here and now I extend a blanket invitation to all members of the Negro press of Los Angeles to be my guests at the track and at the banquet that follows at the Kentucky Cafe in Tijuana, Mexico. GEORGE RAMSEY and his brother AL will serve as hosts as in past years. WALTER C. MARTY, general manager of the track, is presenting the attraction this year. It will be great. Don't miss it! . . . SHORT TAKES—Our friend LILLIAN CUMBER is celebrating her third wedding anniversary Sunday afternoon along with hubby JERRY CUMBER. Sorry they'll miss the Bronze Derby. Lil is now penning a new column titled "Hollywood Scratch Pad." . . . ETHEL WATERS is thrilling patrons at the Last Word Cafe with her inimitable song renditions rendered with loads of personality. Crowds jam the spot nightly to hear Miss Waters, Broadway star of stage, screen and niteries do her stuff . . . The Shangri-La is still featuring the comedy of BILLY (ICEMAN) MITCHELL, the blues songs of ALMA PURNELL, the supple dancing of MARTHA O'BRIEN, the strong pipes of CHARLES OWENS and the dancing via taps of "TAPS" HARRIS. The play "DEEP ARE THE ROOTS" now at the Belasco theatre pleased this writer no end. First it is an education on the evils of Jim Crowism. Secondly it shows that plays that have mixed casts are compelling and guaranteed to hold the interest of even the most unaffected theatre-goer. Third, deserving all the added praise that can be heaped upon them are the performances turned in by MRS. JESSIE COLE GRAYSON, who plays the role of the mother of JAMES EDWARDS, Negro War veteran in the play, and Edwards himself, who are perfectly cast. Mrs. Grayson possesses dignity, poise and all the evidences of good breeding that go to make up a fine actress and in the play this is never lost. Edwards gives an outstanding performance, playing his part with marked restraint and earning the plaudits of all who have seen "Deep Are the Roots." This play is a "must" on your theatre calendar. BOBBIE MILLER is one of the best cooks on Woodlawn avenue and may hold claim to the championship insofar as this scribe is concerned . . . ALLENE EDWARDS is getting acquainted in her new abode on Montclair avenue after deserting the eastside . . . Received a card from BAR-B-Q GEORGE'S Bar and Platinum Cocktail Lounge anent their grand opening on Lenox avenue last week in New York City. . . . This is plenty . . . I'll see you in Caliente.

GOSSIP LANE—Forgot to mention that LEONARD McCLAIN, the Central avenue businessman dynamo, will attend the Bronze Derby as my guest, also Buddy Garcia, law clerk, his buddy. . . . The time for JESSIE MAE BROWN'S wedding to LEROY BEAVERS is approaching we know, but she hasn't yet set a date. It will be a June wedding, we do know that.

☆ THEATRES—NIGHT SPOTS ☆

DOROTHY DANDRIDGE, just back from a vacation in Europe is rolling up her dainty sleeves to lend a hand to the program of the First Annual Club Festival scheduled for the Congo Club on Feb. 22. All the leading clubs of the city are expected to pitch in, for proceeds will be used to send kids to camp.

Johnny Moore's Blazers Score At Elks Hall

Another top-notch performance was scored by Johnny Moore's Three Blazers, when they played before a packed audience at the Elks auditorium last Sunday night. More than 3000 enthused music lovers came out to hear and see these musical men perform.

Oscar Moore, guitarist and formerly with the King Cole Trio, and Charles Brown, who handles the vocals along with the piano, were the two featured stars. They were backed with brilliant musical treatment by Johnny on guitar and bassist Eddie Williams.

This marked the first Los Angeles appearance of Oscar with the Blazers since he joined them late last October. Oscar, who is known throughout the country for his exciting and new riffs on the electrically-amplified guitar, was highly received by the raving crowd.

When Charles started singing "Bobby Sox Baby" the bobby soxers screamed with joy. The Blazers current nation's favorite, "Money Is Getting Cheaper" was one of the many requested tunes that night.

Maxwell Davis and his orchestra rendered music during the intermission.

Admirers Of Ethel Waters Jam Last Word

Greeted by a record crowd that set a precedent at the Central avenue club, Ethel Waters, international singing and dramatic star, opened at the Last Word Cafe last Monday night for a 14 consecutive day run.

Included in the mammoth welcoming night audience were a cross section of admirers, consisting of theatrical, and civic notables. So large was the crowd that jammed the entrance extra police were summoned to handle what is estimated as the largest crowd ever to attend a Central avenue night club opening. At times during Miss Waters performances as many as 50 persons milled at the club's entrance in a vain attempt to enter.

Selections of the famous star were: "Cabin in the Sky", "Stormy Weather" and the "St. Louis Blues", the latter she is credited as being the first woman to vocalize.

Buddy Johnson Pens Smash Hits

NEW YORK—Buddy Johnson, the young maestro of "Walk 'Em" rhythm fame, has come forth with another smash hit in his latest Decca record, which pairs two of his own compositions, "Serves Me Right" and "You Can't Tell Who's Lovin' Who", both of which are already among the most-played platters in the nation's jukeboxes.

All Box-Office Records Are Cracked By "Deep Are Roots"

All box office records for the Los Angeles Belasco theatre were broken last Thursday night when the Arnaud d'Usseau James Gow dynamic play "Deep Are the Roots" opened to the enthusiastic applause of both critics and audience alike and with over $11,000 in advance ticket sales.

The initial producing effort of Ray Spencer, "Deep Are the Roots" is the powerful Broadway hit play of several seasons ago that has since been produced in over a dozen languages and as many foreign countries. The drama tells the highly charged story of a Negro war veteran hero who returns to his native Southland. There he finds bigotry and the same reactionary prejudice that he went overseas to battle still at work.

What happens to the Negro veteran when he challenges the "old way" of the South and is befriended by the white daughter of a Southern Senator in whose home his mother is a servant is what makes "Deep Are the Roots" one of the most explosive and daring adventures in theatre that Los Angeles has seen for many a season.

Robert Warwick, famed stage and screen actor, heads a top-notch cast including Betsy Blair, Rose Hobart, Mrs. Jessie Grayson, James Edwards, Curt Conway, Franki Lynn and Don Beddoe. John Berry, well known Paramount film director, staged the play, which will continue for an indefinite run at the Belasco.

Will Start New 'Fine Brown Frame' Contest

NEW YORK—Bandleader Buddy Johnson, who only recently crowned Miss Queenie Owens of New York City "Miss Fine Brown Frame of America" in the contest's 1947-48 national finals, announced this week that he will launch preliminary sectional "Fine Brown Frame" contests early in February when he and his band embark upon an extended tour.

Buddy declared that he intends to stage a "Fine Brown Frame" contest in each locality he plays on his nationwide tours during the coming year, with all local winners becoming eligible to compete in the grand finals, which will be held in Chicago next December.

Miss Owens, current wearer of the "Fine Brown Frame" crown, will be featured with the Johnson band in its coming engagement at the Apollo theatre in Harlem, and will also appear in a number of other engagements, both with the Johnson band and on her own.

'Robbins' Nest' Tabbed As Hit

NEW YORK—"Robbins Nest," the Illinois Jacquet-Sir Charles Thomas jazz masterpiece that was launched via the popular Apollo disc by Jacquet and his high-flying Sextette, appears destined to become one of the first big hit tunes of the new year, with many top bands having put it on wax, including Count Basie, Sam Donahue, Hal McIntyre, Claude Thornhill and the Jimmie Lunceford orchestra.

The first new arrangement of "Robbins Nest" to be released will be that of sax-tootin' maestro Sam Donahue on the Capitol label, which will hit the record stalls on Jan. 20, to be followed by Count Basie's version on RCA Victor, which is due for release about Feb. 1.

THE DISC By I. Spinum

NEW YORK—Arnett Cobb, Luis Russell's orchestra, and vocalist Lee Richardson, Apollo recording stars, set off fanfare for an all-Apollo week when they appeared as headline attractions at the Apollo theatre this past week.

Apollo Records, only by coincidence having the same name as the theatre, honored the event for all interests by making special release of recordings by each artist. Arnett Cobb was distributed throughout the country on his new waxing of "Big League Blues," backed by "Flower Garden Blues," each featuring the Cobb band and the new blues shouter, Milt Larkin. Luis Russel and orchestra received elaborate exploitation for his rgeat new instrumental, "Luke the Spook"; and Lee Richardson came out on his release sensation, "Gone."

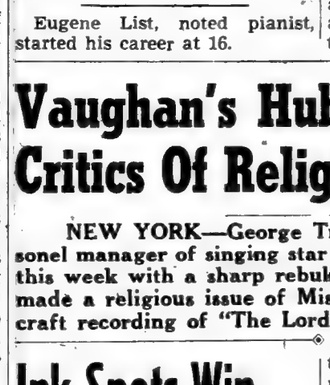
America's favorite ballad singer, Josh White, and his brother Bill, introduce the song they wrote after traveling with USO troops through North Africa. Wherever the Americans had gone, native children across the continent had followed closely behind crooning, "BonBons, Chocolates, Chewing Gum?" and there sprang the inspiration for this unusual number. It's rendition superbly typical of the easy styling and deep feeling of Josh White's most famous ballads.



"You Know, Baby," is a blues number written by vocalist Mary Lou Williams and Frank Lewis which Josh sings with all the deep-down passion to make a blues song, bluest.

J. C. Herd on drums; Jimmy Jones, pianist; A McKibbon, bass; and Josh with his guitar.

Billy Eckstine At Oakland Club; Hollywood Next Stop

OAKLAND, Calif.—Billy Eckstine, the "Bronze Idol With the Golden Voice," has opened a four-week engagement at the Harlem Quarter, beautiful new night club in this city, in his first appearance on the west coast since last Spring.

Billy is slated to move to Hollywood next month to report to the MGM Studios as well as to open a nitery engagement in the Film Capital. The singing idol is set to make a musical short and plans are in the works for him to be featured with Lena Horne in a major musical production upon Miss Horne's return from her current tour.

Billy Eckstine

Billy's MGM records have established him firmly as young America's new singing idol, and he is the first singer of his race who has been able to compete with Crosby, Como and Sinatra for popularity honors in the "Swooners' Sweepstakes."

Carroll Glenn, violinist, was born in South Carolina.

Eugene List, noted pianist, started his career at 16.

Vaughan's Hubby Answers Critics Of Religious Discs

NEW YORK—George Treadwell, husband and sonel manager of singing star Sarah Vaughan, came f this week with a sharp rebuke of those critics who h made a religious issue of Miss Vaughan's recently M craft recording of "The Lord's Prayer."

Although Miss Vaugh treatmentof the sacred work been universally hailed as of the greatest vocal ma pieces ever put on wax, a scattered critics have voiced opinion that it was sacrileg for a popular singer such Miss Vaughan to heve reco such a serious effort as Lord's Prayer."

In answering those cirtics opposed the record, Tread declared, "It seems to me it would be a good idea for of these critics to acquaint th selves with Sarah's backgro Don't they know that Sarah in the choir of the Mount Baptist Church in Newark nine years before she ever any idea of doing popular ing?"

Ink Spots Win Juke Box Poll As Best Four

NEW YORK—Final tabulations of the annual poll of the juke box operators, released this week, revealed that the Ink Spots had won the "Best Quartet" designation for the third year in a row. No other artist or group has ever equaled this performance and this consistency. The poll was conducted, as usual, by the "Cash Box" magazine, which occupies the same position in the recorded musical instrument machine business as "Variety" does in show business. It is the real "bible" of the recorded music machine industry.

Marian Bruce Will Crown Winner; Stars to Attend

By GEORGE RAMSEY

CALIENTE, Old Mexico—There'll be a big Sunday at Caliente starting at 12 noon, January 25, when the famous Derby, (formerly called the Darktown Derby), will be presented by General Manager Walter C. Marty and have its seventh running with 12 Negro jockeys in the saddle vieing for honors and the pot of gold awaiting the winner. As an added attraction the glamorous Miss Marian Bruce, whom critics say possesses the "Smoothest Voice in America," will crown the victor with the flowered horseshoe.

Miss Bruce, a New Yorker, is currently appearing at the exclusive Le Papillion in Hollywood. She is the first Negro singer ever to have won the Arthur Godfrey Talent Contest over CBS and as a reward received a week's singing engagement over that radio network. She has appeared at the Cafe Society and the Reuban Bleu clubs in New York City, Cafe St. Michel in Montreal, Canada, the Tia Juana Club in Cleveland and only recently five weeks at Larry Potter's Supper Club in San Fernando valley. Walter Winchell and other well-known critics have praised her work before the microphone.

Guest of honor at Caliente's Bronze Derby Sunday will be Eddie Burbridge, the Pacific Coast's top Negro sports authority on this paper's staff. Your host will be the writer, George A. Ramsey, track representative and Turf Editor of the California EAGLE, assisted by my brother, Al Ramsey, San Diego businessman. Many Negro stage, screen and radio personalities are expected to help crowd the track in Old Mexico Sunday and many sportsmen and female followers of the sport of kings from Los Angeles, San Bernardino, Imperial Valley and other California areas will turn out for the occasion.

No expense has been spared by track authorities to make this the most outstanding derby to date. Ten other races will support the feature which is the Bronze Derby, an attraction that is the only one of its kind in the entire world.

Attending patrons will see bronze jockeys, now working at Santa Anita with some of the largest stables, in action exhibiting the skill used by such past greats as Isaac Murphy, Joe Lee, Lonnie Clayton, John Stoval, Willie Simms, "Monk" Overton, Isaac Lewis, Tiny Williams, James (Soup) Perkins, J. Winkfield, Jerry Chorn, Link Jones, Bob Isom, Tommy Knight, Tom Britton, J. Porter, Pete Clay and many other famous jockeys of the past. The name of Isaac Murphy will always be in the horsemen's Hall of Fame for he was the only Negro ever to ride three Kentucky Derby winners. They were "Buchann" in 1884, Riley in 1889 and the great "Kingman" in 1891. He also rode five Latonia Derby winners. Earl Sande, famous white jockey, was the only other man ever to saddle three Kentucky Derby winners.

The jockeys riding Sunday do not claim to ride like the greats of the past but the public will see some of the same skill as used by former famed riders. Jockeys having mounts in Sunday's Bronze Derby are: Taft Green, Morris Julian (a former winner of this event), Ted Crawford, Boots Jenkins, Joseph White, Darren Martin, A. Arthur and others. The race is set at one mile and one-sixteenth. Post time is noon at Caliente. Last year's winning horse was "Pious Display" with Jockey Thurston Pinkney up. Miss Dorothy Dandridge, star of stage, screen and radio, crowned the winner and has been invited to be a special guest of the track Sunday.

Eddie Burbridge, the honored guest, who is the theatrical editor of the California EAGLE, has extended a blanket invitation to all members of the Negro press of Los Angeles to be present as his guests.

There is free parking at the track, a cafe and refreshments. You are cordially invited to made this Sunday your Derby Day and attend the Seventh running of the Bronze Derby at Caliente in Old Mexico, the world's greatest Sunday race course.

Three Blazers New Recording Called Timely

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — Disc-jockeys Joe Grady and Ed Hurst of the "950 Club", popular platter show heard daily via Station WPEN here, have come up with an ingenious idea to warn their listeners of the danger of inflation in the United States.

Wax-whirlers Grady and Hurst have been giving a daily spin to the new record by Johnny Moore's Three Blazers, titled "Money's Getting Cheaper," Charles Brown's vocal of which tells how a dollar is buying less and less all the time.

Patrice Munsel, soprano, is the Metropolitan Opera's youngest star.

9-Day Drive For Signatures Opens Saturday

An all-out intensive drive to put the Independent Progressive Party petition campaign "over the top" by February 1 was launched at a conference Monday night, attended by more than 50 key representatives from all parts of Los Angeles county.

Centered around the anniversary of President Roosevelt's birthday, the 9-day drive for signatures will be conducted under the slogan, 'March of Names." Official starting day of the Roosevelt Memorial Week mobilizations will be Saturday, January 24.

Total goal of the period is 75,000 signatures, to be collected by some 3000 volunteers throughout the county.

"Meeting our quota of 225,000 signatures by February 1st will be of tremendous significance nationally." Mrs. Ruth Slade, petition campaign manager for the southland, pointed out. "It will give dramatic emphasis to the drive for peace, lower prices and a return to the principles of FDR which is now taking place in most of the states in the U.S."

Major depots announced are the IPP office, 426 South Spring; the CIO Building, 5851 Avalon blvd., Room 212; in Hollywood at 360 N. Sycamore avenue, Apt. 7; and in the Harbor area at 523 W. Anaheim blvd., Wilmington.

Petition circulators were urged to contact one of these depots immediately to be assigned a mobilization point.

Okla. Regents Order Separate School for Girl

OKLAHOMA CITY—Oklahoma teachers are among the worst paid in the nation, receiving only $1,428 a year, according to the Report of the President's Committee on Civil Rights.

Despite Oklahoma's poverty, the State Regents for Higher Education yesterday ordered a separate law school established for Mrs. Ada Lois Sipuel Fisher, 23, rather than admit her to the University of Oklahoma law school.

The new school was set up on the basis of a ruling by the state supreme court which last week was ordered by the U. S. Supreme Court in a forthright mondate to see that Mrs. Fisher gets the education in a state-supported institution to which she is entitled. The high tribunal ruled that Oklahoma must provide equal education for Negroes as speedily as it does for white applicants.

The new law school is attached to the Langston university for Negroes. Roscoe Dunjee, famed editor of the Oklahoma Black Dispatch and a director of the NAACP, promptly denounced the action of the regents, declared there would be "no acceptance of a Jim Crow law school."

Meantime, Mrs. Fisher has filed application to enroll at the University of Oklahoma law school. She has sought for two years through the courts a decision to permit her to enroll at the university. Fully qualified, she was denied admission to the law school simply because she is colored.

Bias-Barred Golfers Ask $315,000 Damages

MARTINEZ—Three suits aggregating $315,00 were on file today against the Richmond Golf Club and the Professional Golfers' Association following the barring of three Negro golfers from participation in the $10,000 open golf tournament at nearby Richmond.

The suits were filed by Atty. John Rowell on behalf of Bill Spiller and Ted Rhodes, Los Angeles pros, and Madison Gunter of San Francisco. Each man asked $105,000 damages.

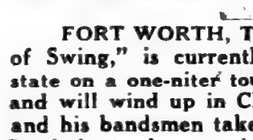
They said that club officials at Richmond accepted their entrance fee for the tournament, and then returned the money and told them they could not play.

Each sued the Richmond club for $5000 damages and the PGA for $100,000 on the grounds that refusal of the association to admit them denied them the right to earn their living as professional golfers.

George Schneiter, chairman of the tournament committee of the PGA, said the association's constitution provides that membership is open only to Caucasians.

Count Basie And Crew Sign For Dance & Theatre Dates

FORT WORTH, Tex.—Count Basie, the "Jump King of Swing," is currently roaring through the lone star state on a one-niter tour that started out of Los Angeles and will wind up in Chicago on Feb. 6 when the Count and his bandsmen take to the stage of the Windy City's Regal theatre for a week's engagement.



The Basie band will play one-night dance dates in various southwestern cities before embarking for Chicago. Along the Basie route are dates in key cities of Texas, Kansas, Oklahoma, Missouri, Louisiana and Arkansas.

Following their date at the Regal, the Basie aggregation will play a week of one-niters into Washington, D. C., where they open a week at the Howard theatre on Feb. 20, which will mark the band's first eastern appearance since last September.

Basie is slated for a lengthy theatre tour that will get underway the week of March 4 at the Adams theatre, Newark, N. J., to be followed by the week of March 12 at the 125th Street Apollo theatre in New York.

Georgia in New Move To Bar Negro Vote, FEP

WRIGHTSVILLE, Ga. — Georgia's white supremist, licked on many a front, are up to their old tricks again.

W. C. Brinson, chairman of the local Democratic executive committee, yesterday decreed that voters and candidates in Johnson county's Democratic primary scheduled for March 3 must sign pledges saying they favor the white primary, segregation of races and oppose the FEPC.

Brinson, who is also judge of the city court here, said voters would be required to sign the pledge before casting their ballot. Candidates qualifying for the primary must make similar vows, he said.

The pledge, a mixture of pseudo-patriotism and rascality, says:

1. I favor the county system now existing in the state of Georgia.
2. I favor the white primary.
3. I favor the preservation of segregation for the races as now exists in Georgia.
4. I oppose communism.
5. I oppose any organization that seeks to destroy the constitution of the U.S. and the constitution of Georgia.
6. I oppose enactment into law the rules and regulations as promulgated by the Fair Employment Practices Committee.
7. I will support the nominees of this primary in the general election.

WASHINGTON — The Census Bureau reported last week that between November and December jobs fell off 22,000, bringing the total unemployed in the nation to 1,648,000.

car he was driving at the time he claims Nickerson fired a shot from a revolver at him.

At the trial it developed that police officer David F. Cunningham had heard a shot fired in front of the Griffin residence on east 33rd street. He testified that Nickerson fired at him without warning and without cause. Defense Attorney Taylor however staged a parade of witnesses who tore down Mrs. Nickerson's story completely and young Nickerson testified that he fired no shot at all but on the contrary Melvin Griffin fired a shot from a rifle at him.

He further testified that Griffin was the man who had broken up his home and caused a divorce action which is now pending between him and his pretty wife during the course of which he has been awarded the custody of the minor children. He told the court his divorce case comes up in March. After hearing all the evidence Judge Gates ruled that there was reasonable doubt and acquitted him on both counts.

proportion which the number of such male citizens shall bear to the whole number of male citizens . . ."

The brief filed with the court in preparation for Dickerson's appearance offers the findings of the Senate Committee to Investigate Campaign Expenditures issued after hearings in Mississippi on the 1946 campaign of the late Senator Bilbo, to prove beyond question the systematic disfranchisement of the Negro population.

There was no disagreement between the minority and the majority of the senate committee as to the denial of the right of the Negro people to vote in Mississippi, the brief points out. The minority concluded that "under custom long maintained in Mississippi . . . admittedly . . . admittedly . . . the Democratic primary therein was white." The majority, consisting of Senator Ellender of Louisiana, Senator Maybank of South Carolina and Senator Thomas of Oklahoma, went even further:

'It is apparent from the record that previous to the July 2 primary Negroes have not participated in Democratic primaries in Mississippi for 56 years, for the reason that the Democratic primary in Mississippi had been accepted under the law as the white man's primary by Negroes and white."

The Dennis brief also outlines the history of the adoption of the 14th amendment in order to show its purpose. The congressional debate at that time revealed the view of congress that unless a new system of apportionment were adopted the effect of the 13th amendment abolishing slavery would be for the former slave-holders to "secure a greater voice in the government than they had before their defeat in the Civil War."

Dickerson will argue that the fact that the violation of the 14th amendment by the State of Mississippi and by other states has been tolerated for a long time is no justification for now refusing to enforce it.

Dennis was convicted of contempt and sentenced to one year in prison and $1000 fine following his refusal to testify before the Un-American Committee on the ground that the committee was unconstitutional. Louis F. McCabe, Philadelphia attorney also retained by the Civil Rights Congress, will join Dickerson in the appeal argument, centering on the presentation of evidence that the Un-American Committee acts in violation of the free speech, press and assembly guaranteed under the First Amendment.

Issues in the Dennis case are similar to those in the case of Leon Josephson, now on its way to the United States Supreme Court. In this case U. S. Circuit Court Justice Charles E. Clark held the committee to be unconstitutional, and in the dissenting opinion asserted that the effect of the Un-American Activities Committee was "to enforce conformity of political thinking, to penalize the new and original, to label as subversive or un-American . . . new approaches for the public welfare, in short to damn that very kind of initiative in experimentation which has made our democracy grow and flourish.'"

MELVIN NICKERSON, son of the late Wm. Nickerson Jr., insurance tycoon, is being congratulated by his attorney Curtis C. Taylor. Young Nickerson was acquitted last Friday of a double charge of assault with a deadly weapon and felonous wife beating by Superior Judge Walter S. Gates. The latter charge was filed by pretty Frances Nickerson, his estranged wife.

between the two major political parties in the United States. As a matter of fact, they boast of a bi-partisan foreign policy although it is just that foreign policy that may bring about another world war—a horrible event we should avoid like poison."

Mrs. Bass compared the organization of the Independent Progressive party today with the organization of the Republican party before the Civil War. The Republican party then was composed of the best elements of all political parties, weary of the dilly-dallying of those in power in their seeming efforts to curb the curse of slavery.

"We need just such a party today to fight the dangers of Fascism in this country," she declared. "And we need a leader like Abraham Lincoln to be our president. That leader is Henry Agard Wallace. I urge all to register, to sign, and to vote for Wallace for president."

The audience seemed pleased with Mrs. Bass' illustrations of the need of a new party. More than $100 was raised for the cause.

Those who accompanied Mrs. Bass to Santa Barbara were Mr. and Mrs. Gene Hilyard, and her nephew, Earl Carter.

tenced to life imprisonment for the slaying of a white Canton, Ohio, confectioner in 1945.

At that time, too, the court cited the 14th amendment, declaring that police methods in obtaining a confession could not be "squared with the due process of law which the 14th amendment commands."

On The Sidewalk

By C.A.B.

I leave this rule for others when I am dead,
Be always sure you're right, then go ahead.
—David Crockett.

IT IS just about time the Common Man should Stop! Look! Listen! Then go ahead.

Some, but too few people in the world today, seem to realize what is happening. Among those who ostensibly are oblivious of the changes that are taking place around them that will have a dramatic effect on their future, are the Negro people.

I imagine I hear some of my friends say: "Why is she always playing on that harp string, the Negro?"

With me it is not a matter of picking on a particular group, or of being selfishly devoted to the Negro segment because I am part of it. As a matter of fact I am a member of that minority composed of all fighting minorities who believe in the one-world theory, and the Comman Man rule.

FIRST let's stop. Brother or fellow traveler, have you charted your course? Do you know which direction you are traveling? Better, have you discovered any pitfalls in your path, or where you are standing?

Look! Do you discern any signs ahead that point to the destruction of the meager portion of freedom which you now have?

And Listen! Do you hear any rumblings of a new war? Are the jobs in industry and the professions that you secured under a Roosevelt administration, slipping from you?

I ask these questions in good faith.

A POLITICAL campaign is looming on the horizon. High pressure politicians are sharpening their spurs for a battle. The prelude to the campaign proper is a high price depression. The position of the two major parties, Democratic and Republican, is now threatened by a Third Party headed by Henry Wallace.

Negro voters have been fooled by the once grand old Republican party on some old work out traditions such as Abraham Lincoln was a Republican, my grandfather was a Republican, and that's good enough for me, etc.

Expect Wall Street, the National Association of Manufacturers, the Hearst newspapers, and Big Business of all kinds that control oil wells, gold mines, coffee plantations, sugar industries all over the world, will support strongly a Republican come-back, and encourage you to believe this miracle can be accomplished.

Even though it has failed them on every issue that supported their claim to a decent life, I expect some of our Negro leaders to glamourize the benefits gained by Negros under the Truman administration.

As a matter of fact the only benefits granted to Negroes by President Truman are on paper; where I opine they will remain until the end of time.

IT HAS been said, and truly, "There is no longer a two-party system. There is no dividing line between the Democratic and Republican parties."

At the hands of this Democratic-Republican coalition, the people—especially the workingman, the Negro people, and all minorities, have suffered, without relief in sight until this moment.

Now, the question, especially to you fellow members of my racial group is this: Are you prepared to stand the heaviest blows yet, and join the fighting forces headed by the Third Party candidate, Henry Walace?

Wallace has no ax to grind. When he was asked to run as vice-president with Roosevelt for a fourth term, he could have been nominated if he had made the type of speech the bosses dmanded. If he had kowtowd to them, instead of upholding the integrity and dignity of the Common Man.

At that time he was the Voice of the people—enunciating the same doctrine he is preaching now: America for all the American people, without regard to race, color, or religion.

About the Third Party, Henry Wallace says: "Looking back over 150 years, we see that a large part of our progress has been due to new parties. Jefferson, shocked by the Alien and Sedition Act, started to work on a new party in 1798 which remained continuously in power until 1824. Jackson started a new party in 1828 which remained in power most of the time until 1860.

The Workingmen's Parties started in the 1820's and 1830's wanted first an 11-hour day, and finally they became so brave as to ask for a 10-hour day. They wanted to get paid in money which did not fluctuate in value.

"In the 1840 campaign which the Whigs were destined to win because of the terrible depression of 1837, the Whigs presented their candidate as the poor man's frind.

"After 1836 the Democratic Party rotted away as it increasingly gave in to the forces of complacency and reaction on the issues of slavery and labor."

THE La Follette third party of 1924 was significant in keeping the Progressive flame alight at a time when both old parties were completely decadent. "Neither party can be trusted to keep its promises," said Bob La Follette. "Both parties within the last quarter century have regarded their platforms, as they regard them today, not as a contract with the people and a program of action, but as devices to catch votes and to gain political office. To break the combined power of the private monopoly system over the political and economic life of the American people is the one paramount issue of the 1924 campaign."

"Today," says Henry Wallace, "it is only necessary to change the year 1924 to 1948 and the words 'American people' to 'people of the entire world.'"

And that is the aim and purpose of Henry Wallace and his backers in the Independent Progressive Party. To establish world peace, to prevent a depression, to break the power of the private monopoly system over the lives of the American people and the people of the entire world. Who will listen to the clarion call, and take up arms to fight for this glorious cause?

Fontana Man Held in Knife Slaying of Wife

Henry King, a resident of Fontana, California, was held responsible by a coroners' jury here Monday for the knife slaying of his wife Elzeno King on Wednesday, January 21.

The slaying, following an argument, occurred in the home of a sister of the slain woman at 1820 East 43rd st., where the deceased had lived since Christmas Eve.

After fatally stabbing his wife, King walked around in a daze until an officer noticing his bloody appearance halted him and heard his admission, "I have just killed my wife," according to the police.

Officer James J. Pena, accompanying King back to the house found the body of Mrs. King half sitting on a divan with 18 knife thrusts in her body.

King, the police said, pointed out the hiding place of the weapon, a long bladed dagger beneath a flap of a chair.

Detectives Toole and Howsley who invested the gruesome tragedy, said the killing was one of the worst they had run across in years.

Atty. Everette M. Porter represented King at the inquest Monday and will continue in the case when it comes up for preliminary hearing tomorrow, January 30.

Watts Delegation Seek Redress On Properties

A delegation of Watts citenzry went before the City Council to ask for redress on property footage claimed by the city on 107th between Wilmington and Grape streets.

The group was represented by Robert Cloud, Watts storekeeper, who said the property owners approved the city's proposal to improve 107th street but were only recently aware that four feet of their land extended on the city's property.

Before Watts was incorporated into the city of Los Angeles the lots were subdivided with the extra foot frontage. However, when it was incorporated into the Los Angeles area and the city surveyed the land for street improvement, the four feet extension became a problem.

The council voted to improve the street and the matter pertaining to dwellings on city property will be taken up later.

Local Groups Hit Arrest of Negro, Jewish Leaders

Two local groups which have played outstanding roles in the long, arduous fight for the rights of U. S. minorities, this week, had joined the nation-wide protest against the arrest, for deportation, of Claudia Jones, Negro woman leader, and Alexander Bittelman, Jewish leader, both New York City.

"The case of Claudia Jones is a direct threat to all of us who believe in equal rights for all Americans," the Civil Rights Congress declared in a statement signed by William R. Bidner, executive director.

Born in Trinidad, B. W. I., Miss Jones hase lived in this country since 1924. According to Bidner, her "numerous attempts to become a citizen were thwarted by the Department of Naturalization and Immigration because of her public and relentless fight against job discrimination, Jim-crow, the poiltax and other unconstitutional practices suffered by the Negro people."

Miss Jones, who is currently secretary of the National Women's Commission of the Communist party, is charged with seeking to "overthrow the government by force and violence." However, Bidner points out that the U. S. supreme court" in the

Navy To Evict 5000 Puerto Rican Natives

NEW YORK—In the same arbitrary manner that it drove the native population off Bikini, the U. S. navy is now attempting to depopulate a Puerto Rican island and turn it into a military training base.

Despite the frantic opposition of the Puerto Ricans the navy already has ordered half of the inhabitants of the fertile island of Vicques to evacuate by the early part of this year.

The order will affect some 5000 people and, if carried through, will cripple an agricultural economy that which supports fur sugar mills (prducing 20,000 tns f sugar annually) and an extensive grazing industry.

To Puerto Rico, which does not have nearly enough arable land to support a tragically dense population, the removal of Vicjues is a national calamity according to professors and students of the University of Puerto Rico who, with organized labor and other groups, are opposing the navy's plan.

How women and girls may get wanted relief from functional periodic pain

Cardui is a liquid medicine which many women say has brought relief from the cramp-like agony and nervous strain of functional periodic distress. Here's how it may help:

1- Taken like a tonic, it should stimulate appetite, aid digestion,* thus help build resistance for the "time" to come.

2- Started 3 days before "your time", it should help relieve pain due to purely functional periodic causes.

Try Cardui. If it helps, you'll be glad you did.

George Vaughns Tells of First Trip to Texas

Setting some sort of a precedent for "firsts," George B. Vaughns, grand master for the California Prince Hall Masonic Lodges, arrived in Los Angeles a few days ago from his first trip to Texas on his first vacation in 20 years. The grand master and his wife spent the week in Los Angeles as the house guests of Dr. and Mrs. Titus P. Martin, of West 31st St.

Although not an official Masonic business, Grand Master Vaughns visited Holland No. 20 and Thos. Waller No. 49 Lodges and a Westside Masonic club who was holding their regular meeting during his stay here.

This being the grand master's trip to Texas, he was among the first Negro group permitted to attend the annual football classic at the "Cotton Bowl," where for the first time Negro athletes vied with white athletes on the playing field in the Penn State-Southern Methodist New Year's game.

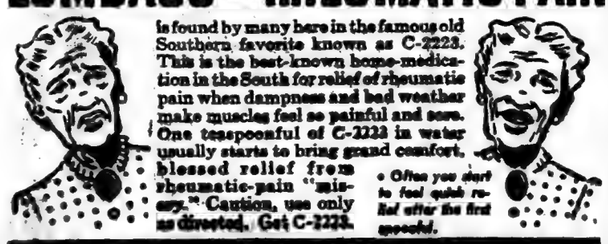
What Price Discrimination

"During my travels to the several Texas cities," Vaughns said, "I felt that a Negro or a white person making his first trip experienced a complete state of confusion. Although my trip was unmarred by any overt act of discrimination, I knew it was there, but where. The lines of discrimination and segregation are just as straight as an arrow, but where is the line of demarcation? To illustrate the perplexities of the southern discriminatory philosophy, he cited an instance where a Negro woman entered a bus with babe in arms and was compelled to stand, finding no vacant seats in the alleted "colored sections," whereupon another Negro woman entered the same bus with a white child in arms could sit where she pleased.

Economically, the Southern Negro is faring very well; in some instances, much better than we here in the West without segregation. Negro school teachers in Texas are now receiving equal pay. Their educational facilities are good, and in Dallas, they have the prettiest high school of any in the entire state.

While in Dallas, Vaughns continued, he head an editorial in one of the leading daily publications, where it observed, the cost of segregation and discrimination was proving too costly an experiment in Texas by its pecularity of double purchasing — in other words, Discrimination must go! the editorial said.

Vaughns, speaking of the Prince Hall Masons, stated he had paid his respects and visited the Masonic Mosque at Fort Worth and other Temples in Texas. The Prince Hall orders are growing by leaps and bounds, insome instances, those that had joined irregular fraternities, had, because of the Prince Hall educational program, joined our ranks.



Mr. and Mrs. Vaughns entrained Monday for their Berkeley home where he is the senior partner in the Vaughns and Berkeley law firm.

Not Seeking NAACP Office Says Jordan

Dr. Frederick D. Jordan, pastor of the First African Methodist Episcopal church, 810 Towne avenue, and active in a number of community organizations, told the EAGLE yesterday that he felt "some one" had "unintentionally misrepresented" his relationship to the coming annual election of the local branch of the NAACP.

For the past several months, Dr. Jordan said, a number of persons active in the NAACP have approached him "with the request that I become a candidate for the presidency of the association. Some of them intimated that the present incumbent had decided not to seek re-election.

"To each of them I replied that my community obligations were already heavy and that I did not seek any additional responsibility; if however, there is on the part of the supporters of the NAACP any sincere desire for my services, in keeping with my efforts to serve the community at the point of greatest need, I will undertake to re-arrange my responsibilities so as to serve."

Dr. Jordan emphasized that he does not seek the office and that particularly he objects to being presented as an opposition candidate. He stated that although he had from time to time differed with the present administration on matters of policy it had always had his sympathetic cooperation.

COUTURSTAT

By Grace Fisher Atkins

Maude White Foster led the mid-winter fashion parade in Cleveland, Ohio, early this month. Mrs. Foster might well have been selected as one of the best dressed women.

It was reported by Mr. Walter Daniels, teacher at Hooper Ave. school, who attended a formal dinner party in Cleveland, the last week in December, that Maude Foster was elaborately gowned in blue crepe. Many of the guests at the Cleveland party remarked that Mrs. Foster looked charming in the graceful folds of flowing blue.

Other attractive sections of her wardrobe were two suits. One in mauve broadcloth of the finest texture was worn most frequently. The dark brown velvet collar stopped the continuous flow of soft clear brown shaded to the mauve tone of the same value.

A deep purple soft brushed woolen suit completed in feathers of the same purple in millinery. Accessories all of purple but interrupted by chartreuse birds here and there.

Another soft brown woolen dress composed of the new look, with large pockets fulfilled the mid-western fashion requirements for worth and beauty.

A perfect 38 is Mrs. White. The larger figures usually are accompanied by lack of proportion. This particular model has the same lines as is expected of sizes twelve and fourteen.

Most important to the silhouette is proportion. Size does materially affect the beaut models. For more importan line, proportion, posture, car and similar values.

Sign Of Progress

By JOSEPH M. PROSKAUER
Pres. American Jewish Committe

At Geneva, Switzerland, a short time ago, a new page was written into the record of human liberty when the United Nations Commission on Human Rights adopted the first draft of an International Bill of Rights to be submitted to the General Assembly at its next session. The nations of the world have thus recorded the growing realization that the racial, political and religious rights of men and women everywhere are of direct concern to all.

The United Nations in its brief lifetime has taken many steps to insure the dignity of the individual and to establish every person's equal right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Not the least of its activities in that direction has been an uncompromising insistence that those on its own staff be judged always by their individual merits, rather than by the color of their skin, their religion or the country of their birth.

The recent appointment of Dr. Ralph J. Bunche as chief of the secretariat of the United Nations Palestine Commission is a case in point. This eminently qualified scholar was called to his new duties as a result of his splendid work with the Trusteeship Division and with the Special Committee on Palestine.

Dr. Bunche is the grandson of a Negro slave in the South. His post is a source of great pride to all of us who look forward to a world in which human beings are truly emancipated — freed forever from the shackles of race prejudice and religious bigotry. The leadership of the United Nations is pointing the way even to such freedom-loving countries as the United States.

We hope the time will come, in the not too distant future, when a well-deserved appointment such as Dr. Bunche's may be viewed, not as a sign of progress, but as a natural event among enlightened men. Until that day, thoughtful citizens will rejoice in each forward step that brings us closer to peace and brotherhood.

New York Neglects Famed Negro Cultural Collection, Charges Reddick Resigning as Curator

NEW YORK—In a statement of sharp criticism of the New York City Fathers, Dr. L. D. Reddick resigned his position as curator of the Schomburg Collection of Negro Literature of the New York Public Library. Dr. Reddick charged the city government and library authorities with indifference to his efforts to build a world center for the study of Negro history, a literature and art. He said, "I have done the best that I could to build a center of Negro culture with the limited resources the New York Public Library has been willing or able to provide. It is now up to the people of New York City."

Dr. Reddick pointed out that New York City with UN, Broadway, radio networks, news gathering agencies, Wall street, great libraries and museums and the many diverse peoples is indeed the capital of the world and it should also be, he feels, the capital of Negro culture. The Schomburg Collection is located in Harlem, the largest Negro urban sorely in need of an increased staff, additional books, shelving space and facilities for preserving the valuable items that are already in the Collection and should be acquired.

"We are at the threshhold of a remarkable social, intellectual and artistic development of Negroid peoples the world over. It is a pity that the evidences of this renaissance cannot be properly preserved because of indifferent public officials who do find funds for other things while the Schomburg Collection starves."

Demarville Colony Opens Year Book

The Demarville Colony, near Lake Elsinore, held its first annual tea at the home of the founder, Mrs. Zeater Demar, last week. The offering from the tea will go toward the building of the Community Center in the Colony.

The tea was also the occasion for the opening of the Demarville Golden Year Book. The many friends as well as the members of the Colony itself, who wish to contribute to this splendid project, will have their names placed in this book, to be preserved forever in the history of the Colony. The book is being kept at 243 E. 43rd st. at present, until it will be placed in the City Hall of Demarville. Anyone who wishes to become a patron may still have his name entered in this book.

The Colony, founded a little more than a year ago by Mrs. Demar, on the cooperative basis, now covers about 30 acres and is at present in the very active period of development. The Community Center for which the tea was given will be located on the recreation grounds, and will offer quarters for Demarville guests.

The park is being cleared and is being readied for the Eucalyptus Bowl game to be held New Year's Day, 1949. The contest for Queen of Eucalyptus Day is now under way, and when that day dawns it will mark a new era for the entire West Coast.

The day for the ground breaking of the Demarville Rest Home will soon be set. It will be located at the south gate of the Colony, and will be the personal project of the founder.

Negro Student Heads SMHS Student Body

SANTA MONICA—Melvin Lewis, a young Negro student of the Santa Monica High school, was elected president of the student body by a large majority in an election held last Friday.

Lewis, a member of 11-A, has a brilliant record as a student. He is an honor student, a member of the Honor Scholarship Society, and has contributed much to Santa Monica High school sports.

This is the first time in the history of the Santa Monica High that a Negro has been elected leader of the student body. There are only about 50 Negro students enrolled, but Lewis defeated the current vice-president by a wide margin.

A Mexican student was elected vice-president.

On this day religious groups are requested to remind the public that social injustice still exists in the United States and that a stronger combination of the ideals of religious organizations and the social justice program of the Association will develop a power for freedom that cannot be ignored.

Rev. Walter P. Offutt, NAACP church secretary, is also asking ministers to assist the NAACP in its struggle for complete democracy by soliciting funds for the Association on February 15 or by placing the NAACP in their church budget for the year.

Hits Muzzling Of Professors

Truman's Commission on Higher Education yesterday called for 195,000 more college and university teachers and said increased salaries are necessary to reach that goal.

The Commission had previously condemned the racial quota system in education and other discriminatory practices against minority groups students.

In its present, or fourth, report, the Commission also pleaded for academic freedom, which it called a "prime essential of a free society."

"Pressures to bend or twist truth, to stay away from controversial issues about which the professor is competent to speak, or to avoid certain areas of inquiry, are not compatible with the ideal of professional integrity," it said.

Fanning Predicts Early Exams for New P.O. Carriers, Clerks

There is a possibility that a civil service examination for postal clerks and carriers will be held in June or July, Postmaster Michael D. Fanning announced yesterday.

Fanning recently returned from Washington, D. C. where he urged additions and improvements in the local post office set up, including a new station for the Eastside. This last request was made in conjunction with Rep. Helen Gahagan Douglas who has been plugging for it for quite some time.

Fanning reported yesterday that postal receipts for 1946 and 1947 indicate beyond doubt that Los Angeles is the fourth largest post office in the nation in volume of business.

Cancer and Heredity

NEW YORK—Regardless of race or color, cancer has NOT been proven hereditary, says the American Cancer Society, in a statement this week. "But play it safe" the statement continues, "Doctors say: If your parent died of cancer, or if this disease is frequent in your family, then you should be alert, cautious and intelligent in detecting and reporting any sign or symptom of cancer in your own body."

Poll to Pick Outstanding Bias Fighters

NEW YORK—The Council Against Intolerance in America has sent out ballots to leading men and women of America, asking them to mark their choice for the most outstanding individual who in 1947 has done the most to promote the democratic ideal and to combat intolerance. The Thomas Jefferson Prize for the Advancement of Democracy will be awarded to the person judged having done the most.

Five prizes will be awarded: to the individual who has done the most in public service; to the one who has done the most in education; in the arts; in labor and indutry; and in journalism and literature.

Jackie Robinson is a candidate for the public service award, for breaking the color barrier in American baseball. Also in this category are George Houser and Bayard Rustin, Negro and white challengers of Jimcrow, for traveling together in the South.

The awards will be given at a Jefferson Day ceremony in the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, New York.

Green Key Award

The Green Key Award, to be presented semi-annually at East Los Angeles Junior college on the basis of scholarship, citizenship and leadership, was awarded to June Parker and John Manning, both sophomore students, at the honor assembly last Thursday. This was the inauguration of this distinctive honor.

A $350 government bond was given to both Miss Parker and Manning along with a charter membership in the Order of the Green Key.

The interest rate on homes and farms purchased for veterans by the State Department of Veterans Affairs is now only three percent.

Eastside One of 4 Chest Areas To Reach Full Pledged Quota

Generous residents and unselfish volunteers in the Community Chest campaign together have brought new honors to the Eastside, according to the report of Bernard F. Jefferson, chairman for the Adams-Central district, who announces that the pledged quota of $7720 has been contributed, putting this community on the "over the top" Honor Roll.

"We can be proud that we are one of four out of 26 city residential districts which fully met its obligations to our 150 Red Feather agencies," Jefferson said, "and that we have done our share in supporting the health, youth, welfare and veterans services which help make our city a good place in which to live.

"I am deeply appreciative of the cooperation of the entire community which has made this achievement possible."

Leaders of various major units in the local campaign were Dr. E. F Robinson and Mrs. Gertrude Reece Hicks, vice chairmen; Colonels Mrs. Josephine Chambers, Mrs. Priscilla Bailey, Mrs. Mabel V. Gray, Mrs. Augusts Glover and Mrs. Malinda Mae Garland, and Mrs. Josephine Brown, former district chairmen, who as a representative of the Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Women, secured many volunteers from local churches.

Minority Groups Wait Court's Covenant Ruling

Attorneys for Mrs. Isabell Crocker, local American Indian, and her white neighbors who sought to force her out of her home at 435 North Westhourne drive, West Hollywood, were agreed today that the U.S. supreme courts decision on four covenant cases now before it may settle the issue once and for all.

Last year, the superior court ruled that Mrs. Crocker and her three daughters, Muriel, Alicia and Jean, must vacate their home because restrictive covenants denied its occupancy to non-Caucasians.

Judge Reuben Scmidt's decision gave the Crockers 30 days to leave, but neighbors did not seek an eviction writ pending a higher court ruling.

All four of the cases now before the supreme court involve Negroes. Other minority groups, however, as well as covenant advocates, realize that the court's decision in these cases will also affect their status as property owners and—American citizens.

Six justices of the high tribunal heard oral argument last week in the four cases, after three judges had voluntarily disqualified themselves. Justices Jackson, Rutledge and Reed were the three who disqualified themselves. Their withdrawal left the court evenly divided between conservatives and liberals, with a split decision a definite possibility.

The three justices gave no reason for disqualifying themselves, but it is understood that the homes of Justices Ruthledge and Jackson are covered by restrictive covenants.

All four cases hinge on the right of courts to enforce private arrangements that bar minority groups from owning and occupying residential properties in large areas of most American cities.

Municipal Body Orders Team to Drop Negroes

BALTIMORE—The municipal Bureau of Recreation intervened this week to prevent two 15-year old Negro boys from playing on the Fulton PCA Juniors basketball team.

The Fulton team, representing a west Baltimore neighborhood PCA unit, had invited the two boys, Carroll Gibson and Robert Carrol, to play on the team. The newcomers were duly registered with recreation officials, and on Dec. 17 they played their first league game with Fulton.

This week, Manager Phil Boyer was told the team could not be retained in the league unless it dropped its Negro players.

Boyer, protested, wrote the Bureau that the request was "contrary to the basic democratic principles on which our government is founded, and it is contrary to the most elementary rules of fair play . . . Furthermore, such a directive has no basis in law or in the regulations of your department."

The Bureau conceded the latter point, but ordered the Fulton team's league games postponed pending a hearing on Boyer's appeal.

Early last December, the Fulton team visited a city recreation center and played an impromptu game against a team of Negro boys. A second game was scheduled, but the Bureau forbade it; the center, said the Bureau, was for Negroes only and could not be used by whites.

Bares Phoney Lease Racket

WASHINGTON—A phony rent control law and grasping landlords make a dangerous combination, a senate banking subcommittee learned yesterday.

The committee was told by Housing Expediter Tighe E. Woods that his agency is investigating complaints that some landlords are using phony "leases" to hike their rents and free their apartments from rent control.

Under the present law, passed by the Republican - dominated 80th congress, landlords and tenants can "agree" on a "voluntary" 15 per cent increase. If a tenant who refused to sign such a lease moves out an unscrupulous landlord simply makes out a new lease for a non-existent "John Doe" tenant showing he had agreed to the "voluntary" boost.

This has the effect of forcing any subsequent tenant to accept the increase as the established rent and automatically frees the apartment from rent control next Dec. 31.

Gun Fight Leads To Divorce Suit

James Long, prominent businessman and sportsman this week filed a divorce action against his pretty wife, Loredo Long.

The complaint, of a sensational nature, charges cruelty and also names as co-respondent James Acrey, brother-in-law of Rev. Chester A. Hemphill, prominent local minister.

The suit arose as the climax of long standing differences between the apparently happy couple, which came to a head when Long and Acrey engaged in an altercation on January 6. During the altercation, Long suffered a gunshot wound from a revolver allegedly in the hands of Acrey. The bullet shattered Long's left ankle and caused him to be hospitalized for several days, necessitating the placing of his leg in a plaster cast.

Long, who operates a gas station at 28th and Central, is also an aviation enthusiast and flies his own private plane. He resides at 857 East 115th St.

The couple has amassed considerable property and the complaint lists community assets in excess of $30,000. Mrs. Long has retained counsel and a bitter fight is expected to ensue. Long is being represented by Attorney Curtis C. Taylor.

The couple has one child, James Long Jr., whose custody the father is seeking.

Ben Davis Blasts Dixie Solons at Cole Bill Hearing

WASHINGTON — Ben Davis, New York Negro city councilman tangled with Southern members of a congressional committee during his testimony on the Cole bill to restrict the ballot, challenged their right to sit in congress.

He denounced the Cole bill as aimed to maintain the bi-partisan rule of the Republican and Democratic parties. He said it would be used to keep off the ballot any party which might receive electoral support from Communists. He resented the attitude of committee members of accepting the charge that the Communists seek to overthrow the government as if it had been proven.

"These statements are untrue," Davis said. They are slanders. I am extremely proud to be a member of the Communist party, an American and a Negro."

"As a Communist member of the city council, I'll put my record up against that of any member of congress, including this committee."

Rep. Omar Burleson, Texas Democrat, asked whether the Communists advocated the overthrow of the government by force and violence. Davis looked at him cooly.

"I've answered that question and I'll answer it again. But first let me say I am under no obligations to answer a question from you. I doubt very much that you are legally a member of congress. You come from Texas, a police state which disfranchises Negroes and poor whites."

Rep. Charles W. Vursell (R., Ill.), acting chairman, hastily rushed to the protection of his southern colleagues. "It is not your prerogative to discuss the qualifications of members of congress." he told Davis.

"I disagree, Mr. Chairman," Davis retorted. "And as for force and violence, why not let Mr. Burleson try to justify the force and violence used against Negroes in Texas and other states of the south."

"I am asking—" began Burleson.

"And what about lynching?" demanded Davis.

"The Communist program is to foment strikes," said Burleson.

"The Communist program is to kick out corrupt politicians and make the government subject to the will of the people," retorted Davis.

"We might as well abandon this line of questioning," said Burleson.

Realtors Lump as 'Blights:' Crooks, 'Madams,' Negroes

WASHINGTON—The National Assn. of Real Estate Boards lumps Negroes with bootleggers, gangsters, and "madams" as "blights" which "no reputable broker" should introduce into a "respectable neighborhood."

This was revealed by Leslie Perry of the NAACP during his testimony before the Joint Congressional Committee on Housing. The committee is holding hearings to investigate all conditions and practices which have served to retard the development of an adequate housing program.

Perry charged the National Real Estate Board, through its branches in every city, with exercising "monopolistic powers" in violation of the law. He cited Article 34 of the Board's "Code of Ethics" which provides:

"A realtor should never be instrumental in introducing into a neighborhood a character of property or occupancy, members of any race or nationality, or any individuals whose presence will be clearly detrimental to property values in that neighborhood.

"When, for example, in a respectable neighborhood a house is wanted for conversion to an objectionable use no respectable broker will represent the prospective buyer. The latter might be a bootlegger, who would cause considerable annoyance to his neighbors, a 'madam,' who has a number of 'call girls' on her string, a gangster, who wanted a screen for his activities by living in a better neighborhood, a colored man of means, who was giving his children a college education and thought they were entitled to live among whites. But no matter what the motive or character of the would-be purchaser, if the deal would instigate a form of blight, then certainly the well-meaning broker must work against its consummation."

The NAACP urged that congress take immediate steps to eliminate the housing shortages for Negroes by outlawing restrictive covenants, and by declaring as unlawful restraint of trade all agreements between real estate agents, or rules of real estate associations, not to sell or rent property because of race or religion.

It also urged segregation in federal housing projects be prohibited and that no federal laws or aids be given any private developer or city or state that segregates tenants or would-be purchasers on grounds of race.

Annual Disease Prevention Week Here Set for February 15-22

Dates for Disease Prevention Week, an annual campaign to curb disease and promote health throughout Los Angeles city and county, are Feb. 15-22, Dr. Ruth J. Temple, Southeast District Health Officer, announced yesterday.

Expectations were that Mayor Fletcher Bowron this week would issue a proclamation stressing importance of the activity and calling on all citizens to cooperate.

Dr. Temple, in a statement, said:

"Adoption by families and individuals of health recommendations embodied in the program of Disease Prevention Week would go far in making Los Angeles area into one of the most healthful in the world.

"Individuals and families will be urged to have smallpox vaccinations and to see that children also are immunized against diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus. Youths and adults should have blood tests to detect possible presence of syphilis, examinations to find gonorrhea and chest x-rays to locate possible tuberculosis.

"Everyone should make appointments with physicians and dentists for preventive measures, examinations and treatments where disease is found. Those without funds will be referred to public health centers."

While the week will be conducted by the Community Health Association, 4818 Avalon Blvd., it has cooperation of city and county health departments, American Red Cross, the public schools, churches, PTA, Los Angeles County Medical Association and many other social and welfare organizations.

Public Hearing On Master Plan For City Jan. 2

The pattern of Los Angeles years to come will be presented to the people by the City Planning Commission at a public hearing scheduled for Thursday January 29.

Covering master plans of ways, transportation terminals, rapid transit, recreation, land use, public utilities and community facilities, the comprehensive studies have been several years in the making and have involved the most detailed examination ever attempted of the city's 450 square miles.

The master plan is being presented to permit Los Angeles to make use of the federal Urban Redevelopment Act designed to assist communities in redeveloping blighted areas. But the act requires approval of the master plan before cities can make use of it.

Charles B. Bennett, director of city planning, said members of the Planning Commission will make their decision on the master plan based on information presented at the public hearing. If approved, it will be presented to the city council by the mayor. The Redevelopment Act requires the council to state by resolution that a need exists for the elimination of blighted districts and following this action, the mayor is authorized to appoint an Urban Redevelopment agency to proceed with the clearance of blighted districts.

Bennett said the land use plan to be presented includes the classification and extent of uses of land for housing, business, industry, recreation, education and public buildings and grounds. The plan will also be displayed showing the population density permitted under the plan and proposed distribution of future population.

The hearing will begin at 1:30 p.m. in Room 150, City Hall.

Mrs. George Linse of Oakland won the individual event recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Tatum. The event was sponsored by the Twilighters Bridge Club, affiliated with the American Bridge Association, Inc.

George W. Beynon says that the trend toward individual competition grows stronger each successive year. In the early days of contract bridge such contests took the form of rodeos. He who held his saddle the longest or was "tossed" the least, usually came out on top. Today's fields are more compact. Players are no longer grooved in a certain partnership. They have learned adaptability. The game has risen from a tedious task to a pleasing pastime. Each player must play with every other player in the field and twice against him. The point movement brings you Mrs. Jones as a partner once and as an opponent, once on your left and once on your right. This makes a good player comparison and gives the director a headache.

Mrs. Mary Stamper, Corrine Toney, Mrs. Vera Toney, Mrs. Stamper, Mrs. Gladys Brady and George Linse, finished in that order behind Mrs. Linse.

As the next National Championships of the American Bridge Association, Inc. will be held in August at Atlantic City, New Jersey, the Fortnightly Bridge Club is hoping to arrange a series of Open-Pair events with San Francisco, Oakland and Berkeley bridge clubs. The proposed series will terminate in July and the two pairs amassing the majority of master points will represent Northern California at Atlantic City in the Team-of-Four event. This tournament will be labeled the Atlantic City Special.

B'way Federal Savings Observes Anniversary

Several hundred persons visited the office of Broadway Federal Savings anr Loan Association of Los Angeles last Saturday to renew their acquaintance and wish the officers and board of directors much success for 1948.

Great progress was made during 1947, so stated H. A. Ballard, president and general manager. "We have handled $1,645 during the first year of operations and at the close of the year, total assets were $309.50."

"For the first 10 days of 1948 new accounts amounted to $536.04. At the close of business on the 10th, our assets had increased to $762,947.82."

"We are grateful," said Ballard, "to the press and well wishers for their unceasing support given us during this period and trust that the end of 1948 will be a banner year for the institution."

The annual meeting is set for 2 p.m. on Wednesday, Jan. 1948, at 4329 South Broadway, Los Angeles, Calif.

YOU CAN COUNT ON ONE HAND THE THINGS THAT COST LESS TODAY THAN IN 1939...

...and one of them is GAS!

You may find it hard to believe you pay less these days for anything! The latest U. S. Labor Statistics Index (161.3) shows your costs of living are two-thirds higher today than in 1939. But one important item, happily, has not gone up—the gas you use to cook your family meals!

The price of gas has stayed down—lower, even, than it was back in '39. And by comparison, the higher other living costs have gone, the greater "bargain" gas has become. So far, the line has held. It has taken a lot of "know how" and kept us on our toes. And we don't mean to claim all the credit, either.

There have been other factors. An abnormally increased use of gas per household is one. Southern California's growth is another. But where these conditions have helped us by adding to our revenue, they have also added heavily to our operating costs. They have helped us, for the time being, to offset steadily climbing expenses—for payrolls, taxes, materials, and even the cost of gas in the field. But the cost of extending our service to take care of new customers is running way up. (It now costs from 2½ to 3 times as much as it did in '39.)

As it probably is in your own household—keeping on the right side of the ledger has been a problem. Among our responsibilities has been the provision of an additional supply of low-cost gas for this enormously growing area. The nearest practical source was some 1,200 miles away. To make it available, we participated in one of the biggest natural gas projects on record. The mammoth $70,000,000 Texas-California pipeline was constructed, and on November 13 was put in operation.

The reasons why practically everyone in Southern California uses gas are many. Not the least, is the fact that you can afford to use it liberally for all four household purposes—cooking, water heating, house heating and refrigeration.

Competition On

All Thrifty Drug Store employes are awaiting the results of the Thrifty Drug Stores Courtesy Drive. At present all Thrifty employes are engaged in 100 percent Customer Courtesy, which is already being reflected in the reaction customers find in the stores.

As many shoppers came to realize, customer courtesy, long an American standard, was found lacking in stores from coast to coast during the war, Department stores, drug stores, service stations and every other American retail institution discovered that the words, "Thank you" went out with nylon stockings. However, in some instances it did not come back with nylon stockings.

Thrifty Drug Stores are now engaged in bringing to its highest point the full measure of courtesy which it is possible for every employe to offer the customer. With substantial prizes as rewards, each employe is eligible, and Mr. and Mrs. John Q. Public themselves are the voters.

Ballots are available in each department in every Thrifty Drug Store and ballot boxes conveniently located so that the customer may, upon receiving particulorly courteous attention, write down the name of the employe at whose hand he was so courteously served, and then deposit the ballot in the ballot box.

All Thrifty employes wear a badge with his or her name clearly printed on it. Thrifty customers are invited to vote as many times as they desire.

The contest started Jonuary 17 and runs through the month of February. Announcements of the winners will be made after the end of the contest.

Life Expectancy, Say Writers

One doctor to every 1500 persons is the accepted minimum standard in the United States, but there is only one doctor to every 3337 Negroes, a feature article in the current Saturday Evening Post points out. The article, titled "The Color Line in Medicine" is authored by Henry F. and Katherine Pringle.

In the South the situation is even worse, the authors declare, with only one doctor to 18,587 in Mississippi, for example.

The article quotes the recent Report of the President's Committee on Civil Rights, as declaring: 'One important reason for this acute shortage of skilled medical men is the discriminatory policy of our medical schools in admitting minority students."

Only two of the 77 American medical schools freely admit Negro applicants and these (two) are Negro institutions, the authors declare. "Many hospitals, vital to the training of all physicians, close their doors to the colored medical graduate. Yet every day mothers and babies die for lack of proper treatment. Meanwhile, the Negro's life expectancy is ten years less than the white man's."

The authors take a crack at the widespread notion that Negroes, as a race, are especially prone to disease, pointing out that that idea is no longer held by any competent scientist. "Negroes get sick because of poverty and neglect, exactly like all other members of the human race. Generations of bad housing, improper food and economic insecurity do not produce hardy men and women, but there is no proved racial susceptibility. More Negroes get tuberculosis and pneumonia, contract venereal disease and other ills because, in the main, they do not receive adequate medical care. Ten, "the authors warn, "they spread infection," for disease knows no color line.

At present only 85 Negro students are currently enrolled in 20 northern and western schools, as against 25,000 whites," the authors say. "About 15 Negroes are graduated from these schools each year."

To Recoup at Africa Expense

NEW YORK—A scheme for the intensive exploitation of Africa's human and natural resources as the only practical solution of the economic difficulties facing the Anglo-Saxon bloc and its satellities in western Europe is aired in a recent issue of the New Rhodesia, a weekly journal published in Southern Rhodesia by Europeans.

The editor's foreword to the article states that it represents "extracts from a memorandum" on "a plan for an African Development Company that had been discussed in various influential quarters in Great Britain, America, and France and other countries of Western Europe."

"The whole Anglo-Saxon bloc must go into profit-making development; something which is going to develop entirely new sources of wealth, provide new markets, and smash right through the whole idea of reduction and restraint," the article states.

"The solution is an African Development Company with a minimum capital of 5,000,000,000 (20 billion dollars) subscribed in the currencies, of the participants, and partly subscribed by private enterprise . . .

"It won't be necessary to ask America to lend money. By this means not only her government but her private citizens can invest it with a chance of large financial profits, plus big openings in new markets, and the bringing into use of vast new sources of real wealth . . .

"An African Development Company would have such resources and influences that it would get first priorities for everything it required. Of course, it would not interfere with the sovereignty (read, colonial control) of any territory; it would be a commercial concern—out for profits—large expanding profits."

Commenting on the scheme, New Africa, official organ of the Council on African Affairs, declares:

"The African Development Company scheme . . . cannot be lightly dismissed. It was introduced to Americans of influence by a British right-wing journalist and publisher, Kenneth de Courcy, who recently visited the United States for that specific purpose.

"The anti-Soviet aspect of the super-exploitation project . . . has won it the plaudits of Britain's Munich-men and reactionaries, including the fascist leader, Sir Oswald Mosley, who echoes Hitler in his attitude toward the "inferior race" of Africans. One finds similar ideas expressed among the French fascist surrounding Gen. De Gaulle."

New Africa points out that the economic development of Africa is "properly a job for the United Nations. ALL of the major powers, including the Soviet Union and India, must cooperate in the central planning, together with the Africans themselves."

SOUGHT—Business matters of importance make it necessary for Mr. and Mrs. Henry Laws, of 1235 92nd street, to learn the whereabouts of their nephews, James Taylor (above) and his half-brother Eugene Hughes. Last heard from in Berkeley, Calif.

BARGAINS GALORE — COME IN — SEE FOR YOURSELF

Inside The Cup

Long ago a Workingman, a Carpenter, who became the world's greatest Leader among the common people, warned His followers against those who made clean the outside of the cup and the platter, but the inside remained full of all uncleannesses.

This is exemplified today in the conduct of our government, which would grant aid (?) to those in Europe, but do nothing about the mounting threat of depression and the suffering at home because of low wages, the housing shortage, segregation, discrimination, etc.

In Washington, D.C., the seat of our government, a strike is going on today by 1500 Negro cafeteria employees of the Government Service for an increase of 15c an hour in their wages, to help in some degree to meet the high cost of living. The wages they get now average only 73c an hour, and after all deductions are made their take-home pay is only $21.90 per week. Even if they get the additional 15c, their pay envelope will have only $26 per week.

Could you live on that? And support a family? Even here in California? More fuel is needed in Washington, D.C., for heating than is needed here. And it all costs money—coal or wood or oil or gas.

The conditions had become almost unbearable. So these 1500 employees of the Government Services went out on a strike January 5. The company has been adamant in refusing to negotiate, and has constantly been hiding behind the argument that it will not meet with the members of the Union until the officers sign the non-Communist affidavit required by the Taft-Hartley law. The Union maintains this strike can be settled without invoking all the red tape of that slave-labor law—which would only delay the real settlement—and insist they can meet with their employers, man to man, and settle the question now.

These employees on strike, although not employed directly by the United States government, are neverthless serving those who make our laws and so are contributing very directly to the welfare of those members of Congress who so piously wish to help Europe to get on its feet. (Not on any Communist feet, of course.)

Some of those employees are dishwashers. They are washing both the outside and the inside of the cups and platters upon which the food of the Senators and Congressmen is served. Why not use the homely philosophy of Jesus in solving this problem, and ask those Senators and Representatives who so ardently plead for aid to the hungry people of Europe—to prevent the spread of Communism—why they do not extend the same aid to the hungry people of America?

It could come here, you know. Right in the capital of our country. Unless the inside of the cup is washed clean, unless our own people are aided in their struggle to feed themselves and their families, a condition may develop which will put Europe in the shade.

Write or wire to President Truman, and insist that he instruct the company to deal directly and immediately with the union members; urge him to withdraw the sup- t of the Federal government immedi- ly with the union members; urge him to thdraw the support of the Federal gov- nment immediately from the company, id see that these Negro workers are given ecent wages.

Freedom of the Air

We have fought literally for freedom of speech and of religion. Included in that freedom of speech is the freedom of the press, an ideal we have failed to accomplish. For newspapers reflect the opinions of their publishers, and if thase publishers —a la Hearst—wish to suppress any kind of news, it is suppressed, while the headlines blaze forth a story with an implication the direct opposite of the real truth.

Now comes the same struggle with the radio. Some time ago the Federal Communications Commission issued a ruling which is actually the cornerstone of free radio in America. It is known as the Mayflower Decision, and requires that "in the public interest" a radio station should not present the editorial viewpoint of its owner, but a cross-section of public opinion.

Now the Commission has called for a new hearing in Washington beginning March 1, to reconsider this decision. And if it decides that the owner of a radio station may bar whom he wishes, or may use the radio for his private propaganda, freedom of the air will melt away into nothingness.

"A free radio is the only means of mass communication left open to the people and their democratic organizations," says the California Chapter, Progressive Citizens of America. "The radio, by law, belongs to the people. It is up to us to defend it."

Not only has the PCA already taken action on this important subject, the CIO, the Mobilization for Democracy, the National Lawyers Guild, the American Jewish Congress, and other liberal organizations are protesting, and are asking that they be represented at the hearing to be held on March 1.

All these organizations are urging their members to write the Federal Communications Commission, Washington, D.C., urging the Commissioners to support the Mayflower decision. We can do that even if we don't belong to any organization at all.

Yugoslavia vs. Texas

Prsident Truman has been called upon to intervene in the case of Mrs. Ema Debeljak, an American woman reported condemned to death in Yugoslavia for allegedly obtaining a passport to the United States for herself and two children.

Mrs. Debeljak's attorney, James Donovan, messaged President Truman: "I have it from unimpeachable though unofficial sources that on December 12, 1947, Ema and her niece, Stefa Debeljak, were arrested in Ema's house in the city of Srem Mitrovice without process of law as Americans and other civilized peoples understand it, and were cast into a prison located in that city."

Yugoslavia is a highly civilized nation, and its reputation for justice and fair play to all its citizens and citizens of other nations within its borders has been unchallenged. With one exception. During the last war with Germany, the little Slav nation allowed Nazi agents no quarter in its territory.

And that, in my opinion, was as it should have been. Aside from this, Yugoslavia is entitled to the same consideration and respect in the case of Mrs. Debeljak, et al, that this nation would extend to Great Britain or any other country.

On the other hand, as an American citizen, Mrs. Debeljak should appeal to the United States for protection in case her freedom and safety are jeopardized.

There are many cases much closer to us than the one in Yugoslavia that should engage the attention of our Department of Justice and of President Truman.

There are citizens in our own land and country, within a stone's throw of our Justice Department, who are denied the protection of their homes and the safety of their lives, whose friends refuse to speak in their defense because of fear.

We are thinking specifically of a case that came to our attention last Saturday. Yes, she was an American, too, but of brown skin. Five years ago she came to Los Angeles from Texas. Her mother and step-father were left behind in Texas. In the family there was a young man related to the step-father. When war with Germany was declared he was inducted and served in the army of Uncle Sam.

Recently he returned to the States and to his former Texas home. About a month ago this young soldier was accused of killing a white woman and a fellow race man. He escaped with a white buddy the terror of the lynch mob.

Because the couple, the mother of the girl and the step-father, were unable to furnish information as to the whereabouts of the escapee, they were taken into custody, beaten and threatened with death.

The step-father evidently weakened, and made some sort of confession which saved his life. The mother refused to give false testimony. Three weeks ago she disappeared.

The daughter who stated this case, sobbingly described a background of tragedy that hovers like a shadow over the lives and movements of the Negroes who live in the little town, incidentally but a few miles from Bishop, seat of two important Negro colleges.

We have been asked to withold all names in this case because of the consequences, should this newspaper drift into the hands of Texas authorities.

How many times have we heard the expression, "America has reached the crucial point in its history?"

The newspaper report which highlighted the plight of an American woman's detention and threat of death in Yugoslavia, no doubt will bring forth a howl of protest from the Un-American Activities Committees. Especially those lip-service advocates of Democracy who realize that Yugoslavia doesn't see eye to eye with this country on social and economic questions. But has any committee asked that the case of the woman in Texas be investigated? Has the Justice Department done so? Has anyone pleaded with President Truman that he correct this injustice in Texas? If in Yugoslavia, why not in Texas?

THINGS I SEE

By Marian Inglewood

"Unfit for human habitation" was the dictum of the City Board of Health Commissioners concerning what had been the home of a family of seven at 834 Lookout Drive. Lookout Drive is a winding road that takes you up to some of the beauty spots of Elysian Park. There are some really pretty little homes tucked away here and there along the drive. And there are a few that aren't so pretty. A chicken house, for example, perched high above one house, with the refuse oozing down on the back porch.

The house at 834 is another example of how human beings can spoil Mother Nature's attempt at grandeur. Perched on the side of the hill along which Lookout Drive winds in and out, from its ramshackle porch you can see stretching up to the sky the craggy hills of Elysian Park. Below, so near, it seems that with a giant stride you could step on it, is the United States Government Naval Reserve Armory with its spacious parade grounds. Clinging to these hills are the homes "unfit for human habitation" and homes that have been made fit and that at least do not detract from the picture.

Number 834 was described in The Daily News recently, when the order to vacate came from the Health Commissioners. It tallies with that description, and with the picture printed beside the story exactly. A one-story lean-to, built of scrap lumber and automobile junk, infested with rats and cockroaches, raised on stakes instead of being built on a foundation, shaking dangerously when you step even on the porch, no water, no sanitary necessities — this one-room shack was nevertheless the home for a man, his wife, and five children for some months until the city condemned the building.

What became of that family? Oh, some of their friends crowded together a little closer, and let them move into already close quarters. Strange how we can always find room for one more when we know there's an emergency, like pushing together to let one more person on a street car already jammed to the gills.

Isn't it queer how we submit to things like that without uttering a word of protest! We cheerfully allow ourselves to be punched and mauled in order to make larger profits for a corporation which does not even live in Los Angeles. Its home is in Chicago. And it's the American way of life, you know, to collect the same fares for the people who stand as for those who sit, and to pass the profits to a few persons outside the city.

But if that street-car system were owned by the government, even if only by the city government! Wow! You'd hear grumbling and complaints if only half a dozen people had to stand, instead of half a hundred. And if we had a housing authority that was really functioning, one that was going all out in its efforts to provide homes for American people, and a house only one-tenth as ramshackle as the one at 834 Lookout Drive was discovered somewhere, you'd see pictures of it and sensational stories about it not only in The Daily News, but also on the front pages of The Times, The Examiner, The Herald-Express, and all the other reactionary papers of the city and state.

And those who were losing sleep nights trying to prevent such a situation would be hauled over the coals of righteous indignation, and be held up to scorn as an example of bungling Communism.

Yea, verily, we Americans are queer people. Why do we stand for such things? That's a question our friends in Europe have asked many times. No one knows. It's just the "American way of life," I suppose. And nothing short of an earthquake seemingly can shake us out of that way of complacency and smugness and indifference.

Speaking of this American way, here's a new wrinkle in circumventing some of the laws on housing. A house in the rear which could not be sold because the lot could not be divided, was nevertheless sold per se, and the ground on which the house stood was leased to the owner of the house for five years at a monthly rental of $5.00!

There sure are loop holes in every law, if we're just clever enough to find them!

To Secure These Rights

The Report of the President's Committee on Civil Rights

THE RIGHT TO HOUSING

Equality of opportunity to rent or buy a home should exist for every American. Today, many of our citizens face a double barrier when they try to satisfy their housing needs. They first encounter a general housing shortage which makes it difficult for any family without a house to find one. They encounter prejudice and discrimination based upon race, color, religion or national origin, which places them at a disadvantage in competing for the limited housing that is available. The fact that many of those who face this double barrier are war veterans only underlines the inadequacy of our housing record.

Discrimination in housing result primarily from business practices. These practices may arise from special interests of business groups, such as the profits to be derived from confining minorities to slum areas, or they may reflect community prejudice. One of the most common practices is the policy of landlords and real estate agents to prevent Negroes from renting outside of designated areas. Again, it is "good business" to develop exclusive "restricted" suburban developments which are barred to all but white gentiles.

When Negro veterans seek GI loans in order to build homes, they are likely to find that credit from private banks, without whose services there is no possibility of taking advantage of the GI Bills of Rights, is less freely available to members of their race. Private builders show a tendency not to construct new homes except for white occopancy. These interlocking business customs and devices form the core of our discriminatory policy. But community prejudice also finds expression in open public agitation against construction of public housing projects for Negroes, and by violence against Negroes who seek to occupy public housing projects or to build in "white" sections.

THE RESTRICTIVE COVENANT

Under rulings of the supreme court, it is legally impossible to segregate housing on a racial or religious basis by zoning ordinance. Accordingly, the restrictive covenant has become the most effective modern method of accomplishing such segregation. Restrictive covenants generally take the form of agreements written into deeds of sale by which property owners mutually bind themselves not to sell or lease to an "undesirable." These agreements have thus far been enforceable by court action.

Through these covenants large areas of land are barred against use by various classes of American citizens. Some are directed against only one minority group, others against a list of minorities. These have included Armenians, Jews, Negroes, Mexicans, Syrians, Japanese, Chinese and Indians.

While we do not know how much land in the country is subject to such restrictions, we do know that many areas, particularly large cities in the North and West, such as Chicago, Cleveland, Washington, D. C., and Los Angeles, are widely affected.

The amount of land covered by racial restrictions in Chicago has been estimated at 80 percent. Students of the subject state that virtually all new subdivisions are blanketed by these covenants. Land immediately surrounding ghetto areas is frequently restricted in order to prevent any expansion in the ghetto. Thus, where old ghettos are surrounded by restrictions, and new subdivisions are also encumbered by them, there is practically no place for the people against whom the restrictions are directed to go. Since minorities have been forced into crowded slum areas, the restrictive covenant is providing our democratic society with one of its most challenging problems.

The constitutional and legal validity of this device has been tested in few states. Where there has been litigation, the appellate courts have up to this time uniformly upheld restrictions against use by barred groups and in most instances have also upheld restrictions against ownership.

While a case in the United States supreme court in 1926 was long believed to uphold the constitutional validity of restrictive covenants under the federal constitution, this case has recently been challenged as a binding authority. Litigation is now pending testing the validity of restrictive covenants directed against Jews, American Indians and Negroes. The supreme court, apparently willing to re-examine the issue, has currently accepted two restrictive covenant cases for review and a more definite ruling may be expected shortly. (Since this matter was written, the court has accepted two other cases for review, and is now hearing oral argument.—Calif. Eagle).

The purpose of the restrictive covenant can only effectively be achieved in the final analysis by obtaining court orders putting the power of the state behind the enforcement of the private agreement. While our American courts thus far have permitted judicial power to be utilized for these ends, the supreme court of Ontario has recently refused to follow this course. The Ontario judge, calling attention to the policy of the United Nations against racial or religious discrimination, said:

"In my opinion, nothing could be more calculated to create or deepen divisions between existing religious and ethnic groups in this province . . . than the sanction of a method of land transfer which would permit the segregation and confinement of particular groups to particular business or residential areas, or conversely, would exclude particular groups from particular business or residential areas."

There is eminent judicial and professional opinion in this country that our courts cannot constitutionally enforce racial restrictive covenants. In a recent California case a lower court judge held that the courts could not enforce such an agreement. And in a strong dissenting opinion in a recent covenant case Justice Edgerton; of the United States court of appeals for the District of Columbia, said:

"Suits like these, and the ghetto system they enforce are among our conspicuous failures to live together in peace . . . The question in these cases is not whether law should punish racial discrimation, or even whether law should try to prevent racial discrimination, or even whether law should interfere with it in any way. The question is whether law should affilmatively support and enforce racial discrimination."

PUBLIC HOUSING

The federal government has been closely concerned with minority housing problems in recent years through its aid to local public housing authorities, thru its insurance of loans to private builders and through its war and veteran's programs.

Much of the improvement in the housing conditions of minorities in recent years has resulted from public building. The Federal Public Housing Authority has tried to allocate public housing fairly, and to make certain that equal standards are maintained. Many housing projects with mixed racial occupancy have been operated with great success.

The Committee is glad to note that the Federal Housing Agency, which guarantees loans for certain types of private building, has recently abandoned the policy by which it encouraged the placing of racial restrictive covenants on projects supported by government agencies.

It must be noted, however, that even if government, local or federal, does not encourage racial restrictions, private interest may get discriminatory practices into effect if proper safeguards are not devised. The experience of Stuyvesant Town in New York City is a close in point. There the city made great financial concessions to a private corporation, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Comappny, to induce construction of a large housing project, which was to be subject to a variety of restrictions designed to make it serve community housing needs. But, in the absence of any direct requirement of equitable distributions of the benefits of the project the Company barred Negroes from occupancy in Stuyvesant Town. Yet New York is a city in which mixed public housing projects have been maintained for many years.

THE RIGHT TO HEALTH SERVICE

Increased attention is being given throughout the United States to the health needs of our people. Minority groups are sharing in the improvements which are taking place. But there is serious discrimination in the availability of medical care, and many segments of our population do not measure up to the standards of health which have been attained by our people as a whole.

For example, the death rate from all causes for the entire country in 1945 was 10.5 per thousand of estimated population. The Chinese, however, had a rate of 12.8; the Negroes, 12.0;

W. J. Wheaton Says

Don't stand there like you ain't welcome, come right in, everything is ready and waiting on you. What's made you so late anyhow? Lawsie I sure believe them biscuits are too done. No they's just right. Come set right down and commence."

That was my greeting from Mary Ann, and it is not necessary to add that we obeyed her command and not only "set right down," but did justice to the biscuits and other good things. When the table had been cleared Mary Ann drew up her chair for the usual after chat.

"Say Honey, what's this all about some train that's carrying a lot of papers and such, little Mary Ahn was reading it to me but I couldn't get head or tails out of what she was trying to explain to me, so I said I'd wait 'til you come, and I'se been waiting ever since. Here's the paper."

As we read the story it revealed that what is termed the Freedom Train, carrying documents that were the foundation, the basic stones on which the present structure of our government is erected, is traveling through the states to bring a realization of the growth which has made this country the most prosperous, the most powerful nation in the world.

The story went on that it wos one of the edicts that there should be no discrimination made in the viewing of these documents, but that all the people should have the right, without prejudice, to visit the train and see the foundation laid by the fathers of our democracy.

Well it seems that when this train was to visit Birmingham, Ala, the mayor said that there would be separate times for white and Negro visitors. As we read on, we learned that Birmingham had been detoured. But says Mary Ann: "What about them two Negro men that said that the mayor was right, or something like that? Anyways they wanted the colored folk to do as the mayor said do. We read on further, and sure 'nuff, as Mary Ann would have said, there were two names of two prominent men in the community. Two men who should have inveighed most heavily against such unwarranted discrimination. When we had explained the situation to Mary Ann, her wrath and indignation was something to see. "That's playing with the Hare'n runnin with the Hounds," she said, "they's what you call 'Boot Lickers' 'n don't do anything to help the other fellow. We's got heaps of that kind back home, and, well we think in Sa Francisco too."

"I remember a time," she continued, "when a young teach came to our plantation to ope a school. It lasted two month The young man had some ide that didn't fit in so well wit the white folk. They had be used to taking the children o of school to run errands an such. Well, the young teach man didn't think that was rig and he ask us to meet some ev ning to talk it over. Jerry, th was my old man, he says, me at my cabin such a night, we some low down goes and tel the white folk that they's mee ting at old Jerry's to plot 'gain 'em. Sure, that very night th comes with guns 'n clubs, breal up the meetin', takes the you teacher out, put tar on him a a bunch of feathers 'en tur him loose ten miles from n where. Some of 'em wants horse whip Jerry but they 'feared 'cause Jerry knows lo of big white folk. But as I w going to say, there is lots snakes 'en they's not all whi ones either! ! ! Let me tell y Honey that ther's lots of dece white folk back home, but th can't do nothing. The dir things are done by a lot of tha that's 'fraid us will do bett than them. Indonesia

By George K. Anang

The Dutch government is still sending reinforcements to Indonesia, and the flow of war materials is uninterrupted. To all intents and purposes, the Dutch imperialist policy is aimed clearly towards the occupation of the whole of Indonesia and elimination of the Republican government.

The Marshall Plan will not help the colonial countries, but instead will strengthen the colonial powers. If the U.S. congress passes the bill authorizing the Marshall Plan, the Dutch government will be given money to continue their war in Indonesia.

Through the International Bank, the Dutch obtained $195,000,000 last year. Eighty percent of this money was used for the upkeep of the Dutch army in Indonesia. Here again the United States is indirectly supporting the Dutch in their attack to suppress the Indonesia people.

In the 3-year period of Indonesia's struggle, she has done much to show the world that as far as food, raw materials and mineral wealth are concerned, Indonesia is in plenty. What Indonesia needs from the outside world is manufactured goods, but it is impossible to reach the people in the Republican territory on account of the Dutch economic block.

As we know, at the end of World War II, peoples all over the world are starving. Indonesia, with rice as a major crop and with a local consumption of 4 million tons, is in a position to help considerably in alleviating the hunger of other peoples. Knowing that the ghost of famine is darkening Indias' sky, Indonesia proposed exchanging 500,000 tons of rice for manufactured goods from India and a further 200,000 tons as a gift. This offer of Indonesia to India was based on a humanitarian purpose.

What was the reaction of the capitalistic and imperialistic powers toward the offer? They view the offer from political angles. The acceptance of the food offer would prove the efficiency of the Indonesian republic. To avert this, thousands of Indians were condemned to die of starvation.

But the Indian government acted otherwise and sent one of their representatives to Indonesia. The rice offer then materialized. But what were the consequences? Capitalistic and imperialistic reaction took a different line. The Dutch government sent their troops but to destroy the rice in the rich-

L. A. TRANSIT LINES MEMORIALIZE CARVER

For what we understand is the second time The Los Angeles Transit lines, which first pleased us with greatly increasing the number of Negro operators over its many lines and then added immeasurably to our transportation convenience and comfort by facilitating traffic on Central avenue with up-to-date swift and quiet busses which take us from and deposit us upon the sidewalks, has honored the memory of George Washington Carver. The "street car passes," which are used all over the city, during the week of January 5, bore a splendid likeness of the famous scientist and the words, ". . . HE DID THE COMMON THINGS THE UNCOMMON WAY." The Weekly L. A. Transit Lines Topics of that date bore the following story:

Leon Steward

GEORGE WASHINGTON CARVER

"The 79th congress of the United States, without a dissenting vote, passed a bill to honor the great scientist, George Washington Carver, on January 5 of each year.

"When Carver died, his fame was world wide. He had the friendship of three presidents, Theodore Roosevelt, Calvin Coolidge and Franklin D. Roosevelt. Henry Ford and Thomas Edison had sought his council. Though his scientific achievements are well known, little has been told of his early life. From the Congressional Record of the 80th congress we have gleaned the following brief biography:

"George Washington Carver was born of slave mother and father in Diamond Grove, Mo. He learned to read in Webster's old blue back spelling book, which the farmer owned. When he was 10 years old he made up his mind that he should have an education. So he packed up all of his belongings into one bandana handkerchief and left to gain his education. He worked his way through grade school in half a dozen towns of the middlewest. In the year 1890 he entered Simpson college at Indianola, Iowa. After he had paid his entrance fee he had 10 cents left in his pockets. For a week he lived on 5 cents' worth of corn meal and 5 cents' worth of suet. He later went to Iowa State Agricultural college, working his way through this school also, as a waiter and a masseur for the football team.

"When he was graduated he was invited to remain as a member of the faculty but he turned down this invitation to accept another on the staff of the Tuskegee institute in Alabama, where he remained until his death.

"His achievements were great, and he lived to see many of his ideas such as dehydrated food, plastic, etc., adopted in industry.

"But his greatest scientific claim to fame rests on what he accomplished with the lowly peanut and the humble sweet potato. He found over 300 uses for the funny-looking "goober nut." In his laboratory he made from the peanut: milk, butter, flour, soap, shaving lotion, breakfast foods, a variety of oils and paints, coffee, shampoo, building boards, axle grease, ink, and a treatment for dandruff.

"He found over 100 uses for the sweet potato. He made flour from that, too, and molasses, candy, starch, vinegar, library paste, tapioca, dyes and shoe black. From corn stalks he made building boards, and painting canvases. From cotton waste he made road blocks. From sawdust synthetic marble. From clays and loamy soils, many dyes and paints. From Alabama red clay, by a process of sixtuple oxidation, he made fabulous blue paint once known to King Tutankhamens' artists. The secret of this pigment has been lost to the world since Moses' people were in bondage down in Egypt. He even made dyes from cow dung.

"A great mycologist, a student of fungus growths, he found many cures for crop blights and diseases. He fathered a whole new science, chemurgy, which is the study of soil constituents and what is needed to make the soil produce more, so men may eat and sell more, and dress and live better.

"Many honors came to him. He received degrees from famous northern universities. He was made a director of the Department of Agricultural Research, collaborator in the division of plant industry in the United States Department of Agriculture, a member of the Royal Society of Arts in London. He was awarded the Spingarn Medal and in 1939 the Roosevelt Medal for achievement in science.

"America and the world are richer today because of this great man—this scientist who did the common thing in an uncommon way."

For lack of space we can only say we thank you.

Your Social Security?

(First of Two Articles)

Yes! If you work without being absolutely sure that your employer has your correct Social Security number, you are wasting possible future benefits under the Old Age and Survivors Insurance program of Social Security. Whenever you work in a job covered by the social Security Act, Social Security taxes are taken out of your salary, but if your employer hasn't your correct Social Security number, he cannot report your wages properly on his tax return, the Social Security Administration cannot add them to your wage record, and you are losing part if not all of your future Social Security benefits, based on that wage record.

These benefits which may be lost to you, if you do not give your employer your proper Social Security number whenever you work in a job where Social Security taxes are paid, include possible monthly benefits for you and your wife after age 65, and your dependent children, if any, under age 18. Or in case of your death, these ments to your widow after age 65, or to your widow of any age, if she has dependent children under age 18 in her care; payments to your aged dependent parents, if you leave no widow or dependent children; or a lump sum payment to help pay funeral expenses, if there is no one eligible to receive monthly benefits.

For any of these benefits to be paid, you must be either "fully insured" or "currently insured" under Old Age and Survivors Insurance, and your wage record must show that you have worked and been paid a sufficient amount to qualify. But your wage record will be incomplete, or you may have no wage record at all, if you work under the wrong Social Security number, and your possible future benefits will be reduced if not entirely lost.

The only way you can be sure that your wages are being properly reported and added to your wage record so that you may some day be either "fully" or "currently" insured, is to show your Social Security Account Number Card to each new employer and see that it is correctly copied into his records. Never trust to your memory when giving your employer your account number, and don't just give him a pencilled slip of paper or a check stub from the last place you worked. It just isn't good enough. Too many mistakes are made that way, and mistakes in your wage record because of a wrong account number might mean that some day you or your dependents would lose possible benefit payments.

If you should lost your card, don't just try to remember your number. Get a duplicate. Just go to the nearest office of the Social Security Administration and fill out an application. In Los Angeles, you go to the Post Office and Court House Building, 312 North Spring st., Room 525. You will be given a special receipt right away, to show to your employer, and the Social Security records will be searched for your first application. No matter where you got your first card, or how long ago, your first application will be found and checked, and you will be issued an exact duplicate of your first number.

Never apply for a new account number if you've ever had one before. If you do, your wages will be reported on two different account number and two different wage records. Some day, when you want every penny you've earned to be on your wage record, in order to get the highest possible benefits, your hard earned wages will be on two different wage records and it may be difficult to prove that they both belong to you.

If you change your name—or if you're a woman, if you get married — have your name changed at once on the records of the Social Security Administration. These records are strictly confidential and no information from them can ever be given out, but it is very important to keep them up to date, for your account number is no good to you if your name doesn't match it. To record your change of name, go to the Account Numbers Section at your nearest office of the Social Security Administration.

For additional information or assistance concerning your Social Security benefits, write the EAGLE, 4071 S. Central Ave. We will be glad to help you.

William Rogers

By PHYLLIS SCOTT

The whole country, indeed the nations of the world, has its eye on Washington now. For at any moment the United States supreme court will render a decision to determine whether restrictive covenants is unconstitutional or not? Although a tie decision would declare the appeals a failure it is believed that the supreme court would not leave a social problem of this magnitude unsettled, that it might not run the risk of again embarrassing the government before the United Nations.

The outcome of the four famous cases involved will influence the decisions of cases now before the state supreme courts in major cities across the country. Arguing in behalf of a Detroit family was Los Angeles' attorney, Loren Miller. So brilliantly has he carried on the fight against racial restrictive covenants begun by the California EAGLE in this area that he has gained national recognition as one of the leading authorities in this branch of law.

LOREN MILLER

Born one of seven children in a small predominantly white Nebraska community, he grew up helping with the farming chores. When his family moved to Kansas he continued his education there, graduating from Highland High school an honor student. At the University of Kansas he experienced and felt, for the first time, acute racial discrimination. There Negroes couldn't eat in neighboring restaurants, play on athletic teams, or attend the theatres. It was then that he found out that the American dream does not exist and one doesn't rise on his merit.

He spent a year at Howard university and returned to Washburn law school of Topeka to receive his LL.B. With no intention of staying, he came to California in '29 after practising law in Kansas six months. He became a newspaperman almost immediately, working on the California News and the California EAGLE, where he remained six years.

He did not return to law until 1936. It was in '39 that he tried his first restrictive covenants case. Staggering population increases in Los Angeles demanded new residences for Negroes thus his renowned career began. When Judge Thurman Clarke ruled restrictive covenants violated the 14th amendment in the Sugar Hill cases, Miller probably was the first United States lawyer to win such a decision.

His most recent cases of Driver, Fremandez, and Beck in the Southwest Wilshire district await the decision of the California supreme court. Actually the fight against such agreements was started long before the middle twenties by the California EAGLE. Toward the end of that decade the EAGLE carried on a successful fight to help Homer Garrett retain his home and numerous others, including the recent Laws case.

Miller, who is civically and fraternally affiliated with organizations over the city, is a member of the local and national legal committees of the NAACP, National Bar Association, National Lawyers Guild, Pacific Towns Club, Urban League, YMCA, National Conference of Christians and Jews, American Civil Liberties Union, Democratic party, and Kappa Alpha Psi fraternity.

In his leisure he raises prize flowers, frequents local sports events, and collects books by and about Negroes. A self-confessed authority on Negro literature, he has also contributed articles to leading national publications and various legal journals. He is married to the former Juanita Ellsworth and is the father of two children, Peter, 11, and Eddie, 2.

To Secure These Rights

the Indians, 12.0; and the Japanese, 11.5. Similarly, many diseases strike minorities much harder than the majority groups.

Tuberculosis accounts for the death of more than twice as many Negroes as whites. Among Indians in rural United States, the death rate from tuberculosis is more than 10 times as high as that for the whites; in Alaska, the native deaths from this cause are over 30 times greater. In Texas, seven Latin Americans died of tuberculosis for every Anglo American.

Infant deaths furnish another example of this pattern. On a nation-wide basis, the infant mortality rate was more than half again as high for Negroes as for whites. In Texas, it was almost three times as high for Latin as for Anglo infants. Maternal deaths show like disproportions. In New York City, where the vast majority of the Puerto Ricans in this country are located, reports from social workers and city health authorities indicate that the frequency of illness among Puerto Ricans is much higher than among other groups.

There are many factors which contribute to the discrepancies between the health of the majority and the minorities. As has already been noted, our minorities are seriously handicapped by their economic status. Frequently, because of poverty, they are unable to afford even the minimum of medical care or a diet adequate to build up resistance to disease. The depressed economic status of many of our minorities combined with restrictive covenants in housing prevents them from living in a sanitary, health-giving environment. Children who are not admitted to clean, healthful playgrounds must find their fun in the crowded, dirty areas in which they are allowed. Discrimination in education withholds from many people the basic information and knowledge so essential to good health.

A more direct cause of unequal opportunity in the field of health is the discriminatory pattern that prevails with respect to medical facilities and personnel. Many hospitals will not admit Negro patients. The United States Public Health Service estimates on the basis of a preliminary survey that only approximately 15,000 hospital beds out of a total of 1,500,000 beds are presently available to Negroes. Thus, though Negroes constitute about ten percent of the population, only one percent of the hospital beds are open to them.

In Chicago, a study by the Mayor's Commission on Human Relations in 1946 disclosed that "although most hospital officials denied the existence of a discriminatory admission policy, Negroes represented a negligible percentage of patients admitted."

The situation is further complicated by the shortage of medical personnel available for the treatment of patients from minority groups. This is particularly evident among the Negroes; in 1937, only 35 percent of southern Negro babies were delivered by doctors, as compared to 90 percent of northern babies of both races. There were in 1940 only 3530 Negro physicians and surgeons, 7192 trained Negro nurses; and 1471 Negro dentists in a total Negro population of 13,000,000.

The ratio of Negro physicians to the total Negro population was about one to 3377, while that of the total number of physicians to the general population of the country was one to 750. Moreover, a high proportion of these were employed in the North. In the South, with a Negro population of almost 10,000,000, there were in 1940 about 2000 Negro doctors, or only one to every 4900 colored persons.

One important reason for this acute shortage of skilled medical men is the discriminatory policy of our medical schools in admitting minority students. Medical schools graduate approximately 5000 students a year, but only about 145 of these are Negro. And of these 145, 130 are from two Negro schools; thus, only about 15 Negroes are graduated from all the other medical schools of the country each year.

To these handicaps must be added the refusal of some medical societies and many hospitals to admit Negro physicians and internes for practice. Denied the facilities and training which are available to other doctors, Negro members of the profession are often unable to keep abreast of developments in medicine and to qualify as specialists. This discrimination contributes to the state of Negro health.

Though the expectation of life at birth is still lower for nonwhites, the relative increase in life expectancy between 1930 and 1940 was nearly twice at great for nonwhites as whites. The life expectancy of Negro males in this period increased 9.9 per cent; of Negro females, 11.5 per cent; of white males and females, 6.0 percent and 7.0 percent respectively.

However, the figure for white persons is still appreciably higher than for nonwhite persons; while white males can expect to live 63 years as compared with 52 for Negro males, and white females 67 years compared with 55 years for Negro females.

Progress has been made in reducing Negro deaths due to tuberculosis, diphtheria, whooping cough, diarrhea, enteritis, and syphilis. Among the Mexicans in Texas, vigorous programs have been undertaken by federal and local officials. Baby clinics, home nursing classes, family life courses, maternity clinics and other measures have been established.

The Indian Service now operates 69 hospitals and sanitoria in the United States, 7 in Alaska; 14 school health centers; and 100 field dispensaries. Special efforts are being made to combat tuberculosis, a leading cause of illness and death among Indians.

Another sign of progress is the decision of the American Nurses Association, in 1946, to accept all qualified applicants as members of the national organization, even when they cannot, for local reasons, enter county societies.

RIGHT TO PUBLIC SERVICES AND ACCOMODATIONS

Services supplied by the government should be distributed in a non-discriminatory way. Activities financed by the public treasury should serve the whole people; they cannot, in consonance with the democratic principle, be used to advance the welfare of a portion of the population only. Moreover, many privately owned and operated enterprises should recognize a responsibility to sell to all who wish to buy their services. They cannot be permitted to confine their benefits to selected clientele. This is particularly true of those private businesses which hold franchises from the state or enjoy a monopoly status. Even when no franchise has been granted, and competition exists, certain private businesses because of the essential character of the services they render should serve all comers. It has been made clear to the Committee that unfortunately, any public services, supplied by both government and private business, do not reach all persons on an equality of access basis.

Discrimination in federal services—Discrimination in public services supplied by the federal government is never directly authorized by legislation. It sometimes results inadvertently from the limited coverage of social service legislation. Thus, the old age and survivors' insurance and unemployment compensation systems do not cover agriculture, domestic service, and self-employed persons. Sixty-five percent of all Negro workers fall into these categories compared with 40 percent of all white workers. Large numbers of Mexican American, Hispano, and Japanese workers also fail to benefit by this legislation because of their concentration in farm work.

Discrimination is sometimes evident in the admission of individuals to the benefits of the program by local administrators. The aims of some of our broadest social legislation are negated to the extent that this discrimination occurs. Evidence indicating the existence of such discrimination against Indians in certain localities has been brought to the attention of the Committee. It would appear that much of this discrimination is based on the mistaken belief that the Office of Indian Affairs provides the Indians with all needed public services. Actually, the Office furnishes very limited service which by no means means replace those supplied the general public by government agencies. The Committee believes the extent of this misunderstanding and of resulting inequalities in services rendered Indians should be promptly ascertained by appropriate agencies, and steps taken to bring an end to those which are found to exist.

Negroes are sometimes not admitted locally to the benefits of certain services, or are given unequal service. This is shown by a study of public assistance made by Dr. Richard Sterner in 1942 in the investigation of the American Negro, sponsored by the Carnegie Corporation.

Because of a higher proportion of dependency, Negroes have a greater need for old age assistance than whites, but average grants in the old age assistance program were found to be lower for Negroes than for whites. Sterner also found that certain Farm Security benefits were less for Negroes than for whites.

More recently, the Farmers Home Administration has been making valiant efforts toward assuring Negro farmers receive their share. Discrepancies of coverage and benefit can be cited also for the care of delinquent, destitute, and handicapped child and aid to the blind.

Los Angeles, California.
Dear Mrs. Bass:

Enclosed is a review of "Hubbub in Java," an eye-witness report of the Indonesian struggle for independence written by an Australian, John Thompson. Distribution of this very excellent book, copies of which have been received recently by the Indonesian Committee in Los Angeles, is of the greatest importance as there are almost no books available which give reliable information on Indonesia.

This review of "Hubbub in Java" has been written for your paper by George Anang, Vice-Chairman of the American Committee for Indonesian Independence (Los Angeles Section). We hope that you will be able to use it.

Sincerely,
EDE KEMNITZER,
Secretary, American Committee for Indonesian Independence.

Dear Mrs. Bass:

I want to extend to you my deep appreciation for your kind personal interest and activity in behalf of "Deep Are the Roots." I would like to thank you especially for the magnificent speech you gave at the preview performance, and for your editorial concerning the play.

Such interest and support is helping to make this play one of the most talked of events in Los Angeles. It is certainly being reflected in the increasing theatre attendance, and I hope will continue to do so for some time to come — for what the authors have to say should be heard by the widest possible audience. It is interesting that thousands of people who hardly ever come to the theatre are coming to see "Deep Are the Roots." I believe that this should indicate that there is an audience for plays of social meaning. This is important, especially relative to the sins of race prejudice—and I hope that this play will in some measure help lessen that prejudice.

With many thanks, I am
Sincerely yours,
Ray Spencer.

Regrets

By WALTER E. KLEIN

Out of my heart came a song,
A song of clashing forces
Raised by swearing, sweating men:
A song of lashing ocean
And of stinging, jeweled spray.
Beating
Pounding
Crashing
On coasts that Vikings raided.
Out of my heart come a song,
A song of unknown sources —
Moonlight on a stagnant fen,
Half stirred by dark commotion.
I suppressed that song with day;
Bleating
Bounding
Thrashing
It strained, but now has faded.

Top place among all fire departments of the nation is now occupied by the Los Angeles Fire Department according to word received this week by Chief Engineer John H. Alderson from the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

Think Deep, Black Man

By DORIS WEARY

Think deep, Black Man,
Think deep and strong.
The telling blow is sure to fall erelong.
The race shall soon begin
And long before 'tis o'er you'll know
Just who will lose or who will win.

Think deep, Black Man,
Sell not your right to vote,
Nor sell the right of all the colored folk
For measly crumbs of monetary gain.
Black man, shun being vain.
Curse now your vanity and dam it well;
Be staunch, lift high your head, refuse to sell.

Your vote is power and your power can be
A living good if maintained in tenastic unity.
Fight not your savior, rather boldly stand
Beneath him as a bulwark, always with a helping hand.
Now is the time to delve into the reaches of your mind;
Now is the time to do what's good and right
Not for yourself but for all mankind.

A Call to Repentance

By EMIL ARNAUD

(EDITOR'S NOTE: EAGLE readers will recognize that while large sections of the American people passively accept the evils condemned by Emil Arnaud, the main responsibility for these evils rests with those forces which control the economic life of the country, use their financial power to control government, dictate policies. No fight against these forces can be successful that does not seek to unite the people against these forces. . . .)

We have entered another 365 days fearful of the outcome, we do not know where to turn. We are fearful on account of our transgressions and the disregard, we, as Americans, have had and still have for others not only in our own country but in countries all over the world. This disregard is bouncing back on us and we are feeling the sting of it.

Our great ambition is to dominate and to do so we must divert our measures towards other motives in order that we may be back in good grace with others, not that we feel that others really care a hoot about us but that we can win them over to our side for our own selfish reason.

We, Americans, have tried everything imaginable and it was to no avail so we are reaching deep in the pockets of the taxpayers and bleeding them in order that we might stop the upward tide of ill feeling towards Americans all over the world. We are sending them money to buy their friendship for political purposes also to give protection to big interests.

Yes, the tide has changed, the table has turned so now we must straighten up and fly right, but will we? No, I don't think we will because too deep are the roots of evil in our hearts. We aren't ready to kick in because to do so we must go against the grain of our desires.

The trend of our thoughts lead in the direction that is sure to be disastrous to us. We do not even desire to regard others as human beings, therefore we should expect nothing else but suffering and remorse for our iniquities. Surely we should not expect to escape the penalties for our wrong doings. We in America are no fools but consider others as such, I imagine there are certain people in this country that would have the great constitution of ours changed to the extent of making it read thus:

We the KKK demand all minorities must stoop to White Supremacy.

We the KKK reserve the right to pass our opinion upon all groups we consider helpless.

We the KKK will hold any real American practicing and deed of righteousness favoring anyone that may need the help of the courts.

We the KKK will make men like Gerald Smith our president and his word will be law and his word will be final.

But seriously speaking, it is high time that we Americans stop trying to kid ourselves because we are not getting any place. The money which is being distributed among overseas countries will eventually be used against us as in the Pearl Harbor case.

There is one thing certain, you cannot buy love nor can love be forced upon anyone. Take England for instance, at this very hour she is making plans to trade with Russia while we are cooking up another war with Russia. England at least knows where her bread and butter lies, that is, in the United States, but at the same time is taking advantage of our quarrel with Russia and cashing in on account of our lack of understanding and tricks associated with worldly affairs. As dumb as I am I can see clear through the whole plan and I am sure these Great Statesmen of ours can, if they will!

Today we will find among the average layman, men that read and analyze these problems as a pasttime. Today as in the past we are using the old adage, "the world is a stage and everyone is an actor and must play the part" which makes it rather hard for those that must guide our destiny or shall I say misguide!

In reality I cannot force myself to believe America as a whole will eventually get on the right track. In order to do so we must right about face and govern ourselves acording to the setup provided by the constitution of this great country of ours. I am afraid that is asking too much as we will still have to contend with the southern states before going forward with such a great undertaking. I would rather be optimistic about this.

Again if you notice the trend and tradition of the southern states are reaching into the far East, West, and North as well. This omits any desire to bother about conditions in the south as long as the Nordics are not molested: A la Bilbo! !

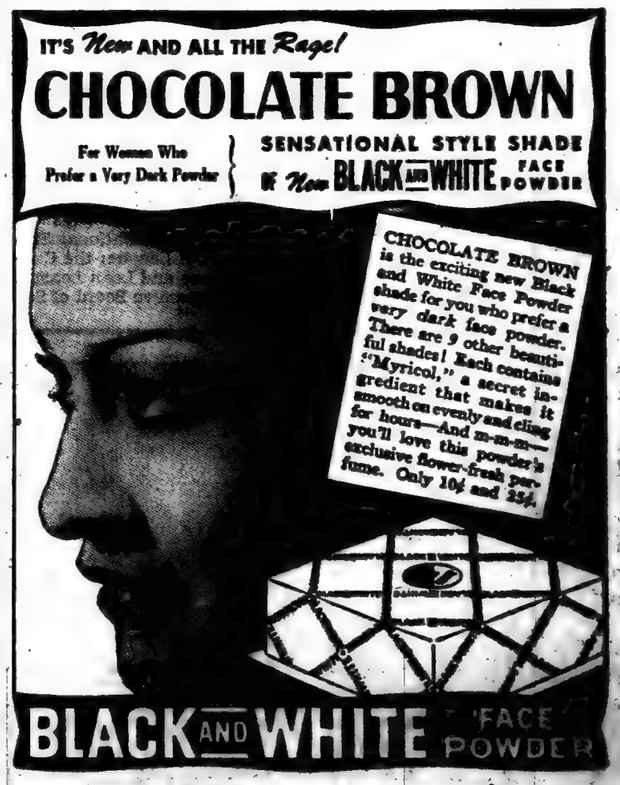
Again we are faced with a condition within our midst which will not help prevent another war, that is the persons that made millions in the first and second world war. Some of them were sorry the end came as quickly as it did because they were not rich enough and had not encountered any hardships. Others because they felt sure if the war continued they would see a great change regarding the racial set up for the minority group in America.

So we come to the beginning of 1948 with the same old doubt and fear in our hearts and we should expect nothing except the things associated with it: a change of heart—a change of mind—will bring things that are change of heart, will give 1948 a great start.

Truman in Mild Plea For FEPC

WASHINGTON — Among assorted minor recommendations in President Truman's Budget message to congress was a renewed plea for enactment of fair employment practices legislation, comprehensive housing legislation and federal aid for education.

The President's estimates for social welfare which evoked the quick anger of Republican legislators included money for expanding the social security program to cover agricultural and domestic employes, launching a national health insurance system, and inaugurating grants to the states for elementary and secondary education. An outlay of $290,000,000 was included for the school-aid plan, which has not been authorized yet by Congress.



For the cold war against Russia, Truman asked congress to spend a whopping $18,033,000 for war preparations and international affairs and finance. That is 46 percent of the total of proposed 1949 expenditures.

The President had nothing to say of the remommendations made by his Committee on Civil Rights. He declared that he would deal with those recommendations in a later message to Congress.

Protest Move For Jimcrow Vets' Hospital

NEW YORK—A sharp protest against the establishment of a jimcrow veterans' hospital in Franklin county, Virginia, was lodged by Walter White, NAACP secretary, with Senator Eugene D. Milliken, chairman of the senate finance committee.

The house, in a speedy and unheralded vote, passed H. R. 3614 to establish the segregated hospital. The bill now goes to the senate and is before Sen. Milliken's committee.

WHAT IS THIS ZONING BUSINESS

By IDELL A. BATEMAN

Some eight years ago, out into the growing community known as Central Ave. Gardens, there came a couple o men from the Zoning Commissioner's office to tell the people of the neighborhood what type of zoning was represented by R2.

The people as a whole were confused. They had not asked that their community be restricted to two single family residences to the lot. They had invested their little savings in property rom which they hoped to reap the greater benefit. Of course they wanted to keep out nuisances such as rubbish dumps, stock yards and objectionable manufacturing plants, they also wanted to establish a certain standard of housing so that they might build a neighborhood of which they could be proud. But these men from the zoning commission office, who asked them to come out and talk about the R2 type of zoning.

I was one of those confused. I was taking a rest from my business at the time and was serving as managing editor of the California EAGLE in the absence of the editor from the city. A telephone message came to me that our community was threatened by inroads of objectionable manufacturing plants and a meeting was to be held to decide against it. Of course I expected it to be an open meeting, one in which the people would be free to accept or reject the type of zoning they were offered.

I was disappointed. It seemed that things had been all "cut and dried," that a certain group had decided that we should have R2 type of zoning and that was all there was to it. I ferreted out the group responsible for the state of things and sat in with them for a show down. I told them that the type o fzoning they were sponsoring was alright for Bel Air, Beverly Hills or neighborhoods where people could invest their money in homes for the pure joy of living but that the people in this neighborhood had to get the most out of their investment and it was not fair to place such a restriction on their property. Furthermore I pointed out to them that although none of us had the money then, but that someday there might come into our neighborhood someone with ten or 20 thousand dollars to invest—what then?

These self styled leaders of the neighborhood had already decided what was best for the community, so my statements only served to rouse their ire toward me.

Since that time they have fought "teeth and toenail" any effort, on the part of any of their neighbors, to break this zoning and have been upheld by the zoning commission. Well known instances of these fights have been the O'Rourke Electric Shop. Mr. and Mrs. Al O'Rourke built a creditable little shop. So bitter and long was this fight that Mrs. O'Rourke suffered a nervous breakdown as the result. A liquor license was denied the store at 92nd and Zamora, a pressing shop on the same corner was denied a license because of the activities of this committee. These were all Negroes and neighbors.

I gave up plans or an investment of 20 thousand dollars in building courts because the Building and Safety Department said that in this area there could be only two kitchens on the entire lot. Other neighbors have come to me and told of their efforts to build apartments and had them come to nothing because of this zoning.

Now in this same neighborhood at 92nd and Baird ave. there is being erected on less than a half a lot eight courts with eight kitchens. This property is in R2 zone. The man who is building them is not a neighbor. He has added nothing to the neighborhood in the way of building it up. He took over the store from its former owners. The neighborhood had said that they dod not want a liquor store in its midst. The Board o Equalization did not grant the former Japanese owner a liquor license.

This man however obtained his liquor license without the knowleidge or consent of the neighborhood. Now he has obtained a permit and is building eight units behind the store, on less than half the lot. These small units I am told will rent for $65 per month each. Of course he is not a Negro struggling to get a foothold. He is only making his money off Negroes. That must make a difference with the zoning commission, the Building and Safety Department and also to the self-styled leaders in the community.

Eight kitchens to the half lot would mean that there could be 16 kitchens to the lot at $65 per month, per unit. My, my, what are all you poor property owners who have sacrificed for all these years, to hold on to your little properties, waiting for? Come on in the days of the R2 zoning are over for Central Ave. Gardens. If you don't believe it go to 92nd and Baird. Or does your face have to be white to make money off of Negroes?

PCA Board Endorses Public Housing, State Senate Reapportionment Initiatives

The State Housing and State Reapportionment Initiative campaigns will receive the active help of PCA's hundreds of volunteers petition circulators about the third week of February.

This announcement came on the heels of the decision of the Southern California board of directors of the Progressive Citizens of America (PCA) to endorse two initiatives.

In endorsing the initiatives, PCA took its place beside the AFL, CIO, all major veterans organizations, religious and civic groups and the Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) which have already announced their support of either or both measures.

The housing initiative would provide about 100,000 rental units, privately constructed, to rent for $50 or less per month. Local housing agencies would carry out the building and maintenance of the dwelling units. The initiative would create a State Housing Authority, backed by a self-liquidating bond issue, to help the local agencies.

Homes built under the proposed measure would be rented to California residents of at least 1 year standing, solely on the basis of need, without restrictions as to race, color, creed, national origin or ancestry.

PCA's position on state senate reapportionment is in favor of a one-house state legislature, or of representation in the senate on a strict population basis. However, PCA considers the proposal to raise the number of state senators from one for each county to 10 from Los Angeles, 5 from San Francisco and 4 from Alameda counties, an improvement over the present system of representation.

Both initiatives require the collection of over 204,000 signatures by June 24 to be placed on the November ballot.

Savant Cites Growth of Negro Press

CHICAGO—"Is the Negro press growing or dying?"

In answer to this question Grinnell college sociologist John H. Burma declares in February Negro Digest that the Negro press is doing both—decreasing in numbers and growing in circulation and value to the community.

In all, Negro general newspapers today number 155, fewer than any time in the last 50 years, Burma asserts. And these newspapers are growing by leaps and bounds, he continues. During two years circulation has increased more than 12 percent and advertising more than 50 percent.

"This far surpasses the record for white newspapers during the same period," Burma insists.

Pointing out that smaller newspapers have been unable to cope with rising cost of production in the face of competing larger newspaper, Burma says that the bulk of the present Negro press is now in a sounder position than ever before in its history. The writer continues:

"While this decrease in numbers was occurring, number of employes has been increasing about 10 percent a year. Negro papers are now published in 32 states and in all large cities."

Contributing factors listed by Burma are, increased Negro interest in his status as a second-class citizen, increased income, and migration of Negroes from rural areas to larger cities.

Political Suggestions
Fellow Brethren
American Citizens

Gentlemen:

I suggest to you that the time has truly come for us to represent ourselves as a people and citizens as others do. It is not good policy for us to go in the field competing against ourselves. It is the privilege and right of every citizen to do so at will. If we are going to play politics, let us play it right. I suggest that we get together and select the best among the several of us to compete for the office and a clear understanding of what is to be done, because the incumbent will defeat us all. A waste of time and money as has been heretofore. I am willing to step down and give way to the one who is selected and support him to the utmost. I hope this will meet your approval and that something will be done soon and very soon!

Read between lines.

Concluding a year of successful operation, the first annual meeting and election of officers of the Broadway Federal Savings and Loan Association was held on Wednesday, January 21, at 8 p.m., H. A. Howard, president of the firm, presided.

Howard listed assets of the Association at $869,809.59 lending volume in the excess of $500,-337.27; and savings and investment accounts at the year's end as $823,817.36.

Emphasis during the twelve months was placed on home ownership for families of modest means, and the most significant development in the Association's service was the authorization by statute and subsequent regulation, of a loan-fund for property improvement up to $1500 per borrower, which excludes the red-tape of property mortgaging.

The ratio of funds outstanding to the appraised value of the properties secured for loans were listed as only 51.2, thus insuring investors adequate protection.

As added protection to investors, the Association is a member of the United States Savings and Loan League; the National Savings and Loan League; the California Savings and Loan League, the Federal Reserve Board of San Francisco, and the Society of Residential Appraisers.

Predicting the construction of new homes would top last year's dollar volume of $692,462,544 by ten per cent, Broadway Federal Savings and Loan Association, applied for and is now awaiting a certificate of approval from the Federal Housing Administration, Washington, D. C., which will qualify the firm to issue F. H. A. loans.

Named as new officers to the enterprising and progressive organization were L. G. Robinson, who assumes the duties as treasurer and S. P. Johnson, one of the original signers, who takes over the duties as vice-president. Illness prevented him from being active last year.

H. A. Howard, prominent realtor was re-elected president.

WHAT'S DOING IN THE SOCIAL SET

By JESSIE MAE BROWN

THESE ARE BUSY DAYS and nights on the social scene. In fact, even the extra special events seem to be just another passing fancy. Believe me, it's really a dazzling rut to get into. The highlight events of the winter season are just about set, so your writer takes this opportunity to mention a date during early spring that will be of special interest to many an Angeleno. April 18 is the date set aside by the gents of Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity, to present, for the first time to Los Angeles audience, the piano artistry of child prodigy Phillipa Schuyler. This will mark the 17 year old deb's first trip to the West Coast. Am quite sure she will be welcomed with open arms.

Jessie Mae Brown

The hosts of this Sunday afternoon concert will include not only the gents of the grad chapter, Beta Psi Lambda, but also the two undergrad groups Alpha Delta and Gamma Xi. George Waugh is general chairman of the affair and he is assisted by such music notables in the group as Samuel Brown, who knows a good bit about arranging and orchestration, and Wilbert Beranco, another well known pianist. Dr. D. A. Hawkins will be lending his assistance along with Grant D. Venerable, Art O. Thomas, Chester Taliaferro, James Shiflett, and Thomas Fletcher. The Alpha Wives club will be lending a helping hand and all in all, the Phillipa Schuyler concert should be another successful step forward. . . . Anyway, keep the date open. . . .

The big buyers confab that has been in sway for the past week in downtown L. A. goes unnoticed by many, unless one happens to be engaged in some phase of the production. So it goes with Gladwin Ball, who dabbles in ceramics and professionally too. Understand that his lamps and novelty jewelry brought more than favorable comment from the people who pull the strings. Like Tony Hill and Wilmer James, Mr. Ball studied under Dr. Glen Luken at S. C., before going on his own. At this point I say loads of luck to all the race artists who have their goods on display in the big buyers show.

POT POURRI

Last week we were reminiscing the Omega formal. The spotlight falls upon the Pacific Town club formal in this writing. Society turned out in force as did the celebrities, to help the first men of the land celebrate their annual formal ball. The best bib and tucker was in order, as each numbered bid was collected at the door by very sceptical Towners. Each member is allotted two invitations. My girl Friday pens that they were all in use, with few exceptions. All eyes were on lovely Ethel Sissle, as she appeared on the arm of Atty. Walter Gordon. Ouida Williams was very stunning in an advanced spring-print gown, while Lola Beavers chose a smart black formal skirt with white blouse, elaborately trimmed in Bugle beads. Emily Portwig entered fashionable late in a party of six; Paulette Coleman and Dr. Frank Peterson were listed among the younger social set in attendance. Last year's president, Paul R. Williams and the Mrs. were much in evidence. George A. Beavers, '48's Pacific Town Club president, was absent from the gala gathering with a cold. As per usual the dance was very exclusive, very beautiful, and the guests enjoyed dancing to the music of Sammy Franklyn's orchestra.

Installation parties and receptions predominate the calendar of social events. On last week-end, Les Dames took the oaths and enjoyed dancing and dining as an aftermath. Lillian Chase was re-elected. . . . Douze Mignonettes climaxed their Installation Tea Sunday afternoon with an after party that went on well into the night. The girls plan to do things this year. . . . Taking time out from duties at the Iota Phi lambda oath taking, enjoyed going over old times with Florence Nukes and Rose Johnson, the Bernard Herndons, Euvalda Morris, Brenda and Harry Davis and many another.

A Bit O' Sweden will be the fashionable setting for the Installation banquet of the Doll League Charity club on Friday night. Atty. Bernard Jefferson will do the honors, before husbands, escorts and a few invited members of the press. Key officers read as follows: Nellie Brown, pres., Hariette Wadley, vice; Secty., Euvolda Morris, Treas., Marion B. Jackson, Reporter, Louise Skanks Collier etc. . . . A Swedish menu will be served. The affair promises to be quite the social thing. . . .

Dropped in on the Alpha Phrateries last Friday evening, to find out that the topic of discussion was the Big Cabaret dance the coeds will be staging at the Elks on Feb. 6. Gloria Crouch, prexy of the clan. will be leader of the dance, and some of the chorus cuties will be, Jackie Regard, Laverne Weaver, Vivian Townes, Joyce Finney, Sally Jones, Betty Linley, I could go on and on, because all the girls are getting the "one two three kick" down pat.

As soon as the 6th rolls by the Phrateries will be placing all energies toward making the First Annual Club Festival something to write home about. The show will be professional that afternoon, led by Dorothy Dandridge and Suzette Harbin, with proceeds going to send the Kiddies to camp. Club Congo will be the scene of the activities on Feb. 22, between 3 and 7 p.m. Ye scribe wouldn't mind having a ringside seat at both affairs. . . .

Royal Syndicators are headed by Curtis Howard. He follows in the footsteps of LaFrance Brown. The Annual Syndicator Semi hasn't been planned as yet. Understand that '48 might find the gents centering their attention on business and charity. . . .

SHOPPING WITH DORIS

By DORIS AUSTIN

Hi There:

This Spring wardrobe planning has got me going in circles; so suppose we take time out from our shopping and plan a few Valentines for friends and family. After all we can't spend all the money on one family member, even tho "Mom" is generally the last to shop for herself and I've found that most of my readers are mothers, glamorous though many may be.

Hankies always are a welcome gift in every woman's life, they make a practical and distinctive gift for that man of the manor also, those handsome initialed linens, beautiful broadcloths and rolled edged cottons. Select a handkerchief to suit her personality—gayly floral or attractively colored for that frivolous mood, soft pastels for the more sober moods or those dainty whites-plains, exquisitely designs or beautifully monogrammed for the lady of your choice. Those large hankie squares are the trend of the moment for suits, tailored dresses and the very popular blouse-skirt combinations.

Costume jewelry, hand bags, gloves, personalized lingerie and stationery are high on the "eligible" list for your favorite Valentine as well as pen and pencil sets, hosiery and perfumes. Whatever your gift, be certain to select an appropriate greeting card, take time to suit the card to the person, it's lots of fun and brings delightful pleasure to the receivee.

A RETRACTION

This week, I find it necessary as well as perhaps only fair and just to make a retraction of statements made in this column in the Jan. 1, 1948, issue of this newspaper. The statements were made in my anxiety and passionate desire to see my race and people fully situated in a life of equality.

In that issue I said:

"But one of the disheartening things about the Negro people is that one can't disgrace himself without disgracing the colored race. The majority is judged by the actions of the minority. And that is very bad.

"There seems to be a curse on the name McDaniel. I have in mind presently two McDaniels who are in the mavies. One is going under the name of Hattie, and the other is Sam McDaniel. They could be called other names. It's becoming so you can't go to the movies without becoming angry. It appeared, for a time, that the situation in Hollywood was improving, but then came this Communistic witch-hunt in our government and now the same old thing is recurring. I am thinking of the sadistic way in which a few colored people disgrace the entire colored race. I have in mind a couple of McDaniel people, Sam and Hattie. I broke off with Hattie some years ago when she made a speech in a predominantly colored neighborhood to the extent that white people are superior, perhaps not in so many words, but strongly enough so that when she left the place she was met by a hail of sticks and stones. As we know, Hattie has disgraced the colored people more than once, and in no vague manner."

As of today, that statement is retracted insofar as it refers to Hattie McDaniel and to Sam McDaniel. In addition, I would ask that they accept my apology.

TOPIC OF THE WEEK

A letter to the city council.

Having been a resident of the Eastside area for some time, I am in a position to feel the need of more lighting for this area of Los Angeles. And here is an open letter that the Los Angeles city council received from this columnist some time ago:

Gentlemen:

Since I am a resident of the East Los Angeles area, I have been constantly reminded of the urgent need of more and better lighting maintenance throughout the Eastside area.

The conditions on the Eastside of our "Greater Los Angeles" are indeed mournful. Many of the long blocks are lighted only by one lamp in the middle of the block, extended by cables from one post to another. Much of the time these lights are poorly maintained; they have broken globes or bulbs, and a good portion of the time they give no light at all.

Along the major portion of the Eastside avenues and boulevards, the only lighting is afforded by lamps, hanging directly over the cross-section of the streets. Such lighting is responsible for a great number of accidents and deaths. The total darkness on many of the Eastide streets is a temptation to sex degenerates, who stalk the corners and blocks looking for unprotected girls or unescorted women. By brightening up some of the dark corners and streets, we would lessen the rate of crime, as well as the amount of money spent in the process of bringing to justice child molesters, sex degenerates, and burglars.

Very often the Eastside blocks are long and dark. Not only women and girls, but grown men are often afraid to venture into the darkness that prevails in the entaglement of city streets. On nights of heavy fog, it is impossible for a person walking to see a distance of 10 feet either before or behind himself.

These conditions actualy exist, councilmen, and I am hoping that you will take these statements seriously, and will not "chuckle" this letter into the wastebasket.

The lights are not wanted in 1949, 1950, or 1955. They are very badly needed at the very present.

I am sure that you have received previous letters regarding the same matter, and judging from the conditions that are still in existence, you have allowed them to go unheeded. I am demanding immediate action on the part of the city council in securing more and better lights for the Eastside streets."

And so read the letter. But I am wondering just how much weight one letter can carry. I would like to know what would be the results of perhaps 200 or 300 letters, at the least, to the council on the same matter?

We are all aware of the imperativeness of the need for better lights throughout the entire area. Through the preceding years, since the war and before, too, the need has constantly increased. There has been an unusual number of murders and moral offenses committed, and all due to the very, very poor lighting system. It goes unsaid that great improvements must be made in the very near future.

As to an answer to the letter above, the council has stated that the matter was referred to the Board of Public Works. There hasn't been time for action. Nevertheless, the need for lights is diminished none in the least by that technicality.

I have always believed that anything worth enjoying and worth having is worth the effort put forth in obtaining it. And the same holds true regarding community projects, and so forth. Better lighting in the general sense is one of those things very badly needed, and which will be of great help. I am sure the council will be glad to receive your letters, too, and that each an devery one of us will enjoy the lights when (not if) we get them.

Howard Given Project Contract

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Office of Naval Research has placed a contract with Howard university to do research work on a special project in the school's department of chemistry, it was announced yesterday by university officials.

The contract represents formal approval of the research proposal "The Oxidation of Hydroxlamine," which was submitted to naval research officials by Dr. Kelso B. Morris, associate professor of chemistry. An appropriation of $4,000 for financing the research project has been received by the university.

Dr. Morris, a native of Beaumont, Texas, is a graduate of Wiley college and Cornell university. He was a member of the faculty at Wiley college for 16 years; has taught at Atlanta university, and has been a member of the Howard university staff for one year.

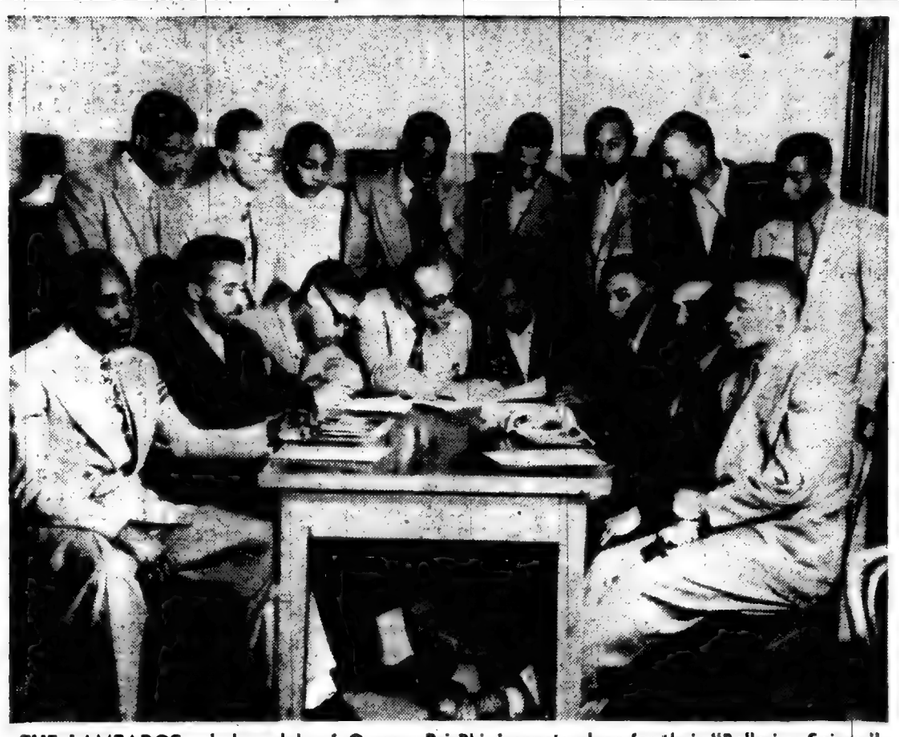
He holds membership in the American Chemical Society, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, Sigma Xi, and Betta Kappa Chi Scientific societies; Texas Academy of Science, and a nominee for membership in the American Association of University Professors. He is listed in American Men of Science" and other Who's Who publications.

Misuse of Science Can Destroy Human Race, Rabbi Warns

"Unless the fruits of science can be utilized for the welfare of mankind and not for its destruction, the human race will employ knowledge to destroy itself," declared Rabbi Edgar Magnin, president of the University Religious Conference, in speaking to the winter graduates of East Los Angeles Junior college at the baccalaureate services held on the new campus of the college Sunday, January 25.

Rabbi Magnin, who is the spiritual adviser at the Wilshire Blvd. Temple, pointed ou that there is a great difference between wisdom and knowledge. We are living in a world where there is plenty of knowledge but not enough wisdom, he said, and that is our weakness.

The 37 graduates were also advised that the founders of all great religions of the world did not possess the kind of education that one is able to receive today; but they were a lot wiser than many so-called educated people, because they recognized that security and human happiness can only result from recognition of the Divine presence in the universe and in the human heart.



Invocation, scripture reading, and benediction were given by the school's advisers for the Student Religious Conference. They are Rev. John Imbach, area youth worker for the Reglious Conference; Rabbi Leonard Greenberg, director of the Hillel Councils of Jewish students; and Father Joseph Eyrand, Aassistant pastor of the St. Alphonso Church.

Joint Program for Watts Youth Center

The CYO, YMCA and YWCA were jointly delegated the responsibility of providing the program activities at the Watts Youth Center which is now in operation in the old USO building, 10123 Beach, by the Los Angeles Community Welfare Federation. The YMCA was named the directing agency of this venture and appropriated an additional budget to operate the Center for a period of 2 months, with the future after March 1, depending upon the outcome of the present community Chest Campaign.

Special interest groups, clubs, canteens and committees of the three agencies are now daily using the building and an expansion program is in the making.

A Youth Center Advisory Committee, with two representatives each from the CYO, YMCA and YWCA, is being organized to work with the directing agency in order to help assure the best use of the biulding for the youth in Watts.

What's Happenin'

By JOHNNY DELGARDO

Due to unfortunate circumstances beyond my control, this column was not published in last week's edition. However, late as the news may be, I find it necessary to let you know what was happenin' two weeks ago.

SCROLLERS AND SPHINXMEN ENTERTAIN

Giving out with one of the finest, most hilarious affairs of the new year so far, the highly-spirited Scrollers of Kappa Alpha Psi and those suave young Sphinxmen of Alpha Phi Alpha fraternities, packed the Elks Ballroom with collegiates from every campus throughout Los Angeles. The affair came to pass last Saturday night, Jan. 17, when the gents of the two great pledge clubs did more than prove that unity between the two organizations was not only a possibilty, but a reality.

While strolling about the ballroom floor, I chanced to run upon that dashing young gentleman, Randall Goosby, dancing with none other than his latest fling, Mary Dye; the "Lord George Kid," Bernice Rigard, romancing with L. A.'s favorite man of distinction, Bob (Barney Oldfield) Logan, Katherine Woods watching her latest heart throb, Sterling Wallace, fight off the wolves; Audrey Cloyd telling Chase Edmonds that he'll pass his exams okay; and Veronesa Bagnerise gazing starry-eyed at Artis Rhodes.

Lounging about the lobby I saw Louise (Blunderbuss) Robinson a-feudin' and a-fussin' over a bottle of . . . Coca-Cola, Everett Beize creeping through the door with one of his old flames, Hal Machum singing "I walk alone to the Cresbar," Sherril (Lone Ranger) Luke still muttering the name of some young lady, Irlton French and his constant ball and chain, Betty Lu Price; Sally Jones, Betty Linley and Geraldine Johnson stealing each other's lollypops.

After the fine band of Johnny Randolph's finished its last selection, throngs of gay young lovers (and otherwise) found their way to the exits, only to find that unfortunate creature from Kipling's "Jungle Book," stupid Stanley Robertson, reading that latest novel, "The Art of Love," or "How to make Evelyn kiss me good night when I take her home." Also found was Taylor Thissle, searching every chandelier in sight. (Wonder what he was looking for???) The EAGLE'S Advertising Manager, Earl Carter, seemed to be lost without his sweet little girl friend.. Everyone seemed to have been heading for the after-party, which was held at the home of Sphinxman Vernon "Butch" Randall. With all the fun and entertainment going on, Carl (The man in the iron mask) Wills, chose to stay in bed and sleep. (The hibernation season isn't over yet.)

SURPRISE!

Last Sunday afternoon, Miss Bernice Rigard entertained her friends with a party which turned out to be an engagement announcement. Congratulations are in order for Bernice Rigard, who has announced her engagement to (Yep, you guessed it) Bob Logan. On hand with more congratulations were Henry Mingleton, Marjorie (dreamy eyes) Garrott, Phyllis and hubby, Bill Golden, Georgette (next dance) Shores with no one but Norman Watson, Louie (Blunderbuss) Robinson and Rosie Osby, Herbie (XX) Howard and Joyce (are there any more in Topeka??) Finney, Pyhromm (I won the contest) Taylor, and that cute little package from New Orleans, Joyce Moret. See you later.

The Steering Committee on Scouting for South Los Angeles, Rev. C. W. Arnold, chairman, its monthly meeting recently in Luncheon Room 143, Jordan High school, Watts.

William Mann, principal of Jordan, who was host to the Committee, recommended the Boy Scout officials and like social workers for the creditable service rendered to the community.

Carl Ehrhardt, district executive of Green Meadows, spoke on how Mann as principal of the school has labored in the interest of the community.

The four main discussions of the meeting were: Boy Scout Anniversary Week, Leadership Training Course, personnel for Scouting, and Unit organization.

Rev. St. Paul Epps, pastor of Belvue Community church, South Los Angelse, said that Boy Scout Anniversary Week, February 6-12, can be one means of contributing to the youth of the church. He stated, "I cannot see the thinking of a man who couldn't use Scouting as an integral part of his youth program." Mann remarked that Scouting actually functions in the life of a boy.

The Leadership Training Course is being sponsored by all youth agencies operating in Watts. The course is basic and is designed to help all youth leaders, regardless of their organization's affiliation. Rev. C. W. Arnold seems to think that all the churches in Watts should support this Course. It will be held at Hacienda Village, 1515 East 105th st., beginning Tuesday, February 10, 10 a. m. to 12 noon, and at 7:30 p. m.

Persons interested in Scout Leadership will please call Rev. C. W. Arnold, JE. 0310, or Claude Durham, field commissioner, LU. 0689, and leave name, address and telephone address. All personnel are subject to approval by local and National Council.

'Y' Boys In Cage 'Loop'

The 28th street YMCA Youth Division has netered three basketball teams in the annual Southern California "Y" League. Teams have been entered in the "Bee" "Cee" and "Dee" divisions with over fifty boys taking part.

About 35 Association in Southern California compete in this event including branches in San Diego, Santa Barbara, San Bernardino, Riverside and Redlands.

The opening game for 2Y8 was on Saturday at the Whittier "Y" with 2Y8 coming out on the big end in all three games. The next series will bring San Pedro to 28th street.

League play will continue through the middle of March with championship games probably being played in Los Angeles. Boys' athletic instructor "Hutch" Hutcherson has done a fine job of whipping his teams into tip-top shape and feels certain that 28th street is scheduled to be pretty rough to handle this year.

Outstanding in team play are the following the following boys: Bees, Kenneth Johnson, Sammy Williams, and Charles Lightness. Cees: Thomas Jackson, Billy Johnson, Charles Hill and Algean Sutton. Dees: Ralph Davis, Cleveland Mitchell, James Foreman, and Sonny Hampen.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By REV. IKE EVANS, D.D.

Subject: What We Know About Jesus: His Work Of Salvation. Lesson Text and Outline, Isaiah 53:4-6; Matthew 1:21; 5:17; 20: 28-28; Hebraws 4:15-16. Motto Text Luke 19:10.

Introduction

The main thing we need to know about Jesus is his work of salvation which was foretold by Isaiah, announced to Joseph of Nazareth, explained by Jesus in the Sermon on the Mount, accomplished by Christ on the Cross, and is now being consummated by him as our "advocate with the Father."

Comments

1. Mankind lies under the stain of original corruption, and every particular person stands charged with many actual transgressions. We have all gone astray from God our rightful owner, alienated ourselves from him, from the ends he designed us to move in. Sinners have their own iniquity, their beloved sin, which does most easily beset them, their own evil way, that they are particularly fond of and bless themselves in. Christ not only submitted to the common infirmities of human nature, and the common calamities of human life, which sin had introduced, but he underwent the extremities of grief, when he said, My soul is exceedingly sorrowful. Jesus made the sorrows of this present time heavy to himself, that he might make them light and easy for us. Christ bore our sins, and so bore our griefs, bore them off us, that we should never be pressed above measure. Our sins were the thorns in his head, the nails in his hands and feet, the spear in his side.

Christ lived as a servant, and went about to do good; but he died as a sacrifice, and in that he did the greatest good of all. He came into the world on purpose to give his life a ransom; it was first in his intention. Our lives were forfeited into the hands of divine justice by sin. Christ, by parting with his life, made atonement for sin, and so rescued ours; he was made sin, and a curse for us, and died, not only for our good, but in our stead.

3. Jesus is touched with the feeling of our infirmities in such a manner as none else can be; for he was himself tried with all the afflictions and troubles that are incident to our nature in its fallen state: and this not only that he might be able to satisfy for us, but to sympathize with us. Jesus was tempted by Satan, but he came off without sin.

Comment on the Motto Text

The whole world of mankind by the fall of man has become a lost world: as a sick man is lost when his disease is incurable. Jesus came to seek and save, to seek in order to save. Christ undertook the cause when it was given up for lost; undertook to bring those to themselves that were lost to God and all goodness. Christ came into this lost world to seek and save it. His design was to save, when there was not salvation in any other way. In prosecution of that design, he sought it back, took all probable means to effect that salvation. He seeks those that were not worth seeking, he seeks those that sought him not, and asked not for him, as Zacchous here.

Camp Meetin' Choir Records Destroyed

NEW YORK—Master records of famous Camp Meetin' Choir were destroyed in a recent fire at the International Recording Company's plant in the city. These records were contained in albums, and it is considered likely that re-recordings will be made since the demand for them has been so great. The second of master records of the choir was released January 20.

The Camp Meetin' Choir is fortunate in that its records can be replaced. The records of many other masters, also destroyed in the fire, cannot be replaced because musicians are prohibited from recording since the Petrillo record ban. The ruling does not apply to the Camp Meetin' Choir since it is in the "a capella" unit.

Calif. Pioneer Laid to Rest

The funeral of Rev. Jacob Cicero Roberts, affectionately known as "Father Roberts," was held at the First A.M.E. Zion church last Thursday afternoon, Rev. H. B. Hawes, pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian church, officiating. Aside from the unusually large family group, a large number of friends gathered to pay fond tribute to the memory of the departed.

With Rev. Roger Willis as master of ceremonies and Revs. J. G. Edmonds, A. Thomas, J. W. Price and John C. Bain, associating Rev. Hawes, a most impressive service was conducted. Other participants were Mrs. E. M. Marion, resolutions; Mrs. Anna L. Carson, acknowledgements; Mrs. Willetta Sapp and Mr. J. Louis Johnson, soloists. Favorite hymns were sung by the senior choir of the church.

Father Roberts, 93 years of age, was an early pioneer of California. His long sojourn in this section is notable for its definite contribution to church and community life. Through his sterling character and sweetness of disposition he endeared himself to young and old alike. A profusion of beautiful floral pieces silently expressed the esteem in which he had been held by many friends, and the large number of telegrams, cards and letters augmented the mammoth tribute paid.

The large family remaining to cherish the memory of their loved one included: Julia E. Roberts, wife; Anna B. Fields, Eula Seville, Irene Wylie, Maude Hinds and Louise Hinds, daughters, and their families; Ralph Roberts, son, and his wife. Five sisters remain: Emma Oates, Ella J. Mills, Ona Roberts, Regina Fortune and Caleb Lee Twitty. Sixteen grandchildren, nine great-grandchildren, many nieces, nephews and other relatives survive Rev. Roberts.

The funeral was in charge of the Roberts Mortuary, and interment was in Rosedale Cemetery.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Wings Over Jordan has been scheduled for an appearance in both St. Petersburg and Tampa under the auspices of Rev. J. L. Fennell. The concerts will be held in Joyland Auditorium in St. Petersburg, and in the City Auditorium in Tampa.

At the time of the appearance last season, a scholarship was granted to a St. Petersburg student by the choir, and several thousand dollars were raised for the building fund of the church which sponsored the concerts last year. Proceeds this year are earmarked for Rev. Fennell's church.

Following engagements in Florida, the Wings Over Jordan Choir will travel north through the southeastern and eastern states.

Pleasant Hill Baptist Installs New Pastor

The Pleasant Hill Baptist church has just closed the installation services for its pastor, Rev. Henry W. Allen, B.A., D.D., formerly of Shreveport, La.

Dr. Allen belongs to a family of prominent ministers who have served in one church for a period of 40 years. He came to Pleasant Hill as pastor on December 14, and has proven to be a most able and profound leader. He is well known, and was recommended by some of the most outstanding national leaders from all parts of the south and east, as well as those in Los Angeles.

Pleasant Hill wishes to thank its many friends for the very fine contributions and expressions of friendship made in Dr. Allen's behalf. Many who could not attend the services sent telegrams expressing their best wishes for success.

The public is cordially invited to attend the nightly Bible study and all day Sunday services. There is a warm welcome awaiting you at Pleasant Hill at all times.

If your soul thirsts for the gospel, come to the the Macedonia Baptist church, 855 N. Fair Oaks ave., Pasadena. Rev. D. Demry, pastor.

Christian Science Lesson Theme 'Love'

"Love" will be the subject of the Sunday Lesson-Sermon in all branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston. The Golden Text is from I John: "If we love one another, God dwelleth in us, and his love is perfected in us."

Luke's Gospel relates that when Jesus was a guest in the house of Simon, the Pharisee, "a woman in the city, which was a sinner, . . . brought an alabaster box of ointment, And stood at his feet behind him weeping, and began to wash his feet with tears, . . . and anointed them with the ointment. . . . And he turned to the woman, and said unto Simon, Seest thou this woman? I entered into thine house, thou gavest me no water for my feet: but she hath washed my feet with tears, . . . My head with oil thou didst not anoint: but this woman hath anointed my feet with ointment. Wherefore I say unto thee, Her sins, which are many, are forgiven; for she loved much."

"Jesus presented the ideal of God better than could any man whose origin was less spiritual," writes Mary Baker Eddy in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures." Again she says, "Through the magnitude of his human life, he demonstrated the divine Life. Out of the amplitude of his pure affection, he defined Love. With the affluence of Truth, he vanquished error."

The wife of Rev. Carter is reported doing an excellent job as a member of the committee in charge of Stevens House, UCLA dormitory for women students of all races.

It is the enemy who keeps the sentinel watchful.

South's Little People For Henry Wallace, Says Southern Writer

The little people of the South are "as avowedly for Henry Wallace as they were for Franklin D. Roosevelt," writes Robert Durr, Southern correspondent of Calvins' News Service in a feature article released this week.

Durr relates that the day following Wallace's announcement that he will run for President, Durr conducted "a poll in my community. Every woman and young person I checked are as avowedly for Henry Wallace as they were for Franklin D. Roosevelt. The young people signed on the dotted line, as it were, with the women.

"Among the men I interviewed one man gave what I shall call the common denominator of expressions given me.

"'I have just written Mr. Wallace and told him: Silver and gold have I none, but such as I have is yours in the fight for the many things in which I also believe—such as the promulgation of an atmosphere in which men may build a way of life dedicated to the proposition of love for mankind, service to humanity, universal brotherhood, universal peace and total abolition of segreagtion and discrimination based on race, creed or color."

"I also discovered," continued Durr, "that millions are debating in their minds if the old adage 'Every sinner deserves one more chance because every saint was once a sinner' should be allowed to deter them in abandoning the two major political parties, because of their seemingly growing spiritual and moral decay. That, I make bold to hold, is a $64 question.

"The people want to do waf no more. Wallace wants war no more. The people will hear him gladly. This means the only way the old parties can cheat Wallace of victory is by absorbing into their platforms and NEW actions the things which make Wallace so appealing to the eternally little people.

"The two old parties are on the spot. They carry a lot of excess baggage in the form of reactionaries who are out of step with destiny, and who stand still while the parade of progress goes by.

Australia Solving Housing Shortage

Australia is solving her housing shortage with all-steel dwellings that can be erected in 36 hours, Constance Paul, a noted British architect and one of the few women in the field, said here this week.

Miss Paul in an interview at the Rossmore Manor said these houses cost only $4500 to $5000 and are assembled much like a child's building set.

"The governemnt is lending the money to veterans, supplying plans and helping them choose sites," Miss Paul declared. "These houses will last hundreds of years since there is no termite problem. The houses are of five and six rooms and the buyers have 20 years to pay for them."

Cites Task for Health Week

WASHINGTON—Negro Health Week slated for April 4 to 11 can be used as a springboard to popularize and force action by the congress on the hard hitting Report of the President's Committee on Equal Rights.

That Report entitled to Secure These Rights, has a section which shows clearly the reason for the disproportionately high death rate among the Negro people, the shorter life expectancy, more than 10 years less that that of whites, the appallingly high infant mortality. The Report offers a remedy, too, for these as well as for other inequities afflicting the Negro people. On the question of health, it proposes, in part:

"The enactment by the States of fair health practice statutes forbidding discrimination and segregation based on race, creed, or color, or national origin, in the operation of public or private health facilities. Fair health practice statutes, following the pattern of fair employment practice laws, seem desirable to the committee. They should cover such matters a the training of doctors and nurses, the admission of patients to clinics, hospitals and other similar institutions, and the right of doctors and nurses to practice in hospitals."

The Report elaborates on the inequalities of professional medical training and the lack of facilities for improved health conditions resulting from discrimination and segregation.

Six sessions of a volunteer training and recruitment program were held at Hacienda Village, 1515 East 105th street, where such topics as "Understanding the Child in the Group," and "Finding Things to Do In Our Community" were discussed, and a group of experts taught various arts and crafts, dramatics, and singing.

The first indication of domestic happiness is the love of one's home.—Montlosier.

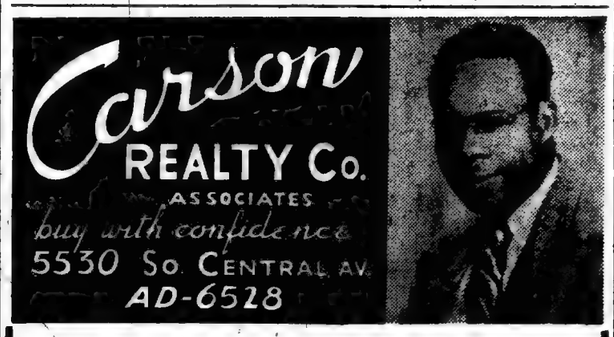
Review Verdict In 'Riot' Case

WASHINGTON—Culminating their long battle to defend the victims of the Columbia, Tenn., riot frameup, NAACP attorneys this week filed a petition for certiorari and breif support thereof in behalf of Lloyd Kennedy with the clerk of the U. S. supreme court.

On Feb. 25, 1946 a World War II veteran struck a white Columbia store proprietor who had slapped his mother. Subsequently, State Highway patrolmen, and state militia men terrorized the Negro community, mauling, beating and shooting citizens and wrecking their homes and business establishments. During the fray, a white patrolmen received a minor injury of the thigh resulting from a pellet from a shotgun.

William Pillow and Lloyd Kennedy were indicted for assault and battery with intent to commit murder in the first degree. Tried in the circuit court of Maury county, Pillow was acquitted, but Kennedy was convicted and sentenced to five years in the state penitentiary.

The conviction was subsequently confirmed by the state supreme court.



In the present petition to the U. S. supreme court, the NAACP attorneys point out that Kennedy had been denied his constitutional rights in that Negroes had been systematically excluded from the juries indicting and convicting him.

They point out further that over 200 white and Negro residents from all walks of life in Maury county had testified at the trial that for more than 50 years no Negro had ever served on a grand or petit jury in the county.

State Solon to Run for House

Assemblyman Ralph C. Dills, Compton attorney and teacher this week announced his candidacy for congressman in the 18th district.

Commenting on his decision to enter the race for congress, Dills stated in part: "Friends of good government throughout our congressional district believe my training and experience qualify me to render even greater service as your congressman. In response to their urging, I shall file for congress in the June Primary."

MANIFEST DESTINY

So many of us feel that in this world of confusion and futility, there isn't any place for us. Yet there hasn't been a person born who was not endowed with a manifest destiny.

It is not necessary to be one of the great persons that inhabit our universe, for there are great ones of this world of whom but a handful have ever heard.

Your calling can easily be determined by your own promptings and certain "hunches" of the mind. For they trend todirect you on your way. You shape your course by the measuring of your circumstances and their character.

Why not let Prof. Herman help you in determining your destiny through his astrological efforts? Send for your 1948 Horoscope today.

M.T. — Dear Prof. Herman, I have received the wonderful book With God All Things are Possible. What must I say to express my sincere thanks and appreciation, for this wonderful piece of literature? It has made my pathway brighter and life has has taken on new hope since reading it. Thanks again for recommending it to me.

PAL—I would be only too glad to help you if you will write in for a private reply. There is no reason for you to be lonely and unhappy, when help is just a matter of writing to someone that is anxious to help you.

C.E.T. — What should I do concerning my problem?

ANS.—After giving your question careful thought and consideration I am of the opinion that you should make some changes, and soon. It seems to me that 5 years is long enough to give him to make up his mind whether he wants to get married or not, to say nothing of his living in your home. A little more firmness on your part may help bring this situation to a head.

Mrs. M.P.F. — What is best for me to do?

ANS.—Probing into the matter I find that you have been taking a course in Cosmetology, but haven't been successful with it. My suggestion to you would be to attend night school and finish your high school work. You will find that this will help you with this course you are taking.

R. C. J.—For what or whom is the Izaak Walton League named, and why?

ANS.—It is named for Izaak Walton, 1593-1683, who wrote The Complete Angler, a book on the art and philosophy of angling. The Izaak Walton League is avowedly for sporting and game protective purposes.

D.B.—Does he love me?

ANS.—Your Lucky Stars and Guiding Planet indicate many things, one of which is the love this young man has for you. Dismiss any doubts you may have regarding this association and look forward to a successful and happy future.

Executed Vet Protested Innocence

SALEM, Oregon — Wardell H. Henderson, young World War II veteran, was executed in Oregon state prison gas chamber last week with the parting words on his lips: "I've never in my life killed a man. I've had a raw deal."

Henderson spent three years overseas during the war. He was accused of the murder of Walter Poole, white Vanport butcher, on Christmas Eve, 1945. A motion for a new trial was denied and he was senteneed to execution in the gas chamber.

Hilmer A. Welin, foreman of the jury that heard the case, declared in an affidavit:

"I sincerely believe that if Wardell Henderson had been a white person, the jury would not have voted for the gas chamber."

Welin further testified one of his fellow jurors had said during the trial "an example must be made of a Negro because they are a menace and must be put in their place or they would overrun us."

Despite Welin's testimony, Gov. John Hall refused to intervene to save the young war vet from the gas chamber.

FINALLY SEE LIGHT CITY EDUCATORS — JUVENILE DELINQUENCY PREP SPORTS FIGHT

Los Angeles high school sports received a shot in the arm last week when the first City High School Basketball Tournament was run off at the Olympic Auditorium. The tournament which was won by Venice High school's blue chip playing Gondoliers, has opened up a new era in local prep athletics.

L. A. Prep Sports Stagnant

For the last eight or nine years, it has been evident that local high school athletics have been lagging far behind the prep sports in the rest of the nation. Previous to 1940, Los Angeles could boast (with the exception of metropolitan Cleveland, Ohio) the strongest high school teams in the country. For many years, the city schools track and field records stood head and shoulders above anything in the nation. For a long period, some of the best football players, swimmers, baseball stars, and tennis players could be found in the Los Angeles high schools.

But during the war, prep sports in Los Angeles went downhill like a ton of bricks. The Los Angeles Board of Education refused to pay prep coaches for the extra time they spent in coaching athletic teams. Schools were prohibited from playing in post-season games and invitational meets.

The local board of education may excuse this by saying that it was a wartime measure brought on by the shortages of transportation, but it seems peculiar that while Los Angeles high school athletes were not allowed to travel to contests, other high schools all over the country still maintained regular schedules. The Board of Education cannot alibi for its lack of paying the coaches of the athletic teams, however.

Board of Education Wakes Up

Last summer when the Board of Education permitted the city track and field championship to be held in conjunction with the Coliseum Relays under the arcs at the L. A. Coliseum combined with the city C. I. F. grid playoff last fall, and the city high school basketball playoffs last week, makes it appear that at last the good educators of our fair city are waking up to the fact that education does not only include the mastering of Geometry, History and English, but physical development as well. True, last year's C. I. F. city football playoff pitted the third place C. I. F. team Cathedral against the City's number one team, Washington; but next year, plans are being made to have the two top teams in each league square off for the championship of all Southern California. At last the educators have started paying high school coaches for the extra time spent in training future leaders of the country. It still isn't very much, but it is a step in the right direction. Also baseball, which was played by only seven schools in 1942, is now being played by 28 of the 35 city high schools, and plans are being made for its installment at the remaining seven. Also, the annual Dorsey Invitational Baseball Tournament, which started several years ago as a minor affair, has reached the proportions of a city championship affair.

More of the Same

Yes, it looks as though the Los Angeles City Schools will again regain the status they once held a decade ago. The above mentioned movements are excellent, but I'm calling for more than this! Why not do as other states do—have a state play-off in each sport with representatives from each city? There was a time when this was done in track and field in California, but about 1940, the local schools were prohibited from taking part in the meet. Why not secure more assistant coaches and pay the ones now used by the different schools more so that more boys may receive attention and better instruction in the basic fundamentals of sports?

I'm saying that this program of emphasis on high school sports should be inaugurated immediately. It's a common fact that when you take a boy and teach him how to play good, clean, hard, fair sports, you'll have a boy that won't be appearing in any juvenile court, and a boy that will go on to be a first rate citizen in the future.

'Leroy King' Wins 7th Bronze Derby

By GEORGE RAMSEY

CALIENTE, Old Mexico — A chilly day greeted visiting patrons of the annual Bronze Derby last Sunday afternoon at this track. However, about 5000 fans turned out for the event and witnessed some fine riding. Winner of the race, which was over the distance of one and one-sixteenth miles, was "Leroy" King" with Jockey Edgar O. Johnson in the saddle. The victor paid $10.40, $6.00 and $5.60 across the board and was crowned with the flowered horseshoe by Marian Bruce, charming CBS radio singing star, who is currently appearing at the Le Papillion in Hollywood.

The favorite, "Allied Command," ran fourth with "Diamond Color" and "Anton" running second and third, respectively. "Diamond Color" paid $35 to place and "Anton," $6.60 to show. At the break "Diamond Color" took the lead followed closely by "Anton" and "Leroy King." They raced in this manner until turning into the stretch where Johnson pushed "Leroy King" into the lead and flashed under the wire by two and one-half lengths.

A banquet was held at the Kentucky Cafe in Tijuana after the races and was attended by the participating jockeys, celebrities of the track and visiting honorary guests. General Manager Walter C. Marty came in for his share of praise for sponsoring the Bronze Derby and Al Ramsey, brother of this writer, did a fine job emceeing.

Other races found the good handicap horse "Pere Fly" breaking his leg in the tenth race necessitating his destruction. The daily double paid $29.20 when "Native Prince" won the second and "Desert Pal" the third. "Safety Bolt" and "Beepoo" was the winning combination in the Quinella, which paid $25.20 for two.

This Sunday, Manager Marty offers three feature events on the 11-race program. They are the "Club Royal" at six furlongs, "Be Frank" at one mile and an eighth, and the top feature, the "Sasin" at six furlongs. These races are all named for great handicap horses who raced at the border course some years ago.

McKinley Beaten Twice Down Under

MELBOURNE, Australia—The track world was sent spinning this week by the triple defeat of the long striding Jamaican sprinter, Herb McKinley, who holds a claim on the world's 440-yard record, by two virtually unknown Australian lads here this week.

Last week end, McKinley was beaten by John Bartram, a student at the University of Sidney, in a 48.7 440, and finished third behind Bartram and John Trebar, a 20-year-old Sidney university student, in a 9.8 hundred-yard dash.

To top this, Monday afternoon McKenly finished third behind Trebar and Bartram, as Trebar set a new Australian 220-yard dash record of 20.9 seconds.

McKinley, former University of Illinois sprinter who will represent Great Britain in the Olympics, has recorded much better times than those by which he was beaten. On June 10, 1947, at Berkeley in the Big Ten-Pacific Coast Conference dual track meet, McKenley raced to a new world's 440-yard dash record in the time of 46.3 seconds. The time was approved by the International Olympic Committee last winter. The long-legged Jamaican, called by many the greatest natural runner since Jessie Owens, has been clocked in a 20.4 220, which is one-tenth of a second off Owen's record of 20.3.

Barksdale Better Than Faulkes: Minor

Dave Minor, All-American candidate guard on the UCLA basketball team, speaking with radio commentator Ted Benttly on station KECA last week, rated Don Barksdale, former UCLA all-American and currently star center for the Oakland Bittners of the AAU, a better player that the Philadelphia pro basketball team's Joe Faulkes, called by many as the finest player in American basketball circles.

Army Man On Local Visit

Charlie Branch, of Chicago, is at present visiting at 1144 East 47th place, Los Angeles.

Mr. Branch joined the United States army July 24, 1942, and was engaged in training animals. He will leave for Kentucky April 1 to train horses.

Delegates Return

Accompanied by James P. Perry Jr., 12th Dist., Rep. Lambda Chapter delegates, Charles W. Thrash, basileus, and eLslie C. Browne, keeper of records, returned this week from Detroit, Michigan, scene of the Omega's 34th rGand Conclave.

According to the L.A. delegates, the hospitality of Detroit was second to none.

Film Crew on Long Trek

Universal - International is equipping a camera crew to go to Indo-China and French Morocco and film backgrounds for "Rogues' Regiment," Robert Buckner story of the modern French Foreign Legion.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Fifteen members of Howard university swimming team departed for Montreal, Canada, Thursday to compete in a swimming meet with McGill University on Saturday. The dual meet will mark the establishment of athletic relations between Howard University and Canadian schools.

Cuban Welter Challenger Impresses

NEW YORK—Gerado Gavilan, smooth, chocolate-hued welterweight from Cuba, was this week being heralded as a contender for Ray (Sugar) Robinson's world welterweight crown.

Gavilan, described as being a larger modern edition of the great old Cuban fighter, "Kid Chocolate," claims as a contender for the Sugar's title stems from his easy and impressive victory over the highly touted Joe Cucio of New Jersey last Friday night at the St. Nicholas Arena here. The Cuba Flyer won a T. K. O. over the Jersey lad in the second round after he had floored him in the first round and cut his eye so badly that the fight had to be called.

It is predicted that, if Gavilan improves in the fashion he has, he will merit a crack at the welterweight title now resting securely in the hands of Ray Robinson.

Sport News Briefs

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Howard university, snapping back from its defeat by Virginia Union, topped Morgan in a strong closing rally, 45-32, last week, before an estimated 1800 fans in Turner's Arena.

The Bisons, chalking up their fourth conference win in five starts, took the lead from the open whistle, but it was only in the final five minutes when they were able to pull away from coach Marse Hill's charges and ice the contest. The tilt, erratically played by both teams, was knotted four times before the Howard quintet, sparked by Ernie Davis, 5 feet 7 inch forward from East Orange, N.J., and Frank Booth, who tallied 12 points to take scoring honors for the Hilltopper, could build up a safe margin and pull away.

HAMPTON DOWNS LINCOLN IN FINAL SECOND

LINCOLN, Pa. — Forward Bill Smith's 35 foot field goal in the last second of play, gave the Hampton Pirates a 58-56 upset victory over the strong Lincoln University basketball team here Thursday night before a capacity crowd in the school gym. Lincoln's much heralded, and much publicized Zone defense, kept off the racehorse Pirates for the majority of the game, but with 5 minutes remaining in the contest and Hampton trailing by 16 points, the Virginia lads put on one of the most brilliant performances seen in collegiate basketball circles, to win in a Frank Merriwell finish. Lincoln led 30-11 at halftime.

Globetrotters--Royals Featured in Shrine Doubleheader

Basketball history will be made here Monday night (Feb. 2) at Shrine Auditorium, when a huge doubleheader will feature the celebrated Harlem Globetrotters, No. 1 quintet of the sport, and three other great teams in the All-Hawaii Stars from the Hawaiian Islands, New York Celtics and Kansas City Stars. Augmented by several additional features, the gala program will get under way at 8 p. m. with the K. C. Stars taking on the N. Y. Celtics in the first game. The second tilt will pair the thrilling Globetrotters and colorful Hawaiian quintet.

In between halves of the first game, the famed table tennis duo of Doug Cartland and Harry Cook will be presented in a fast exhibition. The outstanding entertainers of the Hawaiian Islands, including renowned Renny Brooks, other singers, and four champion hula dancers, accompanying the Hawaiian team on their tour of the mainland under the auspices of the Hawaii Visitors Bureau, will put on a floor show between halves of the second tilt.

The Globetrotters' hilarious comedy warmup, not to mention their numerous antics and stunts during the game, will add further to the festivities.

All that easily adds up to a history-breaking basketball show, but assuring such being the case is the presence of the Globetrotters heading the card. Every time this wonder Negro aggregation wins a game, shoots a basket, or free throw, or even commits a foul, it establishes a new record. This is their twenty-first consecutive season of play and they entered the current campaign with a total of 2,885 victories against 225 defeats. They also have won their first 78 games of this season in succession.

It's the greatest squad in Harlem Globetrotter history and boasts such casaba artists as fabulous Reece ("Goose") Tatum, Louis ("Babe") Pressley, Ted Strong, Ermer Robinson, Marques Haynes, Donald ("Ducky") Moore, Sam Gee and Vertes Ziegler. Abe Saperstein still presides over the clown princes of cagedom as owner, founder and coach.

The Hawaiians are coming over a stronger aggregation than last season's which toured the mainland and made a big hit, the New York Celtics again have taken their places as one of the most powerful and talented of the touring clubs, and the Kansas City Stars, paced by one-armed wonder Boid Buie, are again rated right behind the Globetrotters.

Sweetheart Swing

The annual Sweetheart Swing affair of the Luanan, a South Side Center "Y" club will be held February 14, 8:30 to 12:30, featuring Joe May's orchestra, at the Danish Auditorium, 1359 W. 24th st., $2 per couple, tax included. Tickets may be obtained at the South Side Center "Y," 2100 W. 54th st., Downtown "Y," 941 S. Figueroa st., or upon entrance to the dance.

Dons Sign Ace Wichita Back

Linwood Sexton, star Negro halfback from the University of Wichita, and Bernie Winkler, All-Border Conference tackle from Texas Tech, have signed 1948 contracts with the Los Angeles Dons, general manager Harry Thayer announced yesterday.

The 180-pound Sexton, All-Missouri Valley halfback the past three seasons, was high on the Dons' draft list. The 22 year old Negro averaged 7.63 yards in 92 rushes last season to end up third in the nation. Sexton led Missouri Valley groundgainers in 1945 with a 5.89 average good for seventh in the national standings. In 1946 he averaged 4.34 yards on 135 carries.

Last season Sexton was voted the squad's most valuable player. Kansas State sprint champion in the 100 and 220 while in high school, Sexton continued his track activities at Wichita and diso played basketball for the Shockers.

Winkler is a 22 year old, 232-pound youngster who was tabbed by ex-Don coach Johnnie Baker, now at Denver university, as definite All-Pro material. Winkler was All-Border Conference the past two seasons and received honorable All-American mention in 1947. He was selected on the all-opponent teams of Rice, Denver, Arizona, and Hardin-Simmons.

Winkler is a navy air corps veteran and played seervice football at Millsaps college and North Carolina Pre-Flight. During his college career he had the distinction of scoring three touchdowns and blocking two punts for safeties to lead the nation's tackles in scoring. In the 1948 Sun Bowl game he scored his team's second touchdown by breaking through the Miami line, intercepting a pass, and running 30 yards.

Bama State Downs Fisk, 51-37

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—Alabama State Teachers college humbled Fisk University 51-37 on the latter's court last weekend.

Paced by Bill Hollis, the Alabama sharpster who accounted for 19 points, the visitors claimed an easy victory. They picked up an early lead and held a 21-15 half time lead.

Harry Blake from Mt. Vernon, Ohio, was high point man for Fisk with 8 tallies to his credit.

On January 31 Fisk cagers will play host to Clark College of Atlanta, Ga., and to Fort Valley State Teachers College of Fort Valley, Ga., on February 2.

Anglers Register For Crowley Lake

Fishermen who want to make application to rent city-owned boats at Crowley Lake for the opening of the fishing season on May 1 will be able to do so beginning Monday, March 15, at 8 a.m., the Los Angeles City Recreation and Park Department announced today.

Following the same procedure as last year, the Department will take reservations from applicants on a first-come-first-served basis for boats to be used during the opening days of the season—that is any day from May to 9, inclusive.

To give everyone an even break, all applications must be made in person for that period, and no phone or mail reservations will be accepted.

Mail applications accompanied by a check will, however, be accepted for the rental of boats from May 10 on.

Reservation office of the Recreation and Park Department will be located beginning March 15 at Room 225 Los Angeles City Hall.

Swim Pool Slated for South Park

In answer to his request for increased recreational facilities for his district, Councilman Kenneth Hahn this week had been informed by the Department of Recreation and Parks that several improvements were planned in his district.

In a letter signed by George Hjelte, general manager of the department, Hahn was advised that a project to construct a swimming pool at South Park and to enlarge South Park's playground was now in the early stages of planning.

"Some improvement to the Compton playground at 53rd and Compton is also indicated but is not a matter of early priority," Hjelte wrote.

No early provision for a playground in the heavily congested district around Vernon and Central avenues is contemplated, however, on account of the impossibility of finding vacant land large enough for the project, Hjelte said. It will be necessary to condemn improved property to make way for a playground, he said, and in view of the housing shortage "this project will not be pushed immediately."

The same situation applies to the district generally in the vicinity of Hoover st., he said. The department, however, has definite plans for a playground in the Green Meadows or south of Manchester, and several locations are currently under consideration.

Culbertson in Upset Victory

"Baby Dutch" Culbertson stepped into the charmed circle of "main eventers" Friday night at the Hollywood Legion Stadium, when he won a surprise upset 10-round decision from the veteran Francisco De La Cruz.

The tall handsome lad from the east side proved that he is definitely on the road up, and that he now belongs in the class with the top "heavies" of the country, by easily and very decisively outpointing the huge Mexican fighter in every department of the game.

Culbertson, who was outweighed 50 pounds by De La Cruz, was only in trouble in the third round, when the bigger man caught him flush on the chin with a long looping right hand. "Baby Dutch" came back, however, to batter De La Cruz around for the rest of the fight, almost putting him to sleep in the ninth.

Williams Stops Dawson Again

PHILADELPHIA—Ike Williams, lightweight champion of the world, put the stops on Freddy Dawson for the third time here Monday night, when the hard-punching Gary lad won a split decision in the 10-round bout.

Williams, not showing his usual "Sunday punching" brilliance, was never in trouble, however. It marked the second time in two years that Williams had beaten the rugged Dawson, and the third time in 4 years. In their first meeting Williams KO'ed Dawson, and in the last two bouts, he won a decision.

Adversity is sometimes hard upon a man: but for one man who can stand prosperity, there are a hundred that will stand adversity.—Carlyle.

By EDDIE BURBRIDGE

GRAND EVENT—The annual Bronze Derby held at Caliente in Old Mexico last Sunday was quite up to par and well enjoyed by all who attended. AL RAMSEY, brother of GEORGE RAMSEY, the host and Turf Editor of the California EAGLE, alternated with his brother in emceeing at the banquet held at the Kentucky Cafe in Tijuana after the races.

MARIAN BRUCE, lovely CBS radio star, who crowned "Leroy King" the winner, was unable to be present at the feast because of a singing engagement in Hollywood. However, Yours Truly, in the role of honored guest, CYRIL V. BRIGGS, managing editor of the EAGLE, MR. and MRS. AL EVANS JR., Attorney WALTER L. GORDON JR., FREDDIE GILES, EARL CARTER, ELLIS SPEARS, LOUIS SPEARS, MR. and MRS. HOUSTON FARRELL and son, EDWIN, VERNA JEAN BELL, "BROTHER" HEWLETT, MACEO SHEFFIELD, all jockeys who rode in the derby and many others were present at the lavish spread. Seen attending the derby were LEON H. WASHINGTON, "COOKIE" COOK and others too numerous to mention. Diamond Color was the second place horse and paid $35 to place. The winner rewarded backers $10.40. Anton was third and paid $6.60 to show.

COMING UP — The "Look" magazine Achievement Awards will be presented to the nine top performers in the motion picture industry during 1947 on the evening of Feb. 3 during the BOB HOPE radio broadcast at the El Capitan theatre on Vine street. HARRY CROCKER, Hearst movie columnist, will handle the mike in front of the theatre and introduce the many stars attending the event. Bleacher seats will be built in front of the theatre to accommodate thousands of fans. EDDIE (MR. CLEANHEAD) VINSON, blues singer, is currently playing the Adams theatre in Newark, N. J. Vinson shares the spotlight with THE RAVENS, singing sensations of 1947.

"ANNA LUCASTA," stage hit, due back on the Pacific Coast in the near future. . . . SHORT SHOTS—That wild tenor saxman, ARNETT COBB, is undergoing treatments for a back injury. . . . "The Little Foxes," a three-act play, opens tonight (Thursday) in San Francisco. It is being presented by the California Labor School and is the second production by the New Group Theatre. . . . DINAH WASHINGTON is currently on tour with COOTIE WILLIAMS and his newly-organized sextet. The double attraction did good box-office biz in Toledo last week. . . . "Robbins' Nest" was one of the riff specials done by ELLA FITZGERALD when she and ILLINOIS JACQUET, brilliant tenor saxman, wowed swing fans at a successful concert at Carnegie Hall recently. The hall was sold out three days in advance for the occasion.

LOUIS ARMSTRONG opened at the Roxy theatre in N.Y. yesterday (Wednesday). Feb. 18 he will fly to Nice, France, for a Jazz Festival via Air France. . . . LIONEL HAMPTON and bandmen now playing the Broadway Strand in the "Big City." . . . BILLIE HOLLIDAY is reported in fine health again and will be released early in March. . . . CARLTON MOSS is back in N.Y. on the stem writing the life story of LENA HORNE. . . . Our friend HERB JEFFRIES caused a little swooning among the femmes at the Club Ebony in N.Y. recently. . . . HELEN HUMES, songbird, now singing at the Cafe Society (New York City).

CALVIN MITCHELL writes to tell us that the Thespians, one of the foremost little theatre groups in L.A., were recent visitors to the Belasco theatre, where they viewed the stage play "Deep Are the Roots," currently playing. Included in the party were FRANK G. GREENWOOD, the group's director; DORIS HANKERSON, secretary; IRWIN MOSLEY, BETTY JO MILLS, FRANK COBB and LEVI HOWARD. After the play the group went backstage where they met JAMES EDWARDS, who plays "Brett" in the production. According to Mitchell, who is the publicity manager of the Thespians, the group will present "Cafe Panorama" about mid-February. . . . JOE ALEXANDER is now featured on his own radio show over KFMB in San Diego seven days a week. The Capitol recording singing star uses a small instrumental combo on this show and may get on a network soon.

NAT (KING) COLE will be married to MARIE ELLINGTON on March 21. He is currently at the Apollo theatre in N.Y. . . . NELLIE LUTCHER is making her second appearance in two months at the Tiajuana Club in Cleveland. . . . JENI LE GON will be featured with JUDY GARLAND in a forthcoming MGM flicker titled "Easter Parade," a Technicolor production.

BILLY KENNY of the Ink Spots lost a diamond stickpin in New York and is offering a reward of $500 for its return. . . . ERSKINE HAWKINS will develop entertainment units within his band, saying that this move has become imperative because of the new emphasis being put on the concert presentation of artists in the music field. . . . ETHEL WATERS, currently getting raves for her stellar rendition of songs at the Last Word Cafe, has just been signed for her initial concert tour. She will be supported by the famous HALL JOHNSON Singers and the group will appear in concert in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Alabama, Tennessee, Missouri and Virginia. The management of the Last Word Cafe is well pleased with the box-office appeal of Miss Waters at the Last Word.

The Club Shangri-La is fast becoming a rendezvous of entertainment seekers on the eastside. The entertainment is good and so is the music of EL HERBERT and his band. . . . COUNT BASIE and band play the Regal theatre in the Windy City during the week of Feb. 6. . . . BUDDY JOHNSON starts a long tour by opening at the Armory in Logan, W. Va., Saturday, Jan. 31. Vocalists ELLA JOHNSON and ARTHUR PRYSOCK are with the band.

A BIT ADDED — Members of the EL HERBERT band now playing at the Club Shangri-La are: JAY HEW DONALDSON, "Master of drums and king of spoons"; JOHNNY RANDOLPH, tenor; WILLIAM GREEN, alto; ERNIE FREEMAN, pianist and arranger; NAT BOGAN, bass, and EL HERBERT, trumpet. All know their instruments.

GOSSIP ADDITION — Wonder where MARTHA O'BRIEN, exotic dancer, is working since leaving the Shangri-La? . . . My undercover man informs me that LEONARD McCLAIN, who comanages Darnell Carter with Buddy Garcia, is working on a new deal in the fight biz with L. B. Henry, ex-Detroiter and sportsman, who numbers two Golden Glove champs from the east among his friends.

Stars Will Attend Brilliant Affair

If current plans materialize, a portion of the third annual Motion Picture Unity Awards program will be broadcast over a nationwide radio hookup from the Second Baptist church on Sunday afternoon, February 22, according to Leon H. Hardwick, chairman of the Interracial Unity Awards Committee, sponsors of the event.

"Through the efforts of Actor-singer Caleb Peterson, we're getting excellent support from top ranking officials of one of the major national networks," said Hardwick this week. "The 1948 Unity Awards affair will top all our previous ones, if initial response from studios and film stars is any criterion. Among the latest who have given us their okay and who definitely will be present in person to accept their awards are Anthony Quinn, star of Monogram's 'Black Gold' and Anne Revere, who was featured in 20th's 'Gentleman's Agreement.' Gregory Peck, Bob Mitchum, Bob Ryan and others will be present if picture work doesn't interefere."

Sponsors of the Feb. 22 affair point out that such Unity programs are deemed necessary, especially in these critical times, as one means of encouraging those who promote better race relations via the media of films and radio.

War Perkins Wins Suit Over Milton

A suit filed by Roy Milton and orchestra, through Pollock & Pollock, sought to enjoin and prevent War Perkins and William O. Reed, doing business as Day Distributing company and California Pressing company, from distributing and selling records "My Blue Heaven," "Jumping at the Woodside" and "One o'Clock Jump," as recorded by Roy Milton. Roy Milton had contended that War Perkins was selling and distributing those musical numbers without permission or authorization and without Roy Milton's knowledge.

Perkins' defense, presented by Attys. H. Sinclair and Loren Miller, was that the distribution and selling of those records was in pursuance of a valid personal agreement between Roy Milton and War Perkins.

Superior Judge Hason, presiding, upheld Attorney Sinclair's argument in denying Roy Milton's suit for preliminary injunction and ruled that the agreement between the parties was upon its face, valid, and that Perkins has sole right to continue marketing, distributing and selling the musical numbers "My Blue Heaven," "Jumping at the Woodside" and "One o'Clock Jump."

Club Ebony Negro-Owned Nitery On Broadway Is Termed Success

By FLOYD SNELSON

NEW YORK—The all-sepia Club Ebony on Broadway, is soaring to new heights of fame and fortune as Broadway critics and nightlife wiseacres continue to rave. Robert Dana, N. Y. World-Telegram, says, "Club Ebony new hot spot sizzles Broadway."

Milton Berle, ace stage and radio star has this to say: "It's great! It's sensational! It brings me back to old Cotton Club days."

Club Ebony is indeed a remarkable achievement, made possible by a group of progressive young business men, the first Negroes ever to attempt such a vast undertaking. Despite all adverse predictions, untold difficulties and discouraging odds against them, they have established themselves as a sound business institution.

Dun & Bradstreet, Wall Street inancial authority, gives Club Ebony a double AA classification, the first time given any night club venture of this kind. The owners, Allen Martin, Mable Levy and Al Douglas, have proved their ability to pay and secure credit; this has been established throughout the financial district of greater New York.

Club Ebony weekly payroll exceeds $10,000 and more than $50,000 was poured into its coffers before the doors were opened.

The entire staff consisting of both colored and white employers have united in a pact which is a melting pot of good will and true democracy. At no time is racial discrimination, segregation or friction evidenced or tolerated even among its patrons, that include the upper-crust of New York's smart eastside set, to the lowly spinster of Harlem.

It is indeed a revelation to find that such a high standard has been accomplished by members of our race in this well known realm of the amusement world. From all indications Club Ebony is destined to great and greater triumphs in breaking down racial barriers, and will obviously surpass all expectations.

The owners and managers of other long established New York night spots have flocked to Club Ebony, determined to ascertain just what it is that makes Club Ebony a decided hit—what makes it click? Among those who came and saw were: Monte Prosser of the famous Copacabanna; Max Gordon, Blue Angel; L. Allman of the Onyx; I. Alexander of The Three Deuces; Tony of the Downbeat and many others.

Hundreds of Eastsiders Enjoy Area's First Community Sing

Before more than 600 persons from the Eastside, J. Earl Hines and Mrs. Hattie McDaniels played major parts in getting the area's first Community Sing started Monday evening, January 26, at Lafayette Junior High school auditorium.

This venture was the first of a series of Monday night community sings slated for Lafayette school and was introduced by J. Arthur Lewis, of the Los Angeles City Bureau of Music. He told how the bureau is sponsoring such activities in various parts of the city and how his office feels that "a family that sings together, clings together."

The idea of the sing is to get families to come together and sing the songs they whistle and hum in their everyday life. The families came Monday night and they sang songs ranging from "Row, Row, Row Your Boat" to "America, the Beautiful." They were led in this group singing by J. Earl Hines, nationally-known singer who is at present lending his talents to the local community.

Interspersed throughout the program were special numbers presented by persons secured by Mrs. Emily Rutledge, program chairman for the sing. The crowd vigorously applauded 5 year old Linda Mendoza as, clad in a hula skirt, she sang and danced. Melva Collins, soprano soloist, offered a number and her applause was continued as Crawford Brown sang "Route 66." Little Alice Roberson thrilled the audience as she went into some difficult tap dance routines while Daniel Fernandez, of Cathedral High school, offered one of Chopin's works in a piano solo. It remained for Hattie McDaniels, star of the "Beulah" show, to add the Hollywood touch as she read excerpts from one of her broadcasts.

Further community support was assured for this venture when Toussaint Jennings, of the 28th St. YMCA's Wisemen's Club, stated that his group would sponsor the succeeding Community Sings.

A significant feature of the evening's activity was the appearance of a "Greeter's Committee." This group was composed at Latin American, Negro and Anglo persons who stood at the auditorium entrance and welcomed the hundreds who flocked t othis—the city's newest activity of this kind.

THE DONOHOO Players will be presented in their first play on Monday night at the Beaux Art Theatre. All amateurs, they say they have a wonderful future ahead. Star of the play is lovely Rose Marie Schomberg.

Hold That Tiger

A near serious accident occurred for a scene on a location site of "Man-Eaters of Kumaon" when a tiger overshot its mark while making a leap.

The animal, jumping at a player who, of course, was supposed to dodge and escape, went beyond its mark and tumbled over a fifteen foot cliff. No damage was done, but a lot of roars filled the air of the countryside.

Important Role For Fred Clark In New Flicker

Fred Clark, Negro butler of the Humphrey Bogarts', has been signed by Nunnally Johnson to play the important role of Basil, the houseman, in U-I's William Powell-Ann Blyth starrer, "Mr. Peabody and the Mermaid."

It was announced that the largest crew of special effects men ever assigned to a single film job is now building an underwater mermaid castle for the picture in Weekiwachee Spring, Fla.

Johnny Mercer and Robert Emmett Dolan have written a benguine number, "Caribees", for "Mrs. Peabody and the Mermaid" and Andrea King will sing it.

CALYPSO KING—Wilmouth Houdini, author of "Stone Cold Dead in the Market," will top the cast in a Calypso Carnival Friday night in New York City.

Janet Leigh is going to show San Francisco teen-agers how to wear the New Look.

THE DISC
By I. Spinum

NEW YORK—Sarah Vaughn, who will occupy her time during the next couple of weeks by playing a series of concert dates, has come forth with another smash hit in her new Musicraft record of "Trouble Is A Man" and "I Feel So Smoochie," both of which should give still another boost to the skyrocketing stock of "The New Sound."

Winner of all major popularity polls during the past year as the nation's No. 1 girl singer, Sarah was also the biggest selling artist on the Musicraft record label. With such smash hits as "Don't Blame Me," Everything I Have Is Yours," "Ghost Of A Chance" and "Body And Soul," she was credited with a sale of more than three million platters, a tremendous achievement for the young singer, who, only a few short years ago, was playing the organ and singing in the choir at Mount Zion Baptist Church, Newark, N. J.

Johnny Moore's Three Blazers will present a unique "Battle Of The Guitars" when they head out on a nationwide theatre and one-niter tour next month.

The "Battle Of The Guitars" will, of course, involve the brothers Johnny and Oscar Moore, both of whom are rated tops among the pluckers of that stringed instrument. Since Oscar quit the King Cole Trio to join the Blazers a few months ago, a great deal of controversy has arisen over the respective guitar-plucking virtuosity of the two brothers, notwithstanding the fact that Oscar calls Johnny the top man on the guitar, while Johnny insists that Oscar is the greatest.

Rather than try to decide it among themselves, the Moore brothers will battle each other on the guitar on their forthcoming road dates and let their audiences pick the winner.

Freedom Train Boycotted In Oklahoma City

OKLAHOMA CITY—Oklahoma City jimcrow practices clashed with the American democratic ideal as represented in the historic documents carried in the Freedom Train during the latter's visit here w ith a resultant boycott by 100 Negro singers of a local pageant arranged to mark the occasion.

Denouncing the jimcrow ar- auditorium management, Mrs. Darlene Perry McLear, director of the singers group, announced the group's refusal to participate in the pagent.

"They wanted us to sing, but wouldn't let Negroes in the 'melting pot' scene, or in the 'Statutes of Freedom scene," she said.

Auditorium manager Jimmy Burge defended the jimcrow seating arrangement by citing what he called "the policy of this land."

Nelson Wetling, Freedom Train official who arranged the exhibit's schedule, said he would have refused to bring the exhibit to Oklahoma City if he had known of the incident.

An excellent program has been arranged for the occasion. Ceremics will be discussed by Dr. Glen Lukens, and Ralph George with exhibits by four people who got their start at Pilgrim House and are now earning part of their living in cerebics; special music will be furnished by Miss Nita Hibbard, soprano, and the county quarter with Robert Hardon, leader.

"The Work and Future of Pilgrim House" will be the subject of short talks by G. Raymond Booth, Council for Civic Unity; Dale Gardner, Committee on Human Relations; Glen Lukens, ceramics authority; R. Benjamin Potter, chairman Pilgrim House Board; and Harold M. Kingsley, Director, Pilgrim House.

Dr. Louis J. Evans and Mrs. Sumner Spaulding are also expected and the Business and Professional Chapter of the A.V.C. will be special guests. Boy Scouts and pre-school will be featured.

Pilgrim House is at present facing the difficulties of housing. The Japanese Union church which is at present the home of Pilgrim House, will get its building back in 1948, and Pilgrim House is now looking for a new home—probably the Fillpino eCnter on Los Angeles st.

Pilgrim House is the only playground as well as community center for about 5000 people. 150 children a day use their facilities, 400 per week. It is a member of the Community Chest, but also needs about $5000 a year for expansion and supplementation.

ONE-DAY LOBBY SLATED TO URGE ANTI-LYNCH BILL

poll tax measure which passed the House last session.

There are several anti-lynch bills before the committee, including one by Sen. William F. Knowland, California Republican. The Wagner-Morse bill, however, is considered the strongest and most acceptable to the Negro people and their allies.

This bill defines lynching as any violence to person or property by a mob (defined as an assemblage of two or more persons) (a) because of the race, color, religion, creed, national origin, ancestry or language of the victim, or because (b) the victim was suspected, accused, or convicted of a criminal offense.

The victim would not have to die in order to be "lynched" within the meaning of the bill. Any injury is sufficient.

Members of the lynch mob, or any person who aids or incites the mob, are made punishable by a maximum imprisonment of 20 years or a maximum fine of $10,000 or both.

Failure of state officers to protect the victim or to apprehend the lynchers is made punishable by a maximum imprisonment of five years or a maximum fine of $5000, or both.

In addition, every governmental subdivision of the state which wilfully or negligently permits an individual to be seized, abducted and lynched is made liable to the victim, if he lives, for monetary compensation for injury of $2000 to $10,000 or, if he is killed, to his next of kin. These suits would be brought in a federal district court and prosecuted by the attorney general of the United States in behalf of the victim or the victim's next of kin.

The American Jewish Congress and the Japanese American League have joined the NAACP in supporting the Wagner-Morse Bill.

Members of the subcommittee hearing testimony on anti-lynch legislation are: Homer Ferguson (R., Mich.), Chapman Revercomb (R., W. Va.), and James O. Eastland (D., Miss.).

LOCAL GROUPS HIT ARREST OF NEGRO, JEWISH LEADERS

Scheiderman case, fought by the late Wendell Willkie, has rejected the charge that the Communist party stands for 'the overthrow of the government by force and violence.'"

The local office of the International Workers Order, in a statement signed by A. Maymudes, executive secretary, denounced as "disgraceful unconstitutional" the arrest of Bittelman.

"Alexander Bittlman," the statement said, "is known as a man who has made colossal contributions on behalf of the national minorities in this country and for the welfare of the common man. The name of Alexander Bittelman is known from the Atlantic to the Pacific as a brave and courageous fighter for all the persecuted, and especially for those who have suffered from racial hatred, intolerance and bigotry.

"He as a true son and leader of the Jewish people, understood, together with other great men in our country, that anti-Semitism goes hand in hand with anything that is anti-Negro, anti-Mexican and against other minorities and groups which are persecuted by reaction in the United States."

Bittelman, a member of the central committee of the Communist party was arrested on the same charges filed against Miss Jones.

under the bed sheetings when the shooting began.

The preliminary hearings developed that both men were friends. The quarrel between the men, police stated, resulted in a battle between a shotgun and a rifle.

Jackson, the dead man, it appears, had struck Hern over the head with a shotgun during an argument. This incident flamed into a desire of revenge on the part of Hearn.

Police officer Morris Boles, who took Hearn into custody, testified he found the deceased Jackson lying in the cab of a truck four blocks from the scene of the asserted shooting. Blood stains from a head laceration allegedly inflicted by the deceased armed with a shotgun, are said to have led the officer to the defendant.

Attorney Gordon told newsmen following the hearing, he had expected to see his client absolved of responsibility in the death of Jackson at the preliminary hearing. He added, he will continue his defense based on the doctrine of self-defense when the trial is resumed in the superior court.

South Los Angeles Voters Spurn Old Parties; Set Up IPP

Advocating a definite break with the Democratic party as well as the Republicans, a group of South Los Angeles voters organized an Independent Progressive Party club at a meeting Friday night.

Eugene Purnell and Harry Sawyer were elected chairman and secretary, respectively.

Purpose of the club, Purnell stated, is to "build the Independent party as a party of labor and its allies, independent of Democratic or Republican party politicians.

"We urge all South Los Angeles citizens to register in the Independent Progressive party so that they may participate in the primaries in June and nominate independent labor candidates to represent them in the state legislature and in Congress," Purnell said.

establishment of a one-room jim crow law school as ordered by Oklahoma's Board of Regents.

In closed conferences with attorneys from various parts of the country, Thurgood Marshall, NAACP chief counsel, mapped plans this last weekend but did not reveal the NAACP's next move. It is believed, however, that the organization decided to ask the high court to halt further registration at the Oklahoma university law school until the case is settled. Registration opened last Monday.

Ada Lois Sipuel Fisher, central figure in the case, already has filed her application at the State university and returned to her home in Chackacka to await the outcome. She will definitely refuse to report to the "one woman" law school the Board of Regents has set up for her.

Local CIO Voted All-Out Fight on Job Bias in L.A.

An immediate intensification of the CIO's campaign against discrimination and for protection of minority rights was voted this week at a meeting of 100 CIO leaders called by officers and executive board members of the Los Angeles CIO Council.

The following action program, outlined by Council Secretary Phillip M. Connelly, was adopted:

- A survey of CIO shops to determine how effectively CIO's policy of equal job and advancement opportunity is being carried out.
- A series of one-day classes for local union officers and stewards, to instruct them in effective methods of combatting discrimination in the shops as well as in the community.
- Sending of a Council delegate to the National CIO Conference on Civil Rights February 19 and 20 in Cleveland, Ohio.
- A fight to obtain Negro and Mexican representation on Gov. Warren's advisory committee to draft a new constitution, and presentation to the committee of a series of constitutional amendments guaranteeing fundamental rights to minority people.
- Action to force the Bank of America to employ Negro tellers and clerks.
- A CIO-wide drive to enlist members in the NAACP.

A report of the past year's work stressed the part the CIO Council played in the anti-restrictive covenant fight, the campaign against prejudice in the schools and the organization of CIO action committees in assembly and congressional districts with large minority populations.

Reports at the meeting, held last Friday night in the CIO Building with representatives of every CIO union present, indicated that minority workers, had lost ground in the struggle for jobs, job advancement and job training in the postwar period.

Questionnaires will be immediately circulated in each union and shop for the purpose of getting detailed information on the present status of minority employment, department in which minorities are not employed and the extent of opportunity for upgrading and training.

This information will then be used as a basis for CIO's fight to "return the minority worker to the level of wartime opportunity or better."

Director James Burford of the Council's political action department, himself a member of Governor Warren's Advisory Committee on state constitutional revision, pointed out that only one Negro in the entire state had been named by the governor to the committee and no Mexican representation on the committee at all.

Burford proposed the call for a community conference of minority leaders by the CIO Council at which proposals for constitutional amendments for protection of Negro, Mexican and other minority rights can be worked out for presentation to the governor's committee.

Such proposals might include an amendment outlawing restrictive covenants, Burford suggested. Another might write fair employment practices act into the constitution, he said. The meeting voted unanimously to support such a program.

A committee of CIO representatives was authorized to work with a general community committee sponsored by the Los Angeles Negro Congress to visit top officials of the Bank of America and demand immediate change of the bank's policy against employment of negro tellers and clerks.

Negro Congress Heads Protest Delegation to Bank of America

The Los Angeles Branch of the National Negro Congress sponsored a delegation to the Bank of America to protest its racial discrimination in employing accountants and tellers.

Last Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock a delegation visited Personnel Manager Winsor, and inquired about the policy of the bank. Winsor stated plainly that it has been the policy of the Bank of America not to hire any Negro accountants or tellers, although they have received applications from qualified Negroes.

Nevertheless, depositors in the Bank of America at 25th and Central are comprised of about 90 per cent Negro people. The Los Angeles Congress wrote to the bank headquarters in San Francisco, and also to the Los Angeles office on December 7, but have received no reply.

Those in the delegation were: John Forrester, executive secretary of the Los Angeles branch, NNC; Philip Connelly, executive secretary, Los Angeles CIO Council; William Laurance, regional director, International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union; Mr. Axelrod, executive secretary of the Los Angeles Newsboys' Union; and Will ston, of Public Works.

Forrester said the NNC is termined to push this against job discrimination, only in the bank at 25th Central, but also at San and Jefferson, and the Sec bank at Avalon and Vernon

"We urge every organiz and every individual to join us in this fight," said Forr "People who do business these banks should protest, should send a letter of pr to the personnel manager, Winsor, 660 S. Spring st. quarters for the Los An NNC are located at 1051 E. st."

A nationwide committee national leaders has been fo to combat the number of dents in everyday living. movement will be known "The Green Cross for Sa Movement." About 99,000 per were killed in accidents year, one-eleventh of whom Negroes.

President Omits Covenant Ban In Proposals

WASHINGTON—Action to abolish lynching, the polltax and other "invidious forms of discrimination" in this country is necessary to maintain the naton's prestge abroad, President Truman told congress on Monday in sending a 10-point charter of human rights to that body.

A PROGRESSIVE NEWSPAPER FOR PROGRESSIVE PEOPLE

Vol. 68—No. 44 Los Angeles, California, Thursday, February 5, 1948 — 44 — AD. 9770

LOVELY MRS. CARMELTIA H. LOMAX JR., one of principles in sensational divorce case. (Story on page 1.)

On The Sidewalk

By C.A.B.

THE PURPOSE of this column is to make available to readers of The California Eagle information touching on state, national, and foreign affairs, especially as to their bearing on the political and economic welfare of the Negro people.

This week at Columbus, Ohio, Henry A. Wallace, presidential candidate, called upon President Truman and other political candidates to take a pledge to repudiate the support of any un-American group or individual.

After listening to milk and water promises by candidates for office over a period of years, it is to say the least heartening to find among the myriad of office seekers, one man who is not afraid or ashamed to come out in the open and make this sort of statement:—

"I will accept the support of American Communists, because I see nothing criminal in the advocacy of different economic and social ideals."

TO ME, and I believe to most open-minded people, a statement like this means simply that a man like Wallace would gladly sacrifice his chance of winning an office rather than falsify his position on matters so vital to the future security of our people and our nation.

By his every act and utterance, Henry Wallace like other loyal Americans, holds no brief for organizations or individuals who seek to disrupt and eventually destroy our most precious heritage—freedom.

Until the charge that the American Communists advocate the violent overthrow of our government, has been substantiated by one act or even gesture in that direction, I believe that most, truly honest Americans will go along with Henry Wallace and try to destroy the real un-American activities that are as close to us as the noses on our faces.

MR. WALLACE'S straightforward statement evidently made an impression on President Truman, and he has come out in the open on a 10-point "Charter of Human Rights." Somewhat belated, but here they are:

1. Create a civil rights division in the Justice Department and set up a permanent presidential commission on civil rights and a similar House-Senate body.
2. Strengthen existing statutes to asure equal treatment of all residents, whether citizens or not.
3. Provide federal protection against lynching.
4. Abolish poll taxes.
5. Establish a Fair Employment Practices Commission to prevent unfair discrimination in employment.
6. Prohibit discrimination in interstate transportation facilities.
7. Provide suffrage and home-rule for residents of the District of Columbia.
8. Grant statehood for Hawaii and Alaska, and greater self-government for Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.
9. Give "qualified legal residents" equal opportunities to obtain citizenship.
10. Settle promptly the claims of Japanese-Americans growing out of their wartime evacuation from the West Coast.

ADDED to these recommendations, Mr. Truman has instructed Defense Secretary James Forrestal to eliminate the remaining instances of discrimination in the armed forces and all other departments of government.

President Truman followed Franklin D. Roosevelt in office. If he had initiated this 10-point, Roosevelt-like program he now advocates, when he was first called to the presidency, perhaps we would now be on our way toward that ideal government that such a program will produce.

But this belated act on the part of our President makes us feel that his interest in getting votes is greater than his determination to eradicate reaction, hate, racial bias, and all the evils that keep us from achieving the one world for one people that Henry Wallace has always advocated.

Henry Wallace Dares Rivals to Reject Backing of Hate Peddlars

COLUMBUS, Ohio—Presidential candidate Henry A. Wallace, who blasted the myth of race superiority and defied jimcrow practices in his recent tour of the South, this week took a crack at another bulwark of reaction—red-baiting.

Declining to reject the support of Communists who are willing to support the Wallace platform, the former vice-president challenged Truman and "other political candidates for public office" to sign a pledge refusing support from groups "which would resist the civil liberties of others for reason of race, color or creed."

Wallace, who is scheduled to speak in Harlem on Feb. 15, declared that he has seen no evidence to substantiate the charge most frequently made against the Communists that they advocate overthrow of the government.

"I have not seen evidence to substantiate the charge, and I do find a supreme court decision that this conclusion is unwarranted," the third party candidate said.

In his Harlem appearance, Wallace will speak at the Golden Gate ballroom under the auspices of the Harlem Wallace for President Committee.

The pledge proposed by Wallace is:

"I shall not knowingly accept the support of any indi-

Father of Two Slays Wife; Shoots Self

In what apparently was a murder and suicide, the bodies of Willie Ida Robinson, 22, and her husband, Percy Robinson, 25, were found one under the other at their home, 810 East 118th street in South Los Angeles last Monday at 3:30 p.m. Officers from the 77th street station were summoned by neighbors when they learned of the double tragedy.

It was reported by a witness that Robinson had taken their year old baby, Gail, to a relative to keep until he returned. Upon arriving home and finding his wife, he took out his 32-caliber Ivar Johnson pistol and shot her in the chest. He then killed himself, as their 2-year-old son Ronald played on the living room floor. Robinson was found with the pistol in his left hand draped over the body of his wife.

The cause has not yet been determined, but it is presumed that an argument occurred. Tentative arrangements have been made to ship the body of Robinson to Kansas City while the wife will be buried here by Fisher's Mortuary.

Seeks Divorce On Charges Of Adultery, Cruelty

By CYRIL BRIGGS

A congenital sourpuss who makes no secret of her half-baked, second-hand views of the Negro people as being immoral, indecent and indolent was named this week as co-respondent in a sensational divorce action charging adultery.

Cited as one of the principals in a sordid drama was Almena Michele Davis, moralizing editor of the Los Angeles Tribune, published by Lucius Lomax Jr., whose wife, Mrs. Carmelita H. Lomax filed for divorce in superior court in a sensation-packed brief.

It is understood that the brief was prepared in the law offices of Atty. Walter L. Gordon. It charges the Tribune publisher with cruelty and adultery and names Lomax as the father of Miss Davis' two children.

In her action for divorce, Mrs. Lomax charged that her husband began to consort with Miss Davis in 1944 and has continued the relationship ever since. Miss Davis' first child was born on Nov. 4 of that year.

The brief declares that Miss Davis' two children were registered to Almena Marks and Alan Marks, but in reality are the issues of Miss Davis and her publisher. The Alan Marks registered as their father was described on the birth certificate of the second child as the publisher of the Tribune, the complaint states. However, articles of ownership of the Tribune lists only Lucius Lomax Jr., Almena Davis and Lucius Lomax Sr.

Investigation by the EAGLE disclosed that the L. A. Health Department records show that two babies were registered as the children of Almena and Alan Marks during the past three years.

The birth certificate of the first child, Michele Leslie Marks, gives date of birth as Nov. 4, 1944, place of delivery, the California Hospital; mother, Michele Davis, 25; attending physician, Dr. Donald G. Tolleform of 511 S. Bonnie Brae. The mother is described as a housewife, owning her own home. Her mailing address is given as 2010 West 29th st., Los Angeles 7; her birthplace, Texas.

The second baby, registered as Baby Bay Marks, was also delivered at the California Hospital, with the attending physician listed as Dr. Charles M. Malone of the same S. Bonnie Brae address as Dr. Tolleform who attended the birth of the first child. Date of birth is given as Oct. 2, 1947, mother's name as Almena Michele Davis, 29, of 3416 11th avenue, Los Angeles 16. Miss Davis this time is listed as editor of the L. A. Tribune. Her place of birth is given as Texas, as in the first certificate.

While the first certificate, on the basis of information furnished by Miss Davis, describes Michele Leslie's father as Alan Marks, a private in the U. S. army, the second certificate, again on the basis of infomation furnished by the Tribune's editor, describes Marks as "publisher of the L. A. Tribune." Whether Miss Davis slipped up here or was no longer content to have the father remain anonymous is not known.

She indulged in another contradiction in furnishing information for the second certificate when she said that Alan Marks had lived in California for 12 years. In the first certificate,

Voters to Have Say on Low-Cost Homes for State

Disgusted with the failure of government and private builders to solve the housing crisis? Well, you can do something about it at last!

An initiative petition was filed last Saturday with Atty. Fred N. Howser to submit to the voters a proposition requiring the state to finance a low-rental housing program. The measure is sponsored by the California Housing Committee, of which Msgr. Thomas J. O'Dwyer of Los Angeles is chairman.

The petition was backed by labor and veteran groups and many other organizations.

It calls for the building of 100,000 homes in four years by local authorities or non-profit associations. The actual construction work will be done by private contractors after competitive bids.

Dwellings would be rented ed without discrimination on the basis of need with preference given to those displaced by housing developments, freeway construction of other public improvements, and veterans for a period of five years after enactment of the amendment.

In filing the initiative with the Attorney General, the Committee stated:

"We've impatiently waited for more than two years to see the postwar housing program get underway.

"We're not going to wait any longer."

How do YOU feel about it? Think it's good enough reason to make sure you register in order to be able to vite?

NC to Picket Freedom Train

The Los Angeles Negro Congress, in its regular executive session at its headquarters, 1026 East 41st street, last Tuesday evening, among other business transacted by the organization, decided to picket the Freedom Train, February 23, when it arrives in Los Angeles.

The picketing will be staged, it was pointed out, not because of the Four Freedoms and other documents which it carries. It will be picketed because of the mock enforcement of those freedoms.

NAACP Appeals To Warren to Save Adamson

The Los Angeles branch of the NAACP last Monday urged Gov. Earl Warren to commute to life imprisonment the death sentence imposed upon Dewey Adamson, local youth. Adamson is scheduled to die in the gas chamber at San Quentin tomorrow (Feb. 6). Only action by the governor can save him.

The NAACP request was made in a letter addressed to Gov. Warren by G. William McKinney, executive secretary of the local NAACP, on instructions by the executive board.

In his letter, McKinney pointed to "the thin web of circumstantial evidence which permeates the whole case of Adamson."

Adamson was convicted on cir-

NAACP Annual Meeting Sun.

The postponed annual meeting of the Los Angeles branch of the NAACP will be held Sunday, Feb. 8, 3:30 p.m., at the Independent church, 18th and Paloma, it was announced yesterday.

Reports of officers will be made and election of officers and board members held. The meeting, scheduled for several weeks ago, was postponed because of delay on the part of the mimeographing company in getting out the notices to the NAACP membership.

A highlight of the meeting will be the presentation of awards to Rev. P. H. Lehman, Mrs. Lobelia Dingee, Adelaide Plumb and L. G. Robinson, for outstanding work in the last membership campaign. In addition, citations will be awarded to individual workers who brought in more than 100 members each.

Okla. School Fight Back to Supreme Court

NEW YORK—Charging that the State of Oklahoma had violated the high court's mandate to admit Ada Lois Sipuel, 23, to the law school of the University of Oklahoma NAACP attorneys Thurgood Marshall and Amos Hall this week returned the case to the U. S. supreme court.

Three weeks ago the high tribunal ruled that Oklahoma must immediately provide a legal education for Miss Sipuel equal to that available to white students. At that time, the court declared: "The petitioner is entitled to secure legal education afforded by state institutions . . . The state must provide it for her in conformity with the equal protection clause of the 14th amendment and provide it as soon as it does for applicants of other groups."

The state of Oklahoma, however, instead of admitting Miss

Wires Urged on Anti-Lynch Bill

A hurry-up call for telegrams to congress backing the Case anti-lynching bill was issued yesterday by the Civil Rights Congress.

Telegrams should be sent to Rep. Clifford P. Case (R., N.J.), chairman of a subcommittee of the House Judiciary Committee which will hold three-day hearings beginning a week ahead of schedule.

SUCCUMBS—Shocking was the news of the passing of Winifred Louise Harris, to her many friends and family. The young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Harris passed after a brief illness, at the General Hospital, on January 29. (see story)

Third Party Signature Drive Almost Over Top

SAN FRANCISCO—Hugh Bryson, state chairman of the Independent Progressive party, announced yesterday 335,000 signatures had been obtained in the campaign to place the party on the 1948 ballot in California.

He expressed confidence the remaining 90,000 signatures needed to qualify the party would be obtained before the deadline Feb. 26.

Wife Says Lomax Sired Almena Davis' Babies, Charges Adultery, Cruelty

made out less than three years before, she had stated that Marks had never been in California.

In the second certificate, she also acknowledged that she was the mother of one other child.

In addition to accusing her husband of specific acts of cruelty and of openly flaunting his alleged amorous relationship with Miss Davis, Mrs. Lomax is seeking reconversion of certain valuable pieces of property and business alleged to be owned by young Lomax but held in the names of others.

The brief names the estranged parents of young Lomax, Mrs. Minnie Lomax, former Chicago school teacher, and Lucius Lomax Sr., wealthy promotion broker, as present holders of the contested property. The elder Mrs. Lomax currently conducts a column in the Tribune.

Arguments in the sensational suit are slated for 9 a.m. Tuesday, Feb. 10, in department one of the superior court. Atty. H. Richardson will be associated with Atty. Gordon in representing Mrs. Lomax. Lomax is being represented by Atty. Lawrence Edmonston Sr., of 12049 Ventura blvd., Studio City.

Significantly, although the L. A. Tribune seeks the support of Negro professional people, Lomax's attorney, as well as the doctors who attended Miss Davis are white.

The Tribune last week was mum on the suit, although papers had been served on Lomax in ample time for comment in his paper. Its front page, however, was mainly devoted to stories of moral turpitude in others, under two banner heads: "'Cain nd Abel' Slaying"; Car Thefts, Burglaries, Assault, etc., harass city, and "Westsider Raped in Home; Boy 19, Held."

As editor of the Tribune, Miss Davis has consistently peddled an Uncle Tom philosophy which frequently evoked the anger of the community but won her the plaudits of enemies of the Negro people, including Westbrook Pegler. That philosophy was summed up in an editorial in the Tribune of April 27, 1947, which deplored the Negro's struggle for justice and equality, preached conformity to the prejudices of the dominant group, and added:

"But the Negro, who insists on bludgeoning his way to the fore, on asserting with loud justification his various rights and privileges, only aroused a quiet, but stubborn resistance in the average white man . . ."

This theme was present in another editorial in which she indicated a preference for a tough policy on the part of elected white officials in their dealings with Negro delegations exercising their constitutional right to protest and seek redress of grievances.

She applauded Mayor O'Dwyer of New York for making no attempt, as she expressed it, to "cool the Negroes off." She described Councilman Ben Davis, who headed a housing delegation to the mayor, as "taken aback by the mayor's refusal to placate him," and "whining that he had merely wanted to call your attention to the situation . . ."

In her frequent triades against her own people she often demanded that Negroes return to the "simplest tenets of decency, cleanliness ,thrift and perseverance," thereby inferring that these qualities were wholly lacking in the character of the Negro people today.

In January 1947, Miss Davis belied her professed interest in that decency and cleanliness she implied her people did not possess, came out in an editorial plea for legalized prostitution in Los Angeles. She was forced to abandon, openly at least, her advocacy of legalized vice when the EAGLE exposed the viciousness and fallacy of her arguments.

In another editorial (August 10, 1946) she peddled the Nazi philosophy that woman's place is in the kitchen, berated the Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority for discussing economics, government and social questions, advised AKA members to leave such questions to their betters, concentrate their attention on the home.

In that same month(Aug. 31), Miss Davis came out with the opinion, frequently expressed in racist circles, that Negroes could be only good domestic workers, never efficient skilled workers.

When Negro waitresses were fired by the Owl Drug company, Miss Davis applauded, indeed chortled with glee. She commented caustically on their to-hell-with-the-customer attitude during the war, ignored completely the well-known fact that that attitude was prevalent among service workers, white and Negro at that time.

A winner of the Wendell Willkie award for Negro journalists, Miss Davis' award was based on an article on the sex prowess of the Negro male. In that article Miss Davis wrote characteristically:

". . . The average Negro man expends the major portion of his energy in bed in nebulous efforts to prove himself over and over again; if he can't do anything else, he can thrill the average woman. And instead of bridge-building, book-writing, and the like, constantly spurring him on, a flirting skirt, a well-turned hip or a nicely molded bosom gets him up and going.

"And especially if the skin beneath the skirt is white. Man alive, a 'cat's' willing to come apart at the seams to please a 'pink toe' . . ."

Members of the all-white committee of judges who selected Miss Davis' article as the best submitted by a Negro journalist in 1945 were: a Kentucky publisher, a Missouri columnist and a New York editor who was probably born south of the Mason-Dixon line.

The award, quite fittingly was presented by Dr. Douglas Southall Freeman of Richmond, Va., who is best known for his biased and anti-Negro histories of the Civil War, written from the point of view of the Confederacy.

Personally I prefer to accept Miss Davis' own published estimate of herself as being "ill-equipped by reason of ignorance, corruption and emotional instability" to write any but "lousy" editorials, her own publicly expressed judgement of her writings as "mental diarrhea."

How women and girls may get wanted relief from functional periodic pain

Cardui is a liquid medicine which many women say has brought relief from the cramp-like agony and nervous strain of functional periodic distress. Here's how it may help:

1- Taken like a tonic, it should stimulate appetite, aid digestion,* thus help build resistance for the "time" to come.

2- Started 3 days before "your time", it should help relieve pain due to purely functional periodic causes.

Try Cardui. If it helps, you'll be glad you did.

CHARGED WITH 'LOVE SLAYING', John Henry Taylor is shown conferring with his attorney, Curtis C. Taylor in the Los Angeles county jail. Prisoner must go trial for killing Justin Williams over the affections of pretty Marie Jones. See story.

Married Man Held in Fatal Fight Over Girl

John Henry Taylor, 1246 Brich street, married and the father of a young child, was ordered held this week for trial on a charge of murder as a result of a fight assertedly over the affections of pretty Marie Jones, 4058 Trinity st.

According to the story unfolded in court by the Jones girl and two other witnesses, John Wallace and Ted Green, the last two were visiting Miss Jones on Sunday evening, Jan. 11, when Taylor walked in and tried to hog the attentions of the Jones girl.

Present also was the slain man, Justin Williams, reputed sweetheart of Miss Jones. According to the witnesses Taylor attempted to monopolize the Jones girl and she asked him to leave. Angered, he struck her. At this point, Williams leaped to his feet and demanded that Taylor leave. The two men then repaired to the kitchen where a short scuffle ensued. The others rushed to the kitchen where they found Williams reeling near the door, blood flowing from a wound in his breast, and Taylor making a hasty exit through the rear door.

Attorney Curtis C. Taylor, representing the accused man, drew from the witnesses the admission that nobody actually saw the fight, and that as Williams fell he was clutching a water pitcher in his hand. From the trend of his cross-examination, it was evident that Attorney Taylor intends to base his defense on a plea of self-defense.

The defendant is held without bail and will enter his plea in superior court tomorrow, Feb. 6.

Court Bars Race Ban by Excursion Co.

WASHINGTON—The U. S. supreme court on Monday upheld the suit of a Negro girl against a Detroit excursion company which had refused her passage on a steamer bound for Bois Blanc Island in Ontario province, Canada.

The court in a 7-2 decision held that a state law against racial discrimination applies even in foreign commerce if the traffic is basically local and there is no conflict with another country's laws.

The decision upheld a $25 fine levied against the Bob-Lo Excursion Co. of Detroit for violating the Michigan civil rights law.

Justice Jackson filed a dissent in which Chief Justice Vinson joined. The dissent criticised the majority opinion on the ground if upheld application of State rules simply because the commerce "is not very foreign."

Civil War Again

It took a civil war to settle the question of slavery.

Even after the war such amendments to the Constitution as the 13th, 14th, and 15th were designed to insure the Negroes freedom from slavery, their right to citizenship, and their right to vote.

From the beginning of this new order, the South should have been made to know it was a part of the Union of States and subject to the rules of the Constitution. But such was not the case. The Ku Klux Klan was organized to terrorize the newly emancipated Negroes. The poll tax was introduced. Negroes were lynched, and nothing was done about it.

The slaves became citizens to all intents and purposes. The United States government demanded that they obey the laws it established. They paid taxes, fought in all the wars, and in every way tried to qualify for good citizenship.

The former slaves became good citizens. Their records are among the highest in the country for patriotic service. They are good citizens today.

But now, after more than 80 years of such service, must we fight another civil such service, must Negroes fight another civil war to make their citizenship a reality?

President Truman, in a message to Congress, proposed among other things some very sane and sensible decrees that would settle once and for all the problems of segregation, race baiting, lynching, and all the other horrors the "romantic" South seems to think are a part of its particular form of culture..

They are proposing—t h o s e Southern leaders—to hold a conference and break away from the Democratic party. Some 80 years ago they boldly said, "The United States Government." The four-years of war, still remembered below the Mason and Dixie line, have made them more cautious. So today it is only the Democratic party.

"The time has arrived," said Representative Abernethy, Mississippi, "for concerted action and for all true Southerners to stand up and be counted. If there is any doubt in the minds of Southern leaders that the present leaders of the Democratic party are hell bent on bartering or destroying us, our Southern institutions and traditions for the support of radical Negro minorities, then they need only examine the message which the President sent to Congress recommending the immediate enactment of F.E.P.C., anti-poll tax, anti-lynching, and the breaking down of the segregation of the races."

"The President of the United States," said Rankin, also of Mississippi, "is trying to ram the platform of the Communist party down the p e o p l e of the United States."

One might guess such a program would be dubbed Communist. The irony of it, however . . . and the joke of it . . . is that these same Southerners had declared four years ago that they would bolt the Democratic party if Truman, instead of Wallace, were not nominated for vice-president.

Now President Truman has spoken, as he should have spoken from the very beginning. Although his words have a hollow ring today, the reaction they have caused is real.

Will we have to fight another civil war before those Southern aristocrats can learn what the word American means? This so-called war b e t w e e n the ideologies of Europe and of America, is it after all to be a war between the decadent thinking of a fascist America still existing in our own country? What shall it be?

Instead of spending billions of dollars in Europe, wouldn't it be more worthwhile to spend some in educating our own fellow countrymen . . . if that can be done . . . in the principles of real democracy, and real Americanism? If we must have war, it will be war here in the United States of America instead of in Europe, we very much fear.

N.A.A.C.P. To Elect Officers Sunday

Truly the National Association locally has not satisfied all of our needs and aspirations. However, as was stated by Mr. Leon Washington, editor of The Los Angeles Sentinel, in a recent Association business meeting: "Under the 13-year leadership of Atty. Thomas L. Griffith many outstanding accomplishments speak for themselves; viz., a modernly equipped business office and a membership, second largest in the country, a fight waged against police brutality and activation of the Emergency Committee in a mobilization d r i v e for wholesale registration of voters in the 62nd Assembly District."

In the 13 years that Thomas L. Griffith has served the Association as President, he has had little opposition at election times.

Mr. Griffith has been a conscientious, tireless worker; extremely conservative, but equally as honest.

This time Atty. Griffith has had high pressure poured on by his friends and admirers to serve his fourteenth term. He is opposed by two high class ministers: the Rev. Turpeau, pastor of the Hamilton M.E. Church, and the Rev. Frederick D. Jordan, pastor of the First AME Church.

May the best man win.

Some Will Remember

It is a common policy for Republicans in presidential campaigns to tell the voters, especially the Negro voters, that Democrats in Congress are their enemies. They never differentiate in spreading this half-truth. They just say Democrats. Period.

The truth of this matter is, and the Republicans know it, that they seek and get the support of Southern Democrats in the measures they hope to defeat. An apt example of this procedure by the Republicans is the present G.O.P. tax cut fight.

Last Monday the G.O.P. bill was passed by the House to the count of 297 to 120. Sixty-three Democrats voted for it. Only one Republican against it. Now it has gone to the Senate where it is said it will be "placed on ice" for about two months or more, and when it comes up finally for the Senate vote the appeal of President Truman for a budget of something like $40,000,000,000 will be slashed by at least some $6,000,000,000 or more.

The California Eagle is not concerned here with what should or should not be in this present tax proposal. But by no means is this a statement that we are without conviction on the matter. What concerns us here, and what we want you to grasp, is Republican misrepresentation of fact.

Here is a list of the Democrats whose support Republican senators solicited and got: Sen. McClellan (D) Ark.; George (D) of Georgia; and Byrd (D) of Virginia. They already had the backing of Edward C. Johnson (D) Colorado; (an exception as to location) and O'Daniel (D) of Texas.

In order to prepare for the coming presidential election, we suggest that you keep records on parties, men, and issues. Decide which party's record shows the greatest interest in the welfare of the working men and women, the greatest desire for the greatest good for the Common Man. Register in that party. Then in the primary election this coming June, vote for the candidates in that party whose records prove they have your interest and mine—the people's interest at heart. Those candidates of that party should be elected to be our lawmakers and our guiding posts.

Among the delegates named from the 14th Congressional District to attend the National Democratic convention in Philadelphia in July is Rev. Clayton D. Russell, progressive pastor of the Independent Church of Christ. Mrs. Anna Tebbetts was named alternate.

Helen Gahagan Douglas, representative in Congress from the 14th District, was also named on the list of delegates, with Mrs. Paulyn Clark, alternate.

NEW YORK. Three prominent Negroes have been named recently to the board of directors of the federated group of foreign relief organizations, recently organized as the American Overseas Aid-United Nations Appeal for Children. They are: Dr. Charles S. Johnson, president of Fisk University; Mrs. Robert L. Vann, publishers treasurer of The Pittsburgh Courier; and J. E. Stamps, manager Social Security Board, Chicago. Previously named were: Dr. Eva C. Mitchell, of Hampton Institute; and Dr. Thomas M. Campbell, U. S. Agricultural representative, Tuskegee Institute.

NEW YORK. President Truman joined the American Overseas Aid-United Nations Appeal for Children in calling for 100,000 volunteer leaders, N e g r o and white, to aid in the drive to raise $60,000,000 for relief of the victims in foreign countries, beginning this month. Studies made by authorities reveal that of the 2,130,000,000 people of all races in the world, two-thirds are not getting enough to eat and half are actually on the border of starvation.

In a hot debate at the regular weekly meeting of the Manual Arts Forum, the 16 members present engaged in discussing the need and the popularity of the Third Party. A whole hour had been set aside for this very important debate, and faces were getting red and tension was running high.

When the Republicans—so say their opponents—thought they had everything in hand and were confident of victory, they called for a vote. The result was: 14 in favor of Wallace and the Third Party. 2 against.

THINGS I SEE

By Marian Inglewood

Argentina is the country of the Western Hemisphere upon which the spotlight of world concern has been focused for some time. It is the springtime of the year there just now. Here, even in California, we are beginning to shiver with the cold, and are looking forward none to happily to still colder days to come.

Argentina is the long, narrow country on the east side of the queue into which the southern part of South America tapers. It stretches from the bleak lands of the Antarctic region to the tropics in the north—a distance of 2300 miles.

The heart of the country is the great plain called the pampa or pamps, which comprises millions of acres of good earth. There are trees. It seems to be perfectly level, although in reality it does rise gradually toward the Andes mountains in the west. This plain, originally covered with grass, has had thousands of ranches carved out of it—estancias, the smallest amount of which comprises about 1300 acres, while others run up to 500,000 acres.

And the people who own these immense estates? They are the estancieros, the absentee landlords, who rent to tenants or to share-croppers, as our absentee landlords do in the south. There is therefore great wealth on the one hand in Argentina, and extreme poverty, despair, and misery on the other.

The land, too, suffers from this system. The tenant farmers and share-croppers who change masters every two or three years, cannot take as much interest in the farms they are cultivating as if they were their own, or as if they were expecting to stay and live a reasonable length of time on them. How could they? And why should they? The lion's share of the crop always goes to the absent landlord anyway, so why wear yourself out working for him?

During the war the farmer tenants quit many of the ranches and flocked to the cities, especially Buenos Aires. to do their patriotic bit to win the victory. They are living there now in one and two-story corrugated metal buildings, cold and damp during the winter, and sweltering hot during the summer. Out of a total population of 14,000,000 in the entire country, about 4,000,000 live in and around Buenos Aires.

Buenos Aires, by the way, the capital and metropolis of Argentina, is the third largest city in the Western Hemisphere. But don't tell that to Philadelphia, or even to our own Chamber of Commerce.

The gauchos, or cowboys of the pampas, democratic to the very core, fought long and valiantly against the rule of the absent landlords. But they lost out. In 1916 a liberal was elected president, and the country was under a liberal regime for about 14 years. Then in 1930 the tables were turned, and the reactionary forces came into power.

These reactionaries began a program of intense nationalism. Propagandists from Nazi Germany gained a firm foothold in the country, and in 1941 after Pearl Harbor, Argentina under a pretense of neutrality secretly favored Germany. In 1945, however; after the United States had denounced this policy, she belatedly declared war on Germany in order that she might secure a seat in the United Nations.

Argentina is quite an active member of the UN now ,and advocates the admission of Fascist Spain to the UN. Madame Peron, you remember, the wife of Peron, dictator of Argentina, was warmly received by Franco, dictator of Spain, in her tour of Europe recently.

The industrialists of the country, most of whom sprang up during World War II, are being squeezed between the working class and the owners of the big estates. They are afraid of both, but mostly of the workers. The upper classes, the estancieros, while contemptuous of Peron as an upstart, nevertheless want to use him to wipe out the gains of the working class and the small industrialists.

There is unrest everywhere. The owners of those immense estates can no longer find a market for their grain and cattle in Europe, because the countries cannot buy. The United States does not need those products. And the big ships lie idle in the docks of Buenos Aires. There is imminent danger of a depression and possibly a revolution.

But like all devotees of the capitalist system, those feudal lords of the big estates refuse to consult with the Common Man in this crisis. They are using force instead to "keep him in his place," and are suppressing every sign of liberalism.

The latest move of the Argentine government is against a free press. Newspapesr which publish anything against the Peron regime are quietly put out of business. On some "legal excuse." The plant is not fit for use, or its location is poor, or its health conditions are bad — no matter what, say anything against Peron, and out you go.

It's easy enough to find an excuse, often in the name of liberty, to destroy those who speak of liberty for all. We're beginning to find that out even here in the United States of America.

NEW YORK. More than 200 substances have been found to produce cancer if they are allowed to irritate certain portions of the body. These chemicals and compounds, known as carcinogens (cancer-producing substances) include principally the by-products of coal, such as tar, soot, pitch, and anthracene; petroleum and its products, arsenic and dye-stuffs, the r a y s from radium, x-rays and products of atomic fission.

Dr. John E. Moseley, nationally known Negro radiologist at Mt. Sinai and Sydenham hospitals in New York City, pointed out that workers in industries using tar; workers in the coke, coal-gas, road making, cable, tile manufacturing, and boat building occupations are often exposed to cancer-producing chemicals.

Organized labor has been called upon to see to it that safe-guards are provided in such industries.

Ann Revere, Academy Award winner, who is currently appearing in the film, "Gentleman's Agreement" has been approached by influential Democrats in the 15th Congressional District to run for Congress in the coming primaries, according to Harlan Lee, Democratic County Committee member from that area. Liberals throughout the district are responding with enthusiastic support for Miss Revere's candidacy.

President Truman has been urged to order U. S. Attorney General Clark to halt "the political arrest of non-citizens, and to cancel the warrants of those already detained," by the executive committee of the Civil Rights Congress.

The Congress condemned "the wave of federal arrests on non-citizens whose detention for deportation proceedings are based solely upon their political views. The dragnet for which the department of justice is responsible thus far has resulted in the arrest of 21 p e r s o n s . . . These arrests are persecutory in character and intimidating in their effect on large sections of the American people . . . inspiring an atmosphere of political hysteria and fear."

"The preponderance of labor union officials among those arrested, and the latest move in the direction of political and racial minorities, indicate a pattern of witch-hunting intended to suppress militant trade union activities and dissident political views among the foreign-born, whether or not they are citizens.

"The recent arrests of A l e x a n d e r Bittelman and Claudia Jones leave no other conclusion. Bittelman, long known as a Communist and leader of one section of the Jewish people, is a resident of this country for 35 years. Miss Jones, a Negro leader of the Communist Party, left her native Trinidad, British West Indies, when she was 12, and has lived here for 23 years."

It will be urged that Christian missions have surely done a great deal for the natives, but most experts have their own informed opinion on that point. Apart from a few exceptions, missions have attempted neither to replace the native civilization, nor to protect the natives from white exploitation.—Julius E. Lips, The Savage Hits Back.

Asia and those countries of Africa which have accepted the teaching of Mohammed have not been a harvest field for missionaries, end even in a country like Algeria, which has been in French occupation for 100 years, conversions from Christ to Mohammed have been more numerous than from Mohammed to Christ.—Julius E. . . . If in Berbice (a place in Guiana) above the Luthern church stand the words "Negroes and dogs are not allowed to enter here" (Brutton), it is not surprising that the natives are filled with hatred, and turn away from a Christian spirit; Christ himself would certainly have driven such missionaries out of his sanctuary . . .— Julius E. At least 50 voters of the 62nd Assembly District are needed to apply immediately for appointment as deputy registrars of voters, announced Sidney Moore of the CIO's Political Action Committee.

Moore issued the appeal for applicants for registrars immediately after he and James Richardson, business agent for the AFL Carpenters' Local 634, had conferred with Michael J. Donohue, registrar of voters.

"The people of this district cannot allow reactionary candidates to be elected to office and such initiative measures as the housing proposition to be defeated because they don't register and can't vote," said Moore in his appeal for help.

Long before Europe sent forth her emissaries in history to discover and capture the colored world, that world had pent the white man in his own land. W. J. Wheaton Say

"Come right in here. You look peekit. Have you been sick agin? Why didn't you tell me? I've a great notion not to give you anything to eat."

I looked at Mary Ann, and there was a twinkle in her eye that belied her threat. Sufficient to say that, as always, we did justice to the viands set before us and had to act with discretion because Mary Ann insisted that I must eat "To put some meat on my bones."

Mary Ann stopped in the middle of "Going Home," to ask me: "Say, What is a Communist and what do they do? Are they bad folk who kills the Presidents and upsets the government?" We studied a while before answering, because we were not satisfied with different constructions, or meanings, that had been given as to w h a t communism meant. Many persons held that if one differed from them in politics or, even in religion, you must be antagonistic to established ways of thought, and, therefore a communist, seeking to overthrow the government. That is the process underlying most of the interrogations of the witch hunting of the un-American committees.

We agree with Professor Zachariah Shafe, teacher of Jurisprudence in Harvard Law school, that there should be free discussion by the people of communistic theories ,and that the people of this nation are intelligent enough to separate "the Wheat from the Tares" and determine the good from the bad. As to the assassination of Presidents, that was accomplished by cranks who had distorted minds.

This democracy has numerous faults, so obvious that the whole world is dubious of our intentions. This government ostenesibly seeks to democratise the world, and yet here at home, it openly discriminates and seeks to subjugate groups of its citizens, or should we say, nationals, because of color, race or religion. Those things are for the world to see. Is it any wonder that other nations distrust us? It is obvious where the distrust lay. Can this nation with the virus of hates of its own sticking out on all sides, tell the world that democracy—American style—is the panacea for the ills of the entire world?

This nation must purge itself of the acts of discrimination and the virus of racial and religious hates, in short, cast off the robe that hides the skeleton of hypocrisy. Until there is a complete and sincere example of democratic principles here, and bigotry is dethroned, the reign of common sense and the rights of all citizens observed, U. S. democracy will be to the world a meaningless phrase and hypocritical mouthings.

We differ with many, religiously, politically and economically, and we hope to live and fight for the equality, before the law of all citizens, without regard to color, race or relig belief. If that be commun then we are branded. Loyalt the government? Yes. We our hat to no man in that spect. Social Security Pays Off!

Second of Two Articles)

The most that anyone can contribute to the Old Age and Survivors Insurance program of Social Security under the present law is one percent of the first $3000 earned each year, or a total of $30 a year, and many people are fully insured with total contributions of only $2 a year, or one percent of $200. In return for thi ssmall amount, any person who reaches age 65 and is eligible to receive benefits will get all his money backand more, within the first two years, and in most cases, within the first year. And he will continue to receive these benefits for the rest of his life.

How do you get these benefits? First you must be "fully insured" under the Old Age and Survivors Insurance Program of Social Security. Then you must be 65 years of age or over, and finally, you must apply for them.

For your aged widow (over age 65), or your aged and dependent parents to receive these benefits, you must be "fully insured" at time of death. For your widow with dependent children to receive benefits in case of your death, or for a lump sum payment to be made to help pay funeral expenses, you may be either "fully" or "currently" insured.

Whether you're "fully" or "currently" insured depends upon your wage record, kept for you under your own Social Security Account Number, by the Social Security Administration. For the purpose of this record keeping, the United States Treasury and the Social Security Administration divide the year into three-month periods called "calendar quarter." For example, January-FebruaryMarch and April-May-June are calendar quarters. In order fo ryou to be "fully insured," your wage record must show that you have been paid $50 or more in half of all the calendar quarters between January 1, 1937, and the time you become 65 or die. Unless, of course, you are already 65, in which case you only need to count half of the quarters between January 1, 1937, and your 65th birthday.

Or perhaps you were just a youngster in 1937. Then you need to count half of the qua fro mthe time you became except that everyone must at least six quarters to be insured, and no one ever n more than 40 quarters, fo quarters (ten years of work in one stretch or in dibs dabs) will make anyone manently fully insured."

To be "currently insured," only need to have been paid or more in any six of the las calendar quarters preceding death. If you were to die currently or fully insured, widow, if she had children u 18 in her care, would rec benefits for herself and eac the children until the chil reached 18.

The amount of the ben payable to you or your depe ents will be based on the tota everything you've been since January 1, 1937 (since 22 for those who were less t 22 in 1937), to the time you come 65 or die. That is, based upon your average mo ly wage fo rthe whole period

That is why you can't affo to have a single penny left of your wage record, and the why it's so important to sure that all your wages being reported under your account number and be properly credited to your wa record. For the $50 required each quarter must appear your wage record. And it ca appear on your wage record you're using someone els number by mistake or if you failed to give your employ your proper Social Secur number.

You can't afford to take cha es with your Social Security count Number on your w record, for SOCIAL SECUR PAYS OFF!

The Report of the President's Committee on Civil Rights

(Installment No. 10)

DISCRIMINATION IN STATE AND LOCAL SERVICES

Where state or local facilities are allocated to Negroes, either because of segregation or as a result of geographical concentration of the colored population, the services are almost always inferior to those provided for the whites. For example, in 1940, in 13 southern states providing 774 public libraries, 99, or less than one-seventh, served Negroes.

The streets in Negro districts in the North as well as in the South are often not kept up to the standards maintained in white areas. Public parks, beaches and playgrounds are generaly closed to Negroes in the South, and on the rare occasions when substitutes are offered they are inferior. Furthermore, since the Negro schools are usually unsatisfactory, they are not suitable for community centers; thus, in 1937, about half of all the cities having Negro community centers were located in the North and West, despite the heavy concentration of Negro population in the South.

Discrimination in Places of Public Accomodation—When we turn from public services supplied by government o those supplied by private enterprise, discrimination against minorities becomes more pronounced. Our social conscience has brought about an elimination of some of the most flagrant inequalities in the distribution of government services. But it is often blind to the serious effect upon the individual which results from the discriminatory rendering of service by private agencies.

Most Americans patronize restaurants, theatres, shops, and other places offering service to the public according to their individual preferences and their ability to pay. They take their right to enter such places and go to be served for granted. This is not the case with other Americans. Because of their race or their color or their creed, they are barred from access to some places and given unequal service in others. In many sections of this country, some people must pause and give thought before they enter places serving the public and if they wish to avoid embarrassment, arrest, or even possible violence.

As interpretted by the supreme court the constitution does not guarantee equal access to places of public accomodation and amusement. A Civil Rights Act was passed by congress in 1873 which declared that no distinction should be made because of race or color in the accomodations offered by inns, public conveyances, theatres, and similar places. Thi sact was declared unconstitutional by the supreme court in 1883, in the Civil Rights Cases. Thereafter legislation on the matter was left entirely to the states. They may, and do, either compel segregation, or outlaw it, or they may leave it to the managers of private establishments to make whatever distinction they wish in selecting their patrons.

Eighteen states have statutes prohibiting discrimination in places of public accommodation. These states prohibit discrimination in restaurants, and usually in other eating places. Most of them prohibit discrimination in public conveyances of all types, and over half of them, in theatres and barber shops. All include some general phrase, such as "and all other places of public accommodation." The courts, however, have tended to limit this general phrasing by the list of specific places. The statutes can be enforced by criminal action or by a civil suit for damages.

At the other extreme, 20 states by law compel segregation in one way or another. The remaining 10 states have no laws on the subject. In the states with compulsory segregation laws Negroes are usually separated from whites in all forms of public transportation, and in hotels, restaurants, and places of amusement.

Fourteen states require railroads to separate the races, and two authorize railroads to provide such separation. Train conductors are given power to enforce these laws. Under the supreme court decision in Morgan v. Virginia, such laws do not apply to passengers in interstate transportation. However, this decision does not prevent carriers from voluntarily enforcing segregation. Eight states require separate waiting rooms, 11 require separation in buses, 10 in street cars and three in steamships and ferries. In instances where completely separate facilities are provided, as in railroad coaches and waiting rooms, those set aside for the Negroes are usually inferior in quality.

In states which do legally secure the rights of access, practice does not necessarily conform to the law. One prominent Negro has stated that it is difficult to find a meal or a hotel room in the downtown areas of most northern cities. The display of "whites only" signs may sometimes go unchallenged. When laws guaranteeing equal access to places of public accommodations are enforced, the penalty is usually small and the chance of being prosecuted or sued a second time is slight.

Devices to get around the law are more common than direct violation of the law. Unwanted customers are discouraged from patronizing places by letting them wait indefinitely for service, charging higher prices, giving poor service, and publicly embarrassing them in various ways. In a recent campaign to compel enforcement of a civil rights statute in Cincinnati, many restaurants closed their doors to make repairs. Nevertheless, these campaigns are often successful, and without the statutes would be impossible. In Chicago in 1946, the Mayor's Commission on Human Relations invoked the State Civil Rights Statute to break down the bars against Negroes in the roller-skating rinks of the city.

Sometimes the pattern of segregation in public-service facilities spreads from the states having compusory separation of the races to areas which are free from such laws. For example, the Pennsylvania Railroad in its terminal in New York City segregates Negroes in coaches on through trains bound for the South, even though it does not do so on its own traoins operating as far as Washington.

In the Southwest, Mexicans are barred from certain places of recreation. In some rural and semi-rural communities, operators of cafes, beer parlors, barber shops, and theatres are adamant in refusing service to all Latin Americans. Jews are discriminated against principally in recreational and resort areas in the North where beaches, hotels, and similar facilities are closed to them. Often this is indicated by "Gentiles only" or "restricted" labels.

Japanese Americans have also frequently faced "No Japs Wanted" signs in store windows, and poor service in other places. Indians sometimes have difficulty getting service and hotel accommodations in different parts of the country. They meet a more serious problem, however, in areas surrounding reservations. The assistant commissioned of Indian Affairs described the scene in one town:

"I have recently been in a community in New Mexico, more than half of whose non-Indian citizens survive only because of the trade and business which the town's proximity to the reservation affords them, and yet the hundreds of Indians who frequent the town for marketing and other purposes are denied access to all but the most unsanitary and undesirable eating, lodging, and rest-room facilities."

The 'Secret Documents'

By PAUL FRENCH

At the precise moment when it was most apt to scare (or excuse) congress into voting for the Marshall plan, the State Department turned loose 260 so-called "secret documents," supposed to "reveal" that, from 1939 to 1941, there existed an alleged "Stalin-Hitler Plot to Divide the World."

Very interesting, if true. IF true. For the trouble with these "secret documents" is that they are neither "secret," nor are they, in fact, even "documents." But they serve the purpose of those who want millions of American men, in the words of Henry Wallace, to be "lying in Siberian snows" in the war against Russia these war mongers are planning—and soon!

The word "documents" usually means official papers, signed by somebody. These so-called "documents" are not signed by anybody! And certainly they are not signed by the Soviet government, against which they are, however, used as war propaganda.

Neither are these so-called documents "secret." Of course, ordinary Americans may never have heard of them before. But their existence has been known for over two years to all diplomatic and military men concerned with German affairs.

They were very well known to the International Court which, in 1946, tried the top German war criminals; the same court which sentenced the man who wrote them, Joachim von Ribbentrop, foreign minister under Hitler, to be hanged. But that International Court thought these "secret documents" of so little importance that it refused to admit them as evidence in Ribbentrop's trial.

What are these "secret documents," anyhow?

Here is the story, and you can judge for yourself.

Among the tons of papers captured by the American army in Germany in 1945, were at least some of the records of the German Foreign Office, headed by Ribbentrop. U. S. newspapers then told of this, and everyone knew of them. It was also published then, that among these papers were proofs of the fact that many American corporations, prominent and rich Americans, had been serving as Nazi agents, propagandists and spies.

What happened thereafter was something peculiar. A brief notice in the press said that the Truman government had appointed the notorious anti-Soviet and pro-fascist Jesuit, Edmund Walsh, to go to Germany and take charge of these papers! In this appointment was to be seen the fine Vatican hand of Robert Murphy, who carries in one pocket his commission as roving U. S. ambassador, and in another pocket his political instructions from the Holy See—deeply desirous of saving European fascism and its own investments. Murphy is currently "adviser" to General Clay.

Through such hands have passed the official records of the German Foreign Office. From such hands have come these 260 so-called "secret documents," many of which are undoubtedly genuine, such as the one which set forth the common opinion of Germany and the USSR in 1940, that the United States was not fighting for England for England's sake, but was "only trying to get the British empire into its grasp." That this was true, and is true today can be seen by anybody, and is a fact that alarms many Englishmen.

But, among these genuine papers are some that smell strongly of forgery, papers containing manifest falsehoods, such as those claming that, first Hitler, then Britain, agreed to give the Balkan countries to the USSR. That these are lies is self-evident, for Hitler went to war on June 22, 1941, to prevent the Soviet from moving its armies into the Balkans, as you can see by consulting Hitler's war declaration in your public library. And dozens of authorities know that Churchill, acting for Britain, refused for years to open a second front across the English Channel, because England was set upon invading the Balkans to keep the Soviet out of that area, and, indeed, was ready to lose the war rather than have the Soviet armies liberate these Balkan countries from the German armies.

Therefore, one can say that there has been a typical jesuitical trick in the handling of these "secret documents," the insertion of some false among many true "documents," the better to get them all accepted as true. Here is what the United Press story of these "documents" said on Jan. 21:

"The papers generally are Nazi memoranda (Ribbentrop's notes) of conversations between Nazi and Soviet officials from 1939 to 1941. No Russian versions of the talks are available. The documents are Nazi versions."

Inshort, when Ribbentrop was in Moscow, he talked with Soviet officials. Afterwards, he made personal notes of what had been said. No Soviet official verified or signed them. Nobody signed them. When he returned to Berlin, he read them to Hitler. Naturally, being eager to show Hitler that he was very successful in making friends with the Russians, he perhaps colored these personal notes of his with that idea. "No Russian version of the talks are available," admits the United Press.

But what is available are cold historical facts. It is a fact that Hitler declared war on the Soviet Union, and every Englishman knows that this saved England from destruction. Read Hitler's declaration of war and see for yourself that there never was any Soviet "agreement" with Hitler's plans for world conquest. More, the USSR acted, while America was still sending airplane engines and other supplies to Hitler.

Yes, indeed, facts prove that, from 1939 to 1941, American corporations, the DuPonts, Standard Oil, Sperry Gyroscope and others, were supplying Hitler with every form of war material possible, and the USA, just as much as the USSR, had a treaty of friendship with Nazi Germany. More, the U. S. remained shamefully silent when Britain and France betrayed mankind by giving Czechoslovakia to Hitler at Munich in 1938, when the Soviet savagely protested.

But, more important than past history is the present. And today America is, before all eyes, helping the rebirth of fascism abroad, and here in America as well. Today, America has taken up the tattered banner of Hitler, to "save the world from Communism"—and conquer it for Wall Street.

Hitler failed, and so will Wall Street. But where millions of Germans left their bones on the Russian steppes, there may soon be millions of American boys to join them in fertilizing the good earth of Russia—if the American people do not fling these "secret documents" back into the face of the imperialists running the U. S. government.

Mrs. Charlotta Bass, Editor-Publisher
The California Eagle
Central Avenue
Los Angeles, California
Dear Mrs. Bass:

As one of the outstanding Negro leaders in the country who has accomplished much, especially in the interest of fighting for the rights, equality, and justice of our people, I feel that I would be doing an injustice to a problem to not acquaint you with the facts involved.

This situation deals with the SS Booker T. Washington and Captain Hugh Mulzac.

The maritime industry has shrunk considerably in the number of ships that are now sailing, which means that the jobs have been lost to many officers and crew members through no fault of their own.

Recently the SS Booker T. Washington was brought into New York under command of Captain Mulzac and the ship has now been de-commissioned and Captain Mulzac has not been given another ship. I might add further, that during the war at one time there were over one hundred licensed Negro officers sailing on American ships, which included about three captains. I might say at this time that such an accomplishment must be attributed to the fight that was carried on by outstanding progressives with a clear understanding and a determined willingness to carry on a relentless struggle for those who needed assistance, and, in this fight Charlotta Bass stood in the forefront.

When the Booker T. Washington was launched and Captain Mulzac was given command, it reflected new hopes for many thousands of Negroes who had been denied the right to work and express their talents in many skilled fields. Today the situation is almost in the reverse and in my limited way, with other people who are interested, we would like to see what can be done to get the Booker T. Washington back on the seas and once more bring the name of a courageous and outstanding Negro to various parts of the world under command of a Negro captain.

The present Truman Administration is making various overtures to the Negro voters at this time. The Booker T. Washington was de-commissioned by the U.S. Maritime Commission, a section of our government that is operated by presidential appointees. It is my opinion that we should take advantage of this opportunity and the so-called generous approach and interest that Truman has shown in recent weeks with the Negro people which, incidentally, is still on paper, by calling attention to the Maritime Commission, with surprise and disgust, that they have "de-commissioned the Booker T. Washington, which also resulted in Captain Mulzac's losing the command of a ship. We are going to get the ball rolling on this score here in the East and would appreciate whatever can be done by interested people in the West.

We would appreciate it very much if you would speak to some people to assist you in this undertaking and start letters going to Washington to Mr. W. W. Smith, Chairman of the U. S. Maritime Commission, calling his attention to what has happened to the Booker T. Washington. I might add further that they probably expect this and have the usual answer that the Booker T. Washington was not singled out to be de-commissioned. In answer to their preparedness, we should point out that since the Booker T. Washington meant so much to the Negro people here in the United States and in foreign countries, the least the Commission could have done was have this the last ship to be taken off the seas. I feel this would be embarrassing to Truman and the Democratic Party, and the Maritime Commission if this is brought to their attention, and if protests were made sharp and to the point, I feel they would lose no time in putting the ship into commission, assigning it to some company to be operated and placing Captain Mulzac in command.

We still receive the Eagle each week which I read quite thoroughly, and I am able to see you are as busy as ever. However, I feel that you will agree that even the busiest of us should give some assistance to this problem and I am therefore requesting you to again help us out. If there are any suggestions that you have in mind to strengthen this fight, I would appreciate hearing from you. At any rate, I am sure you will let me know what steps you can take at this time in the above-mentioned matter.

Sincerely yours,
Oliver Boutte

BOOKS & AUTHORS

"Clothes for Girls," by Elizabeth Todd, professor of Home Economics Education, University of Georgia, is an excellent guide for those who are beginning a study of clothing problems, taking up planning, purchase, construction and acer. The part "Looking Your Best in the Clothes You Have" is of interest to all whether one sews or not. "Problems in Making Clothes" starts with the simple garments and carries on to the relining of a coat and making new clothes from old. The last section is on construction of parts such as bindings, buttonholes, zippers, pattern alterations tand tailor tactics. Many illustrations, some of them in color, charts, exercises and a clothing expense account are among the many valuabel features.

Robert Tallant, author of "Mrs. Candy and Saturday Night," has a new book — "Mardi Gras"— which he dedicates to "all who have been to the Mardi Gras; to all who plan to come; and to all who want to come." Well illustrated with charming and realistic photographs of various scenes it is the best possible substitute for the actual experience of attending in person. It gives a history, a portrait in words, a guide and a commentary on the most gay, exciting, unrestrained revel of people at play that the United States can offer. There is a list of kings and queens since 1872 and a calendar to the year 2000.

"Folks Do Get Born," by Marie Campbell is illuustrated with clever black and white sketches by Clare Leighton. Public health nurses — mostly white — doing field work in rural Georgia supervise the midwives — mostly colored. The material in this book comes largely from the latter. It explains about the clubs and meetings of the granny-midwives and gives many of their stories as they do their work among the people. They still usher into the world 26 per cent of the babies born in that state, but do not realize that they are a "midwife problem"—they simply know that someone must help the birthing and there have never been enough doctors to go around so they have done what they could.

"Fear Is the Parent" is by Mathilde Ferro, a writer of short stories for magazines and radio. It is the story of a man who accidentally kills a woman who has been pursuing him. Although he manages to escape the attention of authorities he lives in constant fear of becoming involved. When he later marries and his wife confronts him with the fact that he is acting as if he had something on his mind he finally tells her just how it all happened. She is much shocked and this is the account of how this fear affects both their lives from then on.

Trail Blazers: Zella M. Taylor

By PHYLLIS SCOTT

In our highly modernized business world we find women doing things at which business people of 20 years ago would have gasped. We have gone far since those days. Today, we have women actively engaged in medical science, government, education, social welfare, politics, and business. Though our limitations have been great, we have made gigantic strides.

One of those who have played an inspiring role in this great drama is Zella M. Taylor. Her accomplishments have been many, her labors tireless, in the struggle for the further advancement of creditable Negro business institutions. Through the years Mrs. Taylor has been instrumental in placing many young women in high positions in government, state, county, and city departments as well as private industry. Under her supervision many of these have gained experience in her office to equip them for their chosen work.

Pioneering the public stenographic field in this community, she has built up an indestructible reputation as businesswoman supreme in greater Los Angeles. By any standard she has earned this. Spurred by her belief in preparation, efficiency, and perseverance, her courage has not wavered even in the face of overwhelming setbacks.

She developed keen business insight in her birthplace—Topeka, Kansas—where her parents operated a successful grocery and meat market. It was only natural that she should pursue the business field. She did some collegiate work at Northwestern university and completed a commercial teachers course in the state of Washington. She came to California in 1925 and taught commercial subjects for one year in a private business school. Shortly after that, the A to Z Stenographic Bureau became a reality in the 4200 block on Central avenue, where she has remained in business since 1930.

ZELLA M. TAYLOR

The American Woodmen, which was also housed in that building engaged her to serve as clerk but due to the rapid expansion of her business she was forced to resign the Woodmen position. Eager to render greater service to the community Mrs. Taylor became a bonded representative of the Western Union Telegraph company, American Express company, a currency exchange, a ticket broker, and income tax consultant, which business is known as the West Coast Public Service. Four people are in her employ at 4233 S. Central avenue.

Her rise in the business world has probably been accented by religious support of such worthwhile institutions as the Golden State Insurance company, the American Woodmen Fraternal Life Insurance company, the Liberty Savings and Loan association, YWCA, Outdoor Life and Health Association, NAACP (having served as branch secretary for the past 15 years), and more recently the Broadway Federal Savings and Loan Association, where she served as secretary-director, completing its first year of successful operation.

Although she likes to read, attend the theatre, enjoy good music and "fuss" around her home, which is very lovely, she has little time for these. Practically every night in the week one of the organizations in which she functions as a board member has a meeting. So accustomed are people to seeing her behind a desk with pen or pencil in hand that she is immediately associated with a business transaction of some kind.

What achievements she has made have been earned from the sweat of her brow and the training of her mother. She works many times unthanked, uncompensated but she never lets a worthy organization suffer. She is a member of St. Philip's Episcopal church and resides near her business. The community is proud of the concrete part she is playing in the progress of Negro business houses of distinction.

Youth Condemns Racial Bias in L. A. Schools

SACRAMENTO—The Los Angeles Fremont High school anti-Negro demonstration was cited here at the governor's conference on youth welfare held last week.

The delegate to the conference who was brave enough to speak of this incident was Dorothy Andrews, Los Angeles City college student, and representative of the L.A. Youth Council. She said this was an example for the need of more than mere resolutions and generalities. She thinks the governor's conference should recommend specific ways of teaching and practicing intergroup living, instead of merely meeting and adopting resolutions, no matter how good they may be.

"Teachers should feel free to raise their voices in behalf of democratic ideals and standards," said Dorothy. "But not enough of them are doing it."

At a luncheon meeting where four young Californians appeared on a panel called "California Youth Speaks," Charles Miller, Berkeley Negro student represented the Pacific Southwest Area Y.M.C.A.

Said one young student, "We should pour enthusiasm for democracy into American youth instead of pouring billions into preparation for war. Education should cease to be apathetic in classroom teaching of democracy so that youth will not be sold crackpot governmental plans."

Touching on the home life of young people, Janet Bright from Sequoia High school, Menlo Park, told of the need of proper sex education and training for parenthood in California schools.

"If teachers knew what went on in the minds of young people, they'd do something," she said. "Too many of us young people have the wrong ideas about sex and it isn't our fault."

The conference was attended by about 2000 delegates, members of social organizations interested in young people. Among this number were 150 teen-agers themselves, who had their say about what should be done at some of the discussions.

More money should be appropriated for schools, according to Arthur F. Corey, state executive secretary of the California Teachers' Association.

"Right now," said Mr. Corey, "200,000,000 is needed for so-called impoverished school districts — districts which have reached their limits of taxation and bonded indebtedness."

Corey said it would require at least $1,000,000 per month to provide proper classrooms for students coming into California schools from other states. He also called attention to the fact that only one other state in the Union —Mississippi—has a higher ratio of pupils per teacher than California. That southern state is down at the bottom of the United States in literacy.

Washington CIO Has Interracial School

WASHINGTON (G) — The Interracial Nursery school which was organized here by the Women's Auxiliary of the United Public Workers, CIO, in Washington, is now a thriving institution with a full-time staff of three teachers and a capacity enrollment of 30 children. It is one of the very few institutions of unsegregated education in the nation's capital, and provides an example of what can be done to implement the report of the President's Committee on Civil Rights.

Hello There:

Everyone is someone's Valentine, though most people look upon St. Valentine Day as a day of useless sentimentality, it can and should be a universal method of expressing your love and appreciation of persons to an individual, especially so to those not given to saying "fond endearments" or those take it-for-granted persons. Negro Women's Golf Club Organized

Existence of an organized plan for developing championship Negro golfers in Los Angeles was disclosed this week by the Vernondale Golf Club, the city's first club of Negro women golfers. The group of 18, headed by businesswoman Mae Crowder, was organized in September, 1947, with the purpose of establishing a foundation to sponsor the training of boys and girls to develop future champions to compete in the nation's top tournaments, and provide facilities for practice and play.

The need for such a foundation has been highlighted recently in the barring of Bill Spiller, Ted Rhodes and Madison Gunter from the Richmond Open Golf tournament under the non-Caucasian clause of the Professional Golf Association's contract, following their creditable showing in the Los Angeles Open at Riviera golf course. It has been announced by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the L. A. Open, that the local event is not under P. G. A. contract, keeping it open to all players without regard to race.

Vernondale Golf Club recognizes that present golfing champions, with few exceptions, were developed in the teenage period, and is concerned that few Negro boys and girls are taking up the game while young enough to develop and become future entrants for the L. A. Open and other tournaments.

In addition to training, both amateurs and professional golfers need tournament experience, and Vernondale Golf Foundation can sponsor entries, make gifts of balls and provide caddies where the need is shown. Directors of the Foundation will also work toward furnishing a golf course where professionals can give instructions and which can be adopted as a "home" course by amateur players to make them eligible for many tournaments for which this is an entry requirement.

Vernondale Golf Club will conduct yearly fund-raising events for the Foundation, calling upon the public and local golfers for support. The first is to be a cabaret party on the night of April 2 at the Conga Club (formerly the Club Alabam). Following this, announcement will be made permitting those needing the service of the Foundaeion to make application and submit qualifications for sponsorship.

Members of the club are President Crowder; Martha Clisby, vice president; Anice Clark, secretary; Maudelle Richardson, treasurer; Lola Beavers, Carolyn Cain, Nadine Coles, Georgette Evans, Verna Hickman, Thelma Houston, Roberta Jackson, Olive Neal, Josephine Lewis, Ethel Maddox, Vera Stoner, Dorothy Thomas, Joyce Robinson and Mary Woodyard.

Raisin' Cain

By CARL L. CAIN

At one time or another, all of us would like to go away to some quite spot and play the hermit game. Perhaps this is one of the times that I would like to do just that. The main headache today is the plan for Universal Military Training. Certain sources, and people, continue to press upon the minds of the American people the "need" for the plan.

Many confused persons are being involved in this conspiracy to put over U. M. T. on the American people. Some have been induced to get signatures favoring the plan. The truth of the matter is that they don't even have the slightest idea what the plan is for, and how it will affect nations and peoples in the future; they are just out for the glory, the wee bits of recognition that they are going to get for favoring the plan. In other words, they don't even know which way the wind is blowing, and don't want to know. All the people who are shouting loud and long for Universal Military Training have in mind the picture of young boys going to the army, and that's all. They know, the people who sign the petitions, that it will not affect them. So they sign; but here in America, some youth are favoring the plan. Well, this week I have the answer to the question. And when you are familiar with my plan, all your questions will be answered.

It seems that women's clubs are working for signatures and signing the petition: women's clubs . . . old women, who have never held anything heavier than a coffee cup and a Ritz cracker. Women—who have never marched in the ranks of an army, at least the women who are are so strenuously favoring the plan. Some of the women are getting along in age. But still their signature is just as good as any one signature of a veteran, or a youth, who signs a petition against the measure. I have in my mind some of the women, older "ladies" who make telephone gossip their hobby. Now why, just why, should they be allowed to sign a petition favoring the plan for universal training? Have they ever lay in mud-filled ditches, with guns, and bombs exploding about them, the air filled with that sickly odor that so many of our young veterans remember? Have they ever lay in a ditch next to a little farm boy, or a little city boy, and watched the last bit of life and blood being drained from his body? And they haven't been the ones to eat K-rations for breakfast, lunch, and dinner . . . instead they have all the choice delicacies that are available only for their class.

Nevertheless, the women's clubs are getting petitions signed. And a lot of other people are, too. They are ignorant, and blind. They haven't looked about them, and seen that the world is almost balanced solely on the good faith and loyalty of the few honest people that we have left. Somehow, they fail to realize the fact that the world is like the elephant, who, when drowning, will grasp for even a feather. Only they aren't grasping for that feather . . . they're trying to cut off the hands of the people who are trying to the last effort to grasp that feather. But I suppose it all matters little. Nothing can save the world now, nothing. We will see a third World War, if the advocates of U. M. T. have their wish. In the last century, America has become a guide for other nations. If we adopt a plan for universal training, anything that any other nations do in the line of war preparations will be legal. They will say, "Look at America." The United Nations Peace and Security Organization will be a failure and flop. We shall then return to the methods of the barbarians, for we haven't been far from them all along.

When a hunter gets a new rifle, he doesn't hesitate to use it upon game, and in this example America could be classed as the hunter. The same sources that are trying so hard to get the training plan put over, will shout for war louder and quicker than anyone else. I just hope they don't call upon boys like myself to defend their hides and their money.

Let us wake up to the facts. There is war going on around us now, in Palestine, India, Greece. The least little incident could set off a new world war. With the atom bomb, we can never afford another war. At this stage of history, the nations of this world must choose between peace, brotherhood and prosperity, and war which will lead to complete extermination of mankind.

I like to look at the European map; there's the large body of land comprising the Soviet Union, and at the foot of that are the other smaller European nations. I like to think what it would be like if all those little boundaries were removed; if Europe was just one nation, governed by one capital—a place where all the different peoples were represented ,and no one would try to trod upon anyone else. I like to think of Shakespeare's words; "The smallest worm will turn, being trodden on."

And now that plan that I have derived for the people who so strongly favor Universal Military Training: I think all the people who favor U. M. T. and a large army should be allowed to become a part of it. In other words, let them go out and join the army. I wish it were possible to draw up and have passed a bill which would make it legal to draft all of the people who have signed a petition. There would be no exception of old women, senators, and people who are too old to carry a gun, but are so anxiously signing petitions.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By REV. IKE EVANS, D.D.

Subject: What We Know About Jesus: His Nature. Lesson Text and Outline: John 6:35-40; Colossians 1:9-20. Motto Text :Matthew 16:16. Introduction: The source of our strength is Jesus our Saviour who claimed to be the Bread of Life. The secret of our service is Jesus our Sovereign whom Paul declared to be the image of the invisible God. Therefore, our life from Christ should be wholly given in loyalty to Christ. Comments:

1. Christ is bread, is that to the soul which bread is to the body, nourished and supports the spiritual life (is the staff of it) as bread does the body life; it is the staff of life. Jesus is that bread of life, alluding to the tree of life in the midst of the garden of Eden, which was to Adam the seal of that part of the covenant, Do this and live, of which he might eat and live. Christ is the bread of life, for he is the fruit of the tree of life.

Christ did not come into the world as a private person, that acts for himself only, but under a public character ,to act for others as an ambassador, or plenipotentiary, authorized by a public commission; he came into the world as God's great agent and the world's great physician. The scope of his whole life was to glorify God and do good to men.

2. The knowledge of our duty is the best knowledge. A mere empty notion of the greatest truths is insignificant. Our knowledge of the will of God must be always practical: we must know it, in order to do it. Our knowledge is then a blessing indeed when it is in wisdom, when we know how to apply our general knowledge to our particular occasions, and to suit it to all emergencies.

Those in whom the work of grace is wrought must give thanks unto the Father. If we have the comfort of it, He must have the glory of it. Those were made willing subjects of Christ who were the slaves of Satan. The conversion of a sinner is the translation of a soul into the kingdom of Christ out of the kingdom of the devel.

Comment on the Motto Text

Here is a confession of the Christian faith, addressed to Christ, and so made an act of devotion. Here is a confession of the true God as the living God, in opposition to idols, and of Jesus Christ, whom He hath sent, whom to know is life eternal. The deity of Jesus was and ihs His outstanding and supreme trait. Repeatedly and deliberately He claimed Godhood. He was called the Son of the Father, by His followers. The Gospel declare His deity. Every regenerate heart knows that he is God. The duty of confession is a fundamental duty of every Christian. Confess Him then as Peter did, first to himself and also to others. Confess Him continually and convincingly. Confession will confirm our faith and widen our service and bless the world.

San Diego Group Hears Restrictive Covenants Blasted by Rev. Russell

Rev. Clayton D. Russell, pastor of the Independent Church of Christ, Los Angeles, was the principal speaker at the second of a series of meetings planned by the San Diego Citizens Improvement and Protective League, Monday night, February 2, in the Logan school, 28th and Oceanview Blvd., San Diego.

Rev. Clayton D. Russell

Organized several months ago to prevent extension of restrictive covenants in the San Diego area, the San Diego Citizens Improvement and Protective League has perfected plans to provide legal and financial assistance to any person, regardless of race, creed, or color, whose property or civil rights may be jeopardized by enforcement of restrictive covenants.

Dr. N. E. Taylor, pastor of Greater Calvary Baptist church, San Diego, is president of the new organization, which includes members of all racial groups. Dr. Taylor is spearheading a drive designed to put membership in the San Diego Citizens Improvement and Protective League over the 500 mark by April 1. Regular meetings are planned for the first Monday of each month at the Logan school, San Diego.

One of the first to carry the fight to outlaw restrictive covenants to the U. S. supreme court, Rev. Russell has been active in crusading for equal civil rights for many years. With the heightened interest in the U. S. supreme court's forthcoming decision on the legality of continued state enforcement of restrictive covenants, a large crowd heard Dr. Russell Monday night.

Phoenix Antioch Baptist Enjoys Profitable Month

Rev. R. N. Holt of the Antioch Baptist church, Phoenix, Arizona, delivered his Sunday morning address from the subject, "Ye are my witnesses." His message was wonderfully received and one person was added to the church fold.

The Junior and Senior Missions are now organized and are established on both sides of town.

Baha'i News

"Oneness of Mankind" is the subject of the lecture to be given by Robert Powers at the public meeting of the Baha'i World Faith at Los Angeles headquarters, 331 South New Hampshire Ave,, on Sunday afternoon, February 8, at 3 o'clock.

The source of human rights is the endowment of qualities, virtues and powers which God has bestowed upon mankind without discrimination of sex, race, creed or nation. To fulfill the possibilities of this divine endowment is the purpose of human existence. Human rights can be established in terms of social status when members of the community realize that the gift of life and conscious being obligates them to meet responsibilities owed to God, to society and to self.

The Sally Martin Singers of Chicago will be featured in a gospel song feast on Friday night, February 6. The Martin Singers need no introduction—for they are known from coast to coast as a group of consecrated singers, who have dedicated their lives for service in the field of carrying the gospel in songs. To hear them is to witness a gospel treat.

Visit our services—"The Little Old Fashioned Church of the West," where they bear witness to the truth and quench not the Holy Spirit. If you feel like shouting, shout. City Council Okehs Zone Law Changes Changes in the master zoning ordinance were approved yesterday by the city council in response to the real estate lobby's promise to build low rental multiple units should restrictions be removed.

Monthly rent of $52 for a single and $78 for a double were the rates described as "low" for a veteran and family by spokesmen for the housing industry.

The changes will cut down on land space required for the multiple dwellings. Voting on amendments to relax the restrictions on space per tenant and off street parking requirements was postponed.

SPORT ODDS and ENDS

By Sports Staff

BOB HUNTER, football and baseball writer on the staff of the LOS ANGELES EXAMINER, informs us that BOB MIKE, for the past two years a member of the UCLA football team and who was ruled ineligible for further competition by the PACIFIC COAST CONFERENCE, will play next year for the SAN FRANCISCO '49ers of the AAC. . . . If BOBBIN' AROUND is right, MIKE will become the second NEGRO to play with the Bay City AAC pros next season. . . . JOE PERRY, little ALL-AMERICAN back from COMPTON COLLEGE, has already been signed to a 49er contract. . . . Coupled with FRANKIE ALBERT, NORMAN STANDLEE, and "STRIKE" STRYKOWSKI, PERRY will be the fourth member of what shapes up to be the best backfield in all of football.

OSCAR GIVENS, TALMADGE OWENS and JIM PRICE, who couldn't "make" the '47 LOS ANGELES DONS football team, played last season with the HAWAIIAN team of the PACIFIC COAST FOOTBALL LEAGUE. . . . From HONOLULU, the guys in the know are saying that GIVENS and OWENS, on the basis of their sensational play all season with the island team, will probably get another chance at the "Big league" when summer training opens sometime in July. . . . ABE SAPERSTIEN, headman of the far-famed HARLEM GLOBETROTTERS, says that DON BARKSDALE, former All-American center from UCLA and currently heading the AMERICAN BASKETBALL LEAGUE scoring race with the OAKLAND BITTNERS, is not good enough yet to "make" the GLOBETROTTER basketball team. . . . SAPERSTIEN thinks that DON has a lot to learn about ball handling and finesse. . . . After watching the TROTTERS play recently in OAKLAND, BARKSDALE was reported to have agreed that he still had a lot to learn about basketball before running in the same company as the HARLEM lads. . . . Although it is very doubtful indeed tha tthe former BRUIN would accept a position with the eastern club. . . . BARKSDALE has, in the words of SAPERSTIEN, "a very bright future up in Oakland."

N. Y. DISTRICT ATTORNEY TOM HOGAN is already to blow the lid off the crooked dealings in the fight game. . . . Through the "grapevine" we learn that NEW YORK won't be the only state touched by the hard-hitting D. D.'s report. . . . Rumblings and recurrents may be felt as far as our own LOS ANGELES. . . . From N. Y. also comes the information that ailing MIKE JACOBS has already got the signed LOUIS-WALCOTT contract safely in his wall safe. . . . All the talk of disagreement and unsatisfactory terms, we hear, was nothing more than publicity. . . . The "grapevine" also informs that JACOBS is paying ELMER RAY a flat salary just to be on deck if anything happens to JERSEY JOE between now and the fight. . . . Of course JACOBS won't permit RAY to fight between now and June.

WOODLY LEWIS, star halfback on last year's LACC football squad, leaves for EUGENE, OREGON, this month to enter the UNIVERSITY OF OREGON. . . . CONNIE SMITH, last year's GOLDEN GLOVES champ from L. A., has caught encouraging fave notices from the local press in his first few professional fights. . . . We hear that MODESTO J. C. should be "the class" of the METROPOLITAN CONFERENCE on the cinder path. . . . In the WESTERN STATES, it looks like LACC and COMPTON will tie horns for league honors. . . . Around WESTWOOD, the talk is that this year's UCLA track squad will be the best in the school's history.

McKenley Makes Comeback in Aus.

SYDNEY, Australia — Flying Herb McKenley, the long striding former University of Illinois athlete, holder of the American NCAA 440 yard dash record, came racing back this week to partly make amends for his surprise triple defeat by two young virtually unknown Aussie runners last week end, when he finished first in the 400 meters and second in the 100 meter dash here last Saturday.

"Hurryin' Herb", outdistanced all comers to easily win the 400 meter yard dash in the good time of 48.2. In the 100 meters, however, McKenley wasn't so fortunate. The Jamaican ace finished second by a yard and a half to young John Treloar in the time of 10.9.

The track world was sent spinning on its ears last week when McKenley was beaten in the 100, 220, and 440 by Treloar and John Bartran.

Barksdale Hot

SACRAMENTO — Long Don Barksdale, former All-American center from U. C. L. A., set a new American Basketball League scoring record here Saturday night as he lead the Oakland Bittners to a 58-50 victory over the Sacramento Senators before 2800 fans.

Barksdale, regarded as the finest "freshman" to come up to the American League since the days of Hank Luisetti, tallied 23 points as he led his teammates to an impressive victory over the strong Senators. The 23 markers gave the lanky ex-Bruin a season's total of 291 which surpasses the old league record of 271 set by Jim Pollard.

ON THE TURF

CALIENTE, OLD MEXICO: Over five thousand lovers of the Sport of Kings were on hand last Sunday and witnessed The Parade of Longshots visiting the charmed circle of Presiding Stewart and Racing Director, Judge George Shillings. Only one favorite out of the eleven races were able to score. It was "Loma Marvel" in the Third Race. A first starter at the border course named "Al Bargello" in the First Race who won like a good thing beating the favored "Little Spike" to pay $16.40. In the Second Bonapur, a field horse defeated "Secor," also a favorite, to pay $21.20. It was in the Third that the form players got their break when "Loma Marvel" scored easily. Paying $4.80. The Daily-Double combination of "Bonapur" and "Loma Marvel" paid its lucky holders the nice sum of $439.20 for the two dollar investment. In the "Club Royal" one of the featured events of the day, "Abeyance," a good thing won to pay $9.00. The favorite "Ranch Rider" who looked like a cinch on paper was fourth. Overlooked in the betting was "Latal" of the R. C. Ellsworth Stable. It was only two weeks ago that the good son of "Arigotal"-"Bye Bye Lady" finished a bang up second to get on in the fast time of 1:12 1-5. Placed with the best sprinters on the grounds in the featured event called "The Sasin," "Latal" followed the pace set by George Sutton's "Boot Black" to catch the flying sprinter in the stretch to win going away by two lengths paying the overlaid price of $26.00 for two. "Boot Black," who's owner is the popular Negro sportsman of San Diego, George Sutton, was trying for his third straight victory but the best he could do was finish second. The time for the six furlongs was 1:11 3-5. The quiniela backers of "Aroc," winner and "Handy Za," who was second in the last race received $99.00 for the two dollar investment. All in all, the eleven race program brought some close finishes. This Sunday General Manager Walter C. Marty presents twelve races with the featured event named after one of the greatest jockeys in the world and now leading the riders at Santa Anita he's Eddie Arcaro. So the featured race is named "The Arcaro" handicap at one mile and a sixteenth. Some of the outstanding jockeys now at Santa Anita will have mounts in this race and it will be the first time since the old days at Tijuana that such noted jockeys will be seen in action at the border course.

Dodds Sets Record As Pearman, Dillard Star

NEW YORK—Gil Dodds, the bespectacled Boston parson with the runaway legs, and Reggie Pearman, the bronze hued NYU middle distance runner, won individual honors here Saturday night in the annual Milrose Games at Madison Square Garden.

Dodds definitely won for himself the role of number one United States Olympic distance hope, when he turned in not only the greatest performance of his entire career, but the finest mile ever run by an American when he came blazing home in the new world's indoor record time of 4:05.3.

The Boston clergyman was never challenged over the gruelinig 11 lap course. He broke from the field at the gun and ran "by himself" the rest of the route. Dodds ran the first quarter in 58.4, the half in 2:00.8, the three-quarter in 3:03.9 and then turned on the heat to turn in one of the most outstanding feats in the annals of track history by blazing the last quarter in 61.7: Dodds' nearest challenger was Bill Mack of Michigan State who was good 80 yards back. Les Mitchell failed badly in comeback to finish a poor th

Reggie Pearman, the Natio Champion from NYU, had come from third in the last yards to win the special 880 y run in the good indoor time 1:54.6.

Barney Ewell, defending yard Milrose champ, failed in defense of the title, when sta LaValle ruled the National C door Champion out of the for three false starts.

Harrison Dillard, the Natio Champion from Baldwin-Wall college, took the 60 yard h hurdles with ease, to furt substantiate his followers' cl that he is "America's numbe hurdler."

Golden Gloves Produced Great Fighters

Saturday night at the Hollywood Legion Stadium, the Los-Angeles finals of the Golden Glove Tournament will be staged. The winners up there in the ring Saturday night at the Legion, will go on to Chicago, there to represent the City of the Anegeles in the National Golden Glove Tournament and there to New York. If any of the local lads survive through big city slugfest, they will go on to London, there to represent the United States in the Olympic games this summer.

With the local Glove tournament coming to a conclusion, one is again reminded of the fine service and aid that the annual amateur tournaments have given to the youth of America. One is again reminded of the countless young men who, without the Golden Gloves, would be working in a steel mill, or laboring under the hot southern sun, instead of wearing the purple of the great and near great.

BUILDS CHAMPIONS IN AND OUT OF RING

The Golden Gloves has given the prospective fighters poise, experience, and a chance to show their wares before he top managers of the era. They have given to many young boxers, the will to go on and be something besides a common laborer or unskilled worker. It has taught the youth of this country to play the game fair and square at all times. To some, it has closed the door in time. Many lads who might have gone on to wind up at the end of the long and disastrous road to Queer Street; the street lined with the hulking wrecks of "human punching bags" have been discouraged. To others, it has opened the doors to a new world. If it had not been for The "Gloves," Joe Louis would have probably still been working in the Detroit plant of Henry Ford. The world and the Negro race would have been unknowingly robbed of the greatest human fighting machine that ever lived. There would have been no "Sugar Ray" Robinson, Willie Joyce, Ike Williams, Tony Zale, and many more who first gained fame under the Golden Glove sponsorship.

All the boys who first entered the ring through the Golden Glove Tournaments have not all gone on to be championship fighters. All of them haven't earned the fabulous riches of Joe Louis, Tony Zale and Ike Williams. But one thing, all the boys who first started swinging leather up there in the biggest amateur go of them all, have come away with the spirit of fair play, clean living, and good Americanism.

Professional Boxing Could Taking Lessons From Amateurs

MORE OF THE SAME IN THE FIGHT GAME

Right now, and for the past decade, the fight game has been under fire from every corner. Loud cries of "fixed fights," gambling, and "nose dives" have been synonymous with American professional boxing. If it had not been for the fine work of namely one guy, oJe Louis, who was at all time above reproach in and outside of the ring, it's no telling where professional boxing would be today.

This week, New York District Attorney Tom Hogan will blow the lid of the crooked dealings in the fight game, and it won't only be felt in New York. The affects will be nation-wide in scope.

I'm saying right now, right here, and at this present moment, that if the professional boxing game was run on the same procedure and with the same fair play as are the Golden Glove Tournaments, there would not be this trouble and unrest in pro fistiannia. I'm saying that if more of our professional fighters came from the Golden Glove ranks, they wouldn't be all these cries of "fixed fights" and put up jobs. I'm saying that until we can standardize the rules and penalties for dishonesty in boxing, or any other sport, in all the states, our system of professional boxing will lie stagnant in the gutter like it is today.

GIPSONNETTE

I love the way you hold me tight,
I love the way you kiss goodnight.
I love you . . . But you're just a jerk,
'Cause you called me Jean and my name is GERT!!!

NOTES FROM A NEWSGAL'S NOTEBOOK

If you have an ear for music, you should stuff it with cotton when you hear Phil Harris' recording of "Old Time Religion." . . . We'll put the column's seal of approval on lotsa things, but "swinging" church songs isn't one of them. . . . There's a tear in the heart of Los Angeles. . . . Winifred Harris died last week. "Echo," as she was affectionately called by her many friends, was called to Heaven following a short illness. . . . Jean Harris, the dimpled deb of Sugar Hill society, is glancing at plane schedules with a N. York vacation trip in mind. . . . C. T. Webb called . . . complained that the fingerprints of all restaurant workers should be registered on something other than butter!!! . . . Georgia Jones is studying to be a hair-stylist, with her eyes on a beautician's career. . . . Julliette Ball's telephone number has the highest priority rating in the local bachelor set. She's more popular than a dollar bill. . . . Bobby Baker, the dancer, and Alice Williams, the deb, are "this close." They'll marry in March. . . . Troubles a-brewing in the Bronzeville sector of Los Angeles' underworld, allegedly over the likker situation, and that's all I know about it, Mr. District Attorney. . . . The rumors that the George Perrys will re-marry are around again. . . . George has denied it right along. . . . Mary Louise Morrison's singing on West Washington is something to enjoy. . . . Her style of toying with a ballad is comforting to the ears . . . Her gobs of friends are hip-hip-hooraying Avanelle Harris' speedy recovery following a recent illness. . . . Marie (Little Bo-Pip) Washington is the magnet that draws the crowds to that Western avenue spot. . . . What a personality and wotta pr. of legs!! . . . A San Francisco sportsman is in bad with the F. B. Eyes over a teen-age tot. There's enough charges in the indictment to set off a stick of dynamite. . . . He'll be convicted, according to main stem buzz, on a Mann act charge of transporting a bobby-soxer from Calif. to Ariz. . . . Melba Fouppe, who stenogs so efficiently for an attorney, strollin' the stem t'other noon hour lookin' so lovely. . . .

In some sectors of the city Johnny Moore's 3-Blazers outsell the King Cole Trio discs 3 to 1. Mebbe so, but we do the column by the King's recording of "What'll I Do." His singing is our kind of enjoyment. . . . Newest excitement to our town is Jeanne Anderson, the Detroit doll, who sings like Hollywood's Lena Horne looks—and looks like her, too. . . . Harry Bigelow ordered a dozen sport-shirts last week just to show off a new pair of diamond cuff-links (It isn't news, I know, but who's writing this column anyway?)

ALL AROUND THE TOWN

Are all those gendarmes hanging around the various bars to check on reports from parents that giggle-water is being peddled to teen-age tots? . . . Well, I give up. Hold on to your hats . . . newest drink in local cafe society is a thing called the Blazer. . . . Two double whiskies, jigger of gin, dash of Sheranova and duck!!! Kay Davis, the D. Ellington thrush, is said to be the "other woman" in the Lawrence Brown-Freda Washington triangle. . . . SUDDEN THAWT:—The most wonderful thing about Vaughn Monroe's singing is the invention of that little gadget which makes it possible to turn off the radio during one of his songs!! . . . Overheard In The Downbeat: "Ah, come on baby, where is your heart?" . . . "Straight down my neck, first turn to your left." . . . Leroy Bradley was bragging of the $$'s he spends at the various clubs. . . . The only thing he ever spends at a club, someone yelled across the room, "is the evening"! . . . POEM: It's when the bride gets her hubby's pay check . . . and he samples one of her cakes . . . that both of them realize they can't live . . . on what the other makes. . . . Eddie Williams is a man-about-town and a fool about Marie Fields, who ought to be discovered by a talent scout. Her loveliness is more refreshing to the eyes than a boric acid bath. . . . Jessie Price, the musician whose drumming is swingsational, is rehearsing a full-sized band . . . so long as he keeps those zippy arrangements, s'alright with us. . . . He beats those skins with an atomic swing!!! Randolph Lomax says Rep. Rankin's idea of "democracy" is so distorted that what he needs is "someone to straighten him out." . . . Yeah, someone frix-ample, like Joe Louis!! . . . Have you caught the new show at the Shang-ri-la? More entertaining than a song by Sinatra! El Herbert's band, Bardu Ali's emceeing, Chas. Waterford's new blues ditty "Move Your Hand, Baby." . . . The terrific act of Alma Purnell, Billy Mitchell's Milton-Berlescing and the dancing of "Taps Harris" and "Snowball Whittier" to keep things moving right along.

IN THE NEWS CATEGORY

Geo. Brown, who has had so many wives he is often confused with Solomon, will wed for the sixth time in June. The wives are okay, but all those mother-in-laws!! . . . A paragraphical pat on the back to Dr. Wm. Beck, one of the top chest specialists of our town. Quiet, unassuming and the personification of friendliness. His "hello there" is one of the city's most cordial greetings. . . . He's preparing a book for publication, and anything on "medicine" by Dr. Beck will make more sense than the Congressional Record. He, as they say in Harlem, "knows his onions"!! . . . Ruth Hoard, a favorite nurse over at this desk, is another reason we like to write nice things about nice people. Shes' tops in every sense of the word!! . . . Art Wilson's lost weekend lasted exactly a month. Over a brown named Gloria. . . . Are Lennie Mae George and florist Willie Brown planning a trip to the altar? A friend of hers told a friend of mine and this friend of mine told me. . . . We never tire of praising worthy causes, and the Club Festival at the Club Congo on Sunday afternoon, February 22, to raise money to "Help Send Kids To Camp" rates your support. A star-studded show with big time acts and a thank-you to Suzzette Harbin and Dorothy Dandridge for lining up all the talent. Tickets are selling faster than the new Fraziers. . . . And with that we leave you with this: "Experience is what you get when you're looking for something else."

Dancing will be enjoyed from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m. Admission will be $1.20 including tax. Tickets will be available at the Elks box office the night of the dance.

Scouts to Hold 38th Anniv. Services at 1st AME Zion

The 38th Anniversary Church Services for all Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts and Senior Units, will be held in the beautiful First A.M.E. Zion churches, main chapel, Sunday, February 15, at 3:45 p.m. The church is located at 1221 Paloma, one block west of Central avenue, and one block south of 12th st. This will be the closing event of a number of activities indulged in by members of the Boy Scouts during Boy Scout week, according to Judge Jefferson, district chairman.

The McKinley District has more than 700 boys in the Scouting Program. The majority are of the Protestant faith, and will attend the services with their leaders, parents and friends. Mothers and fathers who are interested in taking their children to a service which will inspire them to live a wholesome and clean life, are encouraged to attend early. The Boy Scouts of America maintain that no boy can grow into the best kind of citizenship without recognizing his obligation to God. The recognition of God has a ruling and leading power in the universe, and the grateful acknowledgement of his favors and blessings are necessary for the best type of citizenship, and are wholesome things in the education of the growing boy, said Roger Willis, District Scout executive.

Get Together Club At Second A.M.E.

The Get Together Club of the Second A.M.E. church was reorganized Sunday, January 18. Mrs. Anna Evans was elected president and Mrs. Virginia Alexander, secretary. The club meets every second and fourth Sunday, immediately after the morning service. All members of the Second A.M.E. are invited to join.

Treasury Dept. Director Resigns

Fred H. Johnson, state director of the U. S. Savings Bonds division for Southern California, expressed his sincere appreciation to associates in the program in helping to make the war and peacetime financing a tremendous success. He retired from office January 31 to reenter private business activity.

Reporting the Southern California 1947 sales, he stated that the grand total was $548,281,481.09 for the two-year period. Commencing February 1, J. B. Meshick, payrool deputy, will be the acting state director. Messick formerly worked as executive assistant to the director of Industrial and Public relations for Douglas Aircraft company and is thoroughly familiar with the war and peacetime program.

St. James Choir Director Entertains

The St. James Baptist church choir, which is under the direction of Mrs. Ruth Smith, formerly of Kansas City, is making a remarkable showing. Mrs. B. F. Gipson is the pianist.

The choir held its monthly fellowship meeting at the home of Mrs. Smith, who was a very charming and gracious hostess. Following the meeting a lovely luncheon was served. Those attending the meeting were Mattie L. Kidd of Mississippi; Katherine Snow, Sarah Killens, E. D. Burgers, Easter Mae Shoemaker, Eurelia Belles, the Willie Burches, the Verolyne Maridas, Eula Mae Morica, Celia Taylor, Willie Mae Gibbs, Birdie Fay Gipson, Roy Snow, Lenora Nails, the James Phillips, Charles Randles, Victorine Ford, and the pastor, Rev. M. J. Gipson,

Reminds White Church of Duty To Minorities

The white Christian Church this week had been reminded of its duty in the fight for human rights and dignity. The reminder came from Rev. Stephen H. Fritchman, new minister of the First Unitarian church of this city.

"No organization should be doing more to support the President's Committee on Civil Rights than the Christian Church," Rev. Fritchman told his congregation.

"Every precept of Jesus, in his Sermon on the Mount," Rev. Fritchman said, "should fortify church leaders in making a major offensive on behalf of the rights of Catholics, Jews, Negroes and Mexicans who bear the stigmata of being in minorities.

"Many evils born of prejudice can be arrested by the aroused will of the American people through government control. Federal laws are needed to punish individuals and groups that are guilty of crimes against minorities. The Christian church can and should act as a prod of conscience to a slumbering State."

Every one wishes to have truth on his side, but it is not every one that sincerely wishes to be on the side of truth.

Court Acquits Three Of Robbery Charge

Pleuris Reed, Robert Gun and William Blue, 1616 Staunton avenue, were all acquitted of robbery charges by Superior Judge Edward Brand in Dept. 45, superior court, last Friday morning.

The three men, who were represented by Atty. Curtis C. Taylor, were charged by Roosevelt Diggs, who described himself as an itinerant cotton picker, of having beaten him severely and robbed him of $72 at the corner of 16th and Central last Nov. 29.

Diggs told a vivid story of how the three men intercepted him, two of them throwing him to the ground and beating his head while the third rifled his pocket, whereupon the three fled. However, Atty. Curtis C. Taylor, who represented the three accused men, paraded at host of witnesses before the court, all of whom testified that at the time of the alleged robbery, the three defendants were imbibing cocktails in Watts.

Although Diggs was positive in his identification of the three men, Judge Brand sustained their alibi on the basis of reasonable doubt and ordered them freed from custody.

On The Sidewalk

By C. A. B.

TODAY I have before me a list of some twenty-one persons, charged as political deportation cases. Among them is the name of Claudia Jones.

Persons born or naturalized in the United States are American citizens. This also holds true with other nations.

Miss Jones is 32 years old; 23 of her 32 years were lived in the United States. Having been born in the British West Indies, until naturalized the subject would be considered British. But here is the inside of the story. Miss Jones, it appears, has tried over and over again to secure naturalization papers, but was always denied.

Here are the names of the other twenty listed with Miss Jones, and charged with un-American activities: Alexander Bittelman, 57 years of age, born in Russia, lived in the U. S. 35 years; Peter Harisiades, 44 years of age, born in Greece, lived in the U. S. 31 years; Charles Krzycki, 62, born in Czechoslovakia, lived in U. S. 40 years; John Santo, 40, born in Rumania, in U. S. 20 years; Michael Obermeier, 50, Germany, in U. S. 34 years; Harry Bersin, 49, Latvia, in U. S. 28 years; Alexander Stephens, 52, Hungary, in U. S. 15 years; John Nabeshka, 51, Russia, in U. S. 35 years; Theresa Horvath, 49, Hungary, in U. S. 26 years; David Balint, 40, Czechoslovakia, in U. S. 27 years; Konda Dimitroff, 51, Bulgaria, in U. S. 28 years; Joseph Knerly, 49, Hungary, in U. S. 34 years; Refugio Martinez, 44, Mexico, in U. S. 23 years; Martin Karasek, 47, Austria, in U. S. 45 years; Peter J. Warhol, 37, Czechoslovakia, in U. S. 34 years; James J. Crain, 63, Ireland, in U. S. 32 years; Juan Diaz, 51, Spain, in U. S. 32 years; Frank Carlson, 34, Poland, in U. S. 33 years; Paul Cline, 43, Russia, in U. S. 38 years; and Dr. John Greenberg, 62, Rumania, in U. S. 40 years.

THE SHORTEST U. S. A. residence of any of these is that of Alexander Stephens who came to New York from Hungary 15 years ago.

Most of these persons considered undesirable citizens, who "threaten to overthrow the government," have lived in the United States from 15 to 45 years. Some were mere babies when they came, as for instance, Claudia Jones.

Doesn't it seem strange that the authorities of our government would wait such a long time before they conclude that the mission of these people of alien birth is the overthrow of a government they cherish as theirs?

There is not a doubt in my mind but that these and many others both native and foreign-born, accused of subversive activities, are more loyal to this country than the members of the Thomas un-American Activities Committee.

When I read the list, including Clauda Jones, young Negro woman, charged as aliens to our way of life, I wondered what Hitler would say, if he were here.

And I am wondering if those people who covered their heads in white sheets and paraded in defiance of law and order in Georgia last week, are good, loyal Americans.

I have heard of no investigation to determine who were wrapped in those sheets. Could some of them, by any chance, have been Communists? Or even Fascists?

It makes me wonder at times if our Uncle Sam has found which of these two elements — Communism or Fascism — is actually undermining our democracy and destroying our peace, and with which of these the Ku Klux Klan could be identified.

WHAT I learned about Fascism during the period of Hitler's Germany, was that the government's treatment of the German Jews in method was much like the present operations of terrorism and murder of the Ku Klux Klan against Negroes now and for the past 80 years.

On the other hand, all the people who believe in world peace — Jew, Gentile, and Negro — are jumbled into one category — Communist. Now where does this leave us? If the KKK is almost exactly like Hitler's Storm Troopers in its tactics, there can be one and only one conclusion. Those white sheets and hoods do not cover Communists. They cover a people similar to Hitler's hoodlums — the Fascists of America.

I AM PROUD to say that I live in the Fourteenth Congressional District.

Why?

Because Helen Gahagan Douglas is my representative in Congress.

Congresswoman Douglas, sometimes alone, has never, never failed her constituency in matters and issues that uphold the rights and civil liberties of all the people.

I can't help but feel that this woman, who categorically gave the Negro soldier the credit due him for valor and bravery in World War II, would if it were within her power, give to the KKK and the truly un-American subversive aliens of democracy in this nation, the same type of blow that Abraham Lincoln dealt the slave movement in 1863.

Four Firemen, Chief, Driver Hurt in Crash

Four Negro firemen of Engine Co. No. 14, and the battalion chief and driver, white, were seriously injured in a collision at the intersection of Washington blvd. and Central ave. last Monday morning.

Engine No. 14 is stationed at 34th street and Central ave. Answering a fire alarm for 15th street, the Engine Company was northbound on Central ave. At the same time the battalion chief, William Bennett, who answers all fire alarms with his various companies, was eastbound on Washington blvd.

They met at the intersection with a terrific crash. The firemen were hurled from their speeding truck to the pavement, and the chief's car was hurled against a light post, pinning him and his driver, Benjamin Rein under the wreckage.

It is believed that the sounds of the two sirens synchronized as they approached the intersection, and each drowned out the warning of the other.

The injured were taken to the Georgia street Receiving Hospital. They are: Battalion Chief William Bennett, 4427 Norelle st., shoulder fracture and possible internal injuries. Driver Benjamin Rein, 36, 1164 Masselin ave., back injuries.

The injured firemen are: Capt. John Prayer, 42, 806 East 116th place, fractured right shoulder; George Winchester, 30, 1419 West 36th street, chest and back injuries; George Cromell, 24, 1450 East 47th street, clavicle fracture; Cecil McLinn, 34, 2046 West 29th street, side injuries.

Crews of other vehicles put out the fire, which started when a paint vat overheated in the rear of the E. K. Cage Co. burst into flames.

L.A. Woman's Mother Slain By Texas Cops

Mrs. Lou Ella Brown, whose body was found recently in Pope Creek, near Harleton, Texas, was the mother of Mrs. Clyde Lois Craver, who lives with her husband, Tommie Craver, at 128 North Mountain View ave., Los Angeles.

A sordid tale of discrimination and brutality is unfolded in the story of the Brown mystery. Mrs. Clara Moore, white woman and owner of a farm near Harleton, was discovered murdered last September, and Henry

Pastor, Two Board Members Win Decision In $24,000 Court Battle

ATTY. THOMAS L. GRIFFITH Jr.

The famed Second Baptist libel suit which leaped into the news last year when a jury assessed $24,000 damages against the church's pastor, Rev. J. Raymond Henderson, and John H. Hilton and R. A. Hudson, chairman and secretary of the deacon board respectively, took a change in favor of the church last Friday when the district court of appeal reversed the decision of the jury.

The court held that preparation and presentation of alleged libelous publications, for which the jury had assessed damages, were exclusively a church affair in connection with disciplinary action then pending against Brewer and Fisher before members of the church.

Attorneys Geisler and Meyer M. Wilner were associate Counsel in the successful appeal with Attorney Thomas L. Griffith Jr., who has represented the church throughout the litigation.

The case arose as a result of a business meeting held by the church in October, 1945, which Fisher and Rev. Brewer were notified to attend. At that meeting, Hilton and Hudson read to the church membership a recommendation from the deacon board which contained the charges that Brewer and Fisher claimed to be libelous. The meeting voted to expel Fisher and Brewer.

The two then sued for $100,000 damages, charging libel, and

Wiley College Student-Board Fight in Court

MARSHALL, Tex.—The courts have been asked to decide on the question whether the board of trustees of Wiley college was within its rights in expelling 53 leaders for their participation in the recent student strike at the college.

Monday, March 8, has been tentatively set as the date for the hearing. It is also the date of the opening of the spring semester at the college.

The students struck to enforce demands for the firing of several members of the college faculty against whom they had filed charges.

Lomax Divorce Trial Postponed To Tues., July 6

By CYRIL BRIGGS

Hearing was continued to July 6 last Tuesday in the sensational divorce suit filed by Mrs. Carmelita Lomax, in which she charges her husband, Lucius Lomax Jr., publisher of the Los Angeles Tribune, with adultery and cruelty, and names him as the father of the two young children of Almena Michele Davis, editor of his paper.

Counsel for Mrs. Lomax had subpoenaed numerous witnesses and were prepared to go to trial Tuesday morning as scheduled. The postponement was requested by Lucius Lomax Sr., and his estranged wife, Mrs. Minnie Lomax, to permit them more time to prepare an answer to an amended complaint.

The amended complaint accused young Lomax of having sought to conceal his ownership of certain properties by conveying title to his parents.

The properties involved include the Cocktail Lounge in the Hotel Dunbar and two buildings on Western avenue, to wit: the building at 29th and Western formerly occupied by the Fawn Cafe, and a building across the street occupied by the Cress Bar which is operated by Nelson Cresswell, popular young sportsman.

Young Mrs. Lomax is represented by Attorney Walter L. Gordan Jr. Associated with Gordon on the case is Atty. H. Rich-

Jewish Leader Backs Anti-Bias Ives-Fulton Bill

NEW YORK—Dr. Stephen S. Wise, president of the American Jewish Congress, yesterday urged the members of the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee to report the Ives-Fulton Bill on discrination in employment favorably to the senate and without amendments.

In a telegram sent to each member of the Committee, Dr. Wise asserted that racial and religious discrimination could no longer be combatted by pious condemnation alone. He warned that a bill without efefctive provision for enoforcement would serve to encourage further discrimination since hearings and findings would have no binding effect. The Ives-Fulton Bill, stated Dr. Wise, meets this problem effectively and should therefore be passed without amendment.

Royall Defends Army Jimcrow

WASHINGTON—Kenneth C. Royall, secretary of the army, yesterday announced that the army will continue to segregate Negroes in separate units within white battalions.

He made the statement in reponse to a letter from Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll of New Jersey asking whether the army's policies would prevent the state national guard from carrying out the non-segregation policy of the New Jersey constitution.

Royall said he had decided that "for the present" national guard units in New Jersey would not be denied federal recognition on the ground of non-segregation.

He defended segregation in the army, declared it had been instituted "in the interest of national defense," and added, that "both the staff and I feel that this is still the case."

Assails Capital Police Probe of Wallace Support

NEW YORK—The National Wallace for President Committee this week wired President Truman a vigorous protest over reported plans of Washington, D. C. police for investigation and hounding of Wallace supporters in the capital. Washington police are employes of the federal government.

The protest was based on a story in the Washington Daily News that capital police were to "probe Wallace support." The story said that members of Lt. Harry C. Blackman's special investigation squad "will probe into the political leanings of everyone attending recent organiation meetings of Wallace supporters here."

In a wire to Truman, Elmer A. Benson, chairman of the National Wallace for President Committee, declared that the story, if true, "means that the equivalent of a Gestapo is now policing the capital of our nation."

"In the ranks of Wallace supporters," he continued, "capital police will find many who protest the high cost of living and racial discrimination. Precisely for such beliefs are these people

Condemned Man Won Reprieve At Last Minute

SAN FRANCISCO—U. S. District Judge George B. Harris on Monday will review the case of Dewey Adamson, Los Angeles man to whom a stay of execution was granted last Friday a few hours before he was slated to die in the gas chambers at Sacramento.

Adamson was convicted in 1944 on purely circumstantial evidence of the murder of Mrs. Stella Blanvett, an elderly white Los Angeles woman. Clemency had been denied him by Gov. Warren, despite new

'Cain and Abel' Slayer Held for Superior Court

Willie Kuykendall, so-called "Cain and Abel" slayer was held to answer to superior court following a preliminary hearing in division 2 of the municipal court last Thursday morning. He was charged with murder. The charge grew out of an altercation at 1419½ East 53rd Street, the home of the accused man on the night of January 27.

Upon the advise of his attorney Curtis C.Taylor, Kuykendall did not take the stand, but several neighbors who were present testified that Purdis Kuykendall, brother of the defendant, met his death from a stab wound after he had become enraged because his brother had awakened him from a heavy slumber and started a fight.

The testimony was that the dead man had been drinking heavily and had fallen asleep and upon awakening rushed at his brother with flying fists and the two men grappled and wrestled themselves into the kitchen where Willie Kuykendall

Vernon Crash Snarls Traffic

Traffic on East Vernon avenue was tied up for about 30 minutes Tuesday morning when a loaded Consolidated Rock Products Co. truck crashed into an eastbound trolley car at Vernon and Towne. The hood of the truck was badly battered, but no one was injured.

Eyewitnesses of the accident say that the truck driver, white, was unconscious at the time of the crash and hanging limp over the wheel. He had taken his foot off the accelerator before passing out, and the truck was moving slowly when it hit the car. The accident occurred about 8:10 o'clock.

Truman Ready to Retreat on Civil Rights Proposals

WASHINGTON—Appeasement of Southern racists by the Administration was in the offing today as one of President Truman's principal congressional advisers predicted that the President would back down on the ten-point charter of human rights he sent to congress with much fanfare last week. No Henry Wallace who boldly faces the thunder of reaction and with his thunder strikes back, Truman is reported to be wavering before the first blast of criticism from the unreconstructed poll tax South.

The report that the President would retreat on his program for civil rights legislation followed on the heels of an ultimatum to the administration from a conference of Southern governors to cease attacks on Southern "white supremacy" concepts and jimcrow practices or face a revolt of party leaders in the South.

The conference gave the administration a 40-day ultimatum, setting 40 days as the limit for

How women and girls may get wanted relief from functional periodic pain

Cardui is a liquid medicine which many women say has brought relief from the cramp-like agony and nervous strain of functional periodic distress. Here's how it may help:

1—Taken like a tonic, it should stimulate appetite, aid digestion,* thus help build resistance for the "time" to come.

2—Started 3 days before "your time", it should help relieve pain due to purely functional periodic causes.

Try Cardui. If it helps, you'll be glad you did.

Minority Groups' Leaders to Discuss New State Constitution At CIO-Sponsored Meet Tonight

One hundred leaders of the Negro, Mexican, Jewish and other minority peoples have been invited by Phillip M. Connelly, secretary of the Los Angeles CIO Council, to discuss the new state constitution now being drafted by the California Legislature.

The meeting is to be held this evening, (Thursday), in the CIO Building, 5851 Avalon.

"The purpose of the meeting," Connelly stated, "is to work out a series of proposals for submission to the committee of the state legislature drafting the new constitution which would write fair employment, anti-restrictive covenant, anti-discrimination provisions into the basic laws of the state."

Twelve CIO leaders were recently named to the advisory committee appointed by Assemblyman Alfred W. Robertson, chairman of the interim committee of the legislature now working on the draft constitution.

If approved by the legislature, the draft constitution will be submitted to the people for ratification, possibly at the November 3, 1948 election.

James H. Burford, CIO Political Action director, and Dr. Sanford Goldner, assistant state CIO research director, along with other CIO leaders on the advisory committee, will participate in the informal round table discussion to which the minority leaders have been invited.

In his invitation Connelly stated that "one step to to guarantee the political, economic and social rights of all Californians would be for the advisory committee appointed by Assemblyman Robertson to include leaders of the Negro, Mexican, Jewish communities as well as spokesmen for other minority groups.

"As far as we can tell there is not one Mexican-American on the committee and only one Negro. The people will have to speak out if we are to get a constitution of a truly progressive, democratic character."

Young Eagle Reporter Turns Cop, Finds Body

One of The California EAGLE's youngest reporters, Cecelia Banks, daughter of Mrs. Aurora Banks, investigated a police call "on her own" last Monday evening at 1424 East 21st st. She discovered along with the police the body of Sandy Jones.

Cecelia heard the police siren, and out of curiosity followed the policemen into the house. The body was that of a man identified as Sandy Jones, ex-prize fighter. He was found dead in a room at 6:10 with a gas jet burning. Indications point to suicide.

Two Southern Schools Adopt Modified Jimcrow

Two southern state universities this week had let down traditional bars against Negro students under the combined blows of progressive Negro and white groups, a recent U. S. supreme court ruling and European criticism, led by Russia, of American jimcrow institutions.

The two universities were the University of Arkansas and the University of Delaware. In both cases, however, the sudden adherence to democratic practices was only formal, included merely token admissions of Negroes.

Arkansas President Lewis Webster Jones revealed that special facilities had been established in the graduate law school at Fayetville, Ark., to accommodate Clifford Davis, a Little Rock Negro who applied for admission several months ago. At the same time other university officials indicated that Negro students would continue to be barred from undergraduate courses.

Southern governors are considering a plan advanced by the Southern Governors Conference to ask their respective states to cooperate with other southern states in joint financing of regional professional schools for Negroes.

Club House Dedicated

The first unit of the New Scattergood Clubhouse, 855 N. Fair Oaks ave., will be dedicated Sunday, Feb. 15, at 3:30 p.m. There will be open house both Sunday and Monday, from 2 to 9 p.m.

Monogram Studios' main street turned back the pages more than a half century last week to become a Brooklyn street of 1876 for scenes in "The Tenderfoot."

Griffith Names Local Freedom Train Committee

Fourteen local community leaders this week undertook committee responsibilities on behalf of Los Angeles' American Heritage Observance, February 12-22, preceding the Freedom Train visit here February 23-25.

Appointments made by Thomas L. Griffith, local president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and coordinator of Negro activities on Mayor Fletcher Bowron's civic committee, are as follows:

Lorenzo Bowdain, chamber of commerce committee; Mrs. Lobelia Dingee and Mrs. Noreen Forney, women's division; Col. Moody Staten, veterans' organizations; H. A. Howard and Edward C. Atkinson, men's service division Floyd Covington, youth division.

John H. Dial, labor organizations; Rev. Frederick D. Jordan, church and religious bodies; Joe Oliver and Percy Buck, fraternal organizations; Fred N. Roberts, speakers' bureau; Clarence S. Smith, management Dr. M. C. Cooley, Medical groups.

The appointees will report back during the week of February 15.

Harriette Flowers, Honor Graduate, Has Long List of Outstanding Achievements

Honor graduate from the Los Angeles High school, the first Negro girl to hold office on the Girls' Senior Board of Control—that of secretary—Harriette Flowers has won so many other honors and awards that her life reads almost like an old-time Horatio B. Alger book.

She is a member of the All-City Senior High school orchestra, and was for a time the student conductor of that orchestra. She had the honor of directing it for commencement exercises. She is a life member of the California Scholarship Federation and a recipient of the American Legion award.

During her junior high school days, she was a member of the All-City Junior High School orchestra in which she played bass violin, and a member of the Honor Society for 5 terms. She graduated from Berendo Junior High as an honor student.

When Harriette was only nine years old she went with Mrs. Lauretta Butler to the Hawaiian Islands. She has since worked on the stage, screen, and radio, singing and dancing. She has followed up this early training, and at present she is the assistant dance director at the Lauretta Butler Dancing school.

Miss Flowers plans to attend U.C.L.A. where she will major in physical education, with mathematics as a minor. She intends to teach either physical education or math in the secondary schools of Los Angeles.

Other Negro graduate students of Los Angeles High are: Norma Lee Winston, Artyene Thomas, Lorretta Pruitt, Marvelle Henderson, Tommy Adams, Percy Greenhouse, and Gilbert Alston.

Rep. Douglas Pushes Equal Pay Fight

WASHINGTON—Helen Gahagan testified the opening day of the House Labor Committee's hearings on H. R. 4408, identical with H. R. 4273 first introduced by Mrs. Douglas July 18, 1947, providing equal pay for equal work for women.

Mrs. Douglas stated that, "The existance in industry of wage differentials based on sex is unfair and depresses the living standards of employees, male female.

"Surely," she added, "it is high time that a woman is paid what a man is for the same work."

Paul Williams Given Third County Contract

Supervisor Leonard J. Roach reports that the board of supervisors has approved a contract with Paul R. Williams, internationally famous architect, for construction of a first-class swimming pool and incidental buildings at the H. M. Newhall Memorial Park in Newhall.

Singing of this contract marks the third architectural appointment for Williams with the county since Supervisor Roach "broke the ice" by securing his appointment to design the 83,000,000 Psychopathic Hospital.

Following that, Roach was successful in landing the contract for Williams to convert a large commercial building into modern superior court chambers.

Supervisor Roach belives that the genius of William has not been fully recognized in the United States, and says that the county is fortunate to have the services of this outstanding authority.

San Pedro, Watts and Wilmington plan to charter two buses in order to take the girls from these areas to conference. The girls plan to give a joint Y-Teen affair at the Youth Center on Friday, Feb. 13, to help defray conference expenses.

Modern Scientific Health Aids To Be Stressed During Disease Prevention Week, Feb. 15 to 22

Modern scientific developments to prevent disease and promote health will be stressed during Disease Prevention Week throughout Los Angeles City and County Feb. 15-22, Dr. Ruth J. Temple, chairman of the sponsoring committee, announced yesterday.

Everyone, she said, will be advised to have vaccinations against smallpox. Parents will be urged to have children under 10 immunized against diphtheria, and children under two immunized against diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus.

Chest x-rays to determine possible tuberculosis and examinations to detect syphilis and gonorrhea where indicated will be recommended.

Individuals and families will be advised to make dates with private physicians and dentists. Those without funds for these services will be referred to public health centers.

Nutrition, sanitation, mental hygiene and good health habits also will be emphasized, Dr. Temple continued.

A featured meeting will take place Feb. 18 in the Biltmore hotel, Los Angeles, where Dr. Wilton Halverson, state public health director, and others will speak at a "leadership health luncheon."

Mayor Fletcher Bowron has proclaimed the week as a move for better health, and the board of supervisors has indorsed the project in a resolution introduced by Supervisor Roger W. Jessup.

Conducted by the Community Health Association, the observance will have cooperation of city and county health departments, public schools, PTA, American Red Cross and many others.

Calif. History on Air

California's colorful and exciting history will furnish the background for a new series of story broadcasts to be presented by the Los Angeles City Recreation and Park Department as part of the American Storybook program, it was announced this week.

The American Storybook has been on the air over radio station KLAC for almost four years, has won a host of youthful listeners, and earned the approval of parents, teachers, and recreation leaders as a recreation and educational feature in place of the over-stimulating blood-and-thunder serials often aimed at child radio listeners.

In the newest American Storybook series, offered on KLAC every Saturday at 1:15 p.m., recreation and Park Department storytellers are presenting adventures from the lives of noteworthy Californians, in line with the California Centennial being observed statewide this year.

Changes Made In Exposition Park Concerts

Two changes in the series of Sunday afternoon Chamber Music concerts now being given each week at the Los Angeles County Museum in Exposition Park were announced this week by officials in charge of the programs.

The German Concert, scheduled Sunday afternoon, February 15, has been set ahead to Feb. 29, replacing the Bohemian program set for that date. The Bohemian Concert will be moved up to Feb. 15.

All of the concerts in the series begin at 2:30 p.m.

Arizona Publisher Joins Attack on Civil Rights Program

PHOENIX, Arizona—Folsom Moore, wealthy mine owner and publisher of the Bigabee Review this week called on Arizona Democrats to join with Southern politicians in opposing President Truman's charter of human rights.

Moore denounced the President's proposals for anti-lynching, anti-polltax and FEPC legislation, asserted that Arizona Democrats would oppose Truman at the Democratic convention in Philadelphia.

mittee to continue its activities, which are patterned after those of the Thomas-Rankin Un-American Committee.

William R. Bidner, executive director of the L. A. Civil Rights Congress, expressed the belief that Judge Meakin's decision sets the basis for similar action against the house committee and the California State senate un-American Committee chaired by Sen. Jack Tenney.

Brown, a young Negro whom the Browns had befriended, was accused of the murder.

Henry Brown, an ex-service man, had come back to the Browns home upon being discharged from the army, and was there when Mrs. Moore was killed. Upon learning that he was suspected, he escaped.

Not being able to find young Brown, the police authorities set upon Mr. and Mrs. Brown. (Brown is the stepfather of Mrs. Craver.) Mrs. Brown especially was beaten unmercifully, and ordered to tell where Henry Brown was. Not knowing his whereabouts, she held out, but was lodged in jail for some time.

She disappeared last November 25, and was not discovered until about two weeks ago. Her clothes, bonnet, a ring, and $70 she had hidden in one of her shoes, helped to establish her identity.

Mrs. Craver went to the funeral of her mother, although there was little to show she was the mother she once knew.

"That's the way they treat Negroes down South," she said, with difficulty suppressing her sobs as she told her story. "If a white person is killed, they always blame a Negro first. Even if he had nothing at all to do with it. And if they can't find the right Negro, they take his nearest relatives and beat them up until they have to tell something to get free."

Mrs. Craver came to Los Angeles from Texas five years ago. And although she has found a measure of freedom and peace in this Western city, she is now living in a "restricted area" and does not know what minute she will be ordered to leave her home. Simply because she's a Negro!

She cannot understand all the protestations of freedom and liberty she has learned in school about the United States of America. And of love and kindness she hears in church every Sunday.

Aren't we all God's children? she wonedrs. Why should there be this great difference, just because our skins are a little darker than the white man's? Why do the people act this way in America?

Banquet for J. Finley Wilson Friday, Feb. 27

J. FINLEY WILSON

Grand Exalted Ruler J. Finley Wilson of the I.B.P.O.E., will be the guest of honor at a banquet given by Golden West Lodge No. 86 and Hiawatha Temple at the Elks auditorium, 4016 South Central avenue, Friday, February 27, at 8 p. m.

William F. Johnson, grand district deputy, told the press this week that the affair promises to be one of the most outstanding ever given by the local temple. He said:

"We believe that the splendid progress the lodge has made under the leadership of the Grand Exalted Ruler si the outstanding achievement in organization by our group. At our last convention the report showed that we have more members than ever before in our history, that our finances are in better shape, that more lodges have become self-supporting and free of encumbrances than ever before.

"All of these progressive developments have come to Elkdom under the leadership of J. Finley Wilson and we feel that it is fitting and proper that no expense shall be spared to make this not only an occasion of friendship and brotherly love but a fitting tribute to the outstanding leadership of the Grand Exalted Ruler."

The program committee will announce next week the list of city, county and state dignitaries who will be present to take part in the affair.

The committee in charge of arrangements for entertaining the Grand Exalted Ruler is under the leadership of William F. Johnson, Grand District Deputy, and George A. Jackson, Assistant Esquire of the Grand Lodge. E. Preston Greene is secretary of the committee, William Vale is Exalted Ruler of Golden West Lodge, and Mrs. Echo Robinson is Daughter Ruler of Hiawatha Temple.

THE ENEMIES OF THE HUMAN RACE ARE PROMOTING ANOTHER WAR.

Only a supercolossal moral upsurge can save our civilization from destruction.

By Hook or by Crook

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen have asked 21 railroads of the South to do what at first blush sounds like an attempt to promote the general welfare of the employees of those railroads, especially the firemen and helpers. The BLFE has requested that "All firemen and helpers now in service or hereafter employed shall be in line for promotion to the position of locomotive engineer."

That sounds good. Because there are thousands of Negroes working on those Southern railroads as firemen and helpers, and according to this rule, if adopted, they would be in line for promotion to engineers.

But here's the rub. "Each fireman and helper shall be called in seniority order and required to take the examination for promotion. Those who pass such examinations and meet all other requirements for promotion shall be promoted to engineer. Those who decline to take the examinations or fail to qualify for promotion shall be dismissed from the service."

The Federation of Southern Colored Locomotive Firemen Unions has called upon the railroads to refuse this request. It is but a subterfuge, the Federation points out, to dismiss thousands of Negro firemen from the service. Because of the century-old exclusion of Negroes from jobs as engineers, the overwhelming majority of Negro firemen had had no opportunity to train and qualify as engineers. (It has been only within the past few years that they have been employed as firemen).

In a recent decision of the United States Supreme Court, equality of employment was ordered for all firemen and the demand made that the BLFE cease its discriminatory practices. Now, since these lily-white engineers of the South can't get rid of Negroes employed as firemen on the railroads they have resorted to this hypocritical method of seemingly granting them an opportunity for promotion, which in reality will prove a sure-fire dismissal, in order to gain their nefarious goal.

Verily a man with a mind bent upon mischief will stop at no underhanded means to gain that goal. By hook or by crook he proposes to win.

Sow the Wind and Reap the Whirlwind

A report coming out of Washington, Monday, February 8, stated that President Truman may retrench his demand for no segregation in travel. His anti-lynch law, poll-tax and other equal rights laws will stand as stated.

If this is the decision made by the President, it will certainly weaken the support he would naturally expect from the Negro people in return for his attack on Jimcrow laws in the South.

Any retrenchment on the part of the President shows weakness. It reminds the people that upon the death of Roosevelt, when Truman became president, he promised then to pursue the course set by the late Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The Missouri-bred president failed to keep his promise and as a result matters of a harmonious labor program, rents, food prices, and race relations got out of control.

Now, on the eve of the political campaign, Southern Democrats are about as easily controlled as a bunch of spoiled children when called upon to behave when company comes. Southerners say that if the President insists upon enforcing his Civil Rights program, they will split the Democratic Party, and even threaten to secede from the Union.

We sow the wind and reap the whirlwind.

Tenney On Rampage

State Senator Jack B. Tenney has announced that he will again open hearings on un-American activities in the State building beginning next Tuesday, February 17.

Senator has the power, the ability, and the personality to be of service to his community, if he would. But those of us who remember the character of the hearings he conducted here some time ago, have no hope of anything good coming out of this investigation.

Then, all who believed in the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man, all who had ever lifted so much as a finger to help bring about a new and a better world, were accused of being Communists.

It was splendid publicity for the Communist Party. But its members very evidently do not relish that kind of publicity. They and all citizens of Los Angeles who have the real welfare of the community at heart, resent the lop-sided investigations conducted by Senator Tenney and his un-American Committee and wish fervently they could have their eyes opened to facts, and would investigate the real un-Americans, such as those who uphold restrictive covenants, racial bias, etc.

Rev. Russell's Challenge

Rev. Clayton D. Russell, pastor of the People's Independent Church of Christ, took to task the three Supreme Court justices who deserted their seats to keep from rendering a decision in the Restrictive Covenant issue that came before them, in his last Sunday morning discussion.

Rev. Russell compared the three judges to Pilate who washed his hands in a declaration that he would have nothing to do with the trial and crucifixion of Jesus.

These men failed in a duty that is sacred to their profession and in this way were disloyal to truth. Wrapped up in these Restrictive Covenants are decisions in opposition to the whole Constitution, but especially the 14th Amendment which secures to all Americans the right to live where they wish.

Not only are there three vacant chairs in Washington.—There are vacant places in the hearts and minds of the American people who have been kept from the enjoyment of life and the liberty promised by the Constitution, and entrusted to the care and protection of those three jurists who deserted them when action was needed most. And not only these but others in high governmental seats who likewise refuse to respect the spirit of the law.

At the end of his sermon, Rev. Russell refuted this statement which appeared in another local paper, and referring to Rev. Russell's appointment as a delegate to the Democratic national convention in this manner: "The political strategists tell me that the appointment was made to pay off a political debt. You remember the Reverend supported Mrs. Helen Gahagan Douglas when all the other ministers supported Fred Roberts in the last election. Too, the appointment is said to have been made in appreciation of the many Sunday morning personal appearances that Mrs. Douglas was invited to make at the Independent Church where the worshippers received religion mixed with a little compulsory politics."

This same article stated: "They tell me, too, that all is not well with the trustee board. Some of the God-fearing men don't see how politics and religion go hand in hand."

To give the lie to this statement, Rev. Russell called on the deacons and trustees of the church — in fact, his entire official family — to stand up and be counted. They did more than that. They stood up and then came forward in a body to Rev. Russell, where the spokesman denied that any such report had ever emanated from the present board of trustees.

Rev. Russell then admonished the newspaper which had printed this distortion of facts, to be careful to tell the truth and only the truth. All newspapers should observe this rule, he said, because the public depends so much upon them for that influence which is so great in the moulding of character.

When the trustees and deacons returned to their seats, the entire congregation spontaneously arose as one man and applauded their pastor for the determined stand he had taken.

Loud Speakers Decried

Representative Adam Clayton Powell, Jr., Congressman from New York, in commenting on President Truman's ten-point recommendations to Congress, said that "Negroes are sick and tired of words."

We heartily agree with the New York Congressman in this. The representatives we choose from time to time, forget us and the promises they make while campaigning for office, immediately after election.

For over a year Mr. Powell said he had been trying to get the appropriate committees to hold hearings on his FEPC bill.

Powell's bill, like the many anti-lynch bills, anti-poll tax bills, anti-restrictive covenant measures, etc., that have been bobbing up and down in Congress for the past 80 years, is buried under an avalanche of "more important legislation of this misrepresentation. These loud mouthings of freedom and democracy which cloak a hypocricy of destructive forces, bent upon destroying this government supposed to be a people's government.

The people themselves can and must change conditions in our law-making body in Washington. And in Sacramento. The people of California have done splendidly in securing signatures for a new political party. That energy aroused in these recent weeks must be continued as a driving force, until in November we put out of business all reactionary loud-speakers, and replace them with determined men and women who do more and talk less.

THINGS I SEE

By Marian Inglewood

"Really to commemorate the life of Lenin," you heard again and again at the Lenin memorial rally held in the Embasy auditorium last week, "work to bring to realization the ideals and plans of Lenin."

Socialism would be the plan Lenin would advocate for the United States of America, we were told. To bring that about everyone who believes in the benefits of socialism, whether or or not he is a member of the Communist Party or of the Socialist Party, should work with all his heart and soul and strength and mind every minute of every day.

That brings us to the truth—not mentioned at the rally—that we Liberals of America, those who want the benefits derived from a system based on socialism instead of the discomforts and evils we suffer from our present capitalistic system, are not devoting our whole souls to accomplishing our end. We are lackadaisical, complacent, indifferent. We have the let-George-do-it attitude. And George, whether we like it or not, is usually a member of the Communist Party.

How can the liberal in politics and religion get something of the fanatical devotion to the "cause" as evidenced by the Communist, the Fundamentalist, or the Catholic, and still be only a Liberal?

Well, I don't believe we can. Because if we're afraid of being called a Red, of being classed with the "subversives" by the Un-American Committees, of being ridiculed for being a radical, we'll get nowhere and we'll do nothing. We cannot walk the middle of the road in politics any more than we can in religion. We must make our cause a part of our daily life. We must live our convictions in politics, as we have been told again and again we must live our faith in God.

"Whenever someone makes a remark derogatory to a minority group," said Bruce Bliven in the New Republic recently, "and it is not answered, careful tests have shown that at least one bystander in six has his prejudice increased. Yet if someone else speaks up promptly, in unemotional and reasonable, and appeals to historic American democratic principles, and a sense of fair play, the bad effect is offset. What we need is a lot of people who have guts enough to speak out, and to keep on speaking out against this evil."

An illustration is given of Thurman Arnold who had signed a check for his membership fee in a golf-club, when he saw on a document on the desk, these words: "Gentiles only."

"Is that correct?" he asked. Upon being told it was, Mr. Arnold tore up his check, and refused to join that club.

That's the sort of thing each and everyone of us can do and should do every day of our lives. We would do it too, if the convictions we speak of among friends were in truth so much a part of us that we acted upon them as naturally as we breathe. We couldn't help but speak out then, if something derogatory were said of anything in which we believed fully—of minority groups, of the threatened war, of inflation, of the coming depression.

We'd speak out because we believed fully—of minority groups, of the threatened war, of inflation, of the coming depression.

We'd speak out because we knew the truth. We would not need to argue. Nor get angry. Nor make the other fellow angry. Simply tell the truth, because we knew it to be the truth, in a quiet way which would be all the more convincing because it held no trace of argumentative animosity in it.

The best way to commemorate the life of Lenin is to work to bring to realization the ideals and plans of Lenin.

Here in America we are celebrating the birthday of an American today, who ranks as great among the Common People in America as Lenin does in Europe, or in the world at large. It is that of Abraham Lincoln—the rail splitter, the workingman, who has been compared, because of his great sympathy for the underprivileged, the poor and oppressed, to the Man of Sorrows who was acquainted with grief.

If we wish to commemorate his birthday fittingly today, we should dedicate ourselves with a greater devotion than ever to bring to fruition his ideals and hopes and plans for America—that nation conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal. We should pledge ourselves with a wholeheartedness as never before to make this government in very truth the kind of government he believed it to be—a government of the people, by the people, and for the people.

The Impending 'Depression'

By Paul French

The average American should be keenly concerned at the growing menace of an economic collapse.

On the same day (Feb. 4) on which Britain's premier, Clement Attlee, imposed a still worse living standard on British workers, in order that British imperialism might cut prices of British exports in the struggle for world trade, American stocks, bonds and commodities fell alarmingly in price on all U. S. markets.

"Most experts," said the Associated Press, "had no ready explanation." But to all except those "experts," it is clear that the Attlee announcement that British imperialism is going to cut export prices was the cause of the collapse in American prices. For British exports, far more than those of France or other nations, will compete with U. S. exports, to the peril of American imperialist export trade.

True, because of current speculation and inflation in the USA, American prices may recover and even go up—especially for the American consumers, but the ruinous competition on the world market will ultimately bring on an economic collapse in the United States. Along, of course, with a fading domestic market as American workers are forced to live on less.

This calls to mind Walter Lippmann's (Jan. 29, L. A. Times) recent comment on the Bevin-Churchill-Marshall plan for a military alliance of western European nations against the USSR. France led other continental nations in voicing approval of such "European unity."

But, the very next day, France destroyed the economic basis for such political unity by de-valuing the franc, cutting by 50 per cent the export prices of French goods, and delivering a body blow at British imperialist economy, which must expand exports or perish. Concerning this, Lippmann wrote:

"Separately, each nation is forced to take measures which, though a temporary relief to itself, aggravate the troubles of its neighbors. Last summer, the British were forced to suspend the convertibility of sterling. They had no choice. But the French and Italians were hurt. Now the French have had to deal with their currency. They, too, had no choice. But the British will be hurt."

Quite true. But now the British cut export prices, and American imperialist export trade will be hurt. So a "depression" with full panic is close upon this country. Pyramiding prices show signs of collapse. What is called a "cyclical" economic crisis is upon us.

But what Walter Lippmann mentions, of how every "temporary relief" of one capitalist country injures another, show something of graver importance than a mere "cyclical" crisis. It shows that the entire world system of capitalistic economy is sick and doomed to die.

It also shows the impossibility of "European unity" of the Bevin-Schuman kind of alliance, even when backed by the USA, when the underlying economies of these capitalist nations are so mutually antagonistic as to disintergrate any political unity among them.

Molotov warned last summer in Paris, that American imperialism hoped, by imposing the Marshall Plan upon western European nations, and thus reducing them to an economic status of Wall Street colonies, to save itself from economic collapse, but that the hope was vain, and American economy was certain to collapse, anyhow. The truth of the Soviet forecast is now becoming evident—that is, to those who have eyes that are open. Equally apparent to those with eyes, is the fact that those countries of eastern Europe where socialism as an economic system dominates national economy, are suffering no such economic chaos or collapse. This socialist sector of world economy is increasing its production, stabilizing its finances, and—what is highly important—improving the living standards of its working populations.

Frantic propaganda in the USA strives to deny this fact. When the USSR re-valued, not de-valued, the ruble, this was falsely pictured as a sign of Soviet economic weakness. It was, in fact, a sign of strength. Soviet workers enjoyed an improved standard of living by reduced prices while wage scales remained as before.

More, the Soviet government has a balanced budget. The Associated Press reported on Jan. 31, that, in 1947, the Soviet government spent 361 billion rubles, but had an income of 385 billion. In 1948, it figures on spending 387 billion, but getting an income of 428 billion rubles. Military costs are cut 17 per cent below 1947. Compare all this with the vast deficits and wildly unprecedented military budgets the USA now faces. Here we see the economic health of socialism, the economic sickness of capitalism.

But Drew Middleton (L. A. Times series starting Feb. 2) persists in misrepresentation. Just as Lindbergh encouraged Hitler to attack the USSR by saying it was "weak," so now does Drew Middleton encourage our warmongers. Middleton admits that Soviet steel production exceeds that of Britain, but he says that is "not sufficient for Russian demands." He doesn't explain why, because the explanation is that steel is demanded by Russia to keep up its rapidly expanding socialist economy, a healthy, improving economy.

To Middleton, nothing in the USSR is right. He even mentions (Feb. 4) the "gray, unhealthy surface of the snow." An especially bad, socialist kind of snow, no doubt. And he pictures the average Russian as half-starved and terribly oppressed.

Another American writer, however, John Steinbeck (L. A. News) who visited Russia last summer, and went everywhere, says that not even German prisoners of war are underfed by Russians. He also said (Jan. 27) "In every place we ate, we ate constantly." Indeed, he complained of being overfed by these "starving" Russians.

Correspondents may differ, but economic facts are irrefutable. Economic paralysis is creeping over capitalist countries; while in socialist countries economy thrives—and the standards of its owners—the workers—are improving.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Mrs. Bass:

February 9, 1948

Some weeks ago your wonderful paper the California Eagle carried a story on Deadrick F. Jenkins being an honorary fellowship in the International Mark Twain Society.

Though I do not know this young man personally I have read both of his books through the Los Angeles Public Library and feel I know him very well, since a writer's works reveal more than the writer could ever tell us in person. I am proud for Mr. Jenkins and for you, too, for it was through your paper I first heard of the man. It was you who first saw in Jenkins literary value and worth in the struggle for democratic truth while other newspapers were too concerned elsewhere to recognize home sprung value.

It may interest you to know that recently more opportunities have come to Mr. Jenkins. This young man's books will be sold and read throughout the world beginning next month. Negotiations have been concluded by which a big London publisher will issue his latest book under their imprint. Starting from scratch, I say this is progress indeed. Lastly, could it be that one must still go abroad to be fully recognized at home?

Sincerely,
Jesse Parker

Dear Editor.

We will be compelled to have conscription of manpower if we have another war.

We are just as sure to have an economic collapse worse than Europe and no big brother to help us out of a chaotic condition, then just as sure of losing democracy as if we had lost the war.

The only way of avoiding that economic collapse is to have conscription of wealth as well as manpower, in case of war.

That law should be on the books now; it certainly would have two effects: it would make ours a stronger country to our enemy, and would make those people who stand to gain financially think twice before trying to push this country into war.

Then we would have the backing of all the people, because they would know they are fighting for themselves and not for selfish interests.

Edwin F. Lashmet

W. J. Wheaton Says

"Come right in, just a couple ladies from the church, theys after me to jine some kinder siety. I tells 'em that I'se perfectly willin' to keep up my church dues 'en all that, but I'se not got any time for sesietys. I'se got to look after Mary Ann; she's growing up like a honeysuckle vine 'en I'se goin to be mighty careful as to her bringing up. Never you mind them wimin folk. Supper all ready 'en when I tell 'em No, I mean No, en no foolin'. After I look after Mary Ann, 'en 'tend to my work I'se got all I can do, and as Mary Ann says, that's That. Well; they's gone and here's your supper. I'se wantin' to talk with you and may be you can 'splain what I mean. Mary Ann was reading to me from the paper and I could't get head or tails from it and she couldn't 'splain what it was all about. Here's the paper. I saved it."

We read; it was where President Truman had asked the congress to out-law lynching and abolish the poll-tax. The request irked some of the color-haring solons from Mississippi and Georgia, that they threatened to secede from the Democratic party. Which event would prove a great blessing. After reading the story to Mary Ann we noticed a puckering of her lips, and waited for her comment.

"Well," she said, "of all things, and them are the men who help make our law! Jest to think of it! Men who have sworn to obey, as well as enacting the laws, saying murder is alright. Them's not Americans, them's what you-calls the scum of the earth. They's worster than the cruel Nazis and them other peoples that murdered men, women 'en children 'cause they was Jews."

Yes, we injected, this nation can never sell democracy to the world as long as such men are allowed to have a voice in charting the nation's course, and is it any wonder that the peoples of the world look askance when democracy, as practiced by the United States of America, is put up as an example. There is no other nation on earth, certainly not the Soviet, which condones murder, we continued, not even the Marshall plan with its spending of billions of dollars can bring Peace to a stricken world as long as the incubus of racial hates predominates.

The narrowing of thought, the gross ignorance of decency and lack of morals was evident in the remark of southern senator that The request of the President was an insult to the American people.

"Now ain't that too rediculas," says Mary Ann. "That's a fine thing to pin on the people, as if all of us were haters and liked to commit murder and to do things like that.

Mary Ann's indignation was rising and we said jokingly, "Don't lose your religion." As for me I would like to see the day when the congress has the courage to vote cloture; to limit dezate, and spray the cotton mouths of the vipers with time limit. We would like to see who is Who, when it came to the final test. Once the bills are reported from committee and brought on the floor of the house or senate, it is our belief that the demagogs and race baiters will, like the groundhog, go in for a lengthy hibernation. Again: If this government wishes to win the Peace, if it plans to sow the seeds of democracy, if it wishes to combat successfully the ideology of Soviet communism, then it must first of all clean out the Augean Stable of southern politics, and show the world the example of true democracy. It must rid itself of the incubus, the decaying albatross now hung about its neck in the person of rabid hate mongers who are undermining the principles, the foundation, on which the nation was founded. Get rid of the termites before they so damage and weaken the superstructure that it will be utterly destroyed. The publicised racial hates, openly expressed, cannot fail to retard, if not entirely frustrate, attempts to sow the seeds of Liberty, Freedom, Peace throughout the world. It is our full belief that this new generation in the hate-infected states are becoming disgusted with Rankin, Eastland, Talmage representation. Such is made obvious by student demonstrations protesting educational discrimination by universities in the states of Texas and Oklahoma. Even Mississippi is making a study from an economic viewpoint. The oldtime demagogs, who hold their power by their influence over ignorant whites, are being relegated to political oblivion. Mississippi repudiated Rankin when he sought the U. S. senate seat made vacant through the demise of that other arch-enemy of Freedom, Bilbo. It elected a man who had the good sense to eliminate the racial question. How he feels is yet to be determined; but his educational background bids fair for a decent representation.

Paris, City of Freedom

(Editor's Note: The experiences of the Nicholas brothers and their wives on their recent trip to Europe are recounted here by Gerry Nicholas, spouse of Fayard Nicholas. For the most part, she has concentrated on Paris, where they spent most of their time.)

By GERRY NICHOLAS

In Paris we lived near the Champs Elysses and also in a poorer section of the city, so we had an opportunity to meet a good cross-section of the people. And we found one group as wonderful as the other.

Politically, the French are keenly aware of what's happening. The average 14 year old youth knows more than the American of 27. They are all looking forward to the day when America will suffer. They feel that it is necessary before Americans can fully understand the problems of Europeans, or our own, for that matter.

Everywhere we went they asked us, "Is it really true that there are sections in America which are barbaric—that will lynch fellow Americans because they are black?" Our embarrassed answer had always to be "yes." They have just one word to say, "formidable," which means fantastic. And this is difficult for the European mind to comprehend because they feel that the highest type of beauty is the beauty of black men and women . . . from the artist's point of view.

The French have taken the exact attitude of Negroes in their country. The American brass hats have gone in and attempted to treat the French as European peasants and they shove it off with a shoulder shrug on the grounds that "America is young." Seething is their hatred of Americans but they consider Americans good business men with the intellect of a child. This is the way we are losing a peace in Europe.

American lynchings are played up in French papers to a great extent. French leaders inquired of us, "Why did the Black Yanks fight? We appreciated their contribution in the war because it was fought with a good fight and without superiority toward the European allies . . . but sometimes sacrifices have to be made so that gains can be realized."

The boys (the Nicholas brothers) received wonderful ovations in Paris. Their pictures appeared on magazine covers of leading journals, huge billboards, and electric signs. Parisians regard them as the foremost dancers of our time. And all over Europe Negro musicians are imitated and revered.

It was grand to meet former Negro Americans, who remained over there after the first world war. We met doctors, a government official, a wealthy resort owner, countless artists and musicians who jokingly asked, "How is your country doing?" The majority of them have taken out papers or are already French citizens.

But there were two conditions we saddingly found . . . the tremendous amount of anti-Semitism, which the Germans thoroughly accomplished, in Europe and the pronounced class snobbery of England. Still, it was quite a relief to find it lacking in color prejudice.

One of the most beautiful places we visited was Switzerland. There no slums can be found and nobody is starving. We met a lot of medical students in Geneva and found the Indians, who wear their native garb, quite colorful. It's amazing the way the Indian women are taking an active part in politics before the United Nations in Geneva. We met one woman who was the representative for 100,000 workers in India. She told us that she had little faith in what America and Great Britain would do.

It was interesting to note that white liberal Americans are experiencing the same feeling of freedom in Europe. You do without things but you don't mind because you suddenly realise these other things are more important, that is the feeling of freedom. It's difficult to describe, it's something that one feels, and you thank God that there is such a place like Paris. I wish that every Negro could visit or make the sacrifice to visit Paris . . . to come back with renewed faith and carry on the fight with such organizations as the National Negro Congress, United Negro and Allied Veterans, Progressive Citizens of America, Benevolent Variety Artists, and like organizations because after all, this is their goal.

In about two months we'll be returning. This time to Denmark, North Africa, and negotiations are being made to go into the Soviet Union. The boys are very popular in Northern and Southern Africa but they refused to play in South Africa because they would have to perform before segregated audiences.

To Secure These Rights

The Report of the President's Committee on Civil Rights

(Installment No. 11)

SEGREGATION RECONSIDERED

Mention has already been made of the "separate but equal" policy of the southern states by which Negroes are said to be entitled to the same public service as whites but on a strictly segregated basis. The theory behind this policy is complex. On one hand, it recognizes Negroes as citizens and as intelligent human beings entitled to enjoy the status accorded the individual in our American heritage of freedom. It theoretically gives them access to all the rights, privileges, and services of a civilized, democratic society. On the other hand, it brands the Negro with the mark of inferiority and asserts that he is not fit to associate with white people.

Legally enforced segregation has been followed throughout the South since the close of the Reconstruction era. In these states it is generally illegal for Negroes to attend the same schools as whites attend theatres patronized by whites; visit parks where whites relax; eat, sleep or meet in hotels, restaurants, or public halls frequented by whites.

This is only a partial enumeration — legally imposed separation of races has become highly refined. In the eyes of the law, it is also an offense for whites to attend "Negro" schools, theatres and similar places. The result has been the familiar system of racial segregation in both public and private institutions which cuts across the daily lives of southern citizens from the cradle to the grave.

Legally-enforced segregation has been largely limited to the South. But segregation is also widely prevalent in the North, particularly in housing, and in hotel and restaurant accommodations. Segregation has not been enforced by states alone. The federal government has tolerated it even where it has full authority to eliminate it. We have already examined the situation in the armed forces. Another prominent example is the record in the Panama Canal Zone.

Although the federal government has exclusive jurisdiction over the Panama Canal Zone, a segregated way of life for Negroes and whites exists. The latter are United States citizens who are employed in the Zone. Most of the Negroes are from Caribbean countries, and are British subjects. Although some of them have lived in the Zone for many years, and their children know no other country, they cannot become citizens because United States naturalization laws do not apply. Professional, skilled, and supervisory workers (gold) are supposed to be segregated from unskilled labor (silver). In the recent report, the governor of the Zone described the situation:

"The force employed by the Panama Canal and the Panama Railroad Company is composed of two classes which for local convenience have been designated 'gold' and 'silver' employes. The terms . . . originated during the construction period of the canal from the practice of paying in silver coin common laborers and other unskilled or semi-skilled workers employed in the tropics, while skilled craftsmen and those occupying executive, professional, and similar positions were paid in gold coin, the latter group being recruited largely from the United States. Although all employes are now paid in United States currency, the original terms used to designate the two classes of employes have been retained for convenience. The terms 'gold' and 'silver' are applied also to quarters, commissaries, clubhouses, and other public facilities."

This system of "convenience" has operated to the serious detriment of the Negro workers. There are separate and lower standards for them in occupation and wages, education, housing, and recreation. The Zone government is at present engaged in a concerted effort to improve facilities and services for the Negro workers. The "gold" and "silver" signs labeling separate drinking fountain and restroom facilities have recently been taken down. Nevertheless, Zone public institutions, all under government control, still segregate the gold and silver workers. This includes housing, government commissaries, and recreational establishments.

THE SUPREME COURT AND SEGREGATION

The 14th amendment forbids a state to deny "to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws." Moreover, the general spirit of the three Civil War amendments seems to guarantee to all persons a full and equal status in American society.

Yet the supreme court, beginning with its decision in Plessy v. Ferguson, in 1896, has approved state legislation requiring segregation between Negroes and whites on the theory that segregation, as such, is not discriminatory. The court dismissed the contention that "the enforced separation of the two races stamps the colored race with a badge of inferiority," and observed, "if this be so, it is not by reason of anything found in the act, but solely because the colored race chooses to put that construction upon it." So long as laws requiring segregation do not establish unequal facilities, the legal doctrine holds, there is no unreasonable discrimination and therefore no denial of equal protection under the law.

This judicial legalization of segregation was not accomplished without protest. Justice Harlan, a Kentuckian, in one of the most vigorous and forthright dissenting opinions in supreme court history, denounced his colleagues for the manner in which they interpreted away the substance of the 13th and 14th amendments. In his dissent in the Plessy case, he said:

"Our constitution is color blind, and neither knows nor tolerates classes among citizens. . . .

"We boast of the freedom enjoyed by our people above all other peoples. But it is difficult to reconcile that boast with a state law which, practically, puts the brand of servitude and degradation upon a large class of our fellow citizens, our equals before the law. The thin disguise of 'equal' accommodations . . . will not mislead anyone, or atone for the wrong this day done."

If evidence beyond that of dispassionate reason was needed to justify Justice Harlan's statement, history has provided it. Segregation has become the cornerstone of the elaborate structure of discrimination against some American citizens. Theoretically this system simply duplicates educational, recreational and other public services, according facilities to the two races which are "separate but equal."

In the Committee's opinion this is one of the outstanding myths of American history for it is almost always true that while indeed separate, these facilities are far from equal. Throughout the segregated public institutions, Negroes have been denied an equal share of tax-supported services and facilities. So far as private institutions are concerned, there is no specific legal disability on the right of Negroes to develop equal institutions of their own. However, the economic, social and indirect legal obstacles to this course are staggering.

Following the Plessy decision, the supreme court for many years enforced with a degree of leniency the rule that segregated facilities must be equal. Gradually, however, the court became stricter about requiring a showing of equality. (As as result of the changed composition of the court effected by the late President Roosevelt—EAGLE). During the last decade, in line with its vigorous defense of civil rights generally, the court has been particularly insistent upon adherence to the "equal" part of the separate but equal rule. In 1938, in Missouri ex rel. Gaines v. Canada, it held that Missouri might not fulfil its obligation under the rule by offering to pay the tuition of a Negro resident of Missouri at an out-of-state law school in lie uof permitting him to attend the law school at the University of Missouri. The court laid down the plain rule that if a state chooses to provide within its borders specialized educational facilities for citizens of one race, it must make similar provision, also within its borders, for citizens of other races.

This insistence upon equal facilities is encouraging. Experience requires the prediction, however, that the degree of equality will never be complete, and never certain. In any event we believe that not even the most mathematically precise equality of segregated institutions can properly be considered equality under the law. No argument or rationalization can alter this basic fact: a law which forbids a group of American citizens to associate with other citizens in the ordinary course of living creates inequality by imposing a caste status on the minority group.

EXPERIENCE VS. SEGREGATION

If reason and history were not enough to substantiate the argument against segregation, recent experiences further strengthen it. For these experiences demonstrate that segregation is an obstacle to establishing harmonious relationships among groups. They prove that where the artificial barriers which divide people and groups from one another are broken, tension and conflict begin to be replaced by cooperative effort and an environment in which civil rights can thrive.

One of these experiences is recorded in Report No. ETO-82 of the Research Branch, Information and Education Division, in the European Theater of Operations of the army. In 1945, during the fighting in France, the army was faced with a shortage of combat ground troops. The theater command decided to make use of Negro service troops in the area. A substantial number of Negro enlisted men accepted the invitation to volunteer for combat training and service. Many of these volunteers gave up their rank as non-commissioned officers for what they considered to be the privilege of combat. They were not very different from the run of Negro troops in the army.

The Negro soldiers were trained and organized into platoons, which were placed in regiments in 11 white combat divisions. For months the Negro and white men in these divisions worked and fought side by side. Then, white officers, non-commissioned officers, and enlisted men in seven of the 11 divisions were interviewed. At least two of these divisions were composed of men who were predominantly southern in background. It is surprising how little the response of these southern men varied from that of men from other parts of the country.

Two out of every three white men admitted that at first they had been unfavorable to the idea of serving alongside colored platoons. Three out of every four said that their feelings toward the Negro soldiers had changed after serving with them in combat. These are some representative comments:

A platoon sergeant from South Carolina:

"When I heard about it I said I'd be damned if I'd wear the same shoulder patch as they did. After that first day when we saw how they fought, I changed my mind. They're just like any of the other boys to us."

A platoon sergeant from New Jersey:

"Didn't mind it myself. I'll tell you though, I came to think a lot more of them since."

A platoon leader from Texas:

"We all expected trouble. Haven't had any. One reason may be that we briefed the white boys in advance—told them these men were volunteers coming up here to fight and that we wouldn't stand any foolishness."

A regimental commander:

"I'm from the South—most of us here are—and I was pretty dubious as to how it would work out. But I'll have to admit we haven't had a bit of trouble. I selected the best company commander I had to put over them."

A first sergeant from Alabama:

"I didn't want them myself at first. Now I have more trust in them. I used to think they would be yellow in combat, but I have seen them work."

The great majority of white officers and enlisted men agreed that the Negro soldiers who had fought alongside them had performed excellently in combat. Eight out of 10 white men said they had done very well and almost all of the rest said they had done fairly well. Only two percent of the enlisted men and none of the officers felt that they had done "not so well" or were "undecided." No white officer or enlisted man said that they had done "not very well."

But the findings which have the greatest significance for the elimination of prejudices are in the answers to this question:

"Some army divisions have companies which include Negro platoons and white platoons. How would you feel about it if your outfit was set up something like this?"

The question was asked of four sample groups of white servicemen. The first had had direct, immediate and personal contact with Negroes as fellow soldiers; the second had been close to the situation and had had an opportunity to see how it worked; the third had been further away and the fourth had had no experience whatsoever.

The conclusion can be stated simply: the closer white infantrymen had been to the actual experience of working with Negroes in combat units the more willing they were to accept integrated Negro platoons in white companies as a good idea for the future. Moreover, the sharpest break was between groups which had had even the slightest contact with the experience of integration, and those which had none at all.

The merchant marine presents a very different situation with respect to the relations between Negroes and whites than the armed forces. Negroes have served aboard ship for many years. There have been constant campaigns on the part of some of the seamen's unions to gain equality for them, as well as efforts to overcome prejudice among the white members.

More than 400 merchant seamen were asked a series of indirect questions which were then built into an "Index of Prejudice Against Negroes." The results reported by Ira N. Brophy in the Public Opinion Quarterly, Winter, 1945-46, were surprising. They demonstrated that whether a man had been born in the North or the South was not important in determining whether he was prejudiced against Negroes. The extent of his education and the jobs he had held before he went to sea were not important.

What was important was whether the men were members of unions with tolerant policies toward Negroes; how many trips to sea a man had made; how many times he had been under enemy fire; and how many times he had been to sea with Negroes. Here again what determined whether a white man was prejudiced against Negroes was the kind and amount of experience he had with them. Where there was contact with Negroes on an equal footing in a situation of mutual dependence and common effort prejudice declined.

A study of two housing communities reinforces still further the pattern revealed in the army and the merchant marine instances. The study was done under the direction of Prof. Robert K. Merton of Columbia university for the Lavanburg Foundation and reported to this committee by Prof. Paul F. Lazarsfeld. An interracial housing community was set up in a northern city. Before they moved into the project only one out of every 25 whites thought that race relations would turn out well, while five times as many felt that there would be nothing but conflict between the people of the two races. After a few years, one out of every five whites said that race relations were better than they had thought they would be, while only about one-fourth as many thought that they were worse than they had expected. But of the people who had anticipated really serious race conflicts, three out of every four were willing to say that their fears had been proved groundless.

Moreover, people who had worked with Negroes were considerably more willing to live in the same community with them. While 40 percent of them expressed such willingness, only 18 percent of the whites who had never worked with Negroes did. Other data collected in these studies of intergroup relations in housing communities indicate that the more institutions there are in any community in which Negroes and whites may meet together normally, the less prejudice will be found. Roughly the same patterns seem to be true of religious groups.

These three studies were done under widely varying circumstances by different scientists, with different people as subjects. The results add up to an indictment of segregation.

The separate but equal doctrine stands convicted on three grounds. It contravenes the equalitarian spirit of the American heritage. It has failed to operate, for history shows that inequality of service has been the omnipresent consequence of separation. It has institutionalized segregation and kept groups apart despite indisputable evidence that normal contacts among these groups tend to promote social harmony.

The committee is not convinced that an end to segregation in education or in the enjoyment of public services essential to people in a modern society would mean an intrusion upon the private life of the individual. In a democracy, each individual must have freedom to choose his friends and to control the pattern of his personal and family life. But we see nothing inconsistent between this freedom and a recognition of the truth that democracy also means that in going to school, working, participating in the political process, serving in the armed forces, enjoying government services in such fields as health and recreation, making use of transportation and other public accomodation facilities, and living in specific communities and neighborhoods, distinctions of race, color, and creed have no place.

BOOKS & AUTHORS

Casebook of Non-Directive Counseling, edited by William N. Snyder with the collaboration of four other prominent psychologists gives techniques which avoid the deep-seated errors of the old "Teacher knows best" attitude. The new joint of view recognizes that every man, woman or child represents an individual constellation of factors which make his behavior social or otherwise. This volume takes the would-be counselor as an apprentice and allows him to work through real cases under the guidance of friendly experts rather than merely instructing in techniques. This system of psychotherapy has become widely recognized as a major contribution to the methods of treating the problems of emotionally persons.

Modern Tailoring for Women, by Frances F. Mauck, M. A., assistant professor of Home Economics at Ohio State university, has been written for use in schools and colleges where work in the special field of tailoring is offered; for use as a laboratory manual in trade and technical schools; for use by homemakers to whom no other source of help need be available. Only fundamental processes are included since they do not go out of date, although the application of them may vary with the current fashion. Many of the processes may be applied to garments other than the strictly tailored ones mentioned. The directions often suggest more than one method. A section, "Aids to Following Directions" is especially helpful in the use of this book. The glossary, index, bibliography and detailed illustrations are all practical and add much to the value of this tool. All operations from the selections of patterns to the fitting of the sleeves and shoulder pads and eyelet buttonholes are clearly explained.

Raintree County, by Ross Lockridge Jr. is the winner of the MGM award and is the first novel by this author. It is the story of a single day, July 4, 1892, with its flags, politics, noise of bands and firecrackers, and revival meetings, during which Johnny Shawnessy, the hero moves through the past, present and symbolic events. He is the epitome of the place and period in which he lives, an Indiana farm boy, soldier, politician and the idealistic poetic schoolmaster, happy in his family and devoted to his country. It is an epic novel of heroic proportions, attempting a complete embodiment of the American myth. This is a book which will appeal to those who want more depth than is found in most modern novels.

Personality: A Biosocial Approach to Origins and Structures, by Gardner Murphy, chairman of Psychology at the College of the City of New York and an outstanding psychologist, is the most important book on this subject which has been published for many years. It is of primary interests to all who want to know how the human mechanism works. Since so little is really known along this line the author's aim is to clarify what we do know and to show its possible relations to the vast and confused domain that we do not yet understand. He asks many questions hoping others may be led to explore further. He maintains that every problem has four stages of analysis: first, the established or reasonably dependable principles; second, theories; third, research hypotheses; fourth, speculations. The book is like an explorer's map with some standard tools and maps but leaving much yet to be filled in to encourage further study. Murphy states that "It is simply an attempt at evaluation of data on how personality grows."

Electric Motor Maintenance, by W. W. McCullough, director Manufacture and Repairs Dept., Westinghouse Electric Corp., gives in simple direct language all one needs to know about keeping motors in repair. There are full details of procedures for care & inspection, of each type of motor, and is useful for inspector, supervisor or student. It discusses the construction of each motor and the methods used to test it and the tools needed. There is also a full account of the cleaning and drying of motors. Its aim is to help inspectors, mechanics, electricians and engineers take better care of the motors for which they are responsible.

Trail Blazers: Dr. W. C. Howard

By PHYLLIS SCOTT

The Eastside today enjoys the benefit of a modern branch of medicine and the community hails it as a link in the steady advancement of Negro specialists, uniting all in a league of co-operation and progress, in which the people they serve shall be paramount.

Dr. Wayne C. Howard, newcomer to the city, comes from pioneer stock in Mississippi, where his family etched its achievements upon the annals of Negro history. Under the administration of Theodore Roosevelt, Howard's grand mother, Ethel Grant Cox, was appointed the first Negro postmistress of that state. Roosevelt actually refused to open the first post office until whites agreed to patronize it along with Negroes. Nor was his grandfather a Do-Nothing either. The first Negro bank, the Delta Penny Savings bank, was founded through his conscientious efforts.

But Howard has blazed a trail in his own right. When he was called to the U.S. Army he opened up the first ear, eye, nose, and throat clinic at Tuskegee in the rank of captain and served as associate head at Ft. Bragg and Ft. Huachuca.

Six years of Howard's life were spent in Indianola, Mississippi, his birthplace, prior to his residence in Chicago. It was there that he finished high school and embarked upon his medical career at the University of Illinois and the University of Illinois College of Medicine. He interned at Homer-Phillips in St. Louis, where he first became interested in this branch of medicine.

He has consistently studied the latest methods and techniques on the most advanced mechanism for diagnostic treatment. These he has attempted to install in his office at 4318½ South Avalon blvd. Howard, incidentally, came to Los Angeles at the request of two prominent physicians, who could perform all branches of work in this community.

Civically and fraternally he is affiliated with the Omega Phi Psi fraternity, Elks, NAACP, Boy Scouts training commission chairman, Medical, Dental, and Pharmaceutical assn., and is of the AME religious faith. Our shy, retiring trail blazer goes about his quiet, unassuming way winning many friends by his affable and naive manner. He never gets ruffled, and works with apparent ease around his associates. A rabid golfer, he is happily married to the former Betty Burk of Chicago and father of two children, Wayne Jr. 5, and Louise, 2.

Political Potpourri

From every part of the country comes news of the people's efforts to place an independent political party on the ballot. And all have their eyes turned towards California. If California fails, it will prove a distinct setback everywhere to those who are boosting Wallace for President on a Third Party ticket.

Those who are collecting signatures for the Independent Progressive party have entered the second lap of the race. All circulators must turn in the petitions they have taken out previously, either filled or party filled, and secure new ones for the last two weeks. A redoubled effort is being made to secure hundreds more signatures in this last stage in order to be sure to qualify for the place on the ballot.

IN OTHER STATES

Nevada official launched its Independent Progressive party with a statewide meeting in Reno, January 16, addressed by Bill Gately, trade union director of the California IPP. Plans were launched for a petition campaign to secure 5000 signatures. (Nevada has only 45,000 voters).

Ohio launched its 1948 campaign with a "Wallace for President" conference in Columbus, February 1. It was called by a provisional committee of 120 members from all the key centers of the state.

Maryland independents met January 3 to plan their campaign, and selected James S. Martin, St. Johns University professor, former Justice Department attorney, and U. S. cartel investigator in Germany, as their chairman.

New Jersey Independent Citizens League met January 10, and will call a convention in February to unite "with all who see the need of a third party."

Pennsylvania, which needs less than 10,000 signatures, set up a working committee of union, farm, professional, Negro, and Fraternal organization on January 11, and set out to organize a new party and get Henry Wallace on the state ballot.

Michigan campaigners have been under way for some weeks. They need roughly 12,000 signatures by May 1, and will hold a conference in February to complete their plans.

California, seemingly, has a harder road to travel than any other state. For this reason circulators of petitions in the Golden State have worked like beavers digging up those precious John Hancocks. And in addition to gathering names, they have staged a splendid educational campaign that has made the people of California politically aware.

Circulators are at work today in 50 of California's 58 counties, some of them with only a few hundred voters. Thousands of miles are being covered in these counties to reach every voter, no matter how remote. Los Angeles county had over 1900 petition pushers. In San Francisco they put out special leaflets commemorating the discovery of gold, as a means of "getting the gold out of the hills in 1948."

Again the State Office of the IPP asks for more circulators in these remote counties for these two weeks, and urges all to send in the signatures they have.

Los Angeles American Council for Democratic Greece sent wires last week to President Truman and Gen. Marshall, protesting any military aid by the United States to the fascist Greek government and demanding the withdrawal of all American troops from Greece.

The American Council for Democratic Greece is planning to picket the Federal Building, at noon, Saturday, February 21, to protest intervention in Greece, the placing of the death penalty against strikers, arrest of trade unionists and democratic leaders. All interested organizations are invited to participate.

The Road to Health

By Orville L. Ballard, M. D.

CHECK-UP ON TB

Yesterday I spent a very pleasant afternoon with Mrs. Brown. She is an old friend and I often stop by for a cup of tea and a look at her latest flowers.

You see, Mrs. Brown spends hours at a time fussing and worrying over her flower garden and I must say they are hours well spent for she has a vertitable paradise of a garden.

"They are too beautiful for words, Mrs. Brown," I said as we walked through the garden.

"Well, I spend an awful lot of time tending to them. They ought to be beautiful," she replied.

Later, as I drove home, I got to thinking about people and their almost fanatic attachment to a hobby such as raising flowers, playing golf or collecting antiques. Being a doctor, I thought further how nice it would be if people applied the same theory to their health. If they made a habit of tending to it as faithfully as they tend to a hobby, there might be less sickness in the world.

In this case I was thinking of Mrs. Brown's daughter, Bernie. Bernie is now 18. She was to have been graduated from high school last year, but she had to forego graduation because we discovered she had tuberculosis. Instead, she entered the sanatorium for treatment. She is getting along very well and in time will return home and resume her former life. But she will always feel cheated out of a couple of years of life because of the disease. Fortunately for her, she won't be cheated out of life altogether.

"I say fortunately, because Bernie's tuberculosis was dicovered in time. She is getting excellent care at the sanatorium and I know that when she is released she will never again neglect her health and let herself get so rundown that the disease has a chance to strike again.

You see, Bernie was the sort of girl who entered into practically all school activities. She did not take time to eat regular meals but grabbed a sandwich on the run most of the time. She did not get enough rest. When Mrs. Brown noticed that her daughter was getting thin and seemed to be tired all the time, she brought her to me for a physical examination. You know the rest. After the examination, chest X-rays and laboratory tests, I had to tell Bernie that She had TB.

After Bernie entered the sanatorium, the school principal sent her her diploma, on the strength of her scholastic record, but Bernie missed the thrill of being graduated with her class.

I hope this story helps convince you that you cannot afford to take chances with your health. It is a most precious possession. Tend to it as you do your very life, for it is your life. Don't give disease a chance to strike. See your doctor regularly, at least once a year, for an examination and chest X-ray.

The Singing Measure

The Bridge of Dimes

By NELT GLASSBROOK

In these so very trying times
Let's not forget the March of Dimes;
Nor e'er forget the least of these
Who suffer from the dread disease,
With help of God and help of man,
With bridge of dimes, O, let us span
The chasm of the fearsome foe
That's known to man as polio.

All these who walk the darkened trail,
O, never, never let us fail!
But build the bride so strong and wide,
'Twill take them to the brighter side:
The road of health, the great highway
Of laughter, labor and of play.

And though we build this bridge of gold,
With all the wealth the world could hold,
Still this we'd know: its greatest wealth
Would be in being a bridge to health!

Rent Controls Lifted In Calif. County

WASHINGTON—Housing Expediter Tighe E. Woods yesterday ordered removal of rent controls from rented rooms in Solano county, California, on a recommendation by the Solano county rent advisory board. The board itself did not submit necessary substantiation in its recommendation, but when Woods denied it on January 12, he ordered the San Francisco regional rent administrator to conduct a de-control survey because the board's survey had indicated the possibility that the demand for rooms had been met in certain parts of the county.

Carver Manor Center

Gama Realty, Inc. is about to develop a business section at 135th and Avalon which will be known as Carver Manor Shopping Center. It will comprise such stores as a market, medical center, drug store, barber shop, beauty parlor, hardware and appliance store, shoe repairing, cleaning dyeing, and other shops needed for the 5000 people living in that district, the majority of them in brand new homes.

WHAT'S DOING IN THE SOCIAL SET

By JESSIE MAE BROWN

NATIONAL NEGRO HISTORY WEEK is being memorialized Feb. 8 through 14. During this time the great contributions of our race will be brought to the front for an annual bow. Many clubs have geared their activities to take in the recognition of Negro History Week. Choosing this time to make their official bow to the public is the Eastside Betterment Alliance, a charming group of women headed by world-traveled Clara Towns, who is ably supported by Mrs. Adele Young, Mrs. Peggy Hawkins and a host of other politically-wise women. The main goal of this club is to approach, and ascertain facts, review legislation, consult with agencies and groups, formulate proposals for consideration of administrative officials and groups, encourage and foster local action, in general to provide a center of information on women, children and youth, to promote action in their behalf. The group is non-partisan, but definitely political.

Jessie Mae Brown

The organization of this new club leaves ye scribe wondering just how many members of the younger social set have turned minds toward politics and aiding the community in more ways than just a mere philanthropic gesture during the holiday season. It's the fad, probably, for the upturned nose to go into action when politics is mentioned. Not taking the soap box, but truly it is disappointing to note that of all the people who come into the EAGLE office to register to vote, not more than one or two are in the 21 year old bracket, or just above. Negro History Week can certainly be significant to you younger set members; why not exercise the patriotic duty that people in some parts of the country are struggling to have? Register to vote during Negro History Week, and when election time rolls around, go to the polls and vote. You will find that such organizations as the Eastside Betterment Alliance, Women's Political Study club and other nonpartisan groups will be more than happy to welcome you into the ranks to learn a bit about politics. Am quite sure you will agree, a serious note in all of our young lives will not hurt a bit.

A very distinguished visitor to the city will be guest speaker at the Valentine luncheon meeting Saturday of the Metropolitan branch of the NCNW, in the charming person of Mrs. Fred Norman, president of the Long Island branch of the council. Also speaking on the same program will be Juanita Elsworth Miller, who will give interesting pointers on her trip to Washington along with her husband, the outstanding restrictive covenant case attorney. The third lady to take part in the afternoon program will be Mrs. Bette Hill, who will present the President's Album. By the way, the meeting place of the council has changed from the Crystal Center to the Church of Christian Fellowship.

FUNFEST

Can't tell just how surprised John McQueen was on last Sunday evening when his charming mother, Mrs. Helen Watkins, invited a group of friends in to celebrate his birthday with the gent. Because John always wears that questioning smile on his face, it was hard for those attending to tell whether or not the "SURPRISE" yelling had any effect at all. Of course the Lomita Country Home, a definite show place if ever there was one, was the locale for the timely ingathering that took place promptly at 6:30 and ended around 11:30 Sunday night. Aside from dancing, guests enjoyed the artistic piano playing of Calvin Jackson, who received sideline encouragement from his lovely wife. The winsome Martha Cushnie spent the whole evening in conversation while Evelyn and Paul Brown lent a helping hand to the host. Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Spann, whom I hadn't seen since two years back in Detroit, went over a brief nostalgic interlude. LeRoy Beavers and Marion Jackson discussed the finer points of "Deep Are the Roots"; the Delmar Thompsons and Arthur Nelous tripped the light fantastic.

Dinner was buffet style, and of course "fit for a king." Squabs were the piece de resistance, prepared by Mr. Watkins, along with her extra special salad. Also guest listed at the affair were: Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Wilson, the Earl McMillens, Arnell Harpers, Frances Lang, Lois Davis and Cal Jackson's brother, Seaman 1/C, sorry just can't think of his first name, and Leonard Beavers. The affair was loads of fun and all attending had a perfect time of it.

Might sandwich in ,at this point, an affair of all affairs. Joe Olive Jr. decided to invite a few of the Cosmos gents and company in for a little Saturday night fun. Jokes, jokes and more jokes were the order of the evening. Evelyn Roberts was key hostess, assisted by the other debs attending.

Back to Sunday gatherings . . . and a group of 12 Angelenos found their way to Santa Barbara via motor. Reason for the interesting trip was to aid Earline Hopkins, medical case worker at the General Hospital, celebrate her birthday at the ranch home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Hopkins.

The party lasted all day long and ended with a dinner for 12. Included were: Ella Louise and Buster Pruden, Marjorie and J. D. Williams, Jacqueline Wilson and Collier Bolden, Sara Jones and Leonard Grimes, Benzell Graham and John Buckner and William Tate.

Out of the mail man's bag came some very interesting letters this week of special interest to some of you social set readers. Paulyn Garner writes from the distant land of Korea that all Red Cross clubs have been closed overseas and that she is now program director in the army, under special service. She will be stationed in Korea until June, then the well-traveled young miss will be homeward bound. Sends hellos to all of her friends.

'Auction' and Club Festival Top Favorettes Agenda

The popular Favorette social and civic club held its regular meeting at the home of the club president, Miss Dorothy Byrd, 1158, E. 34th st. on Wednesday night.

Plans for a unique "Duchess Auction" were made, to be given in connection with the Golden West Bridge club on Feb. 28, between the hours of 8:30 p.m. and 2 a.m. The mid-winter event will be highlighted by the auctioneer Ernest Whitman, of screen and radio fame leading the bidders. Hot dogs, games and all the fanfare expected will be on hand to make the evening a highlight.

Also as a phase of new business, the Favorettes devoted a goodly part of the meeting discussing the Club Festival scheduled for Feb. 22, at Club Congo to benefit the camp funds of several charitable organizations. The girls decided to do their bit for charity by making reservations for the matinee dance and sponsoring one of their members to be queen of the festival.

Before the very interesting meeting adjourned, the club president changed the scene of the affair to a very gay pre-Valentine dancing party. Guests included, Miss Ina Mae Crawford, Mr. Ed Holmes, James Jackson, Lovejoy Doyle, Robert Jones, Craig Lasha and others. Turkey with all the trimmings was served, and a grand time was had by all attending.

The club program for the ensuing year was planned. The next event to be sponsored by the club will be an Arts and Crafts exhibit for the benefit of the public.

Before the meeting adjourned, a very tasty repast was served by the hostess.

Phraterie Cabaret Dance Highlights Week-end

The Angel city's college crowd was well represented on Friday night, when the energetic members of the Alpha Phraterie club of Los Angeles City College held their annual cabaret dance at the Elks ballroom.

Kappas, Alphas, Deltas, Omegas, Akas, Iotas, Sigma Gamma Rhos, Phi Beta Sigmas and all the various Greek letter organizations had representation at the clever affair that held sway from 10 p. m. until 2 a. m. Aside from the collegiates, a large group of the parents held reserved sections to watch the unique show that was put on by the girls in the club.

Cute Bernice Regard opened the show with the club slogan, "Phrateries Are Great in '48," the band struck up the tune "School Days," and the lineup, led by instructor Lavern Weaver, took the spotlight, in colorful red plaid jumper dresses. Vivian Townes, Etheldra Stanborough, Ona Ross, Joan Coleman, Peggy Edwards, Carol Heith, Pat Brown, Harriette Flowers, Phyllis Golden, Lavonne Tyes, Sally Jones, Betty Linley and Jackie Regard were in the chorus lineup. Harriette Flowers stepped into the role of a top blues singer when she offered her rendition of "St. Louis Woman." The chorus then returned with a soft shoe routine, that was followed by a very exotic native dance done in the Dorothy Washington manner. Miss Washington, a UCLA coed, contemplates joining the Catherine Dunham Troop. Her dance numbers literally stole the entire show. Lady Mark Williams sang "I Want a Sunday Kind of Love," and then the chorus line-up returned with a rhumba number, complete with colorful costumes.

Lavonne Tyes played two piano solos, along the King Cole order, and Luana, professional Hawaiian dancer in public life and the wife of Woody Stoode in priyate life, entertained the eager audience with several of her comedy hula dances. She was joined by two of her pupils, Vivian Townes and Carol Heith, who went through the hula numbers with perfect timing.

As a grand finale, the Phraterie chorus returned with a Boogie Woogie number, and an introduction of the entire cast.

Following the cabaret dance, an after party was held at the home of Ona Ross, for the club girls and company. Much in evidence was Gloria Crouch, club prexy, assisting with the refreshments.

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Popular Couple in Wedlock

A very beautiful mid-winter wedding recently united the former Miss Corenda Johnson, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Johnson and Mr. Jack R. Morgan, son of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Duvall. The lovely residence of the Monroe Johnsons was the scene of the double ring ceremony that was presided by Rev. D. Dewitt Tarpeau, pastor of Hamilton M. E. church.

Beautiful white flowers were used throughout the appointed rooms, serving as a lovely background for the ceremony that was witnessed by the family and close friends.

The bride wore a traditional white satin gown made in modernistic style. She carried a bouquet of white cornations and hyacinths. Her finger tip illusion veil was held in place by orange blossoms. She was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Monroe Johnsson.

Mrs. Pearl Copeland served as matron of honor and Miss Lillian Morgan as maid of honor. The matron wore a blue gown featuring a slight peplum. The maid wore a yellow gown with the same peplum effect carried out in the gown worn by the matron. Both carried bouquets of pink and yellow sweet peas.

Russell Copeland served as best man and little Malcolm Byrd was ring bearer.

Immediately following the ceremony a colorful reception held place. The hostesses were: Mabel Rowe, Ara Mae Tooley, Robbie Lee, Jackie Preston and Menda Byrd. The couple received many beautiful gifts.

The home of the bride groom's grandmother, Mrs. Harry Smith was the scene of the wedding supper. The couple quietly departed after the dinner for a brief honeymoon.

If subscriptions will do it, how about blanket subs from the women's clubs of Los Angeles. Believe me ,the magazine is one that should go on. It's a definite step forward for the race, and is owned and published by Negroes. . . . Think it over.

Raisin' Cain

By CARL L. CAIN

The assassination of Mohandas K. Grandhi, Indian spiritual leader, and one of the wisest men of our day, caught the world totally off balance, and set mankind back many steps. The Indian people are not the only ones to be affected by that incident, but every living soul will indirectly feel the hurt. In addition to the loss of our greatest leader, the incident shows the recklessness, the brutalness, of mankind.

Enough cannot be said about the works of the late Gandhi. But one of the more specific things about the "little man" that impressed me was his sentimental view on the life span of his life. You see, he felt that he would live 126 years. And I actually believe that he would have. We know the numbers of times that he fasted trying to bring about peace and discontinuance of the system of untouchability, or the caste system. That was only one of his many goals. Peace, above all, was the cause to which he dedicated his life. And so, today, we mourn with India and the rest of the world.

TOPIC OF THE WEEK

More of that Southern justice, of which I do hate to think and write, had decreed that a 45 year old Negro woman, and her two sons, ages 14 and 16, should be executed for the slaying of a southern white man. The source of this information was from a daily newspaper, considered reliable in such matters.

The argument between the Negro woman and her two sons with the white man was the simple matter of a cow, grazing on disputed territory. The incident was near a Georgia town, Evansville, and was not loudly broadcast. Besides, it's all legal. They were given a "fair" trial, and sentenced the next day.

Now I just can't think of a matter such as a cow grazing on a plot of land costing four lives. One life was a life too much. But when a court condemns a woman, and her two teen age sons, that is one of the extremes to which our system of legal murder is permitted to go. If only the southern courts were as strict on other incidents, such as the lynching of four people not so long ago, we should soon have a better America. But I don't think the murdering of this colored woman and her two boys is along the line of a better world, or removing menaces from society. It is rather simple procedure through which colored people are put in "their place."

And I feel that the whole penal method of our southern states is as faulty and heartless on colored people in measuring out punishments for other crimes. The state of Georgia, especially, seems to have something of a poor record throughout when it comes to civil rights, or human rights. I remember presently the prison "escape" slayings there not long ago. And the numerous other incidents which showed absolutely no human mercy. Something must be done besides getting mad at Russia for mentioning such incidents at peace conferences.

But maybe there is going to be something done about these matters. For here is President Truman's startling, but not surprising, 10-point plan for improved racial conditions.

Not so long ago Truman made a speech, which had the Republicans saying that he was trying to promise the people everything, in order that Wallace would have nothing left to promise them. Well, I don't know the truth of the statements, and perhaps should not incorporate it here, but that was the rumor. And then here comes this other great bulk of promises by our President . . . anti-polltax, anti-lynching . . . I do wonder, however, why he waited until his final few months in office before making all of these promises to fulfill all our dreams. It seems that he has decided to pattern after another candidate, Henry A. Wallace.

To say the least, President Truman is, or will be, if elected in the '48 race for Presidency, incapable of finishing any of the things that he has started when it comes to the racial problem, or suffrage. We have seen what happened to the President when he tried to veto the Taft-Hartley law, and some other mighty important measures that have come up during his four years in office. The Democratic party ran out on Truman on many issues and either joined the forces of the Republicans to either override his vetoes or pass measures which were forever contrary to the chief executive's proposals, or otherwise kicked out of the harness.

And now Truman is making himself unpopular with the southern senators who have never done anything but maintained "white supremacy" in the south, or what I call the "ghettos" of America. I wonder why. The people down there are showing their disagreement on no uncertain basis. They're even talking of running a southern delegation into Philadelphia for the convention in June. Now that would be very interesting. Maybe there will even be a fourth party on the ballot in '48 . . . a platform of "white supremacy." I know that would please some of the "ghetto group" just fine. It might even please just about all of Wall Street.

We can all rest, however, upon the assurance that there is a great trend toward equality and unity in our country today. Never before has there been such an upstir in the political world before. And this is one time that I shall take an optimistic outlook, and say that it will all, when finished, have happened for the best.

PHRATERIES GREAT IN '48

Last Friday night, at the Elks Ballroom, the Alpha Phrateries of Los Angeles City college presented to the collegiate world a night of such enjoyable entertainment that it will be remembered for many a moon. Spotlighting this hilarious affair was a gigantic "Floor Show" that brought throngs of fun-lovers to their feet, as the Phrateries played hostess to a packed house.

Seen at this glorious affair which instilled happiness in the hearts of many were: Leona and Melvin (Yo Yo head) Embree, Betty (Big Mouth) Price and that handsome young man of the hour on the hour, Irlton (I hope you live 'till morning) French, Louis Beadle and Doris Whitley, Artis Saunders keeping tab on Hurlon (the man with the keg head) Morris, while Betty Wallace and Clayton Moore stood gapping at Vivian (Accidents will happen) Towns as she stole the show with her French costume. The wonderful voice of lady Mark Williams kept many in a trance, such as, Billie Benfield and Leana the Hyena, Janis Fortier and Chuck (the goon) Ford, Jean Cummings and Bill Shores, Mary Pollard and Teddy Williams leasta (I wonder who's kissing her now) Carey and the man who leaves his car parked on Adams blvd., Haywood Thompson.

Following the dance an after party was held at the westside home of Ona Ross, where everyone relaxed over tall glasses of —punch. (And it really was punch.)

SCROLLERS DO IT AGAIN

Saturday night, at the home of Tommy Kyser, the Scroller Pledge Club of Kappa Alpha Psi gave a get-together party for the members and their company. It seems that John (Cool Popa) Waller will be this year's up and coming playboy. Gloria Walters seemed to be his latest fling that night. On my second trip to the punch I ran into that cute little gift from Brooklyn, Sylvia Philaber, dancing with Dave (Schapps and gasoline don't mix) Lee, while Virginia (Finney's Follies) McMorris and Bob (Pinch-hitting for Finney) Boyd ran around looking under the seats for wads of chewing gum. It seems that Gloria Crouch, Kathleen Mason, and a few other young damsels had to be pulled out of the kitchen for trying to start a hen party. I wonder why Jackie Rigard and Wally Miles took a powder long before the party was over.

That's all for now. I hope to be seeing you at the Delta Sigma Theta dinner party this coming Saturday night. There promises to be lots of fun for all. See you there.

GENIAL BILL WALKER (at extreme right), well known motion picture actor last seen in Mark Hellinger's "The Killers," recently played host to a group of youngsters of numerous races from the All-Nations House here. Walker, former feature of the Broadway stage, has been one of Hollywood's most consistent fighters against juvenile delinquency and has donated time and money many times in the past to youth causes. Bill presently is working on a Universal production, now being filmed.

Teen-Agers Oppose Costly School Meals

Last Saturday afternoon the Teen-age Division of the American Youth for Democracy collected over 1000 signatures asking the Board of Education to lower high school cafeteria prices.

The teen agers from eight of the city high schools carried colorful signs with slogans, such as "high school students need lower cost lunches," "Meet the cries of cafeteria prices," "a square deal from the Board of Education means a square meal."

Book T. Washington Half-Dollars Sold

The Booker T. Washington Birthplace Memorial, a non-profit organization, is engaged in distributing five million Booker T. Washington half dollars, authorized by special Act of Congress.

Under this act, the coins are being circulated at one dollar each, the proceeds above their par value of fifty cents going toward the Birthplace Memorial program.

This will establish industrial trade schools, to benefit the Negro people, as a living memorial to Booker T. Washington.

Young Playwright Wins Scholarship

Frank Greenwood of 1133 East 56th Street has been awarded a scholarship for two writing courses in the Peoples Educational Center's Winter Term which began this week. The scholarship was established under the terms of the Sid Schumann Memorial Fund.

Greenwood, although only 25 years old, has already accomplished a great deal. He attended schools in Chicago and organized the Chicago Negro Art Theatre where he directed the play "Stevedore" among others. He wrote a prize-winning one-act play on housing conditions in Chicago. He came to Los Angeles to study cinema at UCLA but could not enroll as a limited student. Then he helped organize the Thespians, a theatre group at the Avalon Community Center. The group is now rehearsing his play "Cafe Panorama," a story of Negro life on Los Angeles' East Side, and plans early production.

Lovely M-G-M dancing star Cyd Charisse has just graduated from school—dog training school, that is! As owner of a champion French poodle, Douglas, which she had enrolled for training in the canine academy, Cyd was required to pass a week there herself, learning how to properly command the dog.

Noted Educator Says India Aware Of Negro Problem

"The death of Mohandas K. Gandhi means the removal from the world scene of probably the greatest single living restraint upon the baser passions of men.

DR. WILLIAM NELSON

Within half a year in India he twice brought peace out of situations that threatened to rend the entire country and affect in radical ways the rest of the world."

Dr. William Stuart Nelson, noted educator recently returned from India, told an EAGLE reporter in a press conference last week that he evidenced profound interest of the Negro problem in the United States and doesn't think that the attitude of India's leaders will change from her present interest in the colonial peoples' struggle toward freedom. Certainly leader Nehru shares this view.

Nehru said that he would welcome Negro experts to come to India to study their problems. A Calcutta professor, who is a PhD. from Oxford, will come to Howard university next year on a visiting professor.

Dr. Nelson was sent to India by the American Friends Service committee for a year and is in Los Angeles to lecture before a variety of Southern California audiences including youth groups, Indian Americans, and religious groups. Following his lecture tour he will resume his post as dean of the School of Religion at Howard university.

50 Vols. Negro History to Jeff. High

Presentation of an encyclopedia of 50 volumes on Negro history for the Thomas Jefferson High school library will be accepted by Dr. Paul R. Fisher, principal of the school, Sunday, Feb. 15, at the Second Baptist church during the morning services.

The gift will be from the Pan-Hellenic Council, joint organization of all local fraternities and sororities. The council is sponsoring the program as a Negro History Week celebration, and to dramatize its interest in and support of the national campaign sponsored by the National Association for the Study of Negro History.

Atty. Bernard Jefferson, who will be introduced by Bernard Johnson, president of Pan-Hellenic Council, will speak on the past, present and future of the Negro in carrying out the theme of the year "Revealing the Truth."

Similar ceremonies will be presented on Friday morning at Jefferson High school before the student body.

OPEN SATURDAY NIGHT UNTIL 9

We've put in 2¼ MILLION TELEPHONES since V-J Day

1. We had to break records...and we did. Today we're serving over one-fourth more telephones than at the war's end—a net gain of three-quarters of a million. And, since every day many customers move, we actually had to install more than two and a quarter million telephones to make this gain.

2. Complex splices like this—thousands of them—went into the two million miles of wire we've put in. And that's only part of the story—more than 200 new buildings or additions...complex new switching equipment in almost all our buildings... these and other facilities are being added in the face of sharply rising costs and tough supply problems.

3. We're still working against time. Orders continue to flood in. To fill service needs we're adding facilities at the rate of more than half a million dollars a day—every day. A huge investment, yes. But telephones have been going in as never before in the West. And as the system grows, your telephone service becomes more valuable still.

4. Where does the money come from...millions of new working dollars needed to extend and improve service? Millions must come, not from telephone bills, but from thousands of people who put their savings to work in the telephone business. To attract these working dollars, we must pay a reasonable amount for their use. This requires the sale of our services at fair and adequate prices.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By REV. IKE EVANS, D.D.

Subject: The Power Of The Holy Spirit; Lesson Text and Outline, John 14:25-26; Acts 2:1-4; 4:31b; Galatians 5:22-26. Motto Text Acts 1:8.

Introduction

The power of the Holy Spirit was assured in his being Christ's representative; in his advent on the day of Pentecost; in his help to the persecuted apostles; and in the Christian fruitfulness for which he is responsible.

Comments

1. Jesus came in his Father's name, as his ambassador: the Spirit comes in his name, as resident in his absence, to carry on his undertaking, and to ripen things for his second coming. Hence he is called the Spirit of Christ, for he pleads his cause, and does his work. Christ was a teacher to his disciples; if he leaves them now that they have made so little proficiency, what will become of them? Why, the Spirit shall teach them, shall be their standing tutor. He shall teach them all things necessary for them either to learn themselves, or to teach others. For those that would teach the things of God must first themselves be taught of God; this is the Spirit's work.

2. This feast of Pentecost happened on the first day of the week, which was an additional honor put on that day, and a confirmation of it as the Christian sabbath, the day which the Lord hath made, to be a standing memorial in his church of those two great blessings, the resurrection of Christ, and the pouring out of the Spirit, both on that day of the week.

If we profess to have received the Spirit of Christ, or that we are renewed in the spirit of our minds, and embued with a principle of spiritual life, let us make it appear by the proper fruits of the Spirit in our lives. The glory which comes from men is vain-glory, which, instead of being desirous of, we should be dead to. An undue regard to the approbation and applause of men is one great ground of the unhappy strifes and contentions that exist among Christians.

Comment on the Motto Text

The privilege of power from Christ is promised. Without that power all other strength is impotent and ineffectual, but with it any other weakness is transformed into might. It is the power of the Holy Spirit in the individual. The only condition is that the Spirit shall be given unlimited sway over a surrendered life. Christians are to be animated and actuated by a better spirit than their own. Ministers shall have power to preach the gospel, and to prove it out of the scriptures of the Old Testament. Christ's witnesses shall receive power for that work to which he calls them; those whom he employs in his service he will qualify for it, and bear them out in it.

Back Higgins For Elevation To Bishopric

Ministerial and lay delegates of South Carolina have endorsed Dr. Samuel R. Higgins, president of Allen university, as the standard bearer for the Seventh Episcopal District. Higgins rose from mission circuit and station to the Allen university post in 1939 and his boundless energy and efforts have lifted Allen to an "A" rated college.

President Higgins stands out as one of our best prepared men. His schools are Knoxville college, Howard university, and Union Theological seminary of Columbia university.

The endorsed candidate has pastored mission circuits and stations. He began pastoring at Holy Trinity Mission, Remley Point, South Carolina, having stayed at this apopintment for two years; from there he went to John's Island circuit where he remained for four years and from that appointment to Mt. Horr circuit which is thought by many as the outstanding circuit in the state. He has also pastored Shiloh Station, Charleston, S. C.

President Higgins' endorsement, observers' declare, is a result of his good work at the school as well as his ability as a pastor and preacher. He is congenial and friendly. President Higgins has the support of Bishop Frank Madison Reid, chairman of the trustee board of Allen university and the entire state.

MARION J. DOWNS, lyric soprano, wife of president Karl E. Downs of Sam Houston college, Austin, Texas, will appear in concert Sunday, Feb. 15, 7:30 p.m., at the First Methodist church, 8th and Hope streets. Lovingood, mother of Clarrisa Lovingood Mathews, will be present. The public is cordially invited, admission is free.

McCoy Memorial Has Large Attendance Youth Lobby, NAACP

Putting forth special effort to live up to its name of being the "Friendliest Church in the City," the McCoy Memorial Baptist church, 802 East 46th st., is each Sunday witnessing a record-breaking attendance. The congregations have filled the main auditorium, balcony, and demanded improvised seating in the aisles. McCoy Memorial believes this is the result of the New Year resolutions adopted by the pastor, Rev. E. A. Anderson, and the members to get closer to God through prayer and thereby do a greater service for Him.

Last Sunday, Feb. 8, was true evidence of prayer and consecration. The Spirit filled every phase of the worship. The choir, under the direction of Mr. Jules Haywood, serving as director-organist with Mrs. Joyce Collins as pianist, displayed the genius of the angelic chorus of old. The sermon, "Defiant Devotion," by the pastor, a message without doubt of divine guidance, was an indication of deep thinking and a prayerful consideration of the congregation's spiritual needs.

Mr. Haywood and Mrs. Collins are to be commended for their wonderful work in training and securing such cooperation from the choir members that they might sing to the glory and honor of the Almighty Being.

The church school presented a skit on the "Value of Teaching the Bible" at 7 p.m. The skit was designed to impress on the minds of the young people that religious education is as essential as formal education.

The choir and other church organizations will be presenting a special program featuring well-known artists each Sunday evening. This makes the McCoy Memorial Baptist church the place to go each Sunday evening.

Rev. T. P. Moss, pastor of the New Zion Baptist church, and his congregation, will conduct a baptismal service at McCoy Memorial next Sunday, Feb. 15, at 3 p.m. Eleven candidates will be baptized. Rev. Moss will deliver a message in keeping with the service after the baptism.

McCoy extends a special invitation to each member and friend to come to this church to receive spiritual inspiration and enjoy worshiping in an 'Ole Time Religious" atmosphere.

Rev. Ward, McNeil Choir at Embassy Friday, Feb. 20

Rev. Harry F. Ward, eminent churchman and the famous McNeil Choir, both wellknown in this community, will be featured attractions at the Embassy Auditorium, Friday, February 20, 8 p.m.

Dr. Ward, now co-chairman of the National Negro Congress after 20 years as national chairman of American Civil Liberties Union, will speak on "The Marshall Plan and Your Civil Rights."

He will speak not only as a veteran fighter against discrimination in every form but as an author, a pioneed in social work and studies and a world-wide traveler with a broad knowledge of foreign affairs. It will be Dr. Ward's only appearance in Los Angeles during his current vacation stay in Southern California.

Rev. E. A. Anderson

The McNeil Choir will prescent "Toward the Sun," theme music of the film "The Roosevelt Story" and other popular numbers. Director is Albert McNeil who holds a master's degree in music from the University of California and is known here also as minister of music at the People's Independent church.

Negro Boxers Win 5 Out of 8 Golden Gloves Title

Sports of All Sorts

The Howard Bisons, caught in the Lions' own den here last week, fought desperately to make it two for the season over Lincoln, finally nosed out the Lions 45-42 in the most heated contest ever witnessed in the local gym.

The bitterly fought contest, which was nevertheless conducted in true sportsmanlike fashion, was dead-locked on three occasions, and Howard enjoyed the longest lead of the game with 45-38 in the sinking moments. Even though Howard kept a slim margin most of the way, the sharp shooting Lions stepped ahead on four occasions, twice on ringers from George Moore, crack ace from New York city, once on a marker by "Stretch" Williams, and again when Baltimore's latest contribution to the Lincoln forces, Ben Brown, ripped the strings in the second half.

The Lincoln Lions and the Morgan Bears see-sawed ruggedly through 40 thrill-packed minutes here in the Baltimore Garden last week, with Morgan racing out in front within the last three minutes of play to eke out a meager 61-54 victory. Battling furiously all the way, the Lions and the Bears knotted the score at least nine times, and neither team enjoyed more than a six-point advantage at any time.

MARSHALL, Texas—The Wiley Wildcats blasted the league-leading Texas College Steers here last week 57-44 in an important Southwest Conference basketball game. Until then the Steers were tied with Southern for the lead of the Conference with five wins and no losses, but the strike riddled Purple and White entry put on a last half splurge that was too much for Texas. Wiley led at half time 25-24.

Pearman, Dillard Roll On; McKenly, Dodds Fail

BOSTON, Mass. — Reggie Pearmann, fast developing into the number one United States middle distance Olympic candidate, had to come from behind and off the pace to win the Lapmann "1000" by two feet from Georgetown university's long striding Dave Smith here Saturday night in the annual Boston Athletic Club games.

Pearmann running the longer distance for the first time this year in the indoor meets (usually runs 600 or 800 yards) faced his stiffest competition to date in fine fashion as he ran with the field until the last 100 yards to kick and win coming away. Joe Nowici, last year's winner finished a poor fifth in the six man event.

Harrison Dillard the great hurdler from Baldwin-Wallace college, continued his one man assault on the country's timber records as he lead Ed Dugger by one yard to the tape in the meet equaling 45 yard high hurdle time of 5.6s.

Barney Ewell of Lancaster, Pa. returned to the Boston Games after a six year's absence to cop the 50 yard dash by one foot from Tom Carey of New York, and the meets surprise, Fred Jones of Lincoln (Pa.) university in the good time of 5.4.

Herb McKenley, and Gil Dodds, the two "main attractions" failed in their individual attempts. McKenley finished last in the 600 yard run after being "pushed off" the track by one of the contestants at the start of hte race. The Jamacan ace tried vainly to make up the lost ground but wilted badly at the finish. Dodds, who tried unsuccessfully to break Glen Cunningham's 1500 meter record easily won the mile in the good time of 4.8.1.

CALIENTE, Old Mexico — Last Sunday was Eddie Arcaro's day and Eddie was the honored guest of General Manager Walter C. Marty. It was the feature attraction that was named for this great jockey. Some of the best jockeys in the country had mounts in "The Arcaro Handicap" at one mile and one-sixteenth. Cabbie Boy was made favorite by the public with Perfecto second choice and "Timber Tac" a close third choice. The start was perfect for the field of eight and "Perfecto" with Jockey Johnnie Longden lost no time in getting "Perfecto" to the front going around the Club House Turn he was five lengths in front of his field and the same way going down the back stretch. At this point "Perfecto" was running like a deer, trying to get away from the hunters and this he did coming into the home stretch. "Perfecto" won by eight lengths going away with Timber Tac and Mr. Me chasing him. "Perfecto" paid $7 for two. The time was 1:45 flat on a track that was off. In the secondary attraction, an allowance affair at six furlongs, the good sprinter "Tudo" came right back off his last good race to score handily over "Latal Bank Club" and the favorite "Aristopur" to pay $6.80 as second choice. It was one of the largest crowds of the season that witnessed last Sunday racing card, more than sixty-five hundred fans turned out, and the day was beautiful with a warm sunny afternoon greeting the large gathering. After the races, a banquet was served at the Serena Cafe owned by the Assistant General Manager John Alessio. General Manager Walter C. Marty announced that hereafter the Arcaro Handicap will be known as the George Wolf Memorial Handicap. Wolf died in a riding accident two seasons ago at Santa Anita. Four favorites scored out of the twelve race card. The Daily-Double paid the holders of the combination of Cape Town winner of the second race and "Esrevinu" a first started and victor of the third race $100.80. While the Quniela backers received $39.40 when Aunt Ida was first and "Honest Moe" finished second. The feature attraction for this Sunday will be "the good fellowship handicap" at six furlongs for a purse of $1500. "The Valentine" will be the secondary attraction. Twelve races will be offered the fans.

20th Century ECEC. Speaks On Trends in Boxing

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Harry Markson, publicity director of the 20th Century Sporting Club, appearing as guest speaker of the Department of Physical Education for Men at Howard university this week, discussed trends in the boxing profession and some of Joe Louis' favorite anecdotes.

Speaking informally to about 100 students and guests, Markson sketched briefly the scientific methods of ballyhooing fighters. He listed recent accomplishments in professional boxing as:

The promotion of fights between headline colored boxers, a stunt religiously avoided by promoters in the past; the admitting of colored pressmen to all boxing events, a practice not common until recent years, and the discarding of publicity toward stereotype fighters who were pictured as drinking and gambling while not fighting.

Successful matches between such famous fighters as Joe Louis and John Henry Lewis, Tommy Bell and Ray Robinson, and Joe Louis and Jersey Joe Walcott has dispelled the fears of promoters against staging matches between top-flight colored fighters, according to Mr. Markson.

Having been Mike Jacob's publicity chief since 1937, Markson has known Joe Louis since the day he became world's champion, and has developed a sincere sentiment for the champ. He flavored his talk with some of Louis' favorite jokes and keen answers. He said Louis considers watching his sister receive her degree from Howard University as the greatest thrill of his life. Louis paid all of the expenses of his sister, Vunles Varrow, during her college career, and visited the campus and received great applause from 6,000 spectators at commencement exercises in 1940.

Set so far on Red's team are such outstanding cassaba artists as Robert Mitchum, Rod O'Connor, Jackie Robinson, Burt Lancaster, Keenan Wynn, Eddie Bracken, Reed Hadley, and David Street, while Reagan will floor Dennie Morgan, Barry Sullivan, Kenny Washington, Wayne Morris, Jack Carson, Danny Thomas, Jerry Lester, Bill Goodwin, and Forrest Tucker.

The entire show is being staged for the benefit of the Pacific Lodge Boys Home building fund, located in the San Fernando Valley.

Bears Turn Back Bittners, 77-56

OAKLAND—California university's mighty Bears from Berkeley, lead by high scoring forward Chuck Hanger, and center George Walker, turned on the steam here Saturday night to surprise the American AAU League Oakland Bittners 77-56 before a capacity crowd of 7,500 at the Oakland Auditorium.

Forward Hanger, with 23 points, and center George Wlaker with 19 markers, were the "big guns" in the fast breaking Bear offense that caught the Bittners napping. Oakland Center Don Barksdale turned in the only creditable performance for the AAU lads, as he continued his oneman scoring riot by registering 22 points.

Smith, Davidson, Herring, Bailey, Henry, Win Titles

By Stanley Roertson, Eagle Sports Editor

6500 screaming amateur boxing fans literally brought down the house Saturday night at the Hollywood Legion Stadium, as the 1948 Los Angeles Golden Glove Tournament came to a sensational and thrilling end.

After the tumult and shouting had died away and the carnage of battle swept clear of the decks, eight young men stood out in the smoke of battle as the 1948 Los Angeles Golden Glove champions. These eight young leather pushers were awarded medals and robes for their fistic endeavor, but more important than all, a trip to Chicago to represent the city of the angels in the coming national tournament to be staged in the windy city Feb. 23 through 25.

Of the eight amateurs who stood at the top of their respective weight divisions, were five young Negro lads. They were Rueben Smith, Featherweight champ, Welterweight crown wearer Hank Herring, Lightweight Hugh Davidson, Lightheavyweight Wallace Bailey, and Heavyweight champion Wallace Henry. Other weight champs were: Jay Middleweight, Featherweight Rudy Joices and Flyweight Pasqual Merjill.

SMITH WINS

In a rock and sock, knock down drag out affair, 19 year old Rueben Smith had to go all out to outpoint hard punching Tom Nakama to gain the Bantamweight crown. Smith won a semi-final bout from Hilario Gonzales in order to gain the finals.

DAVIDSON WINS AS EXPECTED

Long punching Hugh Davidson, the San Diego Naval Station sailor with the Sunday Punch, won the lightweight crown without much trouble from Al Lopez. Davidson and his stable mate Herring, coached by Bob Murphy, combined to give the San Diego Naval Station the team trophy which annually goes to the team producing the most champions. Like his teammate, Davidson, Herring had not trouble in disposing of Johnny Gibbs to gain the Welterweight division.

WILD FIGHT

In the wildest fight of the evening, Wallace Baily copped the light heavyweight crown by outpointing Ross Ward. Bailey, one of the more promising of the amateur boxers, put Ward down for a count in the second round, but the youngster fro Southwest Gym got up mat to make a real conte However, Bailey was clea victor when the final sounded.

HENRY WINS TROPHY

Big Clarence Henry, eas tournament's best boxe awarded the Frank Pa Trophy, which is award nually for the tournament outstanding boxer. The h rightly deserved the hon from the outset of the a leather knockers go, Hen virtually conceded the weight king pin. Henry w title by T. K. O'ing Herbi of San Diego in the third Henry was managed by Shall.

GIPSONNET

Some men break your heart in two,
Some men fawn and flatter,
Some men never look at you,
And that cleans up the matter!

THE ANGEL CITY BULLETIN BOARD:—Is sportsman Charles Washington and debbie Betty Smith planning on a surprise elopement? . . . Eddie Williams, (linked a lot with other dolls), is having breakfast, luncheon and dinner with Yvonne Price, the UCLAngel. . . . Overheard on the Westside—"Uh-uh, let's don't and say we did." . . .

One of our rather uncertain sources suspects a top Angel City society biggie to give the papers the story anyday. About his coming merger with a Westside sophisticutie. She's 18. He's 53, and reech as Rockefeller. . . . King Porter's amazing zing on the Avenue is my idea of swing personified. His zippy arrangements makes for easy listening. . . . Did you hear the report of New Yorkers that Faye Powell is much prettier? About 10 lbs. more. . . . And that Hazel Wilson's 2-year old daughter swallowed mama's diamond ring, but "everything came out all right?" . . . Zit true 'bout Henry Washington? He got biff-bang-boom'd on the chin for hecklin' a pretty femme passerby in front of the Lincoln thitter last wk. Her hubby, they say, happened to be standing nearby when the risque remarks were overheard. . . . I hope nobody will try to blame it on me, because I've got an alibi—but a local minister reports that somebody has been putting Texas street car tokens in the collection plate for three Sundays in a row! . . . It might as well be June as far as Ruby Walker and Jordan Allen are concerned. Their romance ends at the altar Easter Sunday. . . . Aside To M. W.: "Don't tell lies about me and I won't print the truth about you!" People who live in tin houses shouldn't throw can openers! . . . All that cheering is over the fact that Dorothy Jane Lyman is outuve the hosp and doing fine—thank you, following a major op. . . . Eyefiller Mary Hawkins has replaced the 8x10 photo of Ernest Williams (on her dresser) with that of Van Johnson's. They called it off quietly a few moons ago. . . . Billy Rowe, the NY columnist, is due in town anyday. . . . The long-time marriage of Gene Robinson and lovely Margold Harris (once in Jean Harlow's employ) has crashed. She'll file in Pasadena. . . .

JUST SAY YOU SAW IT HERE: . . . Nobody is sure, but some think that Trumpeter Snookie Young will organize a full-sized crew of California musicians for a one-night dance tour. . . . Melvin Henderson has softening of the hearteries. That's what comes from hanging around dolls like Patsy Brown. . . . A good way to annoy Randolph Lomax, if you happen to be someone who wants to annoy Randolph Lomax, is to call him "E-Bop." Hates it. . . . The Red Caps' Mercury disc of "Those Wedding Bells" is catching on like love. . . . If you think the Ravens' "Write Me A Letter" is ear-pleasing, you oughta hear their version of "Old Man River." More entertaining than a striptense . . . The Cecil Fisher-Jean Lee wedding announcements are already at the printers. . . . Is Doris Reed, of the Westside social set, readying plans to wed a lad from Sugar Hill? They met in the Last Word over a roast pork dinner. She asked him to "pass the salt," and that's how it started. . . . Not that it matters, of course, but the Al Jarvis show is what we usually take instead of cream with our brkfst cawfee. . . . Sudden Thawt: No matter how cold it gets in New York, here in the Angel City, in mid-winter, you can put on your bathing suit—jump into a swimming pool and go ice skating! . . . Have you heard Glenn Miller's revised version of "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot?" Me no likeee, either! . . . Howard Nelson, whose singing comforts the ears, and Margaret Rivers, whose loveliness comforts the eyes, are playing Romeo and Juliet. . . . What an all-star show lined up for Sunday afternoon, Feb. 22, at Club Congo! More "names" than there are in the telephone directory! And it's for a worthy cause, too. To send kiddies off to camp. A matinee show-dance, 3-7. Count me in on that one!! . . . Thanks to all you swell fellows at SQ for all those letters. Some of the words tug'd at the heart! . . . It may be just gas pushing up around her heart, but Helen Juniel has all the earmarks of being in love! . . .

BROWSING IN BRONZEVILLE

That popular club around town "Les Dames" headed by Lillian Randolph, is making definite plans for its "Night In The Bowery" to be held at the LaVada ballroom, April 3. . . . SUDDEN THAWT: If a poll were taken I'd get up early in the morning and vote all day long for Jimmie Witherspoon as one of my favorite bluesingers!!! That nice lookin' fella, you see shapely Hazel Shumate introducing to friends is a visitor here from "the Apple." Name is Carl Jones. . . . Says he's mad about the sunshine!!! . . .

Norman Granz Turned Down Cash to Defeat Jim Crow at Jazz Concerts

CHICAGO—How Norman Granz can turn down Jim Crow engagements for his Jazz at The Philharmonic concerts amounting to $40,000 per tour and still make his concerts maintain a weekly payroll of four figures is revealed in a March Negro Digest feature entitled "Jazz Jumps The Color Line."

Beacuse of the stringent anti-discrimination clause in his contracts, Granz has not played farther south than Norfolk, Virginia, the Negro Digest articles asserts. And for the same reason he has turned down bookings as far north as Detroit and Flint, Michigan. This no-prejudice clause reads:

"It is the essence of this agreement that there is to be no discrimination whatever in the sale of tickets. Further, there is to be no segregation of Negroes and whites. In the event of any violation, I have the privilege of refusing to give my concert, in which case you will forfeit one-half the concert price to me."

One of Granz's tenets, the magazine says, is that musicians shall be paid salaries commensurate with their talents. Listing "name" players of all races in his band, this practice runs his payroll well into four figures weekly. The plan pays because the public feels as Granz does that the heartbeat of better human relations and the downbeat of jazz music are inseparable.

★AMUSEMENTS★

Entire net proceeds of this worthwhile affair go towards helping send kiddies to camp.

Valentine Dance Saturday At Elks

The Angel City Racquet Club through its officials announced that it expects a capacity crowd Saturday night, Feb. 14, when it stages its Valentine Day dance at the Elks Ballroom, 4016 South Central avenue. Although there is no advance sale of tickets many requests have been made for them and this gives the belief that many persons will crowd the popular ballroom Saturday night.

Given for the Sports Foundation of the club which will provide equipment for those who cannot purchase it the dance will feature the music of El Herbert and his 12-piece orchestra from 10 p.m. to 2 a.m. In addition there will be auditions for those who possess talent with prizes for the winners.

Make it a "must" to attend this holiday dance which will not only provide excellent music for dancing at the low admission price of one dollar, including tax, but will aid a worthy cause as well. Everybody is making plans to attend so won't you join them?

Katherine Dunham Has Fine Role In Motion Pic 'Casbah'

CHICAGO—With a fat acting part in her third movie, Katherine Dunham has a role aimed directly at the ever-ready shears of Jim-Crow Dixie censors according to March Ebony's photo-preview of "Casbah" in which she is cast as the sympathetic Odette, friend and confidante of star, Tony Martin.

In "Casbah," a remake of "Algiers" which Charles Boyer and Hedy LaMarr, Tony Martin plays jewel thief Pepe LeMoko of "Come with me to the Casbah" fame. La Dunham, the anthropologist-schoolteacher-turned-danseuse, is cast as the owner of a Casbah cafe where Pope spends most of his time.

In producing the film, Universal-International has held to Casbah tradition and no Jim Crow or color lines exist. Consequently, Miss Dunham is pictured dining and drinking with Tony Martin. In one very touching and tender scene, she urges him to forget his white dream girl. In other scenes, the entire Dunham dance troupe sits at tables with white customers, eating and talking with them.

50 Artists To Participate In Club Festival

The greatest array of talent ever assembled in the Angel City will be on hand Sunday afternoon, Feb. 22, from 3 to 7 p.m., in a four-hour "Club Festival," featuring stars of stage, screen and radio. The occasion is a show packed with talent, and lined up in an effort to raise funds to send kids to camp. Interest in the matinee at the Club Congo, formerly Club Alabam, is soaring to even greater heights than anticipated.

More than 50 of the great artists of stage, screen and radio will take part in the program, with special guest spots being aptly handled by Ella Fitzgerald, Eddie Heywood, Lorenzo Flennoy, Bobby Pittman, Bill Robinson, Louis "Satchmo" Armstrong, Eddie Green, of the "Duffy's Tavern" show, 8 year old Toni Harper and scores of others whose names read like a Who's Who in the show book of the theatrical profession.

NO FOOLING

By EDDIE BURBRIDGE

DID YA KNOW?—The brilliant young contralto CAROL BRICE flaunts the goblins and omens of ill luck by singing in historic Page Hall auditorium at Langston university, Friday, Feb. 13 . . . STAN KENTON's "Monotony" which he made for Capitol will be released during the middle of May and included in the Kenton album. . . . The distinguished modern dancer, CHARLES WEIDMAN, and his company will be presented at the Wilshire Ebell theatre, Feb. 26-27-28 and 29. . . . Veterans from naval and military hospitals around L.A. are high in their praise of the play "Deep Are the Roots" now in its fifth successful week at the Belasco theatre. One vet who witnessed the drama from a wheelchair wrote, "This play packs the punch of an 88-millimeter gun. It ought to be seen by every thinking American." . . . "Declaration" is the new Actors' Lab play which opens Friday night. . . . BUDDY CLARK'S Columbia platter "Haunted Heart" and "Matinee" is pretty sharp and may leap to the top of the Hit Parade very soon. . . . Columbia Records has a bright new star in K A Y THOMPSON, whose first disc is "Back Home in Indiana" and Jubilee," soon to be released. . . . Speaking of music and inclination of some personalities to swing the spirituals is deplored. They have always been religious and should be allowed to stay that way. JOHNNY MERCER is the latest artist said to have jazzed a spiritual. Too bad, Johnny, we thought you were good until we heard that. . . . GOSSIP BIT—Just heard that our globe-trotting friend, MRS. BERTHA DARDENNE, wife of Camille, who formerly operated Camille's Party Den, has taken herself off on a vacation jaunt. Mrs. Dardenne is enjoying the Mardi Gras in New Orleans after which she'll visit friends in Kansas City, then hit Minneapolis. After that she'll visit a sister in Spokane, Wash., for a couple of weeks, then back to her home in East Adams blvd.

LATEST WORD from the LAST WORD CAFE is that BOBBE CASTON, blues sensation from Detroit, will open at that spot Feb. 19 and the management is a little ga-ga about being able to sign her up. They say this Caston kid has plenty stuff on the ball and all L. A. will sit up and take notice when she starts exercising her tonsils at ye old Last Word. Manager OKLEN LEVY told me to noise it around too that those Sunday afternoon Jam Sessions at the "Word" from 3 to 7 p.m. are really designed to complete your swing education. Better get hep and attend them . . . ARNETT COBB, the musish, who has been ailing considerably may make it back on his feet sooner than doctors at first thought, it was announced this week . . . DIZZY GILLESPIE is making 'em dizzy with his concerts in Sweden these days. 14,000 jazz fans heard the first concert in Gothenberg. Diz was dizzy himself all the way to Sweden with an illness, we were informed, and spent the entire voyage confined to bed . . . SAVANNAH CHURCHILL starts a coast to coast tour March 26. Accompanying her on the musical junket will be the FOUR TUNES and TAB SMITH's band . . . Reservations have already been sold out for the appearance Feb. 23 at Syracuse, N. Y. of the INK SPOTS . . . They do tell me that LILLIAN CUBER really had a grand birthday party staged for her by ROY MILTON last week. Sorry but illness floored me and I couldn't make it. Speaking of ROY MILTON . . . he and band had quite an opening at the CLUB CONGO Tuesday night. A lot of big names were there and it was one of the most auspicious band openings staged here in some time. Roy cracked records to smithereens when he played the Elks recently. Customers were walking on each others ears to get into the joint, pardon me, I mean establishment . . . The Milton man seems to be gaining popularity like a snowball rolling downhill. . . . Spring appears to be in the air insofar as LEONARD McCLAIN is concerned. We gunned him in bright attire wearing a bright smile recently. Might have been spring . . . might have been a new approach for the customers. Looked effective . . . JOE ADAMS is the "Mayor of Melody" over KOWL, Santa Monica, and will play your favorite tunes if you write in and request them.

Honeydrippers Will Hit Road After Feb. 22

The next day after playing their big Washington's Birthday dance at the Elks' Ballroom Sunday night, February 22, Joe Liggins and the Honeydrippers start a three-months tour which will carry them across the country.

Because it is their farewell party, Joe and the boys are cooking up a mellow session for their followers.

The trip will take the Honeydrippers to Arizona, Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, Florida, the Carolinas, Tennessee, Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and into New York for a week at the Apollo Theatre.

The KNX-CBS mail room was swamped with more than 7,000 letters addressed to the Columbia Pacific Network's gala giveaway show, "Free For All," last week.

Roach Talks on Housing Crisis Over KECA Tues.

Warning that construction of dwelling units is lagging alarmingly behind population increases, Supervisor Leonard J. Roach will describe the fate faced by Angelenos on KECA's "Report To The People" at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday evening, Feb. 17.

Roach, whose campaign to eliminate bottlenecks retarding the housing program led him thorugh the maze of bureaus and committees in Washington and Sacramento, helped to smash smash the lumber black market by a personal investigation of lumber camps in 1946.

His numerous conferences between representatives of building industry and governmental agencies resulted in the release of scarce materials to house returning servicemen and women.

Rabbi Calls On Jews To Fight Taft-Hartley Act

Warning that the Taft-Hartley law represents a big step towards fascism in this country, Rabbi Franklin Cohen yesterday told the Southland's American Jewish Congress that Jews have as good reason to fight for the repeal of the anti-labor law as do members of America's unions.

Traveling from San Francisco for the occasion, Rabbi Cohen was principal speaker at the annual convention in the Biltmore Hotel of the Southern California division of the Congress.

"The Taft-Hartley is a big warning that the first stage has been played for a repetition in America of what happened in Germany," he declared.

What happened there, he said, was first destruction of the labor movement, then extermination of the Jewish minority and finally abrogation of all civil rights.

The convention passed resolutions calling on President Truman and Secretary of State Marshall to lift the embargo on arms to Jewish forces in Palestine and to urge that UN send an international police force to the Holy Land.
